G. F. BAKER, FINANCIER, DIES AT HOME IN NEW YORK

Multi-Millionaire, Reputed Third Richest in U. S., Succumbs at 91 to Pneumonia Contracted Three Days Ago.

SHUNNED PUBLICITY THROUGHOUT LIFE

Banker One of Least Known of Dominant Figures in Banking Circles — Made Many Large Philanthropic Gifts.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—George F. Baker, 91 years old, dean of New York financiers, died at his home, 258 Madison avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight of pneumonia. He had been ill since Thursday.

The banker, regarded as the third richest man in the country, lapsed into unconsciousness late in the day.

He was chairman of the board of First National Bank and director of United States Steel Corporation. He still held directorships and trusteeships in 45 organizations. He still was a member of 29 directorates.

Baker returned a few weeks ago from his winter home on Jekyl Island off the Georgia coast. He then was apparently in the best of health.

Son and Daughter at Bedside.

At his bedside were his daughter, Mrs. William Goadby Loew, his son, George F. Baker Jr., and grandchildren.

Known as the "enigma of Wall street" and the "man of silence," he was a contemporary of the elder J. P. Morgan, who frequently turned to him for counsel. A score of years ago he was regarded as Morgan's chief ally. On the death of Morgan it was reported that Baker controlled interests valued at $1,368,250,000.

Baker was born in Troy, N. Y., March 27, 1840. He once held a $2 a week clerkship. Coming to New York in his youth, he immediately entered the banking field. He had been Spartan-like in his devotion to his business affairs, going to his office early mornings and staying late into the night.

In 1869 he married Miss Florence T. Baker, whose father was connected with the Treasury Department.

Five children were born. Three are living: Evelyn, who became Mrs. Howard B. St. George, Kingston Hill, England; Florence, who became Mrs. William G. Loew, New York, and George Jr.

Ancestor Came to America.

The first Baker, Richard, came to America on a small Norse bark, landing at Boston 71 days after embarking from Gravesend, England, on Nov. 28, 1635.

In 1639 Richard Baker became a member of the church in Dorchester and a short time later married the ruling elder's daughter, Faith Withington.

The family remained in Dorchester for six generations. Then John Baker, a wheelwright, went to Dedham, 10 miles away, where he married Patty Ellis in 1815. Six children were born to them. The eldest, George Ellis Baker, born in 1816, was the father of George Fisher Baker.

Baker is probably the least known to the public of the powerful figures of American finance and industry. He and John D. Rockefeller Sr., are the last of the dominant men of a generation ago who laid the foundations for many of the country's largest corporations, a group that included the elder J. P. Morgan, James Hill, William Rockefeller, Henry C. Frick, James Stillman and others.

ADVOCATED SILENCE FOR BUSINESS MEN

By the Associated Press.

WHILE accumulating, over a stretch of sixty-odd years, a fortune variously estimated at from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000, and which was said to have ranked him third among the wealthy men of the country, George F. Baker acquired one of the oddest reputations—that for silence—ever associated with one of the great captains of American finance and industry. Only Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller were conceded to have more wealth.

RENO'S 6-WEEK DIVORCE LAW GOES INTO EFFECT

County Takes in $20 Every Two Minutes as Cases Are Filed.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., May 2.—The cash register worked overtime today as Reno's six weeks' divorce mill opened up with a rush of business. At the rate of once every two minutes the register rang up $20, and sometimes $30, in fees, recording in each instance the filing of a divorce suit.

The cash register is the first mechanism to get in motion in the operation of the divorce mill and not the least important, in the estimation of officials and residents of this community. It helps to pay the county bills and turns dollars into the public treasury just as do the licensed gambling houses and the segregated vice district.

By Monday the first of the divorces applied for today under the new six weeks' residence law will be turned out on a quantity basis and with machine-like precision.

Before 6 o'clock this morning the County Clerk's office began receiving divorce complaints for filing. At noon 170 cases were on file. After a lull in the afternoon the office closed for the night with 189 suits received. With each complaint, the cash register rang up $20 as a filing fee,

With each complaint the cash register rang up $20 as a filing fee, and if the answers were filed simultaneously as they generally are in uncontested cases, an additional $10 was rung up.

The filing fees go into the county salary fund, except for $1 which goes to the law library fund and it is now proposed to reduce the library allotment to 50 cents, as the library has more than it needs. Three dollars is set aside for Judges' salaries and the remainder for the general salary fund.

The first divorce under the new law was granted today at Minden, Nev., to Mrs. Harriett Whitney Glenn, formerly of Watertown, N. Y. She received a decree from Roland M. Glenn on grounds of non-support. The Glenn case was heard today because the Minden court is not bound by the strict calendar rules obtaining in Reno.

Among the actions started here was a suit by Evelyn Loew Burrill, a granddaughter of George F. Baker, New York financier, against Edward Livingston Burrill Jr.

Mrs. Catherine Stone Hoyt, New York socitay woman, asked for a divorce from Richard Farnsworth Hoyt; Dorothy Draper, interior decorator, sued George Draper, and Ruth Ledyard de Rham of New York sued William de Rham.

Throughout the day there was a queue of lawyers or their stenographers in the courthouse awaiting a chance to file new complaints. Some had two or three cases and some eight or 10 and one filed 14.

NEW ROCKET MOTOR CAR TRIED OUT; SOUNDS LIKE HURRICANE

German Inventor Startles Spectators So That They Fall Off Fence; Makes 90 Miles an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 2.—Paul Heylandt tested his new "comet car" at Tempelhof Airport this evening and pedestrians within a radius of two miles stopped in their tracks. Handicaped by a lack of banked curves on the flying field course, the driver had to hold the car down to 90 miles an hour, but the unearthly noise and tumult of its 15-pound recoil motor startled at least a half a dozen spectators so that they fell off the airport fence.

In the moonlight the recoil car, red and yellow with a torch tail, howled around the field for eight minutes. It looked like a comet, with fire spurting from its rear, and it sounded like a combination of a hurricane and an earthquake. The roaring motor, which develops such power, weighs less than an ordinary tppewriter and looks like a short cannon.

BARNES' 'POLITICS' CHARGE ASSAILED BY PROGRESSIVES

DEMOCRATS PRAISE TARIFF CRITICISM

Assert That His Proposal for Reduction in Rates Is Vindication of Their Policies.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The speech with which Julius H. Barnes concluded the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Atlantic City last night provoked a number of interesting responses here today. Progressive leaders replied vigorously to Barnes' statements that "politics" was to blame for the depression, Senator La Follette declaring that business leaders were trying to escape responsibility for their own failures, while Senator Borah remarked that the only thing on which the members of the Chamber seemed to agree was that they didn't want their own taxes raised.

On the other hand, Barnes' proposal of a reduction in tariff rates under the Smoot-Hawley act was applauded by Democrats as "vindicating Democratic policies," and was assailed by at least one Old-Guard Republican Senator as embodying the sentiments of "a small group of international bankers, importers and retailers." Barnes, who was re-elected chairman of the board of directors of the chamber, has long been an intimate personal friend of President Hoover, and his criticism of the tariff bill signed and defended by the President aroused unusual attention on that account.

Senator La Follette's Comment.

Senator La Follette, Wisconsin Progressive, commented in scathing language on Barnes' assertion that "government interference with business, and government competition in business," were largely to blame for present conditions. La Follette said it was obvious that industrial and financial leadership, as represented in the chamber, was "trying to avoid its own responsibility for the economic disaster which began with the stock market crash of 1929, and which finally has carried us into the worst depression of our business history."

"Their attempt to blame politics and politicians for this tragic situation will not go down," he continued.

"Beginning with the inaugural address of President Harding, in which he declared for 'more business in Government, and less Government in business,' the people who control economic conditions in this country have had free reign. Under Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, the entire policy of the administration has been that what business wanted was what the country needed. For more than 10 years Barnes and his class have had their own way. They cannot escape responsibility for what has happened.

Position Clear on Taxes.

"The one definite position which the members of the chamber seem willing to take is that they are opposed to any increase in income or inheritance taxes. In other words, having led this country into the worst depression of our experience, these gentlemen now refuse to carry their fair share of the added burdens of government, and raise a cry of 'politics' against everyone else who seeks to remedy the conditions they precipitated. Any comment on the manliness or sincerity of such an attitude is unnecessary, but fortunately there are signs of an awakening sense of responsibility among industrial and financial leaders not reflected in the Chamber's attitude."

Senator Borah's remarks on the Barnes speech and on the general proceedings of the convention at Atlantic City were briefer but equally pointed. He said.

"The only thing I gleaned from the reports of the Atlantic City convention was that no Moses appeared. Congress has been fearfully criticised for having no plans. It would appear that no plans were submitted at Atlantic City. They seem to have been clear, conclusive and unanimous as to one thing—and that was that they did not want any increased taxes levied on those who were represented."

In contrast with the Progres-

Average Consumption Per Car 556 Gallons; $494,683,410 Paid in Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—American motorists, using their automobiles more than ever before last year, paid $494,683,410 in gasoline taxes.

This tax, paid on 14,751,308,978 gallons, the Bureau of Public Roads said today, was 14.6 per cent greater than in 1929. Gasoline consumption increased 3½ per cent even though there was no increase in the total number of vehicles.

The average consumption per vehicle was 556 gallons as compared with 538 in 1929 and 452 in 1925. The bureau attributed the increase to a larger number of trucks and greater use of the average automobile.

Every State imposed a gasoline tax in 1930 ranging from 2 to 6 cents a gallon. The average was 3.35 cents.

The total direct tax on the average motorist was $32.03, made up of an average annual registration fee of $13.41 and an average gasoline tax of $18.62.

BRITISH SOLDIERS' BODIES REPORTED SMUGGLED HOME

Newspaper Says Traffic From Belgium Involves Prices of as High as $2500.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 2.—The Sunday Express tonight said the bodies of scions of wealthy families who died in the war were being smuggled from Belgium to England for reburial. The smugglers, the Express said, land the bodies on the Essex coast, and the prices run as high as $2500, depending on the ability of the family to pay.

The war cemeteries in France and Flanders are visited periodically by a "mourner," who selects the bodies for exhumation, the newspaper relates. Expert gardeners are employed, and identification is made by the army identification discs buried with the bodies.

Once exhumed, they are sent in crates marked fruit and vegetables aboard a yacht and smuggled into England under cover of darkness at secluded spots on the Essex coast.

The bodies are then transferred to an ordinary trunk and left at the railroad stations of the dead soldiers' families. In most cases, it is said, reburial is made in a family vault prepared beforehand.

SECOND CHICAGO POLICEMAN SHOT BY SUSPECT, DIES

Patrolman Durkin Succumbs to Wounds Suffered in Fight in Which Ruthy Was Slain.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Patrolman Durkin died in a hospital today, the second officer to succumb to wounds inflicted by Frank Jordan Thursday night as he fled from police at Michigan boulevard and Randolph street. Jordan was questioned as a bank robbery suspect when he broke away and fired at Durkin.

Anthony Ruthy, traffic officer at the corner was shot as he went to Durkin's aid and died soon afterward.

Jordan faces a second indictment for murder as a result of Durkin's death. Within 18 hours of the killing he was indicted for the murder of Ruthy.

DR. KELLEY AIDS POLICE IN EFFORT TO FIND KIDNAPERS

TURNS OVER NOTES SENT IN HIS ABSENCE

Authorities Doubt Value of Having Him Attempt to Retrace Route Taken by His Abductors.

Dr. I. D. Kelley spent more than three hours in conference with police officials yesterday in accordance with his promise to co-operate actively with the department in searching for his kidnapers.

It was his first trip from his home at 32 Portland place since Tuesday when his abductors released him to John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch news staff. Upon his return to his home his physician had ordered him to his bed to recuperate from the nervous and physical strain of his seven-day detention by the kidnapers and the excitement of his restoration to his family.

Arriving at Police Headquarters at 9:20 a. m. in a car driven by his chauffeur, Dr. Kelley looked fit, although Chief of Police Gerk later told reporters he could readily perceive that the psysician was still not a well man.

Talks With Gerk and Kaiser.

He went first to Chief Gerk's office and there for an hour conferred with the Chief of Police and Chief of Detectives Kaiser. After going over his story generally, Dr. Kelley and Chief Kaiser went to the Chief of Detective's office where Detective Lieutenant Coakley joined the conference.

When the conference ended, at 1 o'clock, Dr. Kelley told reporters he had nothing to add to his previous statements about the case, which he described as complete. He posed for news photographers on the headquarters steps before leaving the building.

Meanwhile, Chief Gerk announced Dr. Kelley had renewed his promise to co-operate fully with the police. A review of his story showed, however, that it would be a waste of time to try to retrace the route taken by his kidnapers, Chief Gerk said.

It will be recalled that the first of his kidnapers, abducting him in Davis place, Clayton subdivision to which he had been lured by a fake telephone call for his professional services, forced him to drive to Olive street and North and South roads. From there, after several stops and turns, they went east in a side road which Dr. Kelley took to be the first north of Olive Street road.

Retracing Route Impractical.

After a short drive, they stopped. The physician was blindfolded and a hood was put over his head. Dr. Kelley expressed his willingness to try to find this spot but after hearing his account once more police concluded it was unlikely he could locate it. Newspaper reporters and detectives have previously been unsuccessful in finding it because the neighborhood is thickly populated and there are dozens of sheds and garages corresponding with the description of the place at which the physician was blindfolded.

From that point on he saw nothing of the roads over which he and his abductors traveled. Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County, who joined the conference during the morning said he, too, was convinced there was no point in trying to retrace the route.

Turns Notes Over to Police.

During the course of his visit to headquarters, Dr. Kelley turned over to Chief Gerk a bundle of notes received by his family while he was being held prisoner. These included several obviously spurious notes from cranks, and two written by Dr. Kelley at the kidnapers' dictation and left in county mail boxes to which the family was directed by telephone. A facsimile of one of these has been published. The family has refused to make the others public. Chief Gerk said it was possible it might be shown to newspaper reporters tomorrow.

B. O. Mahaffey of 9 Portland place, brother-in-law of Mrs. Kelley, arrived in St. Louis Friday afternoon after a European tour. He went directly to the Kelley home to learn details of the kidnaping and release, which he had received only briefly in trans-Atlantic telephone conversations. Mrs. Mahaffey, Mrs. Kelley's sister, decided to stay in New York for a few days after learning that Dr. Kelley was safe at home again.

FORCED TO DEPORT U. S.-BORN WOMAN, AUTHORITIES SAY

LABOR BUREAU EXPLAINS ACTION

Asserts Law Left No Alternative but to Expel American Widow of Canadian and Children.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Labor Department announced today that Mrs. Lillian Larch, American-born woman and her three Canadian-born children were deported to Canada April 28 because there was no alternative under the immigration law.

The Larch case was brought to the attention of the Department by the National Woman's party, which complained that Mrs. Larch, being American born, should have been allowed to stay in the United States. When she married Larch in 1917 she lost her American citizenship under the law as it was at that time. She failed to take advantage of the 1930 act permitting American women marrying aliens to retain their citizenship.

Assistant Secretary White investigated the case today and reported her husband last July was taken to the Receiving Hospital at Detroit as a public charge.

An investigation was ordered and after a hearing Larch, his wife and three Canadian-born children were ordered deported to Canada on the ground that they had entered the country without an immigration visa, that the father and mother were unable to read and that all had become public charges within five years after entry.

Canadian authorities were asked to permit the deportation but before permission was received Larch died at the Receiving Hospital in Detroit. Meanwhile, Mrs. Larch and the children continued as public charges. They were deported April 28, immediately after Canadian authorities agreed to receive them.

Mead said that wage for unskilled labor was regarded as a good one even in prosperous times.

Foster-Father in Pennsylvania Leaves $300,000 Estate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEDIA, Pa., May 2.—A 19-year-old Japanese girl, the daughter of servants, is the beneficiary today of income from a $300,000 estate, left her by the will of her foster-father, William B. Adamson. The girl is Puki Hale Adamson, the daughter of Motogoro and Mitsu, at one time servants in the Adamson home. She was raised in the Adamson family, and a few years ago when her parents returned to Japan the girl stayed here. Adamson had no children and he adopted Puji.

In the event of her death without heirs, a $100,000 trust fund will be created for the support of her mother in Japan, the will provides.

AUTO KILLS MAN CROSSING STREET NEAR HIS HOME

Edward Schnafnitz, 53, Walked Into Car Without Noticing It, Conrad Griener, Driver, Says.

Edward Schafnitz, 53-year-old tinner, of 4739 Morganford road, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by Conrad Greiner, 5706A Goener avenue, in the 4500 block on Morganford.

Greiner said that Schafnitz apparently failed to see the approaching car and walked into the side of it. He was thrown to the pavement and his skull fractured.

Identification of the dead man was made by his daughter, Miss Rose Schaffnitz, who came to the scene from their home.

Genevieve, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomason, 1806 South Third street, was fatally injured yesterday when struck by a heavy truck in front of her home. She died of internal injuries last night at City Hospital.

The driver, Joseph Tuey, 9728 Allen avenue, St. Louis County, told police the girl darted from the curb and into the path of his truck. He brought it to a stop with the front wheels resting on her body. Allen was placed under bond for the Coroner.

Mrs. Emma Martin, 66 years old, a widow of 1822 Dolman street, suffered a skull injury at 9 o'clock last night when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed Twelfth street at Lafayette avenue. The driver of the machine, William Carson, a factory worker of 3169 Iowa avenue, was arrested.

An automobile driven by a 15-year-old boy ran over the curb in the 1100 block of Missouri avenue late yesterday afternoon and seriously injured George Cooper Jr., 3 years old of 2305 Hickory street.

The child, who was found to have suffered a skull injury when taken to City Hospital, was accompanied by his grandfather, Arthur J. Burgett, who was knocked down but not seriously hurt.

Alfred Shanks, son of Mrs. William Russell, 1732 Chouteau avenue, was taken to the House of Detention. He said he lost control of the machine.

President of South Side Lafayette Bank at Office Until Noon Yesterday, Ends His Life After Luncheon.

HE HAD LONG BEEN IN ILL HEALTH

He Was Native St. Louisan, Graduate of Washington University and Practiced Law Until 1904—Affairs in Good Shape.

Alfred C. F. Meyer, president of the Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust Co., president of the South Side National Bank, and board chairman of the Twelfth Street National Bank, shot and killed himself shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday on the grounds of his home, at Lindbergh boulevard and Robyn avenue, south of Kirkwood and near Sunset Hill Country Club.

He was 57 years old, and had been in poor health for some time. Business associates said his act must have been caused by worry over his physical condition.

He was at the Lafayette South Side Bank until 12:15 p. m. He was alone at home after lunch, and went out of the house, talking with a yardman and then strolling to a clump of trees which he called "the island." When the yardman heard a sound like a shot, he paid little attention to it, as there is a shooting range on the Meyer place.

Son Finds Body.

Alfred A. Meyer, oldest of the banker's five sons, and the son's wife, appeared at the house soon afterward, and Alfred asked where his father had gone. The yardman directed him to the "island," and there the young man found his father's body, a wound in the left temple. A revolver, kept at the house for protection, was near the body.

Coroner O'Connell of St. Louis County said after an investigation that the case was one of suicide.

Joseph L. Rehme, senior vice president of the Lafayette South Side Bank, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he attributed the act entirely to the bank president's loss of health.

"Mr. Meyer had been in ill health for some time," Rehme said. "A year and a half ago he went to Europe, and on his return home suffered a heart attack, and was taken from the train to a hospital. He had other heart attacks since, and a diabetic condition, though the latter was not in an advanced stage.

"He was a man who gave careful attention to his physical condition, and would stay at home for a slight cold. Three weeks ago he stayed at home four or five days, and Friday he was not at the bank."

"He said when he came down Saturday he did not feel well, and I urged him, as I have done for the last six months, to take a rest. I told him to go home and play golf, or anyway to keep in the sunshine the rest of the day, and he said he would."

Business Affairs in Good Shape.

Rehme said that Meyer had taken little active interest in the bank's affairs in the last two years, and had frequently told him to attend to matters of detail, saying, "I'll let you worry about that; you're a younger man."

"The bank is in 100 per cent shape," Rehme said. "I was talking recently to State Finance Commissioner Cantley, and he said that he wished our people owned more banks, as our institutions gave him no worry."

Other bankers and Clearing House officials said the affairs of the institutions directed by Meyer were in good shape.

Louis C. W. Hecht, president, said the Twelfth Street National Bank was in excellent shape financially, in a good liquid position, and had undergone a satisfactory

HOUSE DEADLOCK PREVENTS RECESS OF LEGISLATURE

Night Session Results From Clash Over Appropriation for Patrol Bill and Insurance Case Fee.

ASSEMBLY'S WORK GENERALLY GOOD

Principal Measures Passed and Those Defeated Are Outlined — 115-Day Meeting.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2.—The Fifth-sixth General Assembly approached the end of its legislative service tonight with only two differences to be ironed out, but with the House members in a deadlock over them.

These dealt with the amount of the appropriation to be made for the support of the newly created State highway patrol and the amount to be appropriated to two Kansas City lawyers who conducted the eight-year litigation of the State for a 10 per cent reduction in fire insurance rates.

The Senate and a bloc of House members are insisting on a highway patrol appropriation of at least $350,000 and fighting for one of $475,000 while the bloc in the House which fought the creation of the patrol is attempting to prevent an agreement on an amount which will permit the patrol force to function. The Senate is standing for a $250,000 fee for the attorneys in the insurance litigation, former Attorney-General John T. Barker and Floyd Jacobs, while the House is attempting to limit the fee to $150,000.

The indications tonight were that the deadlock would continue through the night, but that by morning it might be that the legislators would be worn to the point where they would reach an agreement.

Lack of Quorum.

The House deadlock arose from lack of a quorum, which requires unanimous consent to pass any bill by casting an earlier roll call for it, and to the insistence of each of two opposing groups that they would not grant unanimous consent on any bill until the other agreed to its wishes on appropriations.

As a result, the State Highway Department appropriation bill of $96,596,000 for the biennial period, including $350,000 for the highway patrol, and the general contingent, relief and deficiency bill carrying several million dollars in appropriations, including a $250,000 fee for Barker and Jacobs, were being held up for lack of unanimous consent to use of a previous roll call to pass them.

The rural group was withholding consent on the general contingent and relief bill until the appropriation of $250,000 as fee for Barker and Jacobs fixed by the Senate was cut to $150,000, as provided in the original House bill. Another group, chiefly House lawyers, including opponents of the patrol force, are supporting the attorneys' fee and withholding unanimous consent to passage of the highway bill, including the patrol item, until the lawyers' fee is approved at $250,000. Supporters of the patrol are also withholding consent on the attorney fee item until the patrol item is approved.

Technically in Recess.

Technically, the House is in recess, as its records will show. Actually, it was in session tonight, with the official clocks stopped at a few minutes before noon, attempting to pass the appropriation bills. The record will show any business transacted as taking place before noon.

A quorum in the House is 76 members and only about 40 or 50 are present.

Passage of a bill in the House requires 76 favorable votes, and the emergency clause of an appropriation act, putting it into effect as soon signed by the Governor, requires 100 favorable votes. At this stage of legislative sessions when less than 100 members are present, it has been customary to pass the appropriations bills, and the emergency clauses, by those present granting unanimous consent to casting for a bill some previous roll call cast on some other bill, in which 100 or more favorable votes were recorded.

This roll call may have been made several days previously, but the records carry it as if all the members recorded as voting favorably actually were present.

Under this method any members present may block passage of a bill by refusing consent to use of a previous roll call.

8 Years Litigation.

Barker and Jacobs represented the State Insurance Department in the nearly eight years of litigation over the fire insurance rate reduction order of 1922, which finally was sustained in the courts. Later the stock fire insurance companies increased their rate 16 2-3 per cent, and suits are pending over that action.

Barker and Jacobs already have received a total of $58,000 in fees in addition to their expenses in the suits. They asked the legislature for an additional fee, without fixing the amount, but presented estimates from about 100 other lawyers of what would be a reasonable fee, the estimates ranging from $200,000 to $8,000,000.

The total amount carried by the appropriation bills will exceed the estimate of anticipated revenues by probably about $1,000,000, the smallest over-appropriation in many years.

With the exception of the bill carrying appropriations for new buildings at institutions, the total appropriated will be approximately $22,300,000, which is less than $1,000,000 in excess of the estimated revenue. The building bill carries a total of $2,626,037, but it was passed in order that the money would be available if the revenues exceeded the estimates, and not with the expectation that it be used unless there should be extra revenues.

Technically in Session.

On finishing the appropriation bills, the Senators will return to their homes, though the Senate will remain technically in session until May 18, when the Senate will convene as a court of impeachment for the trial of Larry Brunk, suspended State Treasurer. The House will recess until June 1, by which time it is expected the Brunk trial will be completed.

At the time of recess the General Assembly will have been in session 115 days, the longest regular session in history of the State, except the decennial sessions, when the regular period fixed by the Constitution is 120 days. At the other regular sessions it is contemplated by the Constitution that the work of legislation will be finished in 70 days and members receive the $5-a-day salary for only that period. Since March 17, or 45 days, the members have been paid only $1 a day.

While several important and meritorious bills have failed of passage, as is the case in every legislative session, the net result of the work of the Legislature is generally considered good. The failure of a number of good bills probably is more than offset by the failure of much legislation which was classed as undesirable.

Main Accomplishments.

The main accomplishments of the General Assembly listed:

The graduated income tax bill, which substitutes a tax of from 1½ to 4½ per cent on individual incomes for the present flat 1 per cent rate, and increases the corporation income tax rate from 1 per cent to 2 per cent. It is expected the measure will provide increased revenue of more than $5,000,000 a year, permitting extensive improvements in the rural public schools and improvements in the facilities at the State educational eleemosynary and penal institutions.

The rural school bill, which guarantees at least an eight months' school in every district in the State, and provides for additional school facilities. This was a compromise measure, lacking much that could be desired for the schools, but marking a forward step in school legislation.

Creation of a State highway patrol to enforce traffic regulations on the highways and to police the highways. In effect, the bill creates a State police force with primary powers limited to the highways, but with authority to the patrolmen to pursue criminals to any part of the State. Provision is made in the act for a force of 125 men, but start will be made with half that number.

A bill giving the Public Service Commission authority to regulate truck and bus traffic in the same manner that it regulates railroads and other public utilities. A graduated annual license fee running to $900 for trucks of nine-ton capacity is imposed on trucks operated as common carriers.

Creation of the Crippled Children's Commission. This creates a commission to supervise free hospital treatment for crippled children, treatment to be in any approved hospital in the State at the expense of the State. The initial appropriation for the work is $100,000.

Appropriation of $650,000 for the construction of an additional unit at the intermediate reformatory near Jefferson City. The last Legislature created the reformatory and appropriated $750,000 for the first unit. This is nearing completion. It will permit the separation of first offenders and criminals older in crime, and will materially relieve the overcrowded condition at the penitentiary.

Some Bills That Failed.

Those are the accomplishments of real importance. Measures of more than local interest which failed of passage were: Judicial Council bill, which would have provided a reform of the antiquated judicial procedure of the state under supervision of the Supreme Court.

A uniform safety and drivers license law, designed to promote safety on the highways.

The bill under which the St. Louis Public Service Co., sought to enact a terminable permits law on lines somewhat similar to those in the bill vetoed two years ago by Gov. Caulfield.

The holding company bill, which would have empowered the Public Service Commission to inquire into the details of contracts and agreements between holding companies and their subsidiaries.

The various measures proposed by the State Survey Commission except the income tax bill and the school bill. Among these measures which failed was one proposing to increase the corporation franchise tax from 50 cents on the $1000 of capital and surplus of corporations to $1. The police home rule bills for St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. The Kansas City bill was pushed vigorously and was defeated on vote in the Senate, though it passed the House. The St. Louis and St. Joseph bills were permitted to die without effort being made in the Senate to pass them.

This constitutes a fair resume of the work of the Legislature.

Approximately 1000 bills were introduced in the two houses. Many of them were duplicates and most of them were purely local in character and of minor importance.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY COST TAXPAYERS HALF MILLION

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2.—The Missouri General Assembly which closed its legislative life today cost the taxpayers less than half a million dollars, in contrast to the revision assembly two years ago which set the State revenue funds back nearly a million dollars.

An appropriation bill was passed late today calling for $450,000 to pay the expenses of the House and Senate for the 1931 session. Of this amount $300,000 went to the House of Representatives and $150,000 to the Senate.

In addition to this sum another appropriation bill carries $40,000 appropriation for expenses of the Senate and House impeachment managers during the trial of State Treasurer Larry Brunk, which will begin May 18.

The session two years ago, however lasted more than five months, of which 120 days was at $5 a day, whereas this year the $5 a day pay stopped at the end of 70 days.

Prison Doctor's Pay Increased.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2—The Missouri Senate tonight passed a bill increasing the salary of Dr. W. W. Rambo, Penitentiary physician, from $2400 to $4000 a year. Dr. Rambo came here from Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, last June 15.

CAULFIELD THANKS LEGISLATORS FOR CO-OPERATION

Addressing Final Joint Session Says He Is Grateful Democrats Kept Down Partisanship.

By BOYD F. CARROLL,
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2.—Gov. Caulfield today established a precedent for a formal gubernatorial farewell to a Legislature by an address to a joint session of the Senate and House, held at his request, in which he congratulated the Legislature on its work, and thanked the Democratic majorities in the two houses for "keeping down partisanship" and not harassing his administration.

In recent years Legislatures have completed their sessions and the members returned to their homes without any adjournment message from the Governor, and with no farewell from him, except, in some instances, private expressions of relief that the session had ended.

The Governor told the joint session that he had requested that it be held to enable him to thank the legislators for their work and their friendly co-operation.

He said he had been told that there never had been more friendly co-operation between a Legislature and the executive, despite the fact the Governor is a Republican and both houses of the Legislature are controlled by the Democrats.

Administration Not Harmed.

"It was not within my power to hurt you," the Governor said, "but you had it within your power to hurt me and my administration through legislation. But you have not harmed my administration and I am grateful for what you have done. I want to express my appreciation to you for keeping down partisanship."

In this friendly farewell to the legislators who have been here for 116 days and are having trouble winding up their affairs today, which was scheduled as the last day for legislative work, the Governor said the Legislature had passed more major legislation than any other Legislature in recent years.

He did not mention the congressional redistricting bill, which he vetoed on the ground it was partisan and unfair districting. Since that time several unsuccessful moves have been made to revive the redistricting measure before the Legislature adjourned.

The bill vetoed by the Governor created 13 districts, under the reapportionment by Congress, reducing the Missouri representation in the National House from 16 to 13. Eight of the districts would have been Democratic and five Republican. The Governor delivered a special message to the Legislature, urging passage of a fairer bill, but it adhered to the bill, which was a Democratic caucus measure in the two houses.

Commends New Income Levies.

Passage of the bill increasing the State income tax on a graduated scale was commended by the Governor as a great achievement by the Legislature. It will provide about $5,250,000 in additional revenue annually. He also commended the legislators who fought the original tax bill as proposed by the State Survey Commission, which carried much heavier increases, stating that better legislation resulted when there was opposition to criticise and point out defects.

He enumerated the highway patrol bill, and the school bill, providing additional State aid for public schools and assuring eight months of school each year in all school districts, as major achievements of the Legislature, together with passage of 51 statute revision bills which repeal obsolete laws and others which had been held unconstitutional by the courts.

At the close of his brief address, it was announced the Governor would hold open house for the legislators in the Executive offices for the remainder of the day.

LORD IRWIN WELCOMED HOME FROM SERVICE IN INDIA

Rival Political Leaders in Crowd That Meets Former Viceroy.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 2.—Rival political leaders and other prominent in British public life joined today in welcoming Lord Irwin home to London after five years in India as Viceroy.

At Victoria Station were Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, Sir John Simon, member of the Liberal party, the Archbishop of Conterbury, the Maharaja of Burdwan and members of the Laborite Cabinet.

"There are undoubtedly many grave difficulties ahead," said Lord Irwin regarding India, "but I am convinced that provided the best brains brought to bear upon them and with good will on all sides, these difficulties can be overcome."

Amongst the great cheering crowd outside the station was a small body of men who booed vigorously as Lord Irwin entered his automobile. There were repeated shouts of what sounded like "Wake up England."

BUSCH RIDER HURT IN FALL AT KANSAS CITY HORSE RACES

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—Two falls in which the riders were hurt occurred today at the second annual steeplechase events at the Mission Valley Hunt Club. In the last race Joe Carrigan, mounted on Flit, entry of August A. Busch Jr., St. Louis, suffered head lacerations and a partly severed left ear.

Herbert Schaefer, rider on an entry of his brother-in-law, R. L. Nafziger, Kansas City, tumbled with his mount at the sixth jump in the third race and dislocated his right shoulder.

The final race, in which the largest purse, $250 for the winner, was at stake, was won by Highcourt, chestnut gelding, mounted by F. Dapron, and the entry of the Trail's End Stables, St. Louis.

BARNES' 'POLITICS' CHARGE DENOUNCED BY PROGRESSIVES

sives' criticism of one phase of Barnes' speech, was the Democratic applause which greeted his suggestion of a reduction in tariff duties.

"His stand is an unequivocal indorsement of the Democratic contention that high tariffs strangle foreign trade and provoke bitter retaliation," said Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee. "If Democratic tariff and trade policies had been pursued in the last ten years, the chief causes of the present depression would have been avoided."

"It is gratifying," said Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, "to have Mr. Barnes—the intimate personal and political friend of President Hoover—to speak so frankly to the American people. His formula for business revival includes tariff revision and slower reduction of the public debts, two of the outstanding policies for which the Democratic minority in Congress has fought for the last few years.

Dissent by Bingham.

"In my opinion Barnes is voicing the opinion of the average business man. Statements such as those which have come from him and from Representative Snell, Republican chairman of the House Rules Committee, are making it increasingly difficult for clinging-vine politicians to defend the administration's tariff policies."

Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, one of the chief framers of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, dissented, saying that any attempt at tariff revision in the next Congress would do harm, " by bringing back the uncertainty which always attends the progress of tariff legislation."

"So far as I am able to judge," he added, "Barnes' remarks on the subject do not represent the sentiments of anyone outside a very small group of international bankers, importers and retailers. It is not the tariff, but international economic conditions, which are responsible for the depression."

Smoot Knows of Nothing Worse for Business.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 2.—Senator Reed Smoot issued a statement today taking exception to the suggestion of Julius H. Barnes for a reduction in rates of duty in the Smoot-Hawley tariff act as a means of aiding foreign trade and business recovery in the United States.

"I do not know of anything worse for American business today than a demand for another revision of the tariff by Congress," said the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

U. S. 1931 DEFICIT LARGEST IN DECADE, STILL MOUNTING

Amount Depends Largely on Debt Payments From Abroad . . . Large Bond Issue Is Possibility.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Completing 10 months of the 1931 fiscal year on April 30 with a deficit of $878,971,125, the largest in a decade, the Treasury entered the last two months with indications that the deficit would be increased during that period.

The Treasury's daily statement for April 30, issued today, showed the Government in the 10 months had collected from all sources $2,679,935,111 and had spent $3,558,906,240.

In the same period of the previous year, it collected $3,201,203,975 and spent $3,346,355,848. The deficit of $145,000,000, however, was wiped out in June when the second-quarter income tax payments were received and foreign nations paid their debt installments and interest in cash instead of securities as had been the practice.

The amount of the deficit this year will depend to some extent on the debt payments to be received in June. If they are in cash, some of the amount can be applied to the general fund, thus reducing the deficit, but if in securities all must go toward reduction of the public debt.

Large Bond Issue Indicated.

As the deficit mounted, indications grew that the Treasury was preparing to float a sizeable bond issue, though no official word has been given.

Arthur A. Ballantine, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in a speech Wednesday at Atlantic City, said the deficit this year would be met by increasing the public debt, which dissipated reports that a tax increase might be recommended.

Ballantine added the same procedure could be followed next year, pointing out that since the war debt retirement act became effective in 1920 the Treasury had reduced the debt by about $10,000,000,000, or about $4,000,000,000 more than requred by law.

In addition, the Treasury's action in issuing short-term securities for 60 or 90 days to raise funds to meet Government needs indicated an effort was being made to have as much as possible of the short-term debt mature late this summer when it could be retired through a bond issue.

At present the short-term debt amounts to about $3,300,000,000, which is regarded by financial experts as too unwieldly to handle with comfort.

Way to Ease Situation.

A bond issue permitting $1,000,000,000 of the short-term debt to be retired and large enough to wipe out the deficit would leave the Government in a position to take up the slack in revenue over a period of years instead of trying to meet it at once.

Another factor in favor of a long-term bond issue is the condition of the money market, whose rates are at the lowest point in years, and the fact that much of the funds of the large banks are being held in vaults.

Each of the securities issues floated by the Treasury in the last month and a half has been over-subscribed, indicating there is a market for a long-term bond issue.

During the last year the Treasury has issued securities totaling $5,135,857,791, while it has retired $4,655,788,502. In the same period of the 1930 fiscal year it issued $3,062,923,107 in securities and retired $3,600,277,421.

Between March 31 and April 30 the gross public debt increased from $16,582,868,436 to $16,655,379,119. On April 30, 1930, the gross debt was $16,393,734,170.

$200,000 ALE BOTTLING PLANT SEIZED AT KINGSTON, N.Y.

CATSKILL, N. Y., May 2.—Federal agents seized a $200,000 ale-bottling plant at Kingston, with which they said they thought Jack ("Legs") Diamond was connected.

At Schoharie, Supreme Court Justice F. Walter Bliss declined to admit Paul Quattrocchi, Diamond's lieutenant, to bail, withholding his decision until May 8.

At Kingston the arresting officers caught 10 men working in the bottling plant. More than 2000 barrels of ale were seized.

GOLDEN KEY GIVEN TO KING OF SIAM

1800 at Ceremony of Bestowing Freedom of City at White Plains, N. Y.

By the Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 2.—The King and Queen of Siam drove today into White Plains from their temporary residence, Ophir Hall, country home of the late Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, and received from Mayor Frederick C. McLaughlin a golden key, symbolic of the freedom of the city.

Because it was raining, the ceremony took place in the High School Auditorium in the presence of 1800 persons. It lasted less than half an hour.

The key, engraved with the Siamese royal arms and with the seal of White Planis, was handed to the Mayor by 12-year-old Philip Singer, an Eagle Scout, and the Mayor presented it to the King in token of "A simple, sincere welcome from your new-found neighbors'."

King Prajadhipok replied: "Your courtesy has deeply touched the hearts of our people."

Margaret Barbian, Girl Scout, presented a bouquet of orchids to the Queen.

Apparently in mourning for the King's half-brother, who died in Paris a few days ago, the Queen was dressed in black.

Later in the afternoon a delegation from the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions was received by the King at Ophir Hall.

STREET CAR MEN DISPUTE P. S. CO'S REPORT ON PROFITS

OPERATING INCOME PUT AT $3,040,762

Workers' Officials Stress Desire to Co-operate and Urge Further Discussion of Proposed Wage Cut.

With a letter asking for further conferences, the Street Railway Employes' Union yesterday sent to the Public Service Co. a certified public accountant's revision of the company's profit and loss statement for 1930 giving effect to the depreciation account as allowed by the State Public Service Commission and to the reduction of $115,538 in the company's property taxes.

On this basis the accounting firm, Perkins & Co., stated the net operating income was $3,040,762 instead of $2,203,841, as given in the annual report to stockholders. On the same basis the company's net profit was $1,248,155 instead of $411,234.

The union officials were back in St. Louis yesterday after a visit to Jefferson City to lay their side of the wage controversy before Gov. Caulfield.

Position of the Governor.

Gov. Caulfield asked the union representatives if it would not be possible to settle the dispute through conference. "I would do anything in my power to prevent a strike," the Governor said. He told the men he shared a universal sympathy with their effort to avoid a wage cut, but said he did not know how he could be of service and if empowered to act would not prejudge the case without hearing the company's side.

Pointing out that the average monthly wage of the 3500 union men is $125, Harry M. Nelson, union president, told the Governor: "It required a lot of gall for Stanley Clarke (president of the company) to ask the men to accept this 10 per cent cut to pay interest. We are not surprised, however, as the attitude of the Eastern interests behind this company is to malign and mistreat the public and its employes. The present situation is the outcome of such practices."

"If the company could prove a real emergency the men would gladly co-operate," Nelson added. "The fact remains that $660,844 more than was allowed by the State Public Service Commission was set aside last year for depreciation, with an increase of just that much in operating expenses. The company has taken the attitude that their auditing firm has more authority than the Public Service Commission. We do not share that opinion. Our contention is that proper management and bookkeeping would show sufficient earnings to make the wage cut unnecessary."

Union's Letter to Company.

The letter sent to the company yesterday by Nelson and other officers of the union follows:

"In view of the charge in your 'Transit News' about editors confusing the public, we inclose herewith for your perusal, a letter and statement from Perkins & Co., certified public accountants, which more than corroborates our analysis of your 1930 report in reference to your net profits being virtually four times the figure shown by your report and the net return on your $49,100,000 investment being in excess of 6 per cent.

"In the light of these facts and the further fact that your report shows a balance of $2,979,261.9 of which $1,117,291.82 is undivided profits, we again respectfully suggest that in all fairness your proposed wage cut is not justified and your notice to that effect shoul be withdrawn before it is too la to avert an impending catastroph for all concerned.

"Would it not be just as logic or more so for you to say to the Union Electric Light & Power C and all other companies fro whom you buy: 'Gentlemen, w are not satisfied with our profits we will, therefore, expect you cut 10 per cent off your bills th year.'

Further Conferences Urged.

"With a desire to co-operate w you in every reasonable way, but with a firm determination to do everything in our power to reta some semblance of a living wa we again ask you to reconsid your action. We would be pleas to be accorded the opportunity discuss the matter with you fur er."

The statement prepared for union by Perkins & Co. did undertake to say what was a pr er depreciation allowance. It sa "Provisions made for depreciat are always estimates at best, are usually found to be compa tively accurate only when made engineers thoroughly acquain with property values and the u ity life thereof. We, therefore, not express an opinion as to adequacy or inadequacy or the p visions for depreciation."

Workers' Officials Stress Desire to Co-operate and Urge Further Discussion of Proposed Wage Cut.

With a letter asking for further conferences, the Street Railway Employes' Union yesterday sent to the Public Service Co. a certified public accountant's revision of the company's profit and loss statement for 1930 giving effect to the depreciation account as allowed by the State Public Service Commission and to the reduction of $115,538 in the company's property taxes.

On this basis the accounting firm, Perkins & Co., stated the net operating income was $3,040,762 instead of $2,203,841, as given in the annual report to stockholders. On the same basis the company's net profit was $1,248,155 instead of $411,234.

The union officials were back in St. Louis yesterday after a visit to Jefferson City to lay their side of the wage controversy before Gov. Caulfield.

Position of the Governor.

Gov. Caulfield asked the union representatives if it would not be possible to settle the dispute through conference. "I would do anything in my power to prevent a strike," the Governor said. He told the men he shared a universal sympathy with their effort to avoid a wage cut, but said he did not know how he could be of service and if empowered to act would not prejudge the case without hearing the company's side.

Pointing out that the average monthly wage of the 3500 union men is $125, Harry M. Nelson, union president, told the Governor: "It required a lot of gall for Stanley Clarke (president of the company) to ask the men to accept this 10 per cent cut to pay interest. We are not surprised, however, as the attitude of the Eastern interests behind this company is to malign and mistreat the public and its employes. The present situation is the outcome of such practices."

"If the company could prove a real emergency the men would gladly co-operate," Nelson added. "The fact remains that $660,844 more than was allowed by the State Public Service Commission was set aside last year for depreciation, with an increase of just that much in operating expenses. The company has taken the attitude that their auditing firm has more authority than the Public Service Commission. We do not share that opinion. Our contention is that proper management and bookkeeping would show sufficient earnings to make the wage cut unnecessary."

Union's Letter to Company.

The letter sent to the company yesterday by Nelson and other officers of the union follows:

"In view of the charge in your 'Transit News' about editors confusing the public, we inclose herewith for your perusal, a letter and statement from Perkins & Co., certified public accountants, which more than corroborates our analysis of your 1930 report in reference to your net profits being virtually four times the figure shown by your report and the net return on your $49,100,000 investment being in excess of 6 per cent.

"In the light of these facts and the further fact that your report shows a balance of $2,979,261.99, of which $1,117,291.82 is undivided profits, we again respectfully suggest that in all fairness your proposed wage cut is not justified and your notice to that effect should be withdrawn before it is too late to avert an impending catastrophe for all concerned.

"Would it not be just as logical or more so for you to say to the Union Electric Light & Power Co., and all other companies from whom you buy: 'Gentlemen, we are not satisfied with our profits, we will, therefore, expect you to cut 10 per cent off your bills this year.'

Further Conferences Urged.

"With a desire to co-operate with you in every reasonable way, but with a firm determination to do everything in our power to retain some semblance of a living wage, we again ask you to reconsider your action. We would be pleased to be accorded the opportunity to discuss the matter with you further."

The statement prepared for the union by Perkins & Co. did not undertake to say what was a proper depreciation allowance. It said: "Provisions made for depreciation are always estimates at best, and are usually found to be comparatively accurate only when made by engineers thoroughly acquainted with property values and the utility life thereof. We, therefore, do not express an opinion as to the adequacy or inadequacy or the provisions for depreciation."

CAPONE ELUDES POLICE SEEKING HIM IN SLAYING

Chicago "Public Enemy No. 1" Disappears When "Mike de Pike's" Body Is Found.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago "Public Enemy No. 1," was hunted by the police unsuccessfully today in connection with the finding near Suburban Barrington of a charred body, tentatively identified as "Mike de Pike" Heitler, old-time hoodlum.

Notice that Capone was sought was widely heralded, and he evidently went into hiding. He had been openly appearing until yesterday. Several of his aids were caught. Chief of these held despite writs of habeas corpus, are "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, a public enemy, and Tony Accordo, bodyguard de luxe to such leaders as Johnny Torrio, the late "Big Jim" Colosmo, and Capone.

Mangana was arrested at his home and Accardo was taken at the Club Floridon. At the Lexington Hotel were found Tony Capezio, one-time manager of the notorious Circusb cafe; Lewis Russo, named by chief investigator Pat Roche as younger brother of "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn; Fred Rossi and Phil D'Andrea.

Search for "Mike de Pike" was instigated by his failure to appear in court on perjury and vagrancy charges. Roche and Coleman "Dutch" Heitler, a brother, identified the body after it was found in a burned ice house northwest of Chicago. No direct connection of Capone with the supposed slaying and burning of Heitler was announced.

Hoover 'Nice Man', Says Boy Hero, Starting Home

Bryan Untiedt Also Thinks President's Wife Is Just as Fine as She Can Be—Impressed by White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—"It's almost as hard to leave here as it was to leave home," said Bryan Untiedt, 13-year-old hero of the Colorado blizzard, who had been the guest of President and Mrs. Hoover for four days, as he left for his home in Towner, Colo., today.

Bryan at the station summed up his impressions of his stay at the executive mansion hesitantly.

"Most everything was nice," he said a bit shyly. "What impressed me most? I don't know hardly—Washington sure is pretty and everybody has been been as good as they could be. A strange place is all right after you get to know people and I got to know people right away.

Impressed by White House.

"What did I think about Mr. Hoover? Well, I'll tell you. He's an awfully nice man and when you get to talking to him a little bit you forget all about his being President. Yes, I told him about us getting caught in the snow."

The boy had begun to talk freely, but he grew silent under questioning about his experiences during the blizzard.

Bryan's face lit up at the mention of Mrs. Hoover.

"She's awful nice," he said enthusiastically. "She does everything she can to make you feel at home. She's just as fine as she can be."

"And so was everybody else for that matter," he added diplomatically.

"What impressed me most? You asked that once before. Well, I never saw anything before like the White House.

"I liked Mount Vernon, too. It was pretty down there. And Lindbergh's plane. I almost forgot that. Say, it didn't look as big somehow as I thought it would. I don't hardly see how he got across in it, do you? There was a lot of other things over at the Smithsonian—gliders and engines and the like. I like airplanes. Will I fly one? I don't know.

"The King of Siam? Yes, I saw him and the Queen, too." The boy paused and laughed merrily. "What was I laughing at? I just happened to think of something funny. It didn't have anything to do with the King and Queen.

"Is my father a Democrat or a Republican?" Bryan laughed again and ran his hand through his dark brown hair. "Well, if you want to know, my dad is a Democrat. Seems sort of funny the way things turned out. Will he vote for Mr. Hoover after this? You'll have to ask him.

"Be Nice to Get Home."

"It'll be nice to get home at that. I've got a lot to tell. Why don't tell it now? You know how it is. You don't think of it till afterwards."

The train was moving slowly. Bryan had the box camera he brought to Washington with him in his hands.

"Yes, I took some pictures and I've got my harmonica. I've got everything, I reckon."

"I'll send you a picture of you and the President, if you want it," a photographer called.

"Gee, that'll be fine," called the boy over the noise of the train. "Send it to Towner, R. F. D."—— but the photographer could not understand the number.

"Never mind," Bryan shouted. "Send it to Towner. Maybe they'll know me out there."

Orthwein Tells Sheriff Lill How He Spent Week Trying to Get Dr. Kelley From Kidnapers

Brother-in-law in Charge of Family's Efforts Gives Detailed Statement of His Activities and Communications From Abductors.

Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County, to complete his record in his investigation of the kidnaping of Dr. I. D. Kelley, called Friday afternoon at the Litzinger road home of William D. Orthwein II, brother-in-law of Mrs. Kelley and leader in the recent search for the physician.

Like Dr. Kelley, Orthwein had been under the care of a physician while recovering from the strain of trying to get in touch with Dr. Kelley's kidnapers.

"I left St. Louis for Memphis, Tenn., on a business mission the night Dr. Kelley was kidnaped. Next morning at Memphis I received a telephone message to telephone the home of Dr. Kelley in St. Louis. I was informed that Dr. Kelley had gone out on a sick call the night before and had not returned home.

"I departed on the first train for St. Louis, arriving at 11:30 p. m. and went immediately to Dr. Kelley's home. There I found Dr. Kelley's home crowded with police, newspaper men and sympathetic friends. After sitting up all night with the family trying to determine what had happened I decided there was too much confusion and had the house cleared of reporters and all others I felt were not necessary to an investigation.

"By Wednesday we had received numerous fake telephone calls and crank letters, which only added to the confusion. One telephone call advising us to get in touch with a certain downtown attorney impressed us and we sought the advice of a friend of the family. He telephoned the attorney whose name was mentioned in the telephone call and later reported nothing had come of it; that the caller probably was a crank.

Considered Doctor's Safety.

"We believed Dr. Kelley to be in the hands of kidnapers and in order to facilitate a contact with the men who were holding him I had the telephone company disconnect the receivers on the first floor, leaving only two upstairs extensions available for incoming calls. We did this out of consideration for Dr. Kelley's safety.

"All during Wednesday we discussed probable clews with detectives, but without result. At 3 a. m. Thursday I went to bed for the first time. We were all worried, particularly as we had reason to believe our telephone lines were being tapped. The safety of my brother-in-law was paramount with me and I wanted to avoid anything that might result in reprisals against him.

"Thursday's developments amounted to nothing, except that after dinner, in the evening, the maid at my home on Litzinger road telephoned Dr. Kelley's home that a man had telephoned her there was a note in the big mail box at York Village. I obtained the note and after Mrs. Kelley identified the handwriting as that of Dr. Kelley I sought the advice of a friend. This note said the kidnapers wanted $250,000, but would compromise for $150,000. There were no directions how to deliver the money. I was baffled because the note said 'do business with the people who called on you today.' No one had called on us with any kind of proposition or as representatives of any kidnapers.

Called on John T. Rogers.

"On Friday a friend of the family said he would turn me over to a man in whom I could impose implicit confidence, mentioning John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch. I was not acquainted with Mr. Rogers and remarked that I did not want to have anything to do with newspaper reporters, but he insisted he believed Mr. Rogers could help us if anyone could, and so I called at Mr. Rogers' home at 71 Vandeventer place Friday evening and sought his aid. He agreed to stand by to be at my service on a moment's notice.

"At 7 a. m. Saturday the maid at our home on Litzinger road telephoned me that the man who telephoned to get the note in the York Village mail box had telephoned again that morning to have me at the Litzinger road home at 11 a. m. I had Mr. Rogers accompany me.

"There was no communication at the appointed hour, but at 11:16 a man with a nervous voice got our number, but after he had inquired for me and said hello, the connection was broken. We had no further communication that day, but around 9 o'clock that night, shortly after Chief of Police Gerk and other officers had called to discuss the case with me, there was a telephone call from a man trying to communicate with me. Again the connection was broken About five minutes after the police departed there was another telephone call for me and before I could answer I heard a man say, 'Why in hell don't you get off that line and let those people talk out there.' The man then said, 'Is this Wydown 0258?'

"'Yes,' I replied.

"'Mr. Orthwein?'

"'Yes.'

"'Well, it doesn't sound like him,' said the fellow, and again the connection was broken.

Second Note From Dr. Kelley.

"After that the night passed without developments and Mr. Rogers and I retired around 3:30 a. m. Sunday. At noon Sunday I was called to Dr. Kelley's home in Portland place by R. D. Fitzgibbon, an attorney employed by the estate. I left Mr. Rogers at my home in the county to watch for another call from the kidnapers.

"Mr. Fitzgibbon had another letter in Dr. Kelley's handwriting from the kidnapers. This was found in a mail box on Clayton road and contained Dr. Kelley's scarfpin. In this letter Dr. Kelley wrote that the ransom demand had been reduced to $100,000, but yet there were no directions how to communicate with the kidnapers. But the name of another downtown attorney (Sigmund Bass) was mentioned and the note directed us to get in touch with him. We immediately employed a reputable attorney of high standing to represent the family in communicating with the attorney mentioned in the note. The man we employed told us emphatically he would not at any time have any contact with the underworld; would not handle any money for any kidnapers, and would confine his employment solely to calling on the attorney mentioned in the note. We agreed to that and added that the family simply wanted to learn what could be done to insure the safety of Dr. Kelley.

"Our attorney reported to us Monday night that he had conferred with the attorney mentioned in the kidnapers' note and that the latter had said he would like to help the family, but would not get near it, meaning that he would not represent the underworld in this case. To his credit it must be added that he told our attorney he had received no communication from any source to act for the kidnapers; did not know who was holding Dr. Kelley, and did not want to be approached concerning the matter again by our attorney.

"We decided that since we had complied with the demand in the note there was nothing further to do but wait until the kidnapers designated someone else to get in touch with. We were discouraged and worried. Mr. Rogers and I sat up, in the apartment of a friend, until about 1 a. m. discussing the situation. Thoroughly tired, I decided to go to Dr. Kelley's home to comfort Mrs. Kelley and my wife, although Mr. Rogers and I had previously planned to spend the night together in the apartment. Mr. Fitzgibbon had come in late and Mr. Rogers drove him and me to a point near Dr. Kelley's home, where he left us, promising to meet me at 9:30 next morning at my downtown office.

Notified of Dr. Kelley's Return.

"At 7 a. m. Tuesday I was awakened by a telephone call from Mr. Rogers, who urged me to come to his home. We had agreed not to be specific over the telephone about important developments. I would not agree to go to his home and insisted that he meet me at my office at 10.

"I directed Mr. Fitzgibbon to go to an outside telephone and tell Mr. Rogers to meet me at my office; that I was afraid I was being trailed by police and reporters.

"Upon reaching my office, after 9 o'clock, I telephoned Mr. Rogers at his home. He said:

"'You've got to come out here immediately.'

"I refused to go, and he said he would send a man with an important message. A few minutes later Mr. Shelton of the Post-Dispatch staff called at my office and told me Mr. Rogers had Dr. Kelley at the home of Mr. Rogers in Vandeventer place. I then hastened to Mr. Rogers' home and he handed Dr. Kelley over to me. I took him to the apartment of a friend for a bath and clean linen and then to his home.

"Tuesday afternoon I asked Mr. Rogers to accompany me to my home on Litzinger road and this conversation took place:

"'How about it? How much do we owe you,' I inquired.

"'Not a red cent,' said Mr. Rogers.

"'You didn't pay any ransom?' I asked.

"'I had no money,' he replied.

"'Did you get it from the Post-Dispatch?' I asked.

"'Hell, no.'

"'You mean we don't owe anything at all to anybody?'

"'No. Maybe that attorney you employed to call on the lawyer whose name was in one of Dr. Kelley's notes would be entitled to a nominal fee.'

"'That will be taken care of,' I said.

"Mr. Rogers then said: 'A lot of people are saying they believe a ransom was paid. There is no foundation in fact for this belief. I am surprised that you, who were to handle ransom money for the family, if any was paid, think I would undertake to pay any.'

"Then I said, 'Let's have a drink.'

"And that's all I know about it, Sheriff."

Rogers was called to the Orthwein home for the afternoon conference with Sheriff Lill. After Orthwein had made his statement to the Sheriff, Rogers told of his various meetings with the Kelley family, referring Sheriff Lill to his story in last Tuesday's Post-Dispatch as the true version of what had transpired after he left Orthwein at 1 a. m. last Tuesday, shortly before Dr. Kelley was released to him by the kidnapers.

It is likely Orthwein will confer with the city police tomorrow, to tell them personally what he had related to Sheriff Lill.

The Star Interviews the Post-Dispatch.

A reporter for the St. Louis Star called upon Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the Post-Dispatch, yesterday morning to ask him whether his newspaper had paid a ransom for the return of Dr. Kelley. The reporter stated three questions which he wished the Post-Dispatch to answer and Mr. Pulitzer gave him the following statement:

"We of the Post-Dispatch think it should be clear from all that has been printed that this paper paid nothing for the return of Dr. Kelley; and it is equally clear to us from the published statements made that the Kelley family paid no ransom. But since the Star asks me, I am glad to say unequivocally that no ransom was paid, and to further answer your specific questions as follows:

"1. Not a penny was paid by the Post-Dispatch or on behalf of the Post-Dispatch by anyone in or out of its employ for the story or for the pictures of the return of Dr. Kelley.

"2. Not a penny was paid, promised, loaned or advanced in any way, directly or indirectly, nor was any other consideration given by the Post-Dispatch or by any one in or out of its employ on behalf of the Post-Dispatch in any form whatsoever to any one for the return of Dr. Kelley, nor was any money loaned to any relative or friend of Dr. Kelley.

"3. A bonus of one year's salary for work of extraordinary merit to Mr. John T. Rogers was announced through a notice on the bulletin board in the news room of the Post-Dispatch shortly after the return of Dr. Kelley, as were other bonuses to other members of the staff who had worked on the case."

$2500 BANK EMBEZZLER PAROLED FOR 'MAKING GOOD'

New Employer Pleads for Sylvester Chandler, Who Is Paying Back Loss.

Sylvester D. Chandler, former savings teller at the Tower Grove Bank & Trust Co., pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Davis yesterday of embezzling about $2500 from customers' accounts and was sentenced to two years in Federal reformatory, but paroled from the bench because of a letter from his present employers.

An officer of the Hanley & Kinsella Coffee Co. wrote the court that employment had been given Chandler who is 25 years old, by that concern with full knowledge of his record and that he could keep his place if paroled. Should he be imprisoned, the letter added, the job would be held for him or another one found.

A representative of the company which bonded Chandler as a teller said Chandler was making restitution at the rate of $50 a month. His peculations, which lasted about 18 months, were discovered early last year. He was indicted two weeks ago under the national banking act.

Mrs. Charlia Herron Ayres, widow of Dr. George F. Ayres, who was president of Lindenwood College at St. Charles before his death in 1913, died yesterday in a hospital at Washington, D. C. She was 55 years old. The body will be returned for funeral services at St. Charles early this week.

Mrs. Ayres made her home in the East after the death of her husband but frequently visited at St. Charles. No members of the immediate family survive.

LAMONT'S DAUGHTER WED; HOOVERS ATTEND

Marries C. E. Saltzman, Son of Radio Commission Chairman.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Miss Gertrude Lamont and Charles Eskridge Saltzman were married today at a ceremony of simple elegance, witnessed by President and Mrs. Hoover. With a deep bow and a brief handclasp, the chief executive saluted the 20-year-old bride in the home of her father, Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the Radio Commission, the bridegroom's father, watched while Young Alan Hoover, the President's son, ushered about 50 close friends of the families into a long drawing room looking on a green and flowering garden. Canon Anson Phelps of the Washington Cathedral pronounced the Episcopal marriage service. Secretary Lamont gave away the bride.

The 27-year-old bridegroom, honor student at West Point in the class of '27, is now in New York City. There he and his bride will be at home about Sept. 1. They went West by train on their wedding trip.

Mrs. Hoover personally selected a silver coffee service as a gift from herself and the President.

Half an hour after the ceremony, President and Mrs. Hoover remained among the guests. The bridesmaids were Miss Jane Trowbridge and Miss Helen Ewing of Lake Forrest, Ill., and Miss Harriet Bearsley of Utica, N. Y.

2000 ATTEND FUNERAL OF HUGO ANSCHUETZ

German House Filled to Overflowing at Service for Choral Conductor.

Probably 2000 persons gathered in and outside the German House yesterday afternoon to pay their last respects to Hugo Anschuetz, leader of German-American singing societies since he came to St. Louis 28 years ago.

Mr. Anschuetz died last Wednesday at St. Mary's Hospital after a brief illness. He was 51 years old, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rosalind Anschuetz, a son, Richard, a daughter, Charlotte, and a brother, Carl.

There was a civic aspect in that German societies, the North American Saengerbund, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and the German Republic were represented, but even more impressive in every face was a sense of personal loss. "Our Hugo," the speakers called him, and they dwelt as much on the man himself as on his leadership.

"Hundreds of his friends are here," said the Rev. O. Kramer of Pilgrim Evangelical Church, who conducted the religious service, "but there are thousands who cannot come—in St. Louis, in singing groups throughout the United States and in the Fatherland."

Every one of the 1140 seats of the German Theater was occupied. Hundreds stood in the aisles, the entrance hall, an adjacent smaller theater and on the street outside, where the twin American flags of German House were at half-staff.

The banners of 40 societies stood by the casket. Ranging across the hall was a double bank of flowers. Hidden by palms, a string group of the Symphony Orchestra played Grieg's "Herzwunde" and Bach's Air for the G String. The 200 voices of the United Male Singing Societies, massed in the balcony, sang the "Sanctus" of Shubert and the "Singer's Testament" of Julius Otto.

In the principal address George Voges paid the tribute of friendship to an engaging and brilliant personality. Dr. Georg Ahrens, German Counsel, spoke of his personal affection, of the pride Germany had in builders of music, and or her gratitude for what Anschuetz "did for her in her hour of greatest need"—when he organized and directed concerts at the Coliseum for Germans in distress after the World War.

William Kreckler, president of the United Male Singing Societies, and F. O. Neutzel, president of the North American Saengerbund, told how almost from the day of the talented young musician's arrival, his life had year by year become more closely interwoven with the life of the Germanic community here and of German music lovers in many cities.

The string orchestra played Schumann's "Evening Song" and, with Frieligrat's solo of farewell for French horn, "Es ist bestimmt in Gottes Rat," The funeral ended with Masonic services by Erwin Lodge.

Outside hundreds, waiting on lawns and sidewalks for nearly a block in either direction along Lafayette avenue, bared heads as the members of singing societies and the lodge filed out in advance of the casket. Led by Falkenhainers' Band and the societies' banners, they marched west in a funeral procession more than a block long to Compton avenue. Final Masonic services were held at Valhalla Crematory.

ATTACKS MISSOURI'S CLAIM TO $107,000 INHERITANCE TAX

Suit Filed to Enjoin Levy on Holdings in This State of Late New Jersey Millionaire.

A suit to enjoin Attorney-General Shartel and State Treasurer Ellis from collecting a $107,000 inheritance tax against Missouri holdings of the estate of James N. Jarvie of Montclair, N. J., who died in June, 1929, was filed in Federal Court here yesterday by the law firm of Fordyce, Halliday & White.

The petition alleges that the Jarvie estate, said to be worth $38,000,000, paid an inheritance tax of $1,380,000 in New Jersey, where he was a resident.

Securities in Missouri corporations held by the estates, the petition says, are 910 shares of preferred stock and 6700 shares of common stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, 400 shares of preferred stock of the Frisco Railroad, and 390 shares of preferred and 782 common of the Kansas City Public Service Co.

Asserting that Jarvie never was a resident of Missouri and therefore not subject to its inheritance tax law, the suit asks that State officers be enjoined from interfering with the transfer of the Missouri stock to the trust estate.

FAKE U. S. AGENT TO PRISON

Chauffeur, Charged With Taking $158, Gets 18 Months.

Charles F. Weisman, 31 years old, a chauffeur, 4601 Delor street, was sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth Penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge Faris on his plea of no contest to a charge of impersonating an agent of the Department of Justice.

It was charged that on Nov. 18 he told Joshua L. Risch, a confectioner at 3146 Morganford road, that he was an agent of the department and that he took $158 from Risch to get the latter a job as an agent. Weisman's lawyer admitted his client had posed as an agent, but said this was not done to get money.

BISHOP CANNON'S PLEA TO DELAY HEARING DENIED

Nye Senate Committee to Take Up Inquiry Into $65,300 Anti-Smith Fund Wednesday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Efforts of Bishop James Cannon Jr., to obtain a postponement of next Wednesday's hearing by the Senate Campaign Funds Committee on his 1928 anti-Smith campaign expenditures today met with failure.

Chairman Nye announced the meeting would be held with or without the presence of the Southern Methodist churchman.

The North Dakota Senator made public correspondence with the Bishop who said it was important that he attend the sessions of the General Board of Missions of the Methodist Church at Nashville next week and asked that the committee meeting be delayed a day or two.

Replying, Nye said the committee felt the Bishop's presence would not be required at the hearing, that it would forward a transcript of the proceedings to him, and that Wednesday was the only date satisfactory to all committeemen.

The committee is investigating the disposition of $65,300 turned over to Bishop Cannon in the 1928 presidential campaign to oppose Alfred E. Smith in Virginia. Bishop Cannon has protested to the committee that it lacked authority to proceed.

Bishop Cannon's Note to Nye.

Writing Nye from Louisville under date of April 29, Bishop Cannon expressed surprise that the date of the hearing was one on which he said he had previously informed the chairman he had another important engagement.

He referred to the meeting of the College of Bishops in Nashville at which he said he was expected to make a report on mission work in Africa and Brazil, over which he has charge, at the Board of Missions' session May 5 and 6.

"But," he wrote, "you can well understand that in a matter affecting me personally as seriously as this investigation does, it is to be expected that I should be present to hear everything that is said."

He asked, if Friday were out of the question, that the hearing be held Thursday, which would enable him to attend "at least a part of the meeting of this most important board of this church."

"It does seem strange," he added, "that one of the few dates on which I wrote you that I had other unusual engagements should be selected for this hearing. I must think it was an oversight on the part of the committee."

Bishop Cannon Withdraws; College Elects Bishop Hay.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 2. — Having no power to remove a Bishop, the College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today received but took no action on petitions seeking their ousting of one of its members, Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Richmond, Va.

The Bishops likewise took no action on requests that Bishop Cannon be prevented from becoming president of the college but he asked that he be not considered for the post to which he was eligible last December. He was prevented then from accepting because the selection of a president follow the regular order. His statement follows:

"Tho rule provided that the Bishops are to preside over the College of Bishops for six months in the order of their election. The minutes state that in December when it came my time to preside it was voted that 'in view of the illness of Bishop Cannon' the presidency passed to Bishop (W. B.) Beauchamp. I personally see no reason to go backward on the list, and prefer that the presidency of the college shall continue to follow the regular order."

Bishop S. R. Hay, San Antonio, Tex., next in order or seniority as a bishop, consequently succeeded to the presidency.

Bishop Hay has spent most of his long clerical life in Houston, prior to his removal to San Antonio a year ago to head the West Texas conference of the church.

He came here to take the pastorate of a small church and forged upward until he became pastor of First Methodist Church here, the largest in Southern Methodism, and later a Bishop.

$135,000 DEFICIENCY FOUND

State Official Reports on Kansas City Loan Association.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—Deficiencies in the assets of the Mutual Savings and Loan Association were listed at $135,000 in a report filed today by George W. Wagner, supervisor of Building and Loan Associations for Missouri, temporary receiver for the company.

Earl C. Hallar, president of the firm, was killed in a fall from the seventh floor of an unfinished apartment hotel about the time his institution was placed in receivership. A Coroner's jury held his death accidental.

More Good News

Auburn built and shipped 5,649 cars in March this year, as compared to 2,499 cars in March last year, making an all-time record for Auburn for any month!

The number of unfilled orders carried over into April exceeds by more than 2,000 the unfilled orders carried over from February to March. Last April 1,820 Auburn cars were produced. Conservative estimates for this April point to a requirement of a minimum of 6,000 cars.

Reports from only 25 of Auburn's distributing centers for the first three months of 1931 show that 10,129 cars have been taken in these 25 points in three months this year, as compared to 9,723 cars in the same centers for the entire year of 1930. (These actual figures are shown in this advertisement.)

While the engineers, factory executives, and all the Auburn workmen, dealers, and distributors have a right to feel proud of this record-breaking success, we believe these amazing figures are of importance to all buyers of new motor cars. Here is evidence that a car receiving such phenomenal public acceptance deserves your consideration.

But, in addition, we believe American business men generally will be cheered with this Good News. It proves it can be done! It proves the American public will buy! Therefore, these figures and records are published, not in a spirit of braggadocio, but because we believe Good News is good medicine today.

Particularly significant is the fact that Auburn added 206 dealers and distributors in the month of March, bringing Auburn's distributing organization to the highest point in its history. A total of 373 new dealers and distributors have been added since the New York Automobile Show in January, representing an increase of 147 per cent over the same period last year.

In registration position in numerous cities, Auburn now occupies 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th places, as compared to 17th, 18th, and 19th places a year ago. The roster of owners of the new Auburn Custom Models with Free Wheeling is significant. It shows the kind of owners that are enjoying greater advantages in this remarkably low priced car than they formerly found in cars costing $2,000 and more.

The policy you get by sending in the coupon may pay you as much or more.*

You Might Get These Checks, Too!

Suppose you were injured . . . wouldn't you appreciate $100 a month for 24 months for a few dollars investment? Wouldn't you like to know that you were protected with the new non-assessible accident policy that is being issued by the reliable Postal Life and Casualty Insurance Company?

Cent-a-Day Pays UP TO $100 a Month and $1000 for Death

The new non-assessible accident policy issued by the Postal Life and Casualty Insurance Company pays up to $100 a month for 24 months for disability and $1000 for death—for the amazingly low cost of $3.50 a year—less than a cent a day. Other benefits are $1000 for loss of both hands, $1000 for loss of one hand and sight of one eye, $200 for loss of one toe, $300 for complete fracture of thigh, and many other benefits equally generous. Anyone—man, woman, or child, from 10 to 70 years of age, including unemployed women, can get this reliable policy.

When You Need Money Most!

Remember, this money comes to you in case of accident just when you and your loved ones need it most. Accidents don't give you a chance to prepare. Think of the difference a check every month would make, and you get them for such a small amount! Look at the checks shown above. These were paid within the first few months. You may get an equal amount from your investment if you follow the message on this page and simply mail the coupon.

Sound, Established Company

The Postal Life and Casualty Insurance Company is headed by Mr. R. L. Gregory, a well-known insurance executive with a lifetime of experience in the insurance business. It is a sound financial institution, incorporated according to the laws of Missouri. These laws demand strict financial reliability. The soundness of the business policies of this institution is shown by the fact that it has increased its business 33 per cent already this year over the same period last year, in spite of general business conditions.

74,000 Policy Holders

You Benefit Because You Deal Direct

More than 74,000 people have taken advantage of the Postal Life and Casualty Insurance policy. They have resolved they will be protected. The low cost of this policy is made possible because we deal directly with the insured, and need pay no agent's fee. One minor injury may pay for the low cost of this policy many, many times.

WEBSTER HIGH SCHOOL THIRD IN STATE TESTS

Wins 40 Points in Interscholastic Competition Held at Missouri U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 3.—High schools in the St. Louis area won 24 places in individual events in the State interscholastic contests held at the University of Missouri yesterday.

Webster Groves High School, was third with 40 points. Central High School of Kansas City won first place with 77 points. Sedalia Cotton-Smith High School had 43 points. Columbia was fourth with 36½ points.

Webster Groves won the State championship in English and tied in mathematics with Sedalia. Country Day School of St. Louis won divisional championships in French and preventive medicine and hygiene. Clayton High School tied with three others for the stenographic divisional championship, Eileen Hoefer winning a cup for accuracy and speed. One-year scholarships to the University of Missouri were awarded in American Problems and Latin, respectively, to Jesse F. Jeter and Harriet Metcalf of Webster Groves. Tom Baskett, Webster Groves, received a semester scholarship in English and Don C. McCord Jr., Country Day School, a semester scholarship in physics.

Winners in the St. Louis district:

Essay writing—Laurence Heath, Webster Groves, second; Philip Monypenny, Webster Groves, third; David Horton, Webster Groves, fourth.

Elementary French — Francis Nulsen, St. Louis Country Day, first; William A. Polster, St. Louis Country Day, second.

World history—Louis Zehl, Webster Groves, third.

American history—Phillip Monypenny, Webster Groves, third.

Latin 3—Helen Konesko, Webster Groves, first.

Advanced Algebra—Harriet Metcalf, Webster Groves, first.

Plane geometry — Pauline Hoener, Webster Groves, fourth.

Physics—Don Chylo McCord Jr., St. Louis Country Day, second.

Preventive medicine and hygiene—William Allen Polster, St. Louis Country Day, first; William K. Stanard II, second; Hazel Botkin, Wellston, third.

Amateur typewriting — Eileen Hoefer, Clayton, first.

A Marshall High School team, composed of Valska Sparks and Marjorie Hanley, became the champion of the Missouri State High School Debating League by defeating Granger High School in the final match held as part of the State Inter-Scholastic Meet. The two members of the Granger team were Mable Custer and Mable Nelson.

Miss Hanley of the Marshall team was selected as the outstanding debater of the meet and was awarded at $125 University of Missouri scholarship. It was the first time in the history of the league that the final match was an all-girl affair.

The one-act play contest was won by Jamesport; Festus was second and Maryville third. The individual dramatic characterization was won by Faye Wiles, Jamesport; Aurand Harris, Jamesport, was second; Charlotte England, Festus, third, and Marcus Mindell, Marshall, fourth.

SPRING HORSE SHOW OPENS FRIDAY WITH 250 ENTRIES

Final Contests to Be Held Next Sunday Afternoon; Matinee on Saturday.

The St. Louis Spring Horse Show, with about 250 entries, will open its three-day exhibition at the Missouri Arena, 5200 Berthold avenue, Friday night. On Saturday a matinee and a night showing will be held while the final contests will be held Sunday afternoon.

The unusually large number of saddle horses entered indicates, in the eyes of the show promoters, that St. Louis still holds a prominent place as one of the great saddle horse towns of the Middle West. So many entries have been received that two additional classes have been established for amateur owners in the three-gaited and five-gaited contests.

Another scheduled event is the heavy harness class. August A. Busch will show four-in-hand, tandem and unicorn teams. He has exhibited in the St. Louis shows since 1896.

STOCK EXCHANGE PLANNING TO MOVE TO LANDRETH BLDG.

Expects to Take Over Entire Ground Floor at Fourth and Locust Streets.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange is planning to occupy new quarters about June 1, consisting of the entire ground floor of the Landreth Building, southeast corner of Fourth and Locust streets.

It expects to take over the three years remaining under a lease of this space by Fenner & Beane, a brokerage house which has closed its St. Louis office. The quarters will require rearrangement. They have about 2850 square feet of floor space, about the same area the exchange has used previously.

Until a fire occurred in the Moneta Building, northeast corner of Fourth and Locust, on Feb. 26, the exchange occupied the ground floor of that structure. Water damaged the exchange rooms. Temporary space has been used since on the fifth floor of the Security Building, southwest corner of Fourth and Locust.

CHICAGO 'L' FARE 10 CENTS DESPITE 5-CENT FRANCHISE

Original Agreement in 50-Year Grant Abrogated—City Finally Takes Case to U. S. Supreme Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Although the United States Supreme Court has decided to review the elevated rapid transit fare case, riders continue to pay 10 cents under a Federal district court injunction.

The 5-cent fare contracts in the franchise were abrogated long ago under State regulation. Up to 1928 the elevated lines were selling three tickets for 25 cents, single fares for 10 cents, or weekly passes for $1.25.

Then the Rapid Transit Co. applied to the Illinois Commerce Commission for a straight 10-cent fare. On the practical ground that to abolish the weekly passes and bulk ticket sales would result in riders seeking other facilities and thus reducing the revenue of the company the Commission denied the application, but said: "It is unquestionably true that the company is not receiving the full return on its investment which the courts have decided is a reasonable return."

The company then obtained from the United States District Court a temporary injunction restraining the city and the Commerce Commission from interfering with the straight 10-cent fare.

Injunction Made Permanent.

Two years later, after a special master had taken testimony and made his recommendation, a three-judge Federal Court held that to deny the company's plea would result in confiscation of its property, in violation of the United States Constitution, and made the injunction permanent.

The court denied the city's plea that the injunction be dissolved and the appeal to the United States Supreme Court followed. Further delay of a year or longer is likely before the high court decides the case and the city's law department is not optimistic as to the outcome.

This case differs somewhat from the New York subway 5-cent fare case. In New York City, although a 5-cent fare was stipulated in the franchise contracts, the company announced a 7-cent fare and obtained a Federal District Court injunction to prevent the city and the Transit Commission from interfering with it. The United States Supreme Court set aside the injunction, not on the ground that the 5-cent contract was binding, but that there was no showing the lower fare was confiscatory as applied to the particular lines covered by the contracts.

Written in Dual Contracts.

The subway company later was unsuccessful in an action in the State court to have the 5-cent contracts abrogated. The Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court ruled that the 5-cent fare was written into the dual contracts between the city and the Interborough as an unchangeable rate, even though the company lost money by it.

In New York the State regulating commission had not previously invalidated the franchise contracts as has been done in Chicago. The City of Chicago, however, will attempt to show that on a proper valuation the old rates of fare were not confiscatory. Meanwhile, the elevated lines, operating under 50-year franchises, have succeeded in nullifying State regulation, and even if the Supreme Court ultimately should decide in favor of the city it is unlikely that any considerable number of riders ever would be able to obtain refund of the excess fares paid.

LOAN ASSOCIATION SHORTAGE

$135,000 Deficiency in Assets of Kansas City Organization.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—George W. Wagner, State Supervisor of Building and Loan Associations, in an inventory compiled as temporary receiver, has listed deficiencies in the assets of the Mutual Savings & Loan Association at $135,000. The report indicated a loss to shareholders of approximately 45 per cent.

Earl C. Hallar, president of the association, fell from the seventh floor of an unfinished apartment hotel last February after the supervisor had made public to what extent the organization was carrying paper on Hallar's own building projects. A Coroner's jury held his death accidental.

KILLS TWO CHILDREN AND SELF

Illinois Farmer Also Cuts Throat of Wife.

By the Associated Press.

EFFINGHAM, Ill., May 2.—After killing his two children, Clarence Cramer, 25-year-old farmer, slashed his wife's throat and then committed suicide in their farm home near here today.

Mrs. Cramer is expected to live. She told officers her husband was "insanely jealous" and had been acting queerly for several days. After she was attacked she ran to the home of a neighbor who called officers.

Closing Time for Foreign Mail.

Closing time for parcel post for Germany and Great Britain and full European mails is set for 9 o'clock tomorrow night, at the Main Post Office, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.

CIVIC BODY TO STUDY BENEFIT TAX SYSTEM

Committee From General Council Will Be Headed by Dr. Isaac Lippincott.

A special committee of the General Council on Civic Needs has been appointed to study the city's system of assessing special benefit taxes to help finance street widenings and other public improvements. The committee will consider the reasonableness of the system and make recommendations for changes if it thinks any desirable.

All phases of the situation and of the city Charter provisions on the subject are to be studied. The Board of Aldermen last week appointed a special committee of its membership to make a similar inquiry. There has been much agitation among some property owners in recent months against the special tax system. These opponents contend that special taxes are unfair and burdensome. The only remedy they have suggested is that improvements be paid for altogether by bond issue or from the already overburdened general revenue of the city.

Dr. Isaac Lippincott, professor of economic resources at Washington University and a civic worker, was made chairman of the Civic Committee by Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the council. The other members are:

Eugene S. Klein, representing the American Institute of Architects; William C. E. Becker, American Society of Civil Engineers; Morton J. May, Associated Retailers; Roy F. Britton, Automobile Club of Missouri; James F. Cook, Building Owners' and Managers' Association; Charles J. Eisenring, Building Trades Council; Frank K. Harris, Business Men's Association of South St. Louis; Joseph A. Muldoon, Delmar-Skinker Improvement Association; Baxter L. Brown, Engineers' Club; Carter W. Atkins, Bureau of Municipal Research; G. William Senn, head of the city condemnation division; Elmer B. Klein, Federation of Improvement Associations; C. E. Valier, Merchants' Exchange; J. F. O. Reller, North St. Louis Business Men's Association; J. H. Cunningham Jr.; A. O. Wilson, Clearing House; J. H. Bawden, St. Louis Fruit & Produce Association; A. D. Ruth, Real Estate Exchange; William Stephan, Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association; William C. Bernard, technical expert of the condemnation division; H. Shifrin and Luther Ely Smith.

Aged Musician and Wife Killed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOONVILLE, Mo., May 2.—Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Sauter of Boonville were killed this afternoon at Hot Springs, Ark., by an automobile which struck them. Prof. Sauter, a musician, was 83 years old, and was Boonville's oldest business man both in years and length of service.

JANE ADDAMS HAILED AS EMINENT AMERICAN

Gets Bryn Mawr Award—Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald Send Tributes.

By the Associated Press.

BRYN MAWR, Pa., May 2.—Jane Addams, founder of Hull House at Chicago, was hailed at Bryn Mawr College today as "a citizen of the greater world community," by Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University.

This was one of many tributes paid her by prominent men and women at the exercises in Goodhear Hall, bestowing on her the M. Carey Thomas prize award valued at $5000. This award is made at intervals "to an American woman in recognition of eminent achievement.'

The Alumni Association of Bryn Mawr College in 1922 raised $25,000 in honor of M. Carey Thomas, then president of the college, to found the award. It was given for the first time in June, 1922, to Dr. Thomas, and was awarded this year for the second time.

The award was made by President Marion Edwards Parks, of Byrn Mawr College.

From President Hoover came the following tribute: "I am glad to learn that the M. Carey Thomas prize is to be awarded to Miss Jane Addams. Miss Addams' distinguished achievements and her eminence in American life deserve every possible recognition, in addition to that which she already possesses in nation-wide admiration and affection."

A message from Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier, read: "If sincerity in belief and simplicity in life, devotion to one's fellows as persons and service to them as a community, an allegiance to a faith in the certain triumph of the good, and a daily testing of that faith by work, an embodiment of charm and energy in the way one does things awaken affection in people's hearts and create memories which defy time, Miss Addams is one of the best beloved women in the world and her name and work will be known for many generations after she has gone."

Speakers included Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, former president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Federal Childrens Bureau, and Miss Frances Perkins, New York State Department of Labor.

SUES TO OBTAIN $1000 REWARD HE DECLARES IS WITHHELD

G. F. Boehnker, Who Recovered Drowned Girl's Body, Begins Action Against Chief Gerk.

Suit to obtain a $1000 reward offered for the recovery of the body of Miss Ruth Young, daughter of Charles Young, a grocer at Fenton, who was drowned in the Meramec River in February, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday against Chief of Police Gerk, with whom the reward was posted.

The plaintiff, George F. Boenker of Fenton, who filed suit through his attorney as next friend, alleges he recovered the body but that the reward, offered by the girl's father, is withheld.

Chief Gerk's secretary, Joseph W. Miller, said that Chief Gerk knew of the filing of the suit in advance and encouraged it in order to settle legally the claims of Boenker and a man who was with him at the time the body was taken from the river.

258 AIRPLANE FATALITIES DURING LAST HALF OF 1930

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Says Number of Passengers Killed Decreased.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Airplane accidents caused the death of 258 persons the last half of 1930, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M. Young announced today.

There were 1116 accidents, involving 2021 persons. Of these persons, the reports showed 145 were severely injured, 277 received minor injuries and 1341 were unhurt.

Young said there was a decrease in the number of passenger fatalities and an increase in the number of miles flown per passenger fatality.

383 BID ON STATE ROAD WORK

400 Attend Letting of $2,000,000 Construction Contracts.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2.—Road contractors today submitted 383 bids on 118 miles of new road work at the State Highway Department. Nearly 400 road builders and contractors were here for the letting.

The bids wer eon $2,000,000 of new construction work in 18 counties and includes 33 miles of concrete, 68 miles of gravel surfacing and 17 miles of graded earth. The successful bidders will not be announced until the next meeting of the Highway Commission.

88 COMMUNISTS EXECUTED

Chinese Nationalists Punish Depredations in Provinces.

By the Associated Press.

SWATOW, China, May 2.—Red violence which has terrorized many provinces of China, met its match today in the execution of 88 Communists who engaged in May day demonstrations.

The authorities of the Northern Kwangtung province seaport put to death the agitators whose fellows had laid waste neighboring provinces with torch and gun for a year or more as their armies challenged the power of the Nationalist Government at Nanking.

MISS CLARA COLEMAN CHOSEN HEAD OF CITY HOSPITAL NURSES

Miss Willa Woods and Miss Letitia Kallister Promoted to Vacancies Created by Change.

Miss Clara Coleman, who has been superintendent of nurses at Isolation Hospital, has been appointed superintendent of nurses and director of the nurses' training school at City Hospital, succeeding Miss Genevieve Muench, who assumed this position last year and resigned last February. The salary is $200 a month and maintenance. Miss Coleman, a graduate of Southwestern University, Georgetown, Tex., was educated as a nurse at City Hospital. Since 1927 she has directed the nursing at Isolation Hospital, organizing a course in communicable disease nursing which has received much recognition.

Miss Willa Woods, instructor of nursese at Isolation Hospital, has been promoted to succeed Miss Coleman there, at $175 a month and maintenance. Miss Woods was educated at the State Teachers' College at Kirksville, Mo., and at City Hospital. Miss Letitia Kallister, for three years a head nurse at Isolation Hospital will succeed Miss Woods, at $130 a month and maintenance. The appointments were made by Hospital Commissioner Lohr, acting in the case of the two superintendents on the recommendation of the Municipal Nurses' Board.

Jokers Scare Boy to Death.

CANON CITY, Colo., May 2.—Edgar Watson, 16 years old, was literally frightened to death last night by practical jokers. Four high school boys persuaded him to go to a vacant house. Three of the boys concealed themselves near the house and when Watson appeared, rushed at him, shouting. Watso frightened, ran 100 yards, then f dead of heart disease.

RESIGNS AS ARENA MANAGER TO HEAD CONVENTION HALL

Maj. M. J. Pickering Also to Have Charge of Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia.

Maj. Michael J. Pickering, general manager of The Arena since December, 1929, and previously to that manager of the Coliseum, has accepted a position as head of the new Convention Hall and Municipal Stadium of Philadelphia, and will leave tomorrow to take over his new position.

The new Convention Hall is a $5,000,000 institution with a main auditorium smaller than that of The Arena, but with more extensive general facilities. The Municipal Stadium, completed five years ago, was used in the Sesqui-centennial Exposition as the scene of the first Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Maj. Pickering is a native of Philadelphia and former graduate manager of athletics at the University of Pennsylvania. He served at one time as manager of amateur events at the Yankee Stadium in New York. During the war he was a Major in the air service. The salary of the new position is $10,000 a year, according to reports from Philadelphia. Maj. Pickering's successor atf The Arena has not been announced.

ADDED FEATURES TODAY AT ARENA INDUSTRIAL SHOW

This Year's Mississippi Valley Exposition Making Full Use of Buildings for First Time.

Added entertainment features have been scheduled today at Mississippi Valley Exposition of Progress being presented by industries of the St. Louis trade territory at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue, where last week a throng gathered to witness an athletic program for the benefit of the unemployed. The exposition, first of its sort to make full use of the ample space provided by the Arena buildings, was planned to stimulate business through exhibits of the latest products displayed in an attractive setting.

The bagpipe band of the Forty-eighth Canadian Highlanders is to play four concerts today, and two orchestras are on hand to fill in between times. Oscar Babcock, bicycle aerialist, is to perform his loop-the-loop stunt this afternoon and again tonight.

$15,000 Exhibit of Bagnell Dam.

The exhibits themselves comprise a cross section of the manufactured products of the Mississippi Valley, and other displays include the art work and handicraft of St. Louis school children, a model of the City Plan Commission's design for improvement of the river front, and a reproduction of Bagnell Dam, the $40,000,000 power project of Union Electric Light and Power Co. This exhibit, which occupies all of the southern end of the main Arena building, was constructed at a cost of $15,000.

Last night was designated "Wabash Night," and members of the Wabash Railroad Club, which sponsored the ticket selling campaign of Miss Vieda Kraus, attended. Miss Kraus took sixth prize in the North St. Louis District and with Miss Emmie Schulz and Miss Della Hawley, winners of that prize in the other two districts, won a trip to New Orleans and a Gulf of Mexico tour.

The aviation exhibitors furnished the thrill of the day when a tiny single-seated monoplane of the Von Hoffman company landed in the Arena's "backyard." The ship was flown here from Detroit where it had been exhibited in an aircraft show. Dale Jackson, holder of the world's record for endurance flying, was on hand also.

Tomorrow St. Charles Day.

Tomorrow has been designated "St. Charles Day" and a large delegation, headed by a band, is expected to attend from that city. The group was organized through the efforts of Miss Katherine Lawler of St. Charles, winner of ninth prize, a Great Lakes tour, in the ticket selling contest for the Mississippi Valley District.

School children will have a half holiday tomorrow to enable them to visit the exposition. The drum corps of Central Twenty-fourth Ward Improvement Association, a group of 60 uniformed boys, will parade through the downtown district at noon before proceeding to The Arena. The exposition closes next Sunday.

ATTEMPT TO REPEAL LAW ON NEW TRIAL MOTIONS FAILS

Effort to Substitute Old "Shotgun" Method Dies on Senate Calendar.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2.—A bill proposing repeal of the law governing motions for new trial in criminal cases, which is one of the few criminal code reforms enacted by the Missouri Legislature in years, and to re-enact the former law which authorized the so-called "shotgun" motion for new trial dealing in vague generalities, died today on the calendar of the Senate.

Death of the bill, with the tabling of all House bills remaining on the Senate calendar for passage, ended the third attempt in as many legislative sessions by lawyers in the Legislature to obtain the repeal of the present law, which was passed in 1925.

The present law requires motions for new trial in criminal cases to state the grounds in detail and with particularity, and enables the trial court to be informed of the exact error alleged as the basis for seeking a new trial.

The old law, which the present one replaced, did not require the motion for new trial to state the grounds in specific detail.

DECLARES CHURCH TREASURER LOST $113,000 ON MARKET

DES MOINES, Ia., May 2.—The Rev. S. D. Rodholm, president of Grandview College, said last night that Wilbur N. Hostrop, treasurer of the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Church of America and of the college, has admitted the loss through stock market speculation of $113,000 of college funds.

Hostrop, who is in Chicago, admitted there was a shortage in his accounts, but said the deficit has been covered with an assignment of his property. The entire matter was settled a week ago, he said.

ALTITUDE RECORD ATTEMPTS TO BE MADE ON EAST SIDE

Pilot for Oone of Curtiss-Steinberg Airport Trials to Be 18-Year-Old Kansan.

An attempt to break the altitude record for light planes, and also for junior pilots, will be made at Curtiss-Steinberg Airport, on the East Side, this afternoon.

The junior pilot is Harold Hill, 13 years old, of Wichita, Kan. The second pilot has not been selected. The planes used are the new Curtiss-Wright "Junior" made at Lambert-St. Louis Field. One ship will be powered with a regulation three-cylinder aircraft engine and the other with a Model A Ford engine. The latter plane was tested last week.

Recording barographs have been supplied by the National Aeronautic Association, and an official observer will be in charge of the record attempts. The pilots will use oxygen equipment. The record for planes of this class is 19,500 feet, set at the recent aircraft show at Detroit. Curtiss-Steinberg Airport is south of East St. Louis on Illinois Highway No. 3.

Reputed Companion of Mrs. Lincoln Dies.

MIAMI, Fla., May 2.—Mrs. Abby Overton, 93 years old, said by relatives to have been a member of Abraham Lincoln's household at one time, as companion for Mrs. Lincoln, died here today after a brief illness. She came to Miami 22 years ago from Chicago.

STATE TREASURER BRUNK'S TRIAL IS SET FOR MAY 18

He Files With Senate General Denial of All Charges in Articles of Impeachment.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2. — The State Senate today fixed May 18 as the date for the trial of Larry Brunk, suspended State Treasurer, on nine articles of impeachment proferred by the House of Representatives charging him with "high crimes, misdemeanors and misconduct in office."

The Senate on that day will become a court of impeachment, the Senators being specially sworn to try the case. It is expected the trial will last about two weeks.

The fixing of the date followed the appearance in the Senate this morning of Brunk and his attorney, John G. Madden of Kansas City, who filed a motion to quash the articles on the technical ground that even if proved they did not constitute impeachable offenses, and an answer which made specific denial of each allegation.

The House managers have until May 11 to file their reply to the answer by Brunk.

Following more than a month devoted to the examination of witnesses in secret session, the House Investigation Committee of which Representative Stanley P. Clay of Joplin was chairman, reported nine articles of impeachment, which later were voted by the House. These covered numerous allegations of official misconduct by Brunk in connection with State finances, but in a broad sense were limited to two general charges.

Charges Against Brunk.

The first of these grew out of Brunk's transactions with the defunct Bank of Aurora, which was a State depository. The second had to do with the sale of bonds of the Pierre Chouteau Apartments in St. Louis to State depositories, and the allegation that Brunk accepted $10,000 from J. Kenneth Edlin of Chicago, president of the securities company which sold the bonds.

In the Aurora Bank matter, it was charged that when Brunk was a candidate for the nomination for Treasurer in 1927, he made an agreement with the president and cashier of the bank to which he was indebted, that if they would permit him to increase his indebtedness to provide funds for his campaign, he would permit them to pay less than the legal rate of interest on the State's deposit in the bank, the deducted amount to be applied in part to Brunk's debt, the remainder to go to the bank and the officers.

Carrying out his agreement, it was charged the bank's officers created an account known as the "Brunk rent account," and transferred to it approximately $4900 which should have been paid to the State as interest, $2950 of this going to pay part of Brunk's debt to the bank, part of it to pay taxes Brunk owed in Aurora and part to pay other items for Brunk. On this the House preferred charges that Brunk permitted the defrauding of the State and personally profited thereby.

Bond Conspiracy Alleged.

In the bond matter it was charged that Brunk entered into a conspiracy with Edlin and William H. Norwine, a salesman for Edlin's company, by which Brunk aided in the sale to State depositories of bonds which were to be used as security for State deposits, but which were not eligible for that purpose under the law. It was charged that in carrying out the conspiracy Brunk supplied Norwine with confidential information from the records of his office, agreed to permit banks which purchased the bonds to have a larger deposit than was permissible under their contracts, and agreed not to draw on the State's deposit in banks which purchased the bonds.

The answer filed by Madden denied specifically each of the nine articles, both as to their truth and as to their charges constituting an offense.

To the first charge, that he permitted State money to be deposited to the "Brunk rent account," and that he profited from use of State money, the answer set up the defense that he did not permit the transfer, and that if the transfer was made it was without his knowledge.

To the second, that he permitted disbursement of State money at the Bank of Aurora without legal warrant issued by the State Auditor, the defense made was that if there was such a disbursement it was without his knowledge.

Explains $100,000 Deal.

As to the third, that he purchased from the Farmers' State Bank of Marshfield $100,000 of bonds for deposit to the State's credit in this bank, for which the bank would have been required to deposit bonds as security, Brunk as Treasurer bought the bonds which were sent direct to him, accepted them as security for the deposit and entered on his books a record of a $100,000 deposit in the bank. In the answer it was set forth that by following that procedure there was no interim in which the deposit was unsecured, which would have been the case if the deposit had been made before the securities were received.

As to the fourth charge, that he failed to make required reports to the Governor and made false reports, the defense was that his reports at all times were in accordance with the records kept by the employes of his office, and that he, in good faith, believed these records to be honest and accurate. The basis of this charge was that Brunk's reports did not show that the Bank of Aurora was not making proper interest remittances to the State.

To the fifth charge, that of conspiracy between Brunk and the president and cashier of the Bank of Aurora, the defense made was that he did not enter into any conspiracy to defraud the State, or to receive any other than the legal rate of interest on the State deposit; that he never had any knowledge that proper interest remittances were not made, and at all times believed the interest payments were in the proper amounts.

Denies Responsibility.

To the sixth, that he was negligent in failing to see that proper interest calculations were made in his office, he denied that it was his duty to see that the interest computations were made, and asserted that he believed that the computations made by employes in his office were correct.

To the seventh, that he accepted ineligible bonds as security for State deposits, he denied that it was his duty to determine the eligibility of securities. He asserted that the securities complained of were valid and ample to cover the deposits.

To the eighth, the alleged conspiracy with Edlin and Norwine, he denied that he agreed to assist them in the sale of bonds or that the securities complained of were of doubtful value or that they were not eligible for deposit or that they were sold as the result of any agreement with him. He denied that he provided Norwine with any confidential information or that he agreed to increase the deposits in banks buying bonds of Norwine, or agreed not to withdraw funds from such banks.

Says $10,000 Was Not Gift.

Though not denying that he received $10,000 from Edlin, he denied receiving it as a commission, bonus or gift, as charged.

To the ninth charge, that although his legal income from the State was only $5000 a year, he deposited approximately $40,000 in two years to his personal credit in the First National Bank in Jefferson City, the answer was that the deposits consisted largely of duplications and redeposits of funds previously withdrawn. He asserted that all of his deposits represented money honestly acquired and possessed by him, and that none of it represented money received for official favors.

LAMAR, ARK., MARSHAL'S WIFE KIDNAPED, BUT MAKES ESCAPE

Mrs. Abe Harris Says Divorced Husband Was Among Her Abductors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAMAR, Ark., May 2. — Mrs. Abe Harris, wife of the town marshal, who early this morning was abducted from her home by three men, one of whom she said was her former husband, Ed McGehee, escaped from her abductors at Scranton, about 30 miles from here and returned to her home this afternoon. Mrs. Harris said she did not know the men with her former husband, but they told her they recently robbed a bank at Malvern, Ark., and were headed toward Dallas, Tex. One of the men took $65 from Mrs. Harris' purse.

Mrs. Harris told officers she effected her release by asking her abductors if she might stop in a rest room at Scranton to dress. She was taken from her home in her night clothes, but carried her clothing with her. Climbing out the window of the rest room she hid behind some buildings, until the men left. Mrs. Harris was divorced from McGehee more than 12 years ago. Her husband and his brothers, Walter Harris, soon after the abduction, started in pursuit of the abductors, but their car was wrecked.

"Please, may I change my seat? It's hard to see the blackboard from here."

His classmates avoided him

. . . until he ended 'B.O.' (Body Odor)

THEY CHEERED him like mad on the baseball field—but kept away from him in the classroom. At parties, too, not a girl wanted to dance with him. In spite of his pleasant manners, his fine athletic record, he was unpopular.

Then one day his gym instructor had a frank talk with him about "B.O.," the polite name for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor. Suggested a simple safeguard . . . What a difference it has made! Today he is prominent in class affairs, liked by everyone. He knows the easy way to end perspiration odor.

"B.O." a serious handicap

In school, in business, in society—people always shun the "B.O." offender. And the worst of it is, the guilty one seldom realizes why he is unpopular. Though pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily, we don't notice "B.O." in ourselves because we soon become used to an ever-present odor. But others quickly detect the smallest trace of it.

Why take chances when it's so easy to be safe? Just wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. This delightful toilet soap lathers generously—even in hardest water. Its creamy, abundant, antiseptic lather purifies pores, removes all odor. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you you're safe from offending.

Fine for the complexion

There's nothing better than Lifebuoy for keeping complexions smooth and clear. Its bland, deep-cleansing lather gently frees clogged pores of impurities—helps bring a fresh, healthy glow to dull skins. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

EXPLOSIONS START FIRE IN PLANT, LOSS $75,000

Factory at Mound City Roofing Tile Co., 3301 Morganford, Damaged.

Fire followed by two explosions caused damage estimated at $75,000 to the plant of the Mound City Roofing Tile Co., 3301 Morganford road, yesterday afternoon. Cause of the fire was not determined.

The fire appeared to start in a tool house on the southwest side of the plant and spread rapidly through the structure which covers about a square block. Wooden molds and crude oil used to fire kilns were ignited and set fire to wooden rafters beneath the tile roof. Most of the roof of the factory proper fell in, although an adjacent office building was not damaged.

Estimate of the damage was made by S. C. McCormack, president of the company, who said the buildings were insured but that the equipment was not covered. Fire Chief Alt estimated the damage at $50,000.

The blaze was discovered by George Spear, 2633 Lafayette avenue, stationary fireman, who started for an alarm box as soon as he smelled smoke. Before he could get out of the building the first and least severe of the explosions had so filled the structure with smoke that he was barely able to escape, Spear told reporters. About 30,000 gallons of fuel oil were stored in the plant. As firemen arrived, a second explosion shook the structure.

Five firemen were injured fighting the flames, but all, after treatment, went back to their posts.

G. F. Baker, Noted Banker, Dies at Home in New York

cation, Mr. Baker became known as the "Sphinx of Wall Street." Although one of the outstanding figures in the financial and transportation development of this country, it was not until recent years, when associates on several occasions paid him tribute, that the public generally began to learn of him. Up to that time less was known personally of the banker than of many men whose standing in the business world did not begin to compare in importance with that of Mr. Baker.

Natural modesty and inherent reticence kept veiled the details of Mr. Baker's early life and to all except his immediate associates in the Wall street district his extensive financial operations were unknown. Biographers found it difficult to obtain information concerning him, with the result that American biographical works contain only the most meager details of his life.

Business Men Too Talkative.

Mr. Baker's attitude toward interviews always had been one of the mysteries of the world's great financial center, and it was not until after he had celebrated his eighty-second birthday anniversary that he broke his silence and gave an intimation as to why he had refrained from making public statements during his long business career.

"Business men of America should reduce their talk at least two-thirds," he told the representative of a New York newspaper who had persuaded him to be interviewed. "Everyone should reduce his talk. There is rarely ever a reason good enough for anybody to talk. Silence uses up much less energy. I don't talk because silence is the secret of success.

"I did nothing unusual when I began. My first job that I chose to call a job was in a small bank in Albany. I was a very quiet worker and that served to distinguish me. It was there that I made and invested by first thousand dollars. Then I simply planned my way to Wall street. With this money I bought the First National Bank."

Concluding the interview, Mr. Baker fairly shouted:

"There! I've broken my record. Tell the others they needn't come in. And get out." He dismissed his interviewer with a smile.

Others Tell of Service.

It remained for J. P. Morgan and Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, to tell at the annual banquet of the New York State Bankers' Association, on Jan. 11, 1925, more details of the life of the aged banker than had ever before been given to the public. The event was turned into a testimonial dinner, with Mr. Baker as the guest of honor.

Morgan disclosed for the first time the importance of Mr. Baker's service to the country in the panic of 1907, without, however, giving the details, by relating how his father, the late J. Pierpont Morgan, told him the story of those anxious and agitated days. Summing up what had been accomplished, the elder Morgan said to his son, "Of course, you see, it could not have been done without Mr. Baker. He is always ready to do his part—and more."

Another incident related by Morgan had reference to the Liberty loan campaigns during the war. In these Mr. Baker generally took the lead in suggesting that assurance should be given to the Government that it would get the money it needed from New York. During one of the later campaigns it became evident that, since the people were rather overloaded with bonds, the banks would be obliged to subscribe for amounts very much larger than they had hoped would be necessary.

After one of the campaign committee meetings, Morgan was walking down the street with the head of one of the large New York banks when the latter asked:

"Cannot you do anything about it?"

Morgan inquiring what he wanted done, the other banker replied:

"Mr. Baker is much too young for all the rest of us, and it is really dangerous to have him about. He makes us all do more, and more quickly, than we expect to. He really ought to be aged."

Mellon Offers Testimonial..

A testimonial of Mr. Baker's financial assistance to the Government was given by Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, who said:

"If it were possible to express in figures Mr. Baker's contribution to his country's finance, it might convey some impression to say that since 1917 the subscriptions of his bank to Government obligations have reached the enormous total of over $3,364,000,000 of Government securities.

"We know in Washington that on every issue on the day the books are opened we will receive a subscription for $25,000,000 from the First National Bank of the City of New York. It is comforting to feel that we always have one friend who backs the Treasury, whatever its judgment of market conditions. It gives us confidence."

Mr. Baker began his banking career at Albany, N. Y., where, as he related, he had a job in a small bank. He then became a clerk in the State banking department for seven years. It was while there, in the early part of 1863, that Salmon P. Chase, then Secretary of the Treasury, conceived the idea of selling bonds through the banks and, in addition, forming banks which could pledge bonds themselves for the circulation of currency up to 90 per cent of the value thereof. That was the start of the national banking system.

This development greatly interested Mr. Baker and he talked it over with a Mr. Thompson, then one of the financial leaders in New York. The latter decided to open one of these new national banks and invited Mr. Baker to become teller, the bank being formed with a capital of $200,000. Thompson offered Mr. Baker all the stock he wanted and agreed to carry it for him, but Mr. Baker refused to accept more than his accumulated savings would purchase. His first investment was 30 shares of the bank's stock.

Bank Has Hard Sledding.

The principal business of the bank at the outset was the sale of Government bonds, but the bank had hard sledding. It was denied admission to the Clearing House. Everybody suspected the kind of currency that was afloat but gradually the bank had got started and in 1868 it was admitted. The bank increased its capital to $300,000 and then, in little more than a year after its organization, to $500,000. Mr. Baker had become cashier and active head of the institution when only 25 years old and frequently was called to Washington by the Secretary of the Treasury for advice.

In 1873 Mr. Baker met his first great panic with the failure of the house of J. Cooke & Co. He stood by and declared as a principle that which he has always insisted upon and has always followed, that any panic could be averted if the banks, instead of becoming afraid and hoarding their resources, would pay them out. The First National weathered that panic and it is worthy of note that it did not sell its borrowers, but assisted them by private compromise.

Mr. Baker became president of the First National in 1877 and remained in that position until 1909, when he resigned and was made chairman of the board. For a long time after he had been in control the bank remained inconspicuous. Then one day "the street" and financial circles generally were electrified by the announcement that "Baker's bank" was preparing to double its capital and declare a dividend equivalent to $10,000,000. Nothing like this had ever been heard of in American banking history. But not a word concerning the move was uttered by the president of the bank.

From that time on Mr. Baker became a prominent figure and the First National Bank a powerful factor in American financial affairs. The late J. Pierpont Morgan began to seek his counsel and James J. Hill called upon him to aid in the expansion of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railroads. At the height of his career Mr. Baker held directorates in 43 banks and other corporations, including the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., of which he was said to be the largest individual stockholder; the United States Steel Corporation, the Pullman company and numerous railroads. It was said he held the record of attending more directors' meetings than any other financier in New York. He became chairman of the New York Clearing House in 1900.

Baker's largest single philanthropic gift, made in 1924, was $5,000,000 to the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. In May, 1922, he gave $1,000,000 in Victory Bonds to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the only condition imposed being that the principal was to be held intact and the interest used for the museum. A week later he gave $500,000 in Victory Bonds to the Society of the New York Hospital, which, with $250,000 given in 1912, was used for the establishment of the George F. Baker endowment fund. On June 21, 1922, he contributed $250.000 to the endowment of the American Museum of Natural History.

Other large gifts included $2,000,000 to the American Red Cross in 1917 and 1918; $1,850,000 to Cornell University; $700,000 to Columbia University for the purchase of a tract of land for an athletic field, known as Baker Field, and $100,000 to Dartmouth College to establish an endowment in memory of his uncle, Fisher Ames Baker, a graduate in the class of 1859.

It was said that the American fortunes which exceeded that of Mr. Baker were those of John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford.

Hoover and Mellon Express Regret at Death of Baker.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Regret at the death of George F. Baker, New York financier, was expressed tonight by President Hoover and Secretary Mellon.

The President did not prepare a formal statement but Secretary Mellon, who had known Baker many years, said: "I am greatly distressed to hear of the death of Mr. Baker. He was the dean of American bankers and for many years has been an outstanding figure in the banking world. He was a man of the highest integrity and possessed in an exceptional degree the qualities of far sightedness and good judgment, which he exerted over the course of his long life in favor of sound banking and the building up of American business. No one in the financial world will be more greatly missed than Mr. Baker."

MEDALS FOR THREE DOGS

Winner of Gold Decoration Saved His Master's Life Twice.

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 2.—Three California dogs—Bob, Shep and Nig—were awarded medals today for outstanding bravery during the last year. Bob twice saved the life of his master, Elliot Durham of Carmel by pulling him from a blazing car after a wreck in Canada and later by holding him from a fall on a steep hill until Durham's companion heard his cries for help. Bob was awarded a gold medal.

Shep, owned by Vincent Tiscornia of San Andreas, was given a silver medal for driving a flock of sheep to safety during a brush and forest fire. Shep was burned about the feet while forcing the sheep to jump over a fence. Nig, owned by J. G. Roberts of Auburn, saved the life of a dog pal buried in a cave seven days. He gets a bronze medal.

AWARDED $3000 BY DEFAULT AGAINST STOCK SALESMAN

Miss Helen Mead Alleged His Charge of Theft Caused Her to Lose Job.

A judgment by defaut was rendered by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday for $3000 in favor of Miss Helen Mead, 2807A Accomac street, against William Craddock of Dallas, Tex., an oil stock salesman.

She alleged that on May 22, 1929, when Craddock was a guest at Hotel Jefferson, he accused her of taking $50 belonging to him, causing her to be discharged from her position as night telephone operator at the hotel.

Miss Mead declared the charge was false. She sued for $7000. Craddock filed a demurrer, which was overruled. When the case was called he failed to respond and trial proceeded without him.

Amtorg Manager Leaves U. S.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Labor Department was notified today that Feodor M. Zyavkin, general manager in this country of Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, sailed for Russia yesterday. Zyavkin had been ordered to leave the country, his visitor's permit having expired last January. A renewal of the permit was denied by Secretary of Labor Doak several weeks ago because Zyavkin changed his occupation after coming here.

JAPANESE TO START FLIGHT ACROSS PACIFIC TOMORROW

Pilot to Attempt Air Journey Over Northern Route and Follow Alaskan Coast.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2—Retsu Kiyosawa, representative here of the Japanese newspaper Hochi Shimbun, said today he received word from Tokio that Seiji Yoshiwara will start an attempt to fly across the North Pacific Monday.

Yoshiwara, 27-year-old pilot, plans to follow the coast line of Alaska part way, reaching here in about three weeks. Kiyosawa sailed today for Alaska to make advance arrangements there for the flyer. He will go as far west as Seward.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, Irish co-pilot of the airplane Bremen, announced tonight he would take off June 15 for Europe with a pay load of letters and packages. He will leave New York in his new plane and will make stops in Newfoundland, Dublin and London before reaching the continent. The companion of Capt. Koehl and the late Baron von Huenfeld in flying across the Atlantic in April, 1928, will be accompanied by A. S. Stanford Jr., former naval officer.

Reports $17,500 Jewel Holdup.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—Mrs. Anna Bink, New York, reported to police that two well-dressed men robbed her late today of $17,750 in jewels at the apartment of her sister, Mrs. Charles L. Lewis.

SAFEST WOMAN DRIVER WINS CONTEST WITH SCORE OF 93

Mrs. William Schultz to Get Cup; Parking and Obstacle Events Prove Hardest.

Mrs. William F. A. Schultz, 7117 Lindell boulevard, won the St. Louis Safety Council cup in the tenth annual Women's Safe Drivers' Contest yesterday. She scored 93 points out of a possible 100, failing only in parking and shifting gears in climbing Art Hill.

Mrs. M. E. Froesel, Ellisville, Mo., was second with 92 points and Mrs. W. E. Walker, 1037 Irma avenue, University City, was third. Mrs. Schultz recently won the written examination contest of the Women's Safe Drivers' School with a percentage of 98.

Parking and driving through obstacles proved the most difficult events. The obstacles were 20 lightweight barrels so arranged that the drivers had to wind through them as through a maze. There were five other main events. Driving in traffic, driving up and down Art Hill, braking tests, complete inspection of cars, and backing into and out of a garage.

Mrs. Ruth Kelso Renfrow, chairman of the drivers' school, said that at the close of the lecture course there were 228 women qualified to take the written examination. Of the 139 women who took the test, 95 made grades of 70 per cent or more.

PROF. STEPHENS' WIFE DIES

Succumbs to Cerebral Hemorrhage; Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs Marie Stephens 5863 Bartmer avenue, wife of Eugene Stephens, assistant professor of mathematics at Washington University, died of a cerebral hemorrhage last night at St. Luke's Hospital. She was 50 years old.

Funeral services will be held at West Presbyterian Church, Maple and Maryville avenues, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Besides her husband a son, William, survives.

Back on the job... without a worry about bills

FOR millions of families, it has been all outgo and no income for a long time.

◆ To many of them, the welcome sight of the first pay check will be clouded by the realization that it can't begin to satisfy the demands of insistent collectors.

◆ Stretch their incomes as they may, it will be months before they can get caught up on the bills contracted during unemployment.

◆ These months need not be harrassing months of worry, of credit destroyed, of putting off merchants from pay day to pay day.

◆ Such times of stress as these demonstrate the wisdom of the laws of those states that provide for family finance companies.

◆ To them families may go, secure the funds to pay their bills at once, and repay the loan in small monthly installments.

◆ Foremost of these companies is the Household organization, serving more than 330,000 families last year. Without asking for co-makers or endorsers, without requiring bankable collateral, it lends $100 to $300 largely on the integrity and "going value" of the borrower.

◆ Household charges only the low rate of 2½% per month fixed by law in this state. There are no fines or extra charges for anything. Up to twenty months to repay.

◆ More, Household helps the family budget its pay check to work out of debt as promptly as possible.

—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

New Booklet Explains Facts That Every Person Should Know

It is one of the most authoritative booklets ever written on the disease of inebriety and its cure. It is based on fifty years' experience, embracing the treatment of more than 400,000 patients, including men and women from all walks of life. The booklet is free. Simply write and ask for it.

Beer Seized in Deacon's Home.

By the Associated Press.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 2.—When officers raided the home of Deacon Mose Crenshaw, self-termed "pillar" of the African church here, last night, they found 100 bottles of home brew and 30 gallons of mash. The Negro bitterly objected to being arrested, explaining he was making beer for "sacramental purposes."

INDICTED UNIVERSITY CITY EX-OFFICIAL FURNISHES BOND

Ewart B. Colby, Former City Clerk, Is Accused of Bribery.

Ewart B. Colby, former City Clerk of University City, surrendered at Clayton yesterday on an indictment returned by the St. Louis County grand jury Friday charging him with bribery. He furnished $15,000 bond returnable May 18.

The charge against Colby grew out of the accusation of Steve Solarano, a saloon keeper, that Colby had demanded sums ranging from $300 to $500 a year since 1926 for issuing him a license. Solarano handed over $100 to Colby in a drug store while Chief of Police Ward and John Vogler, then an Alderman, looked on. Colby's explanation was that the money was a refund on inferior whiskey he had purchased from Solarano.

Colby was dismissed as City Clerk two years ago after Solarano brought the charges.

TEST OF BULLETS SHOWS ROBBER KILLED BYSTANDER

Firearms Expert of Police Department in Report to Chief Gerk Exonerates Nine Officers.

The bullet which killed Clarence S. Cundiff at Eighth and Market streets during Wednesday's downtown street fight was fired by the fugitive robber and not by a policeman, Thomas Lewis, firearms expert of the Police Department, concluded in a report to Chief of Police Gerk yesterday.

Lewis had examined each of the service revolvers used by the nine policemen who engaged in the chase during which more than 50 shots were fired.

Each of the revolvers was discharged into a barrel of water and compared with the bullet taken from the young civil engineer's body by means of the comparograph, a device which records fine markings on a bullet, and, it is claimed, identifies the revolver from which a bullet is fired.

The bullet which killed Cundiff was marked differently than any of the bullets fired in the test, Lewis reported, and, therefore, must have been fired by the fleeing robber, who was shooting wildly at his pursuers with two automatic pistols.

The finding corroborates the testimony of two witnesses who said they saw the robber shoot Cundiff and the inquest verdict that he was killed by a "bullet fired from a gun in the hands of an unknown bandit."

"The tests prove beyond doubt that the shot was fired by the robber," Chief Gerk said. "In spite of the verdict and the testimony, I ordered the tests made not only to satisfy myself, but to put at ease the minds of all the officers engaged in the unfortunate battle.

"The mechanical comparograph eliminates beyond a question of doubt the element of the human mind. What we want to do now is catch up with the robber and his accomplice. Apparently both were shot and are hiding somewhere recovering from their wounds."

BROKERAGE FIRM ORDERED TO RETURN $30,000 BONDS

Reinhold & Gardner Must Surrender Securities Indicted Banker Gave as Collateral.

An order was entered by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesturday for the return of $30,000 in bonds, taken from the Southern Illinois Trust Co. of East St. Louis by its former secretary and treasurer, Willard J. Stailey.

The bonds had been deposited by Stailey with the St. Louis investment firm of Reinhold & Gardner as collateral on personal loans, the securities being the property of the bank. They were deposited in the name of E. A. Culvey, 736 North Twenty-fourth street, East St. Louis, a druggist. Culvey testified in a deposition the bonds were not his property, and that he had no knowledge of the existence of the account, not having authorized Stailey to use his name.

Stailey, in a deposition, admitted he had two accounts with the investment firm, one being in his own name and the other in Culvey's, but Culvey, he said, had no interest in the property. He admitted the securities belonged to the trust company.

The court order was made as a result of a settlement by which Reinhold & Gardner receive $8913 with interest, upon payment of which they shall deliver the bonds to the owner. Stailey was indicted April 21 at Belleville on a charge of embezzling $67,000 from the trust company by forgery.

JUDGE RESERVES DECISION ON VAUGHAN DIVORCE SUIT

Orders Two Small Children of De Soto Dairyman and Wife Brought Into Court Tomorrow.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Genevieve Vaughan, 2757 Accomac street, against Chauncey J. Vaughan, a dairyman of De Soto, Mo., was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun, who indicated he would render a decision in the case tomorrow.

He ordered the two small children of the pair to be brought into court at that time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan are asking for custody of the children, who recently were placed in the home of Vaughan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vaughan of De Soto, under a court order.

A suit for $50,000 for alleged alienation of affections has been filed by Mrs. Vaughan against her husband's parents, and is now pending in Circuit Court. William Vaughan is a former Prosecuting Attorney of Linn County.

Both Vaughan and his wife charged general indignities. Mrs. Vaughan testified her husband was frequently intoxicated, failed to support her and mistreated her. Vaughan's counsel presented testimony that Mrs. Vaughan associated with a dance hall proprietor here.

St. Louis W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The May meeting of the St. Louis W. C. T. U. will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Luccock Lodge, 3628 Delmar boulevard. P. A. Tate, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, will speak.

ARMY PILOT SHOT TO DEATH

Lieut. Berry's Body Found in Auto Near San Antonio, Tex.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 2.—Lieut. John C. Berry, an airplane pilot, of Brooks Field, was found shot to death in his parked automobile early today on a lonely road near the county poor farm. An automatic service pistol lay on the seat beside him. He had been shot twice through the heart. The fact that one of the empty shells was found inside the car and another outside, led police to suspect he had been murdered.

Berry's home was in Willow Springs, S. D. He was graduated from West Point three years ago.

Birth of New Spanish Republic, Fade-Out of Bourbon Monarchy, As Seen by St. Louis Observer

Calmness of People During the Change Impresses Visitor—Alfonso Probably the Worst Informed Man in Country as to What Was Coming.

By Elizabeth Lord Dreimeyer.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, April 14, 1931.

WE arrived here on the evening of election day. Municipal elections were held throughout the country—the first in eight years. The results didn't come out until last night, papers not being printed on Sunday or Monday, and since then no one talks of anything else. You have, of course, read the results, an astonishing Republican majority throughout all of Spain. Burgos, Cadiz and Pomplona were the only towns of any size to return monarchist candidates, and a few of the little villages, but even they went Republican in most cases. In Madrid there were some 90,000 Republicans to 30,000 Monarchists, a majority of 60,000.

We talked with some of the people around the hotel last night, and the most interesting thing about their reaction is their calmness. They all say it's very simple —we'll have a republic and the King must go. One of them told us he should have done so long ago. We think of Spain as so feudal and hidebound, and here they are apparently having a civil, but pacific, revolution, turning out their King and setting up a republic; and all as calmly as we might decide to have lamb instead of baked beans for dinner.

A Spanish friend says the rumor is that the King has already left the country. He says the people are very dissatisfied with him because he gave De Rivera a free hand to ruin the country. It's only 15 days since strict censorship of the press and of speech was lifted. And formerly if 20 people gathered together, for dinner for example, they had to get a permit. Assembly was not allowed, and so the people didn't know what was going on. He suppressed the artillery corps, which was the cream of the army, because they were known to be rebellious, which made them more so. My friend says it's too late now for Alfonso to grant a constitutional monarchy—he's just out! Even six months ago was too late. He'll probably go to England and join the King of Portugal at the Retired Monarch's Club. He says the people say "what right has the King to such power? And what right have any of his sons to rule us when they aren't even healthy?" Two of them have hemophilia (transmitted to males by their mothers). The people blame the Queen, who came from Battenburg—a niece of George V—for that. The eldest and heir, Prince of the Asturias, is very ill; lives with his doctor; didn't use to be able to walk even. The whole family is inbred. It goes back to Ferdinand and Isabella, who did even worse things for posterity than make life hard for Columbus.

Alfonso Poorly Informed.

Anyway, it's all very interesting, and my friend says there's no danger of a revolution with heads flying in all directions, so we may be allowed to keep ours. Last night, in Madrid, there was a republican manifestation and the police and gendarmes are reported to have joined the side of the republicans —a few people wounded but rather by mistake. Poor Alfonso was, of course, the worst informed person in the country. He never dreamed that such a thing would happen, as most of his informants are, of course, monarchist. It must be a great surprise to him to wake up and find himself as good as gone, though he missed his chance to avoid it and chances don't come twice in this life.

We're leaving tomorrow morning; get to Madrid in the evening; will probably spend the night there and go on to Cordova the next day. Maybe we'll see some fireworks, though probably it will be our luck to be asleep or in another part of town. Friday we'll see Cordova and go on to Seville in the evening. We'll spend two or three days there, then go to Granada and back to Madrid for a week probably.

Later in the day—8 p. m. in fact—but it's still a long way from dinner time. We're back in the land of 10 o'clock dinners. It has certainly been an exciting day. This morning while I was writing to you, F. and M. Arcola, our friends, were having a powwow. They telephoned to Saragossa where are the offices of the railway of Central of Aragon. M. Arcola talked with a railway man there and found that they had declared a general strike there for today, and that tonight there were to be union meetings all over Spain. And if the King resisted and didn't get out, they'd call a general strike and tie up all Spain. So it looked as though we couldn't go on to Madrid; or, if we did, we might not be able to get out of there. F. thought we'd probably have to turn around and go back to Paris—also because you can well imagine that nobody is talking of anything but politics. M. Arcola came by about 4 o'clock this afternoon and announced that the word had come through that the republic had been proclaimed half an hour before—that the King had given his consent.

We walked along the promenade along the bay, and everybody else in San Sebastian was going in the same direction. They all knew the news. It's marvelous how it spread like wildfire. And they were on their way to the prison at the foot of the hill, which guards one side of the entrance to the bay. In the prison were about 14 political prisoners, arrested last December during an anti-monarchist demonstration here in San Sebastian. It was at the same time that Franco, the popular aviator, led a revolt, in Madrid I believe. He later flew to Portugal and escaped and has since been in Paris. It was at the same time of the activity of the two officers who were court-martialed and shot, and they are now national heroes. Anyway, they had a private revolt here, local, I should say, because it was arranged to take place at the same time as the others. One of those arrested was a young doctor of a well known family here, who cut the telephone cable the night before so that San Sebastian would be isolated and they would not be interfered with.

Red Flowers on Prison Bars.

We got down to the prison where there was a large but orderly crowd, expecting every minute that the prisoners would be released. M. Arcola pointed out the brother and sister of the young doctor, but most of the crowd was "of the people." Lots of women, many with babies in tow, in their arms or pushing baby carriages, lots of young men in their berets. On the bars of one of the prison windows was tied some red flowers, showing him to be a republican. A group of people were in the street talking to one of the prisoners behind bars about three floors up, and behind the walls encircling the prison. At the door of the prison were half a dozen soldiers, and on the wall, overlooking the inner court, were others. M. Arcola thought they would not be released immediately, so we continued on our way.

We took the funicular up the hill; on the top is a nice casino, though not open as yet—or most of it not running. But upon the hill you can get a magnificent view of the bay, the town, the shore line in both directions, with its succession of bays and promontories. The small hills behind the town, range on range, carpeted in green, and dotted with tiny villages or farm houses, and a chateau now and then until they become higher and higher. The mountains beyond are the Pyrenees. And on the other side you look out on the blue Bay of Biscay—a marvelous view and a beautiful countryside. It must be a great place in the summertime when it is full of people and gaiety at its height.

The King has a chateau here along the promenade and a little higher than the road, not very imposing, set in a nice park. His mother, Marie Christina of Austria, bought it, and now it's his private property. She was very popular—the Regent during his youth. There's a statue of her along the promenade. She must have been a daughter of Franz Josef. She died only three or four years ago, and they say that when De Rivera took control she told the King he didn't know what he was doing to allow that to happen. She foresaw that it was a false step and she's been proven right.

Crowd Willing to Wait.

After a long look at the fine view we came down again and passed the prison. One young chap behind bars was shouting to a group of people below that he would be released in two hours. We went around to the front where the crowd was still waiting, and soon a young man came out on a second floor roof and addressed the crowd. He said the Republic was being organized in Madrid and orders were being prepared for the release of the prisoners. He said it was necessary to preserve absolute calm and order, and that the release must take place lawfully; also, that they would be let free in two hours, about 8 o'clock. He is a young lawyer, a Republican elected the other day. The crowd cheered him and turned around and walked back toward the town. They probably all went back at 8, but they seemed satisfied to wait till then, as though it appealed to them as reasonable. We walked back with the crowd; they all seemed pleased but perfectly orderly. We didn't see any signs of roughness. They were all in high good humor, very talkative.

All the cars carry flags or streamers of the Republican colors —purple, yellow and red—and many of the people had on bits of the colors; or often just red. They had used anything red they could find for decoration. In some of the cars were groups of young men who passed shouting or singing. A group of little boys came marching along shouting—aged 5 to 8 perhaps—and having no idea what it was all about probably. Behind were some bigger boys carrying a Republican flag. We passed them inside a short tunnel through which the road passed—part of the King's grounds stretches above—and the shouts resounded as though there had been ten times as many small boys.

Newspaper sellers appeared with the latest editions and were swamped with clients, everybody rushing to read the latest news. On the beach somebody had written in huge letters, "Vive Galan and Garcia Hernandez." They were the two rebels who were shot and it has been bitterly resented. Everybody is more or less in holiday mood. Madrid is reported to be quiet. Zamorra, who signed the proclamation of the republic, is to be provisional president, not an easy job. Arcola says at the border this morning somebody reported passing some royal automobiles with human freight, and the evening papers say they are preparing the royal railway carriage, evidently to transport Alfonso out of the country. We've decided to go to Madrid tomorrow morning. Arcola doesn't think there's any degree of trouble because everybody is satisfied. Street fighting was reported there—in Madrid—this morning, but this evening report has it that all is quiet.

It's really amazing, the quiet and calm that reigns, here at least. They are passing through a momentous change in their history, but taking it very well. Freddie and Arcola went to the station to see about tickets. F. just came in and says there are a couple of bands and a crowd of people not far away. A man comes out on a balcony and says, "Vive the Spanish Republic!" The crowd answers, "Vive the Spanish Republic!" Then the band plays the Marseillaise. Not long ago a group of people passed here singing the same song lustily. It doesn't seem to matter that its French and they're Spanish. It's the song of liberty and certainly to celebrate a new-born republic you need a good stirring melody like that.

A Triumphal Procession.

EN ROUTE, THE NEXT DAY, April 15.

LAST night we were told that the King had already left Madrid with his family on the royal train; that they would pass through San Sebastian on their way to the French border. A program came over the radio broadcast from London saying they believed he had abdicated, but it hasn't been officially announced. After dinner, about 10:30, a crowd went past the hotel, singing and shouting. We learned this morning that they were escorting the newly released prisoners home from jail. M. Arcola said they announced last night that the orders hadn't come through and probably wouldn't until morning or late at night. At 9:30 they arrived, it was announced, and the people in the streets who knew about it went to the prison. But the crowd wasn't as big as it would have been otherwise.

Arcola told us at the train this morning that it had been understood at 4 p. m. yesterday that the King would abdicate. He signed the necessary papers at 6:30 and gave them to Aznar, who gave them to Zamorra. But he's not on his way to France; he left by motor for Cartagena to board a boat, presumably a British boat. At the station this morning there was quite a crowd. My friend pointed out the young doctor just released, who was the center of an admiring throng, and he found out that the train we were to catch was carrying several prominent Socialists who had been exiled in December, and who have now been named ministers of the new Government. Prieto is the best known one, and while we waited for the train another came in — going the other way. The baggageman had a big Republican flag — Everybody cheered and one man even kissed it.

When our train came in, there was great excitement, waving of flags, cheering, clapping. The train was crowded and we had trouble finding seats but we managed to get on. And, believe me, bringing Caesar home from Gaul could not have been any more of a triumphal procession than we have had today. At every town where the train stopped the station was crowded. There was much clapping, shouting and flag waving. The bigger towns had bands which played the Marseillaise, and the new ministers made speeches to the crowds at every place. There were lots of English on the train at San Sebastian.

Shots Fired Into the Air.

During lunch the train stopped. One young Englishman came through on is way out and another said, "What is he going to promise them this time?" So perhaps he (Prieto) has been painting a rosy picture to the crowds, with the millennium just around the corner. The delegation is five or six cars behind us, so we can't hear the speeches and would not understand anyway.

These great crowds are made up

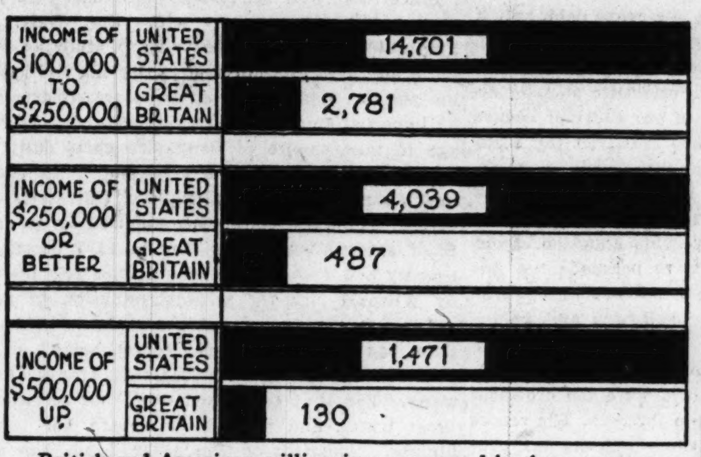
America's Big Incomes Are Lightly Taxed Compared With What British Wealth Pays

Millionaires Reporting Incomes of Almost Three Billion Dollars, in This Country, Paid Into the Treasury in 1930 a Tax of $427,000,000 While If They Had Lived in Great Britain Nearly Half That Income, or $1,280,000,000, Would Have Been Claimed by the Government.



British and American millionaires, compared in three groups, according to their incomes.

By Charles G. Ross.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2.

WHEN it comes to paying taxes, American millionaires may count themselves lucky that they don't live in Great Britain—and the same is true with respect to American income taxpayers of all degrees, from the highest to the lowest.

Receipt by the American Treasury of the annual report of His Majesty's Commissioners of Inland Revenue, for the year ended March 31, 1930, has enabled some interesting comparisons to be made of the tax rates in the two countries. The report corresponds to the annual Statistics of Income of the United States.

Great Britain (meaning in this connection England, Scotland and Northern Ireland) had in the period under review 487 persons with incomes of $250,000 or better. The comparable class in the United States, for the calendar year 1929, the latest for which detailed statistics are available, numbered 4039.

That is to say, population considered, the United States had about three times as many "millionaires," in the British definition of that term, as Great Britain. To be more exact, the British had one "millionaire" in about every 92,000 of population (estimated at 45,000,000), while we had one in about every 30,000 of population (estimated at 120,000,000).

Defining a Millionaire.

In the United States, we commonly regard as a millionaire anyone with a net taxable income of $100,000. There were 2781 in that category in Great Britain, or one in every 16,000 of population, as against 14,701 (preliminary estimate) in the United States, or one in every 8000 of population.

At the top of the heap in Great Britain there were 130 persons with incomes of $500,000 and upward. Their average income was $930,000. In the United States there were 1471 in this group, with an average income of $1,250,000.

The total income of 1471 was $1,848,585,793, on which they paid a tax of $291,337,965, or less than 16 per cent. If they had been assessed at the British rates, they would have paid a tax of about 48 per cent, or approximately $900,000,000. The difference is almost the amount of the estimated $700,000,000 deficit of the United States Treasury for the current fiscal year.

British surtax rates begin at $10,000 and run to 48.33 per cent on incomes of $750,000 and upward. Ours begin at the same amount of income, but stop with a maximum rate of 20 per cent on all amounts over $100,000.

The aggregate net income in the American class from $250,000 to $500,000 was $880,911,978, on which the tax was $135,966,902, or less than 16 per cent. In Great Britain the tax would have been over 44 per cent, or about $393,000,000.

The aggregate net income in the American class from $500,000 to $750,000, was $414,394,453, on which the tax was $66,130,633, or 16 per cent. In Great Britain, the tax would have been about 47 per cent, or $195,000,000.

Thrice as Much in England.

The aggregate net income in the American class from $750,000 upward was $1,434,191,340, on which the tax was $225,177,332, or less than 16 per cent. In Great Britain the tax would have been about 48.33 per cent, or $693,000,000.

Consolidating these three classes, which embrace all incomes of $250,000 and upward, we find that the total tax paid in the United States was $427,304,867, whereas if the same incomes had been taxed in Great Britain the yield would have been about $1,280,000,000. The difference between what was collected on the 4039 incomes affected and what would have been collected in Great Britain would wipe out the current Treasury deficit in this country and leave $150,000,000 to spare.

The great fortunes in the United States average much larger than the great fortunes in the United Kingdom. Whereas the average income of the British "millionaire" (using that term again in its British meaning) was $489,248, the average in the corresponding American bracket was $675,291. Going up a step, the average income of the British taxpayers having better than $500,000 a year was, as we have seen, $930,000, as compared with $1,250,000 in the corresponding bracket in this country. So if the United States should take practically one-half of the incomes of this size, as Great Britain does, the taxpayer would have left more than $625,000 annual income, as compared with some $470,000 retained by the average of the 130 British top taxpayers.

Income of Ten Million.

There are 36 taxpayers in the United States (preliminary statistics for 1929) with an aggregate net taxable income of $350,358,765, or an average of nearly $10,000,000 each. They could pay taxes at the British rates and still have left, over and above their capital investments, an income of some $5,000,000 a year each.

The total net income of these 36 persons was nearly three times as great as the total net income—about $121,000,000—of the 130 highest taxpayers in Great Britain.

To make the comparison in another way: The 130 at the top of the income tax scale in Great Britain had net income of $121,000,000. The 130 at the top of the scale in the United States had net income of about $648,000,000, or practically 5½ times as much as their "opposite numbers" in Great Britain. The 130 Britishers had left after taxation some $65,000,000; the 130 Americans had left about $544,000,000. Taxed at the British rate of 48 per cent, the Americans would have had left $337,000,000, or nearly three times as much as the 130 Britishers had without taxation.

It is not only the rich who are taxed much more heavily in Great Britain than in the United States. Both those at the bottom of the scale and those in the middle brackets pay rates to the King's collectors that make the American rates seem paltry.

The bottom in England, moreover, is much farther down than the bottom in this country. We have a personal exemption of $1500 for single persons and $3500 for married persons, with a $400 credit for each dependent under 18. This gives the married man with two children an exemption of $4300. In England, the single person begins paying at $850 if his income is earned and at $700 if it is from investments. The married man with no children begins paying at $1500 on earned income and at $1250 on investment income, and if he has three children he begins at $2500 and $1200 respectively.

In the Lower Bracket.

| Income. | British Tax | U. S. Tax. |
|---|---|---|
| $ 1,500 | $ 12 | nil |
| 2,000 | 52 | nil |
| 2,500 | 92 | nil |
| 3,000 | 156 | nil |
| 3,500 | 236 | nil |
| 4,000 | 316 | $ 5.63 |
| 5,000 | 476 | 16.88 |
| 10,000 | 1,356 | 129.38 |
| 25,000 | 5,347 | 1,359.38 |
| 50,000 | 14,467 | 5,079.38 |
| 75,000 | 24,667 | 10,309.38 |
| 100,000 | 35,467 | 16,259.38 |
| 200,000 | 82,267 | 41,259.38 |

Persons paying Federal income tax in the United States number about 2,500,000, or one in every 50 of the population. With a population of a little more than one-third that of the United States, Great Britain has nearly as many income taxpayers—2,250,000 by the last report—or one in every 20.

Menace of Chaos in Europe Can Only Be Stayed, Says Marx, By Wise Economic Union Now

He Attacks French Attitude Toward Customs Agreement Between Germany and Austria and Calls Briand an "Adaptable Politician."

By Wilhelm Marx.
(Copyright, 1931.)

BERLIN, May 2.

THE present French foreign minister, Aristide Briand, is doubtless the most striking and most interesting personality in public life today. The cabinet positions he has held are innumerable. He is an orator who is always heard with the greatest attention. During the discussion of the League of Nations he proved himself a statesman who invariably recognizes the demands of a situation, adjusts himself to it, and eventually masters it. He does not worry if his opinion is not always the same. Why should other persons have too good a memory? Briand is what one may call an adaptable politician. One leading principal alone dominates unchangingly all his political actions: France's security in the world is the main thing to be striven for. Everything else is subordinate to this ruling idea.

Is this security of France menaced first of all by Germany? Whether Briand himself believes an affirmative answer is in order, is beside the point. Perhaps he asserts the belief because he knows that the majority of Frenchmen unfortunately still credit the fact. This mental attitude of so many of his countrymen is undoubtedly decisive for Briand. It became decisive for him when the idea of the formation of a federation of European states, which naturally was not to be aimed against other continents, appeared to find an ever more favorable reaction on the part of the states participating.

Way to Economic Salvation.

In view of the increase of financial and economic distress among European countries, which has steadily approached more closely to a general catastrophe, European opinion felt that a closer union would open the way to economic—and thus also political—salvation, especially in the states of Central Europe. Briand realized the soundness of this view, but feared at the same time that France's imperialistic and hegemonic strivings might be impaired. And lo! The idea of Pan-Europe, decades old, suddenly became Briand's idea. At the session of the League of Nations in September, 1929, he favored the world with one of his most brilliant orations, and a memorandum pointing out the value of European union was sent to 27 European countries. This union was first of all to be aimed at an understanding regarding economic and financial matters. Earlier, it is true, Briand had placed political understanding in the foreground. Now, however, it seemed more practical to emphasize the economic side. None of the countries approached rejected the plan.

What has become of it? Most countries in Europe, but especially Germany and Austria, see the danger of an economic collapse coming steadily nearer. The Bolshevist monster in the East reaches out his claws over more menacingly. Bolshevist secret agents working like moles undermine ordered government, and not merely in Europe. And in the face of this gigantic danger, how is the Pan-Europe question being dealt with? Like many other lofty plans of the League of Nations, it is occupying the time of a great number of committees and subcommittees. The commissions will in May perhaps report to the Council of the League how it is proposed to go about the task of creating a Pan-European compact.

Briand feels easier. It is true that some countries accepted the memorandum with strong suspicions, and have answered it with sweeping reservations. Italy has spoken with especial sharpness concerning certain tendencies toward hegemony. But Briand remains unworried. He will master the situation.

The Customs Union.

But what have we here? Suddenly Germany and Austria appear on the scene, with the intention of creating a customs union of the two countries. This looks as if serious intentions are cherished of bringing about also a political union of Germany and Austria. But this must not be, in any circumstance. Briand's peace of mind is shattered. The Foreign Office in Paris exhibits an activity not observed for a long time past. It realizes that open opposition would not be practical. A first trial is made with the assertion that such a treaty is contrary to the treaties of peace, and especially the Geneva protocol of Oct. 4, 1922, signed by Austria, England, France, Italy and Czecho-Slovakia. But the attacking party itself feels that his alleged puristic position is extremely weak. Quite apart from the fact that it has nothing to do with Germany because Germany did not sign the protocol, no vulnerable point of attack against Austria can be found. In this protocol, Austria merely obligated herself "not to surrender her independence; she will refrain from every action and every economic or financial obligation which could be adapted to prejudice this independence, either directly or indirectly." Austria was also expressly empowered to conclude commercial and customs treaties with other countries, but she may not "grant any state any special system or exclusive preferences adapted to endanger this independence."

But nothing of the kind is contemplated by either of these states. At the September meeting of the League of Nations in 1930, Dr. Schober, the Austrian Vice-Chancellor, pointed out that a better organization of Europe's whole economic life must begin with regional understandings. The treaty under consideration carries out that idea. As both Governments have declared they are ready to "enter into negotiations concerning the same kind of an arrangement with any European country willing to do so." But the "basis of all negotiations is the preservation of the complete sovereignty and independence of the countries in question."

A Preliminary Treaty.

What we have here is a preliminary treaty which contains details for a customs union treaty to be concluded later. Hence, although no juristic objections to such a treaty can tenably be advanced, the two countries have nevertheless declared their willingness to accept England's proposal that the legal permissibility of the proposed treaty shall be again considered at the session of the League of Nations in May. Both countries naturally reject most decisively any political consideration or criticism of the treaty. They are sovereign and not subject to the political decisions of other nations.

But Briand has a second iron in the fire. He immediately gets in touch with Poland and the States of the Little Entente, in order to forge with them his plan of opposition, which is to block the way for any extension of the German-Austrian agreement. This plan will create difficulties even for the statesmanship of a Briand. In any event, he will not be in a position to prevent the two contracting countries from carrying out their arrangement, which is so advantageous for their economic situation.

But quite apart from this, a question presents itself here which is of decisive importance not merely for France and the two contracting parties, nor even alone for other European states, but in the last analysis for the whole civilized world. It is this: How long will creditor nations suffer this damaging conduct on the part of France, which desires in every way to place hindrances in the path of the conquered states, now coming ever nearer to economic collapse in their steadily increasing struggle for existence? Is it not realized that the economic and financial collapse of Germany and Austria would make those countries welcome booty for Bolshevist revolutionary plans? Through their customs union these two countries desire only to do their part in giving a strong impulse to the idea of an economic union of European countries. There is nothing to prevent those other countries from joining the customs union thus formed. It is a way, and just now the only way, to ward off the catastrophic consequences of the economic collapse in Europe generally. Ever and again a solemn warning must go out to all concerned:

The situation is one of the gravest danger. Unless economic wisdom can gain an early victory over French narrow-mindedness, the menace of European chaos, whose consequences are unforeseeable, becomes ever more real and urgent.

Why Farmers Cannot Buy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT is evident that normal prosperity cannot return until normal buying is resumed.

Obviously, then, it should be our business to hasten the return by removing every obstacle which now stands in the pathway of progress.

No mention need be made of the many minor obstructions, because by the removal of one great obstacle, namely, inequality in prices, and the adjustment of another, namely, tariffs, we should eliminate almost all other bad features which seem to make it unattractive for buyers to return into the markets.

Tariffs are a subject of international concern, the proper adjustment of which will have profound bearing on curing the present world-wide depression; but for the present we should interest ourselves in the question of attracting domestic buyers.

There are 30,000,000 people in the United States who are directly dependent upon agriculture.

Most of them are out of the market because they have no surplus money with which to buy. A few of them, who are still able to buy, are not doing so because they are alarmed at conditions and are saving their surplus money for future needs; but all of them are victims of price inequality, and if you would ask them to state their reason for not buying you would hear something like this: "We receive too little for our services and our products in comparison to the prices we have to pay for everything we are expected to buy."

Starting in 1909 and letting the index of farm prices and retail prices each start at 100, we find that in 1919 farm prices advanced to 209 and retail prices to 205. This gave agriculture the advantage, but by the end of 1921 farm prices had declined to 116 and retail prices to 156. Since that time farmers have been at a disadvantage of from 8 to 25 per cent until March 1, 1931, when farm prices crumbled to 90 and retail prices dropped only to 137, putting the farmer upon a basis of only 66 per cent of the 1909 level.

Since the depression of 1921 much has been said about farm relief, and since 1929 much has been done in an attempt artificially to boost prices on farm products, or at least stabilize them. The results obtained have indicated that permanent relief cannot be secured in that way.

Obviously, then, permanent relief lies in the other direction, and that is in the reduction of wholesale and retail prices to a level which will put agriculture back upon a fair basis of exchange values, and thus bring back into the market the enormous buying power which has so long been withheld.

If wholesalers, retailers and manufacturers want normal prosperity back quickly and permanently they might have it, because the solution seems to lie entirely in their hands.

A price level needs adjustment that makes it necessary for us to trade two bushels of rye for a package of cigarettes, five bushels of barley for a pair of socks, 12 bushels of wheat for a pair of shoes, 800 bushels of rye for a common farm mower and 10,000 bushels of rye for an ordinary automobile.

When industry finds that it can operate again upon a lower price level, we can set about to readjust our tariff schedules, because industry will find it unnecessary to have an exceedingly high tariff for the protection of a much lower price structure, and by revising tariffs downward we will make friends again with another good old buyer, our foreign customer. ### A Chance to Try the Hare System.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE the next delegation of Missouri Representatives to Washington will probably be elected at large, the occasion will be a good one to try to hold the election according to the Hare system of proportional representation, which calls for election at large as one of its requisites.

Any other at-large election will result in absolutely no representation for the minority, as experience with St. Louis Aldermen teaches. The Hare system will result in fair representation to all large groups, will obviate expensive primaries, will advertise Missouri as the scene of a great political experiment, and will be obviously fairer than either our present method or the absurdity of an at-large election.

The Irish Free State elects its national representative body thus and the result is that today it has the oldest elected ministry in the world and the most liberal representation of minorities.

Missouri could vote to try the next election by the Hare system, and provide that it will not be continued unless it is then passed by a State-wide referendum which could be held a few months after the trial Hare election. This would give people a chance to judge it in action.

EDWARD DOWLING.

A GOOD LEGISLATURE.

The Legislature has made a good record in its long, laborious session. Final adjournment will not be taken until June 2, by which date it expects to have concluded the impeachment trial of State Treasurer Brunk. Its work, however, has been completed.

The high light of the session was, of course, passage of the tax bill which will enable Missouri to provide for its institutional needs, and the school bill which will open the way to approximate equality of educational opportunity for all the children of the State. Highway patrol, the placing of truck operation under State regulation, generous provision for crippled children, all come under the head of good legislation. So, too, does the amendment reducing the possession of liquor from a heinous crime, with felonious punishment, to a misdemeanor. And for the repeal of the Ralph sewer law the people of St. Louis County, and the city, too, will remember the Fifty-sixth General Assembly with gratitude.

There were things left undone, to be sure. Failure to pass the driver's license bill is a grave debit which will continue to be a lasting legislative obligation until met. Thoughtful opinion also regrets that the judicial council bill—a studied, scientific plan for accomplishing necessary reform of our court procedure—was not passed. The failure to redistrict the State congressionally imposes upon the people a costly political confusion, the full import of which the leaders of both parties, we fear, do not appreciate. There is still time to retrieve this omission. Enormously difficult as it may be to persuade the Assembly to discharge this piece of unfinished business, the effort should be made and Senate and House should, if possible, be morally drafted to the service.

The experience of the session should be illuminating to our officialdom. The days were too crowded. That condition should have been foreseen. The report of the State Survey Commission, with its tax proposals, was of itself too big, controversial and vital a subject to be thrust into the calendar of a general session, which, it was known, would have to grapple with the contumacious political task of redistricting, and which was also confronted with the unusual duty of the case of the State Treasurer.

The State Survey Commission completed its canvass in ample time to submit its findings and recommendations to a special session. Had that been done it may well be that the resulting legislation would have been superior to what has been put on the books. And there is little doubt that the record of the general session suffered seriously because of the time and energy which the commission's report exacted. Should a similar situation arise again, the mistake made in this instance should be avoided.

On the whole, however, the Assembly has earned the people's commendation.

FONTAINEBLEAU.

Whether Alfonso goes walking in its forest depths or watches gold fish in a chateau pool or whiles away time among paintings in the palace as he waits in exile for his Spain to call him home, he will be among ghosts of historic centuries. Fontainebleau is full of them. Eight hundred years ago Louis VII of the second crusade broke the wooded peace to build a haven shut off from the pomp of Paris. Francis I, who, as a prisoner after the fierce fight at Pavia, could write his mother, "All is lost except honor," ordered the building of the Cour Ovale. Henry of Navarre and St. Bartholomew's massacre dug the canal. Louis XIII, Louis Philippe and Napoleon III took pride in its primeval beauty. Within the palace's brick walls, Mondaldeschi, an ex-Queen's favorite, was assassinated at her command. In the days of the empire it saw the captivity of a Pope and the abdication of a Bonaparte. It heard Josephine's divorce sentence and the Edict of Nantes. Now wild flowers are pushing up in the forest. Along the Seine artists are at their landscapes and to the north white grape vines are coming out. If Alfonso in his garden listens closely to the spring wind in the trees, now and then he will hear the gentle rustling echo of a page of history turning.

THE BILLBOARD WAR.

Ambassador Dawes, speaking in London, has entered the growing fight against the billboard plague. So contrary is human nature, he said, that the more beautiful or historic a scene, the more certain it is that advertising signs will blossom there unless forbidden by law. Mr. Dawes thus emphasized the esthetic damage, the chief objection to the rash of flamboyant paint and lithographic color that spreads with highway improvement. England has power to curb the billboard, but she acquired it only recently. For some three centuries the opinion of a stodgy Elizabethan Chief Justice prevailed. On the question of protecting a lovely view from defacement, he ruled that this was "a matter only of delight," and "the law does not give an action for things of delight." Not until 1907, when Parliament empowered local authorities to regulate billboards, did "things of delight" take rank with things of property.

France's high tax on billboards checked them only until the advertisers learned to evade the law by posting their signs on houses, walls and fences. Departmental commissions under the Ministry of Fine Arts now have been set up which create protected zones where no billboards are permitted. Heavy penalties enforce the measure.

Esthetic values have had a similar battle in America, where cries of confiscation met every attempt to regulate the billboards. Last June, however, a decision by the Indiana Supreme Court indicated a turn of the tide. Power was given "under a liberalized construction of the general welfare purposes" of the Constitution "to prevent a thing that offends the sense of sight in the same manner as a thing that offends the senses of hearing and smelling." This shows that the country is awakening to see how the beauty of its landscapes is being destroyed by this form of commercial advertising. Every highway suffers from what a Saturday Evening Post writer calls "the scenery wreckers," save where the state has been alert enough to curb the evil.

Mr. Dawes' advice to the British applies with equal or greater force to his own country. The billboard interests are feeling the force of public disapproval, and at several recent conferences with groups of nature conservationists have offered to limit their activities. Courts in this country have upheld the police power of regulating size and location of billboards, and the right of municipalities to exact a license tax. Both matters, incidentally, were ruled upon in cases from St. Louis. With the people thus empowered to rid themselves of the nuisance, they can take action at any time to do so.

SIAM AND THE UNITED STATES.

The average American probably would say that P. T. Barnum was the first to make this country aware of Siam. By importing for his circus the famous joined twins, Eng and Chang, he added to our vocabulary the popular term, Siamese twins, for this phenomenon. And in purchasing a white elephant, which proved to be of so undecided a color that it had to be whitewashed daily to satisfy the public, Barnum helped further in making this country Siam-conscious. However, sober history records our first contact with Siam was long before the showman's heyday. In 1833 an American trade treaty was made with that country, our first with an Asiatic nation, 10 years before the first pact with China and 20 years before Perry opened up Japan.

Since that time, the United States has been prominent in Siam's contacts with the West. King Prajadhipok on his present visit is studying our institutions with the object of conferring the ballot on his people. Many of his advisers are American, and he imported an editor from this country a few years ago to take charge of Bangkok's chief daily. The Rockefeller Foundation has developed an excellent medical school at Chulalongkorn University, and several Siamese hospitals are endowed by Americans. Siam entered the World War in 1917 because this country had done so. She was particularly impressed by Wilson's plea for self-determination of peoples.

There is a reason for this confidence in America. Siam has suffered from the encroachments of European Powers, particularly England, France and Germany. The first two pared down her territories in great tracts, and seriously affronted her national dignity. America, on the other hand, has always been a friend. Soon after the Versailles conference, the unfair treaties were abolished by the work of Francis B. Sayre, President Wilson's son-in-law, who was adviser to the Siamese Foreign Office. But to this day Siam dares not open her undeveloped resources for fear of reprisals from Burma, Indo-China and the Malay States.

Despite our advantages, American trade with Siam is small. Siam's total exports for 1930 were $82,610,000 and her imports $77,013,000. The United States sold only $2,365,000 worth of goods to Siam in that year, and bought only $400,000 worth. In a time when foreign trade is being looked to as a means for reviving our prosperity, here is a fertile field that is being neglected. American business men would do well to make capital of the King's visit in an effort to build up a lucrative trade with this industrious people whose good will we have had for almost a century.

OUR INDUSTRIAL BABEL.

NOW AN ALL-EUROPE CUSTOMS UNION.

Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia, who has consistently denounced the proposed Austro-German customs union, now comes forward with a new and more ambitious proposal. He urges an all-European union. It would deal not only with tariffs, as in the Teutonic scheme, but with agricultural surpluses, industrial production and social legislation. There is no doubt that Benes' pronouncement is inspired by France, where Foreign Minister Briand has been working in a similar direction and has similarly condemned the Austro-German plan. Announcement of a $50,000,000 loan by France to Czecho-Slovakia, made on the same day Benes put forth his proposal, is no coincidence, but part of the strategy whereby France holds her Little Entente in line.

Nevertheless, issued from whatever quarter and for whatever motive, an all-European tariff plan must be acknowledged as a favorable portent on the European horizon. Essentially it accords with the Austro-German project, which included an invitation for all other nations to join. The latter plan has been placed on the agenda of the League Council meeting which opens May 18. Whether approved or not, it will have served its purpose if it sets events in train which lead to a general union.

Europe at last seems to be facing the realities, and to realize the handicaps under which she labors by her labyrinth of tariff walls and her stubborn adherence to national jealousies. The Benes plan may be too ambitious in including fields other than tariff where action is desired. Nevertheless, it includes Russia, and there is reason to believe the Soviet will favor the project. Without the great bulk of that country, no united European action can be successful. Though conceived in France's anti-Teutonic intrigue, there are vast potentialities for good in the Benes suggestion.

A ROAD OF OLD-TIME CHARM.

Not long ago St. Louis was reminded of the beauty of the river bluffs on the Illinois side by the decision of the Principia to locate its new campus at Elsah, on an eminence which commands a fine view of Middle Western natural grandeur. The motoring public stands further to become acquainted with this picturesque chain when Illinois completes the road which will follow the bluffs in their semi-oval sweep away from the river at Alton instate to Collinsville and Belleville and back to the river below Chester. In spring blossom, summer greenery, autumn foliage or winter undress, the ancient wall is a sight to behold. Between it and the present channel lies the agricultural and industrial section, once called the American Bottom and known for its places of historical interest, including the mound builders' metropolis, old Cahokia, an "underground railway" station and the sites of several forts of frontier days. The highway, winding and dipping as it must to follow the bluff edge, will preserve an old-time pike road charm that becomes rarer each year on our straightaway thoroughfares. That alone would be enough to make it a community asset.

Mexicans North of the Rio Grande

Need for cheap, migratory labor has led to great influx of Mexicans into many parts of U. S.; with differences of race and living standards, they create a social problem; group lives as class apart, largely shut off from work other than day labor; tide now diminishing, due to restrictions, but effects will be visible for years.

Paul S. Taylor in the Survey Graphic.

The writer of this article, a professor of sociology at the University of California, has made a three-year survey of Mexican immigration for the Social Science Research Council.

THE Mexicans are here—from California to Pennsylvania, from Texas to Minnesota. They are scattered on isolated sections along our Western railroads in clusters of from two to five families; they are established in colonies in the agricultural West and Southwest which form, in places, from one to two-thirds of the local population. They have penetrated the heart of industrial America; in the Calumet steel region on the southern shore of Lake Michigan they are numbered in thousands; in Eastern industrial centers by hundreds. And they have made Los Angeles the second largest Mexican city in the world. (The 1920 census showed 478,383 persons of Mexican birth in the United States.—Editor).

With the stoppage of European immigration and the increased labor demands of the war, the trickle of Mexican immigrants enlarged to a stream which ran its course for a decade. A large part, probably the majority, of the Mexican population is migratory. It is the most mobile element in our labor supply. It moves in seasonal cycles covering hundreds, even thousands of miles.

The rapid influx of a large laboring class, migratory, prolific, with primitive standards of living, different in race and culture, is bound to disturb the social equilibrium. Whether this disturbance raises "problems" depends upon one's point of view.

There are questions of social equality and race, delicate but insistent. That many Americans in 1931 think in terms of race superiority and inferiority is itself, however, a fact of profound significance to the social and economic status of Mexicans in the United States who are of Indian or Indo-European origin. There is hazing and taunting in the public schools. Later on the race line occasionally bars job promotion. For the most part, the Mexicans keep to themselves the more because of ostracism, instead of hurling themselves in defiance against it.

Migration from south of the Rio Grande is predominantly rural; the Mexican laborers live, on the whole, as a class apart, maintaining a separate domicile and culture. Many factors serve to maintain the class and culture line and to prevent those contacts which might break it down. The coincidence of class, racial and cultural differences combine to maintain a social ostracism, which in turn reinforces and stabilizes the differences upon which it is based. The earlier immigration of impoverished Europeans who congregated in colonies in our large cities, was also largely a labor class movement. The Mexican migration differs in that its distribution is largely rural, and in that it involves strong consciousness of racial difference. Both these differences accentuate the domiciliary and social isolation of the Mexicans. They delay the rapprochement of the two cultures (or the disappearance of one), and retard the blurring of the class line.

American employers of Mexicans have welcomed them as laborers, and done all possible to obtain their admission as immigrants. They have often cared well for their needs. Very often they have been but slightly sensitive to low and irregular earnings, child labor with inferior schooling, and social discriminations to which the Mexicans have been subjected in their communities. Some employers have made genuine and effective efforts to meet the situation. The non-employing groups in the American community have often treated the Mexicans with less consideration than their direct employers. At best, their welcome has generally been as laborers, rather than as people.

Revolution, poverty and the lure of economic opportunity were common factors behind the emigration. Attractions to residence in the United States are discovered. We are told, for example, that although it often is disliked by the men, "the women find out the freedom of the United States is pretty good for them." For the children there are schools and social agencies. Fleeing as so many Mexicans did from ferment and poverty, they have obtained greater security and material benefit at the price of cutting themselves off from the cultural renaissance of their own people at home. Meanwhile they occupy in the United States a role of isolation often stigmatized with inferiority.

The epoch of Mexican mass migration to the United States is now closed. As a result of increasing political pressure for quota limitation and the desire of the Department of State to forestall such statutes which might be regarded by Latin American countries as discriminatory, the Federal Government has diminished the flow of Mexican immigrants to a trickle. Without legislation, but by more stringent enforcement of old legal provisions barring the admission of illiterates, of alien contract laborers, and of persons liable to become public charges, the issuance of immigration visas to natives of Mexico by consular offices has been cut from a monthly average of 4848 for the fiscal year 1927-28 to only 281 for the seven months ending Jan. 31, 1931. The Department of Labor at the same time has effectively increased its efforts to return to Mexico persons illegally in the United States and to strengthen its defenses against surreptitious entry.

The economic depression in the United States has in turn caused the return to Mexico of many immigrants, just as it did in 1921. When business picked up in 1922 and 1923, a new tide set in. Following this depression, however, thousands whose right hitherto to be in the United States rested upon an entry of dubious legality or clear illegality, or whose period of permitted absence from the country will have been overstayed in Mexico, will be unable to qualify for return to the United States under the new standards of law enforcement.

We may well recognize, therefore, the end of the tidal wave of immigration across our southern border. But we need not expect the Mexican population in this country to melt like the snow, as some have thought. The representatives of our two cultures will remain in juxtaposition in large and widespread areas of the United States, with contacts of varying types and degrees of intensity. The stamp of the Mexican migration will be visible for generations.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, May 3.

WERE the question asked around the capital as to what man in Uncle Sam's diplomatic service most nearly approached in appearance and in manner a diplomat, the probable answer would be: "Why, young 'Ted' Marriner, of course."

This 39-year-old man, who for four years has been chief of the division of Western European affairs in the State Department, now is a possible choice for the post of Assistant Secretary of State to succeed William Castle Jr., recently made undersecretary.

His full name is James Theodore Marriner, but it is doubtful if more than a handful of people know it. He is "Ted" to everybody. He is the type one naturally associates with diplomacy and things diplomatic.

TALL, erect, with dark hair and a cropped black mustache, he has an air of distinction. He is immaculately and correctly groomed, whether at his desk looking after routine affairs of his division or entertaining a visiting dignitary.

In conversation he is easy, chooses his words carefully, forms his sentences with skill. One is not surprised to learn that he taught English for two years at Radcliffe College and Harvard; that he holds a Ph. D. degree from the latter. A bachelor, he is greatly in demand socially in Washington.

With the exception of two years as a teacher, diplomacy has been Marriner's career. This period of teaching was sandwiched in while he was working for his master's and Ph. D. degrees at Harvard. Almost immediately thereafter he entered the foreign service.

HIS first assignment to a foreign post was as secretary to Stockholm in 1918. Three years later he went to Bucharest, and in 1923 he returned to Washington for duty at the State Department. In 1926 he was designated as a member of the American delegation to the preparatory commission for the disarmament conference, and in October of the same year went back to foreign duty at Berne as first secretary.

Since 1927 Marriner has been at Washington. He was close to Secretary Stimson at the London naval conference and in the department. He will leave soon, being required by law to see service in the field after service at the State Department, to become counselor of the American Embassy in Paris.

LEADING THE CIVILIZED WORLD.

From the Kansas City Star.

"OUR homicide rate," says the Spectator, insurance journal, "is by far the highest for any civilized country in the world." The journal finds in a survey just published that the rate increased from 5.1 per 100,000 of population in 1900 to 10.9 in 1930. That would mean a total slaughter for last year amounting to more than 13,250. But the country can point to still bigger figures in its annual motor vehicle deaths, now running to 33,500 a year. These figures bespeak an exceptionally high degree of civilization for us. We are moving up all the time, it might be said.

$300,000 FUND FOR EMERGENCY RELIEF RAISED

R. S. Hawes, Chairman, in Statement, Urges Citizens to Continue Donations—Demand Increases.

ARENA SHOW AND PUBLIC APPEAL WON

Fund Now on Hand Expected to Meet Needs of More Than 75,000 Unemployed to About Aug. 1

Announcing that the $300,000 fund for emergency relief in St. Louis had been raised after two months of solicitation, Richard S. Hawes, chairman of the finance division of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, last night issued a statement urging citizens to continue donations to the fund.

"We beg all who are in the process of sending in subscriptions to go on through with it, for the demand for relief is increasing so rapidly that every possible dollar will be needed," Hawes said. "Subscription blanks were sent to 2000 St. Louis industries to enable the employes to contribute. Subscriptions from about 200 have been received."

$600,000 Total for Relief.

The fund now on hand is expected to meet the needs of more than 75,000 unemployed in St. Louis until about Aug. 1. Disbursements of the $300,000 fund will mean a total of $600,000 spent here for emergency relief since last November when $300,000 was appropriated by the Board of Aldermen.

The Citizens' Committee will meet within the next few days to review budgets for the next three months submitted by the eight social agencies through which it is functioning. In addition to providing relief, the committee has been operating an employment bureau and a clothing department.

"We passed our goal by the hardest kind of work," said Hawes' statement. "Business leaders had asked us to conduct a quiet campaign and told us we should have asked for a half million instead of $300,000. Our private effort got a little less than half what we needed.

Played Last Two Cards.

"Then we resorted to regular campaign methods and enlisted the aid of more than 600 men and women in personal solicitation. Finally we played our last two cards, the benefit at The Arena and an appeal to wage earners.

"The committee transmits the thanks of thousands of men, women and children, who are receiving relief, for the gifts, large and small, which are providing them with sustenance. The quarters and half dollars and dollars could not be publicly acknowledged, but without these smaller gifts the effort would have failed.

"It has been the most difficult job of raising money to meet a crisis which those of us in this campaign ever had undertaken. We had expected it to take a week. It has taken two months, and we have had to exert every ounce of energy which could be applied. But we are grateful that St. Louis did not fail us."

400 KANSAS CITY MASONS ON WEEK-END VISIT HERE

Party Comes on Special Train; 4000 St. Louis Members of Order Attend Banquet.

Four hundred members of Masonic organizations in Kansas City arrived in St. Louis last night on a special train for a week-end fraternal visit to members of similar organizations here. Included in the group are William R. Gentry, grand master of the State organization, and Samuel R. Freet, past grand master.

A dinner was held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral attended by more than 4000 Masons in St. Louis, a meeting in the main auditorium afterward. A gavel was presented by the St. Louis Wardens' Club to a like organization in Kansas City.

A program for this morning, which includes attendance at Sunday school at the Third Baptist Church and a tour of the city and St. Louis County, has been arranged. The visitors will leave for Kansas City early this afternoon.

Birth of Republic In Spain as Seen By St. Louisan

of working people—the reason you rarely see well-dressed people among them. They are all good natured and out for a good time and have been perfectly orderly. They fire shots into the air only, fortunately.

Freddie has taken some pictures from the train. They seem to think he's part of the party and like having their pictures taken. At Burgos there was a big crowd, though the town voted monarchist. At Valodolid this afternoon there was an enormous crowd; the train could hardly creep into the station for the people all over the tracks. And as our car passed through the crowd a blind man could have known they were there by the smell. They climbed all over the train and I think somebody got left on the roof. The crowd could not get near the ministers but they had a big time anyway.

They all came into the diner for lunch while we were there, so we got a good look at them. Prieto reminded me somehow of Dr. Baumgartner, though he's neither built like him nor looks like him. He's not the typical Spanish type—a kindly, jovial, intelligent face, with a double chin which has sagged badly, and spectacles. We can't discover whether there are two or three ministers on board—reports differ—but one other we know by sight though not by name.

The train stopped at a station while we were at lunch. The ministers stood up, leaned out and shook hands and smiled. The crowd yelled "Prieto" and "Vive le republic!" It was all very exciting.

Talked to a Swiss at lunch who has lived here 30 years. He thinks Alfonso may be happier outside the royal palace than in it. Says he doesn't get along with his wife; that there's a singer—in Madrid probably—by whom he has had several children, presumably healthier than the royal ones. With the kingdom off his mind he may be allowed to enjoy life.

There is a nice looking man in one compartment who is evidently not sympathetic with the new order. He is not much interested in the demonstrations, and at the last stop—Avila, a charming place with a walled-in monastery, towers, ramparts and all the trappings—our fellow traveler met and embraced an army officer who had enough decorations to make a patchwork quilt. He greeted the officer's family, wife, five children and a nurse or two, but they all kept aloof from the general clamor.

God only knows what it will be like in Madrid when this train pulls in. We probably won't be able to get out of the train, much less a porter, but it has been an experience we can tell to our children, so getting to a hotel later won't be serious. We may stay there in Madrid tomorrow and go to Cordova tomorrow night, just to have a look around.

They say the whole thing has been accomplished without accident or incident, quiet, peacefully and bloodlessly, which is certainly a feat. They don't anticipate any trouble, at least not until the winners get to fighting among themselves, which should take a few weeks. I am afraid their greatest difficulties are ahead rather than behind them; but it's perhaps just as well most of them do not realize it. The leaders and thoughtful observers must know it isn't child's play to make an age-old monarchy into a republic overnight. I don't envy them their task, but for the moment our fellow travelers are veritable Napoleons returning home in triumph, and that will be something to be remembered.

17.7 PCT. OF UNION LABOR IDLE IN APRIL, A. F. OF L. REPORTS

Improvement Not as Rapid as Hoped, but Gains Are Held, Survey Finds.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The employment figures of the American Federation of Labor for April indicate that 17.7 per cent were still out of work or on layoff—probably between 5,500,000 and 6,000,000 wage earners—the organization said today in its monthly business survey.

"Improvement is not as rapid as hoped, but gains are held," the survey said. "In building, water transportation, service industries and trade, employment is better. In metal trades and printing, conditions are not improving."

The survey said the greatest danger now was reaction and loss of confidence.

FIVE CONVICTED OF 8 TRIED FOR FELONIES

Witness in Robbery Trial Gets Two Years for Perjury—Three Acquittals.

Eight persons were charged with felonies in circuit court last week. Five were convicted and three acquitted.

Randall Smith, who participated with another man and a woman in the hold-up of the Stover Candy Co., 305 North Seventh street, last Christmas morning, got 15 years. Willie Whitfield, a Negro who held up Harry Katz, a commission merchant, received a like term and John E. Cowhey, ex-convict, got 10 years for holding up a Kroger store.

A jury convicted John B. Sullivan of perjury, giving him a two-year term. Sullivan testified as a witness in a robbery trial, that the defendant was at a party at the time he was charged with having held up a bus conductor. Despite his testimony the robber was convicted and received three years in the penitentiary.

Arzoria Bundy, a Negro, got a five-year jury sentence for the larceny of $2500 which she caused another Negro to withdraw from a bank.

Those acquitted by juries are: Frank Price, charged with grand larceny; Earl Smith, robbery, and Richard Meyer, establishing a lottery in operating a suit club. Price and Meyer were acquitted by a directed verdict, when demurrers were sustained.

Woman Gets Five Years.

Seven men and a woman received sentences to the penitentiary or to Boonville Reform School for robbery on their pleas of guilty. Frank and Zelather Taylor, Negro brothers, of Chicago, who participated with two others in the holdup of the Easton-Taylor Trust Co., in which more than $6000 was taken, got 20 years. Charles Ray, who held up a restaurant and a taxi driver, got concurrent terms of 12 years, while Dominick Palazzola, who robbed two women in their homes, got concurrent 10 year sentences. Lila Davis, the woman who assisted in the robbery of the Stover Candy Co., received five years in the penitentiary, and Philip Sharamitara, Louis Bornstein and Ervin Kastedt, implicated in robberies, got 10, 5 and 4 years, respectively, in Boonville Reformatory.

Others sentenced to the penitentiary or to Boonville on pleas of guilty are: Herbert Brooks, larceny from person, two years penitentiary; Robert Donovan, manslaughter, five years penitentiary; Arthur Chism, rape two years penitentiary, commuted to Boonville; Edward Arnold, assault, two years penitentiary, paroled to report for two years; Joseph Thomas, larceny of a motor vehicle, two years, and Clarence Johnson, mayhem, two years.

Reduced Sentences.

Persons charged with felonies, but who pleaded guilty and were permitted to take less than penitentiary punishment, are: Edmond Barcher, felonious wounding, $200 and costs; Calvin Moore, malicious destruction of property, 90 days in city workhouse; Julian Harris, larceny of motor vehicle, six months; Harry Price, carrying concealed weapons, eight months; Fred Bing, manslaughter, three months and $100 fine; William Jackson, petit larceny, four months in jail; Gerald A. Sickles, drawing check on bank in which there were no funds, one year, paroled to report for a year; Jess J. Felchlin, petit larceny, $50 and costs; Jesse Houghland, larceny of motor vehicle, six months; Ora L. Foster, manslaughter, six months; Robert Karnes, manslaughter and leaving scene of accident, concurrent terms one year and Jackson W. Campbell, forgery in the fourth degree, six months.

Charges of obtaining money by false pretense against E. T. Robinson and a charge of assault against Garland Garth were dismissed by the Circuit Attorney's Office. The Circuit Attorney's office also entered nolle prosequis in six murder charges and a charge of arson pending against Lewis E. Balson, a University City real estate man, who was one of four men named in indictments growing out of the Buckingham Annex Hotel fire in which seven persons lost their lives. Balson was tried on one of seven murder charges against him and was acquitted by a jury.

900 OF 3500 WOMEN GET JOBS THROUGH RELIEF STATION

Joint Council of Auxiliaries Is Likely to Become Permanent Agency.

More than 3500 women have been registered at the relief station for unemployed women and girls of the Joint Council of Women's Auxiliaries, 3517 Pine street, during the winter and spring, a report of the station shows. More than 900 have been placed in positions.

Plans are under way, according to officers of the organization, to continue through the summer and possibly permanently.

NO STATE INCOME TAX ON JUDGES' SALARIES

Circuit Judge Hamilton Makes Ruling Citing Federal Parallel Decision.

A decision was rendered by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday abating assessments for State income taxes levied upon the salaries of his colleagues—Circuit Judges Wilson A. Taylor, Moses Hartmann and Granville Hogan.

The three Judges had filed suits to determine whether they and other State Judges can be legally required to pay such taxes on their judicial salaries of $5500 a year. The hearing was in the suit of Judge Taylor, it being agreed the action in it would control in the other cases.

Petitioners alleged that their salaries were fixed by law and that to levy an income tax would have the effect of diminishing their compensation during their terms of office, contrary to the State Constitution. The matter was argued several weeks ago before Judge Hamilton, who took it under advisement. His opinion states:

Cites Federal Parallel.

"A provision of the Constitution prescribing that Judges of the Supreme, Appellate and Circuit Courts receiving a salary shall receive such compensation for their services as may be prescribed by law, and that the same shall not be increased or diminished during the period for which they were elected, is substantially the same as that contained in the Federal Constitution with respect to the salaries of Federal Judges. While the language is not identical, the purpose for which the provision was inserted into both Constitutions is founded upon the same principle.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has construed the provision of the Federal Constitution in connection with Federal income taxes in two cases. In both cases that Court, after detailing the history of this provision, reached the conclusion that a tax levied upon the salary of a Federal Judge would, in effect, diminish his compensation and would therefore violate the provision of the Constitution."

The opinion points out that while decisions of the Federal Supreme Court are not binding upon courts in Missouri in construing provisions of the constitution of this State, still they are persuasive; and, if the reasoning employed seems applicable to the provision of the State Constitution under consideration, should be followed.

"Being entirely satisfied with the reasoning of these two Federal cases, and believing that they decide the same point raised here, the court feels constrained to follow the same."—Judg Hamilton said.

Stopped Paying Last Year.

Until last year the three judges in the test suits returned their entire judicial incomes for taxation, but last year they withheld returns on the $5500 a year judicial salaries. Accordingly the Assessor and State Auditor sought to add this amount to the return of each of the three judges which would increase by $55 the amount of the tax bill of each. For 1929 Judge Taylor's return of net income was $13,452.08. Judge Hogan reported $1696, and Judge Hartman $264.

In addition to their judicial salary each St. Louis Circuit Judge received an additional $2500 a year for serving on the Board of Jury Supervisors. This part of their compensation was not involved, it being conceded it was not exempt from the income levy.

It was said that the other local judges, including Judge Hamilton, have made returns on their full salaries, without, however, waiving their rights. Should the decision be upheld on appeal it will apply to salaries of all State judges in courts of record. Former Supreme Judge Fred H. Williams argued the case for the judges, while the defense was represented by Henry H. Stern, Assistant Attorney-General.

CIVIC MUSIC ASSOCIATION NAMES ALMA CUENY MANAGER

Under Reorganization Plan Only Members Will Be Admitted to Its Concerts.

Miss Alma Cueny was appointed secretary manager of the Civic Music Association, succeeding her sister, Miss Elizabeth Cueny, organizer of the association nine years ago, who died recently.

A campaign for members will accompany a reorganization of the association under which it will operate like 200 other leagues in the United States, admitting only members to concerts. Individual tickets will not be sold, and no memberships will be accepted this year after May 25. Membership includes attendance privileges at other cities.

Old Bills of Lading Good.

A bulletin has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce Traffic Bureau advising St. Louis shippers that some out-of-town printing concerns are circulating misleading advertisements, stating that all old bills of lading will have to be scrapped and new forms printed by June 30 to meet new specifications of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Traffic Bureau bulletin points out that no such a requirement has been made and that a shipper may use up any bills he has on hand.

BOTANICAL GARDEN AFLAME WITH TULIPS

Some of 150 Varieties From Holland Are Grown Nowhere Else in U. S.

More than 20,000 tulips are blooming their magnificent best for "Tulip Sunday" today at Shaw's Garden.

Of especial interest to the amateur gardener, 150 varieties, including dozens grown nowhere else in the United States, are massed west of the red brick linnean house at the north side of the garden. They are the gift of the Associated Bulb Growers of Holland.

But long before visitors get that far, they pause before an amazing array of flaming tulip tints on the emerald Washington bent of the entrance plaza. Pink and mauve and amber and bronze run like changeful fire in the tall Darwins about the lily pools.

To the north, under the hawthornes, showing just now Missouri's state flower, are hundreds of retroflex or starry tulips in many colors. Further on, along the south wall of the linnean house are varieties even further from the bell-like shape commonly associated with tulips.

These are "parrot" varieties, with great, fringed flowing petals, in yellow oddly streaked with green and red with slaty streaks as odd. Ordinarily they bloom two weeks later than other types, but the reflected sunlight along that south wall brought them out for Tulip Sunday.

In the western linnean garden, grouped and labeled for the convenience of those seeking guidance in selecting bulbs, are the 150 varieties of breeder, Darwin and cottage tulips from Holland. They range from a delicate pink and a yellow that is barely deeper than cream to the Mephistophelian magenta of "Faust," the nigrosin "Zulo" and a "Bacchus" which might be described as the color of port in a dark cellar.

And there are yet more tulips. Banks of Darwins, mostly in the more delicate shades, line the curving walk that leads on to the Floral Display House, where a May show of indoor flowers will continue until the St. Louis Horticultural Society opens its spring show on the fifteenth.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

Paul Siple Will Be Heard Here Tomorrow Evening at 7:45 O'Clock.

The start of the Spring Boy Scout Court of Honor, which will be held at the Scottish Rite Temple tomorrow evening, has been advanced from 8:15 to 7:45 o'clock, in order to allow the speaker, Eagle Scout Paul Siple, Erie, Pa., ample time to relate his adventures at the South Pole with Commander Byrd. Scout Siple was chosen by Byrd to accompany him on his two-year stay in the Antarctic.

Siple, now a student at Cornell University, will stop at St. Louis on his way to the annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of America at Memphis this week.

More than 850 Scouts, representing the majority of troops in the St. Louis Council, will be eligible for awards at the court, which will present all badges and honors from second-class rank up to Eagle. Ordinarily only the high-rank badges of Star, Life and Eagle Scout are awarded at a Council-wide court, but an exception has been made for this court because of the large number of awards to be presented.

Because of the advance opening, Scouts receiving awards must present themselves at the Southwest front entrance at 7 o'clock, to notify the court of their attendance. Admission to the court will be by invitation only, each eligible Scout having received one invitation for himself and notification that three others might be obtained on application.

Among the awards to be made will be 18 Eagle badges, four Scoutmasters' Keys, and a triple silver palm. This latter, an award rarely made, will be given to Eagle Scoutmaster Joseph Ehrhardt of Troop 166. The Scoutmasters' Keys, presented to leaders who have completed five years of combined training and active troop leadership, will be presented to Scoutmaster Louis F. H. Schmitt of Troop 178, Scoutmaster Raymond A. McCoy of Troop 18, Scoutmaster Eugene Stephens of Troop 5, and Deputy Commissioner George Engleman of the North District.

Scouts from Webster Groves 7 will demonstrate Modern Uses of Electricity, and The Principia band will give a concert.

SCOUT COURSES POSTPONED

Court of Honor Tomorrow Night Is the Reason.

All Bou Scout leadership training courses scheduled for tomorrow evening will be postponed one week because of the council-wide court of honor. The courses will be resumed next Monday evening.

The nature study class on Tuesday will meet as usual, at the Michael School. Dr. C. E. Colgate will talk on astronomy. As this will be the last indoor meeting of the course, a vote will be taken on the time and place for two remaining outdoor hikes.

Washington U. Students' Art.

The annual exhibition of the work of students of the School of Fine Arts of Washington University will be held this year in the galleries of the St. Louis Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard, instead of at the City Art Museum as in previous years. The exhibition will last from May 7 to May 21.

Troop Notes

West District.

A. P. Truex has resigned as scoutmaster of Troop 26, Delmar Baptist Church, to become chairman of the troop committee. He succeeds B. D. Moss, who has moved to Burlington, Ia. Truex will be succeeded by Claude Welch, formerly connected with Troop 60. Scouts served at a Father's and Sons' banquet at the Third Baptist Church Friday evening.

Dr. O. W. Appel, head of the Red Cross Meramec River patrol, spoke to Troop 30 on methods of swimming and life saving at a meeting at the Y. M. H. A. He also demonstrated artificial respiration. Leo Monheimer, who may become an assistant scoutmaster, was introduced. Senior Patrol Leader Elliott Gillerman, who has been ill for some time, attended the meeting. Drilling, games, contests and test passing were held. The troop newspaper, "The Squanto," is now being edited by Melvin Hertzman and Herman Glazer.

Troop 94, St. Barbara's Catholic Church, led the Knights of Columbus parade to the society's annual communion and breakfast. The troop is working on a camparall patrol.

Assistant Scoutmaster Richard Dorian of Troop 128, the Fountain Park Congregational Church, is in the hospital after an emergency appendicitis operation. An overnight hike to Gray's Summit, Mo., was held last week-end. Elimination contests for membership in the troop camparall patrol was started, and a treasure hunt held. The troop visited a shack owned by Troop Gray Summit 1, and attended the Gray's Summit Methodist Sunday school.

The Apache patrol won a first-aid contest staged by Troop 87, United Hebrew Temple, last week. Leonard Gerber is leading in an individual contest, with Melvin Roman, Clarence Roth, Sanford Gad and Meyer Burman close. The winner will receive two weeks at camp. Isadore Lewin has joined the troop.

North District.

Troop 3, Grace Church, held a welcoming celebration for Scoutmaster Simons, who returned last meeting after an illness of several weeks. Work was started on reregistration. William Taylor and John Cruse passed knife and ax tests. Durward Turpin passed first aid, John Ranspott passed signaling and Leo Chapman passed compass. Instructions were given in other tests. Thirteen scouts and two officials were present.

An all-day camp at Jerome, Mo., was held by Troop 103, Elmbank Church, last Sunday. The day was spent passing tests and in a reptile hunt. A number of tortoises, lizards and snakes were captured. The prize of the day, a six-foot pilot blacksnake, will be given to the St. Louis Zoo.

A baseball team and an aviation club have been organized by scouts of Troop 22, Walnut Park School. The team is managed by Russell Dowley and captained by Boyles. Games will be arranged with other troops.

Central District.

Troop 106, Second United Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening gave an entertainment at the Bethesda-Dilworth Memorial Home, repeating the program Thursday evening at the City Infirmary. Friday evening the troop band played at a Business Men's dinner at the American Hotel, and yesterday the troop participated in a musical program at a Central District get-together in Forest Park.

Cub Notes.

Pack 4, Southampton Presbyterian Church, reregistered last week with a membership of 74 boys, divided into seven dens. A. G. Brown reregistered as cubmaster. The dens and their sponsors are: Daniel Boone, Mrs. Gus H. F. Johannes and Scout Robert Spelbrink; Lewis and Clark, Mrs. C. C. Mangrum and Scout Harold E. Bange; Lindberg, Mrs. W. A. Martin and Scout Charles Morgan; Mark Twain, Mrs. Samuel B. May and Scout Tillman Wedemeier; Paul Revere, Mrs. A. C. Brown and Scout Ellwood Crafe; Roosevelt, Mrs. William J. Kennel and Scout Sebastian L. Hertling; Thomas Edison, Mrs. H. L. Wedemeier and Scout Karl Artman.

Nineteen cubs and their parents attended an outing held by Pack 21, Sherman School, at the country home of Committeeman Sleiger last Sunday. Through the courtesy of Scoutmaster Gene Kelly of Troop 74, which also meets at Sherman School, Troop 74's bus was loaned to the pack. Scoutmaster Kelly, Assistant Scoutmaster Kretchmar and Scouts Lister, Stamm, Sandford and Lister instructed the cubs during a hike through the woods, and in the building of cooking and council fires in the evening. Mrs. Sleiger furnished ice cream after supper.

Debate on Coeducation.

A debate on the merits of coeducation in college will be held at the Fontbonne College Auditorium, Wydown and Big Bend boulevard, at 8 p. m. Tuesday, between teams of the Philatilic Society of St. Louis University and Fontbonne College. Jack Cramer, Edward Walsh and Fred Weber will represent St. Louis University and Miss Rosemary Tuchschmidt, Miss Margaret Barth, Miss Inez Fitzgerald, Miss Alice Gorman and Miss Mary Ryan Fontbonne College.

At 102, Has 3 Teeth Pulled.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., May 2.—Otto Jarretz, 102 years old, walked downtown yesterday afternoon and went into the office of Dr. A. B. Carey, dentist. He had three teeth pulled.

It Takes Time, Bill.

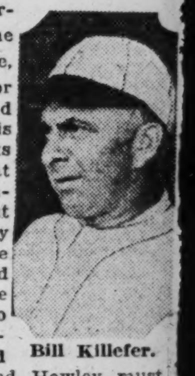
THEY'LL be renaming Manager Killefer of the Browns "Wild Bill" if something favorable doesn't happen soon. What makes William so wild is that his club is so tame. A live wire with a dead ball club—that seems to lead to the cemetery of hopes, for the current campaign at least. Quotations today place the odds against the Browns winning the flag at 500 to 1, the same figure as that quoted against the Reds.



Bill Killefer.

It takes courage to be alone in a big league, with a minor league outfit. And that seemingly is what confronts Killefer. Not that William is complaining. But anyone need only consider how he himself would feel, under the circumstances, to know that leaders handicaped like Killefer and Howley must be bleeding internally.

Now and then a ball club has to be destroyed and a new structure built on the ruins. That is Owner Ball's thought. He might have a better club today if he had kept Manush, Blue, McManus, Harry Rice, vin Crowder and other discards; but he also would have owned an outfit of insurrectos. It was to rid the club of this type of player that most of the sacrifices have been made.

How Huggins Handled Soreheads.

OTHER clubs have fought similar situations with different weapons. Probably no manager ever had a more difficult clum to handle than the one the late Miller Huggins took over when he went to the New York Yankees.

A little mouse of a man, he was asked to ride herd on a group of untamed, mammoth roisterers like Babe Ruth.

Twenty Grand in good form. He was slow to get going and dropped back going into the first turn, he was clear all the way and Kurtsinger sent him up on inside to run down back stretch, began to close ground after passing three furlongs, came to outside of Camper and Clock Tower in final three-sixteenths and closing with a good rush was up to win going away. He worked a fast mile and a quarter in 2:05. Clock Tower, displaying unusual speed, jumped away to a long lead, drew away further after passing the half mile pole and stood long drive gamely. Camper broke fast, was hustled along all the way but tired badly in the stretch. Polydorus trailed far back for seven furlongs, then came very fast at end. Condescend was kept well up for six furlongs, then dropped back beaten.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Coming out of the dense fog with a brilliant burst of championship speed, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand made an auspicious start toward winning the Preakness and Kentucky Derby with a dramatic triumph in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica today.

For three quarters of the mile and 70-yard journey, the big son of St. Germans-Bonus, the favorite at 1 to 2, was almost lost in the rear of the small field as the six classy 3-year-olds plunged into the heavy fog at the clubhouse turn, raced out of sight of the small crowd through the back stretch and appeared again a quarter of a mile from home.

Morton L. Schwartz's Clock Tower, a rank outsider, broke on top and went into the fog leading by three lengths and came out of the haze still out in front by five lengths, but Twenty Grand had moved up some place in the back stretch and was in second place. The task of overtaking the Schwartz speedster appeared hopeless but Charlie Kurtsinger drew his whip and went to work on the Whitney ace.

Twenty Grand leaped to the battle and closed the space like a fleet hare. A sixteenth from home he was on even terms with Clock Tower, but only for a moment. Another stride and he was out in front and went on to win by half a length with Clock Tower second and Mrs. R. T. Wilson's Camper, five lengths back in third place.

Although trailing for the greater part of the jaunt, Twenty Grand stepped the distance in the good time of 1:42 3-5, only one and two-fifths of a second off the track record and four-fifths of a second faster than the time made by Gallant Fox in winning the event last year.

Always a slow starter, Twenty Grand broke with both front feet in the air and the field had gone a quarter of a mile before Kurtsinger could settle him in his stride. Meanwhile, Pete Walls had Clock Tower far out in front with George D. Widener's Condescend second and Twenty Grand in fifth place.

Kurtsinger sat still, however, letting his mount run as he pleased. Not till the field hit the stretch and Twenty Grand appeared a badly beaten horse did Kurtsinger begin to ride. Once the big colt began to run, the race was over.

STRIBLING BEGINS TRAINING FOR TITLE BOUT WITH SCHMELING

Strib played 18 holes of golf, skipped the rope awhile, worked on the heavy bag, boxed three rounds with sparring partners and finished off the day with another 18 holes of golf.

He will remain on his farm here for several days before going to Cleveland to continue training.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT TODAY — "Dizzy" Dean and Twenty Grand

Very much to the surprise of baseball fans, "Dizzy" Dean, eccentric pitcher, has been sent back by the Cardinals to their farm at Houston, Tex., where he will pitch today's game. Twenty Grand yesterday won the Wood Memorial Stake at Jamaica, as a starter for his campaign after the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby. He ran the race four-fifths of a second faster than Gallant Fox did last year. He is equal favorite with Equipoise at 4 to 1 to win the Derby.

WEBSTER GROVES TAKES CLASS A HONORS IN STATE TRACK MEET

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 2.—Webster Groves, rolling up 31½ points, dethroned Kansas City Northeast as Class A champions in the annual State interscholastic track and field championships here today. University City was second with 26 points and Maplewood third with 22.

West Plains succeeded Hannibal as Class B titleholder with 22½ points, nosing out Shelbina, which accumulated 19. Fulton was third with 15.

In Class C, Senath and Malden tied for first with 17 points, while New Cambria was a close third with 16.

Records Stand Up.

As three new champions were crowned, only two State records and three class records were toppled as compared with 20 altogether year ago. The meet was run off under ideal weather conditions, with the exception of a mild breeze which handicapped sprinters and hurdlers.

Finishing behind the leaders in Class A, were St. Louis Roosevelt, 16½; St. Joseph Central, 13; Sedalia and Kansas City Northeast, 8; Springfield, 6; Kansas City Paseo, 5; Kansas City Central, 3½; Carthage, 2; and Kansas City Southwest, 1½.

Other teams which placed in Class B, were: Mountain Grove, 12; Marshall and St. Charles, 9; Missouri Military Academy, Mexico, Cameron and Kirkwood, 7; Higginsville, Bonne Terre, Poplar Bluff and Harrisonville, 5; Chillicothe and Savannah, 3; Kennett, 2½; Rolla and Warrensburg, 2; Wellston, Boonville and Bowling Green, 1.

St. James, Maysville and Grandview tied for fourth place in Class C, with 10 points. Others to score were Tipton, 9; Steelville, 8; Linneus, 7; Raytown, 6; Jasper and Pilot Grove, 5; Norris, 4; Sweet Springs and Ruskin, 3; Archie and LaPlata, 2; East Prairie and Owensville, 1.

Discus Mark in Class C.

Pate of New Cambria, tossed the discus 121 feet in Class C., for a new state record, breaking the old mark by 4½ inches. Dunkan, Harrisonville, threw the javelin 179 feet 8 inches, or 7 feet 9 inches better than the old state mark.

All division records to fall were in Class B, in which Stokes, West Plains tossed the discus 117 feet 4½ inches. Sumpter, Bonne Terre, who ran the half mile in 2 minutes, 7 seconds and Berger, Kirksville, who put the shot 49 feet 5 inches.

Freschi of Webster Groves, with firsts in the shot put and discus, and second in the 100-yard dash, was the high point man in Class A. In Class B, Coates of Shelbina,

Browns Drop Ninth Game in Succession, White Sox Win, 2-1

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Bill Killefer, manager of the Browns, today bowed to superstition and exchanged the No. 13 he had been wearing on his back for a nice new No. 33. The gesture was useless, however, for the Browns dropped a 2-1 decision to the White Sox, a third defeat here, the ninth straight since April 18 and the eighth in succession on this trip. Also, it was the fifth straight victory for the Sox. Incidentally, it was the thirteenth game for the Browns.

An error by Storti presented the Sox with the chance to score a run in the sixth after three errors had given the Browns one in the first half.

Blaeholder, after working the first five innings without allowing a hit or a man to reach first, got by the seventh and eighth all right but slipped by passing Blue to start the ninth. A sacrifice followed and then, with two out, Watwood shot a single to left and Blue scored with the winning run.

Browns Held to Four Hits.

The Sox turned in six errors but the Browns could mix only four singles off Southpaw Caraway with them. Chicago reached Blaeholder for six safeties, half of them very scratchy.

Blaeholder's pass to Blue, which spelled ruin in the ninth, was his only free ticket during the game.

Failure to take advantage of opportunities hurt the Browns in the opening minutes of play. Melillo reached second on a single and an error in the first and, later, Kress walked but Schulte popped out. An error and a single enabled Storti and McNeely to take to the paths in the second but Ferrell, Blaeholder and Levey were helpless before Caraway.

In the fourth, Schulte led off with a single to left after which

Columbia Crew Wins "Blackwell"

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Columbia's varsity eight won the Blackwell Cup race in the triangular regatta on the Harlem River today. Yale finished second and Pennsylvania third. Columbia's time was 7:45.4 for the one and three-quarter miles.

Columbia and Yale rowed like a team for the first three-quarters of a mile. There the Lions eight spurted and in five or six strokes were a half length ahead, a margin to which they hung tenaciously to within sight of the finish line. They again spurted and were drawing away with every stroke as the two boats slid past the last red flag.

Pennsylvania was a badly distanced third, three or four lengths behind Yale.

VANDERBILT GOLFER WINS CONFERENCE TITLE

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Ga., May 2.—Albert Wheeler of Vanderbilt University, today won the Southern Conference individual golf championship, defeating George Bush, of Tulane, one up on the nineteenth hole.

O. B. FRANZ WINS HIS THIRD STATE SHOOTING TITLE

By W. J. McGoogan.

Oscar B. Franz, St. Louis trapshooter, won three of the six championships decided on the first two days of the fourth annual Missouri State Shoot. He added the State "Flyers" championship to his string yesterday after having won the double title and the handicap "Flyers" competition on the first day.

Franz and J. L. Kleeschulte tied with 24 birds apiece out of 25 in the "Flyers" competition and each killed five straight birds in the shootoff. Still tied, they decided to shoot it miss and out. Franz hit two more in a row while Kleeschulte missed on his second effort. Live pigeons are the targets in the "Flyers" competition.

Five of Six for St. Louis.

Franz's triple victory gives St. Louis shots five of the six championships already decided, for Fred Wilmas, breaking 195 clay pigeon targets out of a possible 200 yesterday, won the State singles championship while on the previous day the eastern zone team of which this city is headquarters captured the team championship.

The lone title which has slipped out of the grasp of local shooters is the women's championship, which was retained by Mrs. Jane Mustin Scott of Kansas City, who scored 86 out of a possible 100 to defeat Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. by seven points.

There were 61 entered in the singles shooting yesterday, which included the six women, for in conjunction with the official competition there was a sweepstakes open to all. Wilmas' score, therefore, was not the best of the day for Mark Arie, veteran star from Champaign, Ill., broke 199 targets out of 200 to win the sweep. As he does not reside in this state, he was ineligible to compete for the Missouri title.

Arie missed one target in his 100 shots in the morning, then came back to break a hundred in a row in the afternoon.

Two Events Today.

W. W. Bradbury of St. Louis, State champion last year, fell by the wayside and finished out of the money.

Today, the final day of the meet, championships will be decided in two more divisions—the classification division in which titles will be decided in three classes, and the handicau competition. Each will be a 100-target race. The shooting is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m.

At the annual meeting of the State Federation, the 1932 shoot was awarded to Kansas City.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Charles E. Street, the old Sergeant who directs the Cardinals in their baseball battles, is a kindly old campaigner, but the next time William Hallahan is scheduled to pitch Gabby will try to injure him severely before he goes to the hill.

Some pitchers thrive on massages and kind treatment, but bruises, contusions and lacerations apparently are the meat and drink on which Wild William Hallahan thrives, and if that's the way he is going to be, the leader of the Redbirds will treat him accordingly.

Hallahan pitched like the wild man of Borneo for three and one-third innings against the Cubs yesterday afternoon. He walked three men in the first frame, was saved by a double play in the second, lambasted for three runs in the third and was being shellacked in the fourth, when Kiki Cuyler shot a line drive toward the box and almost tore the left hand off Hallahan's pitching arm.

Pain Is Nerve Balm to Bill.

Manager Street and several comrades rushed from the dugout, fearful that Bill was hurt, or hopeful that an injury would settle the question of whether the brilliant but erratic Hallahan or somebody else would do the rest of the day's pitching. But that crack on the paw was to Hallahan as a square meal and a bottle of wine to a starving man. It made him over. It settled his nerves, put cunning in his arm, and he stopped a threatening Chicago rally and was master of the Cubs almost to the finish of the contest.

The pain, or pleasant feeling of that wallop on the hand, wore off after a time and Bill got wild in the eighth and had to be yanked in the ninth, and Jim Lindsey, the big rescue man of the Redbird corps, stopped the brutal Bruins and protected the St. Louis lead.

Lindsey the Old Reliable.

Jim was his old reliable self and stopped the Cubs in their tracks and Hallahan was credited with his first victory of the season, a 6—3 triumph, that enabled the Cardinals to add a full game to their lead over the Chicago ruffians and a half game to the advantage over the Giants, who were idle because of rain.

But the game showed Street what a few solid punches on the hand and perhaps the head, will do for Hallahan. And it wasn't the first time that Bill showed that a painful injury might be what the doctor would order for him. Last September when the Cardinals were playing the Brooklyn Robins in a series with first place at stake, a thoughtless or kindly taxicab driver slammed a cab door on Bill's right hand. Bill was up half that night with the pain of the injury and he appeared on the field the next day with the paw all swathed in bandages. But how he did pitch; he beat the Robins, 1 to 0, in 10 innings that day.

Hack Wilson Hits Homer.

Despite all his wildness, Hallahan held the Cubs scoreless except in the third inning, when Cuyler singled, Hornsby doubled and Hack Wilson bounced a home run off the roof of the pavilion, his first of the season, driving in all of the Chicago team's runs.

The Cardinals had taken the lead in the second inning, scoring two runs on Bottomley's double, Gelbert's single and a double by Jimmy Wilson. Nor did the Cubs retain their one-run lead long. Adams opened the home third with a single off Bell's glove, and when Frisch grounded to Grimm, Charley threw low to second and both runners were safe.

Bottomley's single scored Adams and sent Frisch to third and Frank tallied after Watkins' fly to Stephenson.

Dizzy Dean Is Gone for Sojourn in Texas; He Will Pitch Today for Houston

Unless Lady Luck scowls at the Cardinals' pitching staff and gives it the heebee-jeebies, Jerome H. Dean, the dizzy boy pitching and financial prodigy will not be seen at Sportsman's Park this season. That much developed, yesterday, when it was announced by Cardinal officials that Dean was speeding westward to Houston, Tex., to work out his future with that aspiring Texas League outfit.

It was from this farm that Dizzy fared forth late last year to conquer the major league world in general and St. Louis fans in particular.

Dizzy dazzled St. Louisans with a pop-eyed game against the Pittsburg Pirates in the season's finale last year. He followed it up with a lot of promises this spring to wreck the National League batting averages as soon as he got down to business. He also talked his way into the Cardinal bankroll to the tune of $2800—a sum which was $400 more than his 1931 salary.

Now Dizzy has departed, and the National League sluggers are still unsubdued. He will pitch for the Houston team today and for some days to come unless, as mentioned before, a few bad breaks of arms or legs or perhaps of pledges to behave, hit the Cardinal staff. Then Dizzy, who is out on option subject to quick recall, might bust in again.

Dean failed to get into a National League game this year, either as a starting or relief pitcher. He began the second game of the spring series against the Browns and was wilder than Bill Melhorn after he has missed a 12-inch putt. Dizzy walked three men and yielded a cluster of runs in the opening period. After that he pitched pretty good baseball for four innings.

CLEVELAND COMES FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT SOLDAN, 9 TO 6

KEEPS LEAD IN RACE; ROOSEVELT IS VICTOR OVER BEAUMONT, 8 TO 2

By Harold Tuthill.

If the test of a championship baseball team is its ability to come from behind and turn a 5 to 1 defeat into a 9 to 6 victory, as Cleveland did yesterday afternoon against Soldan in the first game of the City High School League doubleheader at the Public Schools, then it is fairly safe to predict that Cleveland will end the season in the first place. Roosevelt remained in position to dispute Cleveland's claim, as the Rough Riders won from Beaumont, 8 to 2, in the second game. About 400 saw the two games.

The fact that Soldan scored its first run in the third inning without earning it and that the West Enders counted four times in the sixth after two were out and when an error by Gene Starkloff prevented the side from being retired without damage—both of these things did not keep Bob Wilfert and his mates from winning the game.

Cleveland, aided by Bob Lahey, who pitched a good game for five innings, again tied the count in the sixth when three hits, a walk and two errors combined to send across four runs. Wilfert made up his mind to win his own ball game, so that he hit a home run in the next round to score behind Franey, who had walked and Winklemeyer, who had singled. Winklemeyer concluded a perfect day with a single in the ninth to score Earl Hahn with the final run. It was his fourth hit.

Hayward Gray and Oliver Steiner engaged a pitching duel for eight innings during the second battle, but Gray weakened in the ninth to allow Roosevelt to score five runs. The bases were filled when Don Root, up for the second time, struck out to end the Rough Riders' barrage.

Steiner allowed Beaumont only five hits and except for the first inning when two hits and the same number of errors permitted the North Siders to score twice, Steiner had little difficulty in sidestepping trouble.

As a result of the games, Cleveland is in first place with four victories and no defeats, Roosevelt is second with three victories and one defeat. Central has two and two and Beaumont and Soldan are tied for last each with one victory and four defeats.

WESTMINSTER WINS MEET FROM WASHINGTON U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., May 2.—The Westminster College Track and field team this afternoon defeated by a score of 77 2-3 to 53 1-3. The Bluejays took 11 firsts while Washington annexed three firsts and also captured the mile relay, the final event of the afternoon.

The Bluejays took an early lead when Thompson won the 100-yard dash over Timberlake, of Washington, the Bears' star athlete and sprang one of the big surprises of the day. In the very next event McKnelly of Westminster bested Captain Ohle of Washington in the mile run. The first Washington man to win a race was Thompson who captured the 220-yard dash. Westminster came back strong and took five more firsts before they were stopped, Timberlake and Newman of Washington tying for first place in the high jump.

McKnelly Wins Three Firsts.

Lee McKnelly of Delaplaine, Ark., the big fellow of the Westminster squad, covered himself with glory when he won the half-mile, mile, and two-mile races, finishing strong in all of these events and winning them with room to spare.

Peyton Talbott of Clayton won both of the hurdle events for Westminster, and Foster Wiley of Creighton, finished second in both events, showing a burst of speed both times after clearing the last hurdle behind a Washington man.

Timberlake won two events for Washington tying with Newman, a teammate in the high jump and taking first in the broad jump.

Bell in the 440, Morrow in the shot put, Wiley in the pole vault, Hesley in the discus and Hall in the javelin, won their events and aided in running up the Westminster total.

The meet was run under ideal weather conditions and on a fast track. McKnelly established a new college record to win the mile and Talbott broke a new track record in annexing the 120-yard high hurdles.

The summaries:

MILE RUN—Won by McKnelly, Westminster; Ohle, Washington, second; Huger, Washington, third. Time, 4:41.5. (New Westminster College record).

100-YARD DASH—Won by Thompson, Westminster; Timberlake, Washington, second; Thompson, Washington, third. Time, :10.3.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Thompson, Washington; Thompson, Westminster, second; Bryan, Washington, third. Time, :23.9.

220-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Talbott, Westminster; Wiley, Westminster, second; Marco, Washington, third. Time, :15.4. (New track record).

POLE VAULT—Won by Wiley, Westminster; Tanner, Westminster; Campbell, Washington, and Yantis, Westminster, tied for second. Distance, 10 feet, 6 inches.

440-YARD RUN—Won by Bell, Westminster; Pevestorff, Westminster, second; Hampton, Washington, third. Time, :52.8.

HIGH JUMP—Newman and Timberlake, Washington, tied for first; Tanner, Westminster, third. Height, 5 feet, 5 inches.

TWO-MILE RUN—Won by McKnelly, Westminster; Barrow, Washington, second; Gollub, Washington, third. Time, 11:5.

880-YARD RUN—Won by McKnelly, Westminster; second, Harrington, Washington; third, Stoffer, Washington. Time, 2m. 7.2s.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Timberlake; second, Talbott, Westminster; third, Westrup, Washington. Distance, 22 ft. 9 in.

220 LOW HURDLES—Won by Talbott, Westminster; second, Wiley, Westminster; third, Marco, Washington. Time, 26.6s.

JAVELIN—Won by Hall, Westminster; second, Westrup, Washington; third, Porchey, Westminster. Distance, 152 ft. 7 in.

Browns Bow to White Sox For Ninth Defeat in Row

Caraway threw out Storti, McNeely and Ferrell. With one gone in the fifth, Levey bunted safely but was forced by Melillo and Goslin then rolled to Cissell.

Opening the sixth, Kress got a life when Simons dropped his fly but was erased when he tried to steal. Schulte then got three bases when Fothergill entered the error derby and dropped Fred's long fly. Storti hit all the way to Caraway but Cissell dropped McNeely's fly for the sixth Chicago error and Schulte just had to score.

Tough Loss for Blaeholder.

While all this was going on. Blaeholder was pitching marvelous ball. Not a Chicago player saw first in the first five innings, most of the Sox going down on the easiest kind of chances. Jeffries, first up in the last of the sixth, spoiled Blaeholder's performance with a single to left. He moved to second and then to third on rollers by Tate and Caraway. Blue raised an easy foul fly which Storti dropped and then singled to score Jeffries.

The Sox recovered their poise in the seventh and the Browns went down in order. Fothergill singled to start the last half and after Cissell popped out, advanced to second on Watwood's infield hit. Appling helped out by hitting into a double play.

Three pop flies disposed of the Browns in the eighth and the Sox were just as easy.

So, Rollo, they went into the ninth. It was fruitless for the Browns, who went up and down quickly. Blue walked to begin the Sox half and Simons sacrificed him along. Fothergill's infield hit to Storti put Blue on third. Cissell's short fly to McNeely did not permit Blue to score, but Watwood, who, it seems, might have been passed to fill the bases and bring young Appling up, singled to left and Blue scored the deciding run.

Brownie Notes.

CHICAGO, May 2.

NO MATTER what happens in tomorrow's road final here, it will be the worst trip the Browns have taken since Hector was a mere puppy. The players figure that they will get going during the stay at home, which starts Monday. They face tough opposition in that stay, though, meeting Cleveland, the Athletics, the Yanks and the Senators in that order before getting a chance at the Red Sox.

While Storti's grand batting average is none too impressive, this newcomer is a real ball player and stands little chance of losing his job as a regular.

Walter Stewart has been chosen to pitch the first home game against the Indians. He was ill when the club was in Cleveland and was unable to work.

There was a strong wind blowing in from the lake and it operated against the sluggers. Also the front windows of the press box were kept closed to protect those delicate hot-house flowers who reported the game.

Reynolds, the best Sox hitter, today joined the casualty list, which includes Ted Lyons, Smead Jolley and Willie Kamm. The Sox made a better start than usual and South Side fans are having first-division visions.

For the first time in the series, the White Sox were retired in order in the first inning.

The Browns had four men on base in the first two innings. Also, they had the same four left. In the second, the first two Brownies made the grade, only to have the next three fizzle out.

South Africa and Ireland Advance In Davis Cup Play

MONTREUX, Switzerland, May 2.—Ireland today advanced to the second round of Davis Cup tennis play in the European zone as the Irish doubles team defeated the Swiss team to make the count thee matches to none.

Ireland won both singles matches yesterday and today G. L. Rogers and his teammate Scroope paired to win from A. Echliman and C. Fischer, 6—3, 5—7, 13—11, 6—2.

Two more singles matches remain to be played but they will have no bearing on the final standing.

Ireland meets the winner of the Germany-South Africa match in the second round.

South Africa Eliminates Germany.

By the Associated Press.

DUSSELDORF, Germany, May 2.—South Africa today won the doubles match from Germany in the first round European Davis Cup tennis play, thus winning the series, three matches to none and advancing to the second round.

Italy Leads Hungary.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 2.—Italy's doubles team today defeated Hungary to take a lead of two matches to one in their first round tie of the European Zone of Davis Cup tennis play.

Baron H. L. de Morpurgo and Conte del Bono required four hard-fought sets to defeat Bela von Kehrling and Gabroquitz today, 5—7, 6—3, 7—5, 7—5.

The two singles matches yesterday were divided, Von Kehrling defeating De Morpurgo and George de Stefani defeating E. Takacs.

Spain Takes Doubles Match.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, May 2.—Spain's doubles team of H. G. Maier and Manuel Alonzo today defeated the Czecho-Slovakian pair of R. Mendel and Rohere to prolong the first round Davis Cup tennis match in the European Zone.

Maier and Alonzo lost the two singles matches yesterday to Czecho-Slovakia, leaving the score at the completion of play today, two to one in favor of the mid-Europeans.

Stanford Relay Team Sets Record; Trojans Win Meet

STANFORD UNIVERSITY STADIUM, Cal., May 2.—In a close and thrilling track and field meet Southern California's Trojans, national collegiate champions of 1930, today defeated Stanford's Indians, 69 to 62, to take the measure of their greatest rivals for a second successive year.

The two powerful teams battled neck and neck for 12 of the 15 events with but one or two points separating them.

The American mile relay record was bettered by the Stanford quartet which was timed in 3 minutes 14 3-10 seconds. The world's record of 3:13.4 was set in England just after the 1928 Olympic games by a picked team of Americans.

The recognized American record is 3:15.4, set by a Stanford team in 1930.

The meet brought about the long-awaited sprint duel between Frank Wykoff of Southern California and Hec Dyer of Stanford. Honors were divided, Wykoff winning his favorite event, the hundred, and yielding the 220 to his rival.

Wykoff failed to come close to his best time of 9 4-10 seconds, now up for acceptance as a world's century record, but he won by three yards in 9 8-10.

Last year Dyer, in Los Angeles, gave Wykoff his only defeat of the season in that event.

Navy's Plebe Oarsmen Win.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 2.—Naval Academy plebe oarsmen defeated the Hun School by seven lengths today, covering the Henley distance in 7 minutes, 44 seconds.

GOLF
by W.J. McGOOGAN

Women's T.-M. Tourney.

TWENTY states are included in the territory covered by the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Association since the states bordering the Mississippi River on the east have been included. The association now comprises Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Wisconsin.

The year book of the association just issued includes the program for the coming tournament to be held June 15-20 at the St. Louis Country Club.

The St. Louis Women's District Association under whose auspices the tournament is to be held, has named Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. chairman of the General Arrangements Committee which includes also Mrs. Harold H. Scott, president of the association, and Mrs. E. Anson More.

The St. Louis Men's District Association is co-operating with the women and has appointed Edgar M. Jennings, Sunset Hill Country Club, general chairman of the tournament committees. Jennings handled the St. Louis open at Sunset last year and showed that he knows how a tournament should be run. The actual handling of the details will be done by committees headed generally by members of the St. Louis Country Club. The tees and greens will be under the supervision of Guy W. Oliver; starting, Clarence Wolff, Sunset, whose starting and announcing of the St. Louis open was one of the interesting features of the tournament. Clarence knows all about golf and golfers. The referees will be handled by Arthur Stickney; parking, traffic and tickets by Sam McPheeters; amplification by Tom Moss; caddies, Sam Plant; galleries, John Overall; scoring and umpiring, Virgil Lewis; pairings, Mrs. Elfred Beck, president of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Association; Mrs. E. Anson More and Clarence Wolff.

Those Eligible.

THE women's committees to care for the contestants include entertainment of which Mrs. David R. Calhoun. Jr., Country Club is chairman; Publicity, Mrs. I. S. Hynes, Normandie; Trophy, Mrs. Clarence Wolff; Reservations, Mrs. C. C. Crossman; Transportation, Mrs. Clarence Robins; Information, Mrs. Holbrook T. Ashton, and Lockers, Mrs. Edward Hotchkiss.

All members of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Association with a handicap of 24 or less are eligible to play, although entrants from the St. Louis district likely will be limited to those with a lower handicap, to avoid congestion of the course.

The Country Club will open its course to out-of-town entrants for practice during the mornings of the week preceding the tournament and to local entrants on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday preceding the opening of the event.

Entries close Saturday, June 13, at 6 p. m. Entry fee is $5 and should be made to Mrs. E. Anson More, 4756 Westminster pl., St. Louis, treasurer of the association.

The schedule for the tournament calls for an 18-hole qualifying round on Monday, June 15, starting at 8 o'clock. Tuesday, first round of match play; Wednesday, second round with first round consolation; Thursday, third round; Friday, semifinals and Saturday the finals. All matches will be at 18 holes with the exception of the finals which will be 36 holes.

Numerous Trophies.

IN addition to the golf a social program has been provided beginning on Friday, June 12, and continuing through Saturday, June 20.

The annual meeting of the association is scheduled for Wednesday, June 17, 7:30 p. m., at the Country Club. Each member club is entitled to two accredited representatives.

Many trophies have been provided for the tournament. Included among them are St. Louis Country Club Trophy, one from the St. Louis Women's District Association, Men's District Association, Normandie Golf Club, Sunset Hill Country Club, Westwood Country Club, North Hills Country Club, Glen Echo Country Club, Bellerive Country Club.

In addition, Mrs. Claude Woodruff, a former president, has provided a trophy to accompany the championship prize to be played for yearly. If won three times, it becomes her permanent possession. Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn Tyson has won once, Mrs. O. S. Hill twice and Mrs. Hulbert S. Clarke once. Mrs. Clarke is the defending champion in this, the fifth annual tournament.

A prize for the medalist, designated the Agnes Herndon Memorial Pin, goes to the player having the low score in the qualifying round, while the Howell Trophy, presented by Mrs. Charles M. Howell, former president, goes to the winning club team composed of two members from the same clubs, both entrants in the tournament.

JONES TALKS OF CURE FOR PUTTS THAT ARE SHORT

By Bobby Jones,

Someone wants to know why it is that so many long putts finish short of the hole. This certainly does seem to be a rather common failing among the average golfers. It can be caused, of course, by several different things, among which are inaccurate striking, faulty judgment of the speed of the green, and plain timidity.

The putts which stop a few feet short can very often be laid to the fact that the player has misjudged the speed of the putting surface, for it is quite possible to strike the ball truly and well and still leave it short of the hole. But I do not believe that this is the real reason for the considerable proportion of long putts which go only a little more than half the desired distance.

My own experience has been that when I amconsistently five or six feet short with the big putts, the fault is not in the stroke itself—that is, in the lengh of he backswing or the power of the stroke—but rather in the application of the blade of the putter to the ball. I mean, to be blunt about it, that I usually am striking the ball a bit above the center—half-topping it, in a word. For it is painfully easy to top a putt, the smallest of the golfing shots, where a good player very rarely commits this crime with any of the other strokes.

Now, the partially topped putt, where the ball is struck just a shade above the center, is due to one of two causes—hurrying the stroke or lifting the head too soon. I know that in my case, and I think in most others, the long putt is the one stroke on which it is easiest to look up too soon, and, further, to make this vital mistake without being aware of it. Many times I have gone for days wondering what was the matter with my putting, and never finding out until someone told me that I appeared to be looking up too soon. I have at last reached a point that when I start putting badly, this is the first thing I look for.

But there is one common fault in the stroke itself, which produces a tendency to half-top the long putts, and this is to be found in the action of the left hand and wrist. A great many golfers, some of fair ability, appear convinced that the putting stroke is so greatly a business of the hands and wrists that they cannot bring themselves to allow the left hand and arm to swing easily through the small arc required by even a moderately long putt. The abrupt stoppage of the left hand and wrist inevitably results in the putter blade being brought up sharply just after impact—indeed, usually at the very moment of impact or before—with a consequent "nipping" of the stroke, and defective range for the ball, if not also a deviation from the proper line.

It might be said that the best cure for this is simply not to do it. But in order to provide something definite to work on I might suggest that the right forearm against the watch pocket of the trousers makes a fine "anchor" for the back-stroke, not actually immovable but very nearly so, as far as the body is concerned. Then, as the club is swung through, do not attempt to restrain either arm, but permit the momentum of the club to carry it through the ball toward the hole, and let it swing both arms along with it.

SOUTHPAWS ARE STEALING SHOW IN BIG LEAGUE, MACK DECLARES

By Connie Mack.

(Manager World Champions, Athletics.)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Left-handed pitchers are crowding right-handers off the front page. The early games of the American League season have been remarkable for the commendable flinging done by southpaws. Both in the East and the West it is generally the portsider who is doing the best pitching for his team. The thing is general and evidently the southpaw is out to rule in baseball.

Over in New York, Herb Pennock has evidently shed 10 years for he started the season by winning two games in which his pitching was of the high order. Pennock was pitching for me in 1914 and while he is approaching the 40-year mark, this year he started by beating the Red Sox, 2 to 1, and followed this up by holding my own champions to a single run.

Connie Mack.

In this game, Pennock pitched with the consummate ease and poise that he showed when he was at his best and if he can continue this kind of pitching, the Yanks' chances for the pennant will be greatly enhanced.

Washington has shown two powerful southpaws in Lloyd Brown and Carl Fischer. Both pitched wonderful ball against us. Out West, Walter Stewart has continued his mighty work of last season when he won 20 games. Stewart ranks with the leading southpaws.

Earl Whitehill, who was good for 17 wins with the Tigers in 1930, also has made an impressive start. One of his early triumphs came over Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's wonderful righthander. Donie Bush's White Sox also present a topnotch southpaw to worry the hitters in that tall, squirming Pat Caraway, who apparently is improving all the time.

So you see that every team in the West has a winning southpaw and so have New York and Washington in the East. Coming to the Athletics, I have only to say that I think that Lefty Grove is even faster than he was last year. All fears that Rube Walberg, my other lefthonded ace, might not be able to come back and pitch as he did in 1929 have been squashed by his fine hurling.

That will give you an idea of what American League sidewinders have been doing and I noticed that in the National League, the southpaw race has also been praised for gallantry.

Brandt and Zachary have done wonderful work for the Braves while Walker and Mitchell are winning for the Giants and Jumbo Elliott is doing wonders for the Phillies. This is the age of the southpaw!

KELLER BREAKS HURDLE MARK BUT KNOCKS TWO OBSTACLES OVER

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Two official world's records, one national interscholastic mark and a trio of new Ohio marks were made at the eighth annual Ohio relays today.

The early events on the afternoon program were run in a downpour, but the showers lasted only for a short time.

Jack Keller, Ohio State sophomore, unofficially lowered the world's mark in the 120-yard high hurdles. His time of :14.3 was one-tenth of a second faster than that of Thomson of Dartmouth in 1920.

The mark, however, probably will remain unofficial, for he knocked over two hurdles. Lee Sentman, Illinois star and Big Ten champion, was second, a full yard and a half behind Keller. The runners were against a cross wind.

Anchored by Keller, Ohio State set a new world's record in the shuttel hurdle in 1:01.6, having established the previous record of 1:01.8 in 1929. Keller in this event was timed at :13.9.

New Relay Mark.

By itself, Hamilton Collegiate Institute of Hamilton, Ontario, set a new national mark in the preparatory school class by running the two-mile relay route in 8:15.6. The old mark, set by Lakewood, O., in 1930, was 8:16.2.

Utterback of Pittsburg and Hugh Rhea of Nebraska knocked down two relay marks. Utterback leaped 24 feet in the broad jump. The mark of 23 feet 7⅞ inches was made last year by Portmess of Northwestern. Rhea heaved the 16-pound shot 48 feet 10 inches. The old mark, set by Big Jim Bausch of Kansas University last year, was 47 feet 8¾ inches.

The other relay mark fell in the university four-mile, when Gould, Garrison, Woolsey and Evans of Illinois clipped two-tenths of a second off the old mark of 17:52.6 made by Indiana in 1930.

Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan flash, defended successfully his century record, making the 100 yards in :09.6, one-tenth of a second below his own world's mark. He was pressed all the way by McCormick of Notre Dame and Hutson of Denison.

Ohio State Wins Five Firsts.

Ohio State carried off the lion's share of honors, taking five first places, the one and two mile relays, high jump, shuttle hurdles and the 120-yard high hurdles.

Michigan and Illinois trailed with three firsts each, the Wolverines winning the 440 and 880 yard relays, and the 100-yard dash. To Tolan might be credited all three Michigan victories. He ran in the final heat of both relays, starting each race far behind the leaders.

Illinois won the four-mile relay and the discus throw and tied with Northwestern in the pole vault.

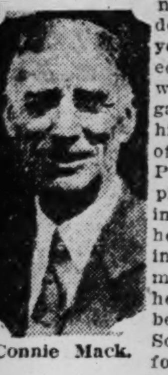
OUTHPAWS ARE STEALING SHOW IN BIG LEAGUE, MACK DECLARES

By Connie Mack.
(Manager World Champions, Athletics.)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Left-anded pitchers are crowding right-anders off the front page. The arly games of the American eague season have been remark-ble for the commendable flinging one by southpaws. Both in the ast and the West it is generally e portsider who is doing the be tching for his team. The thing general and evidently the south-aw is out to rule in baseball.



Connie Mack.

Over in New York, Herb Pennock has evidently shed 10 years for he started the season by winning two games in which his pitching was of the high order. Pennock was pitching for me in 1914 and while he is approaching the 40-year mark, this year he started by beating the Red Sox, 2 to 1, and followed this up by holding my n champions to a single run.

In this game, Pennock pitched th the consummate ease a ise that he showed when he was his best and if he can continue s kind of pitching, the Yanks' ances for the pennant will be eatly enhanced.

Washington has shown two werful southpaws in Lloyd own and Carl Fischer. Both ched wonderful ball against us t West, Walter Stewart has con-ued his mighty work of la son when he won 20 games. ewart ranks with the leading thpaws.

Earl Whitehill, who was good 17 wins with the Tigers in 193 o has made an impressive start e of his early triumphs came er Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's nderful righthander. Donie sh's White Sox also present a notch southpaw to worry the ters in that tall, squirming Pat raway, who apparently is im-ving all the time.

o you see that every team in West has a winning southpaw l so have New York and Wash-ton in the East. Coming to the letics, I have only to say that hink that Lefty Grove is even ter than he was last year. A rs that Rube Walberg, my other honded ace, might not be able come back and pitch as he di 1929 have been squashed by his hurling.

hat will give you an idea of t American League sidewinders e been doing and I noticed that he National League, the south-race has also been praised gallantry.

randt and Zachary have done nderful work for the Braves, le Walker and Mitchell ar ning for the Giants and Jumb ott is doing wonders for the llies. This is the age of the thpaw!

JOHN SCHWAKE RESUMES WORK FOR BOUT WITH KAYO CHRISTNER

John Schwake, Webster Groves heavyweight, has resumed serious training for his bout with K. O. Christner, Akron, O., rubber man, which is to take place at the Coliseum Tuesday, May 12, and will remain hard at it until the bout.

Schwake had been working steadily until he was notified of the postponement from May 1, due to an injury to one of Christner's hands when he knocked off for a few days, fearing to go stale, but as soon as it was decided definitely that Christner could fight by May 12, John went back to work. He expects to enter the ring weighing not more than 215 pounds, his best fighting weight.

Christner has been busy lately, fighting four bouts in five weeks at widely separated points in the country, and it seems that the train rides and the training grind as much as the injury he suffered in his contest with Frankie Wine, caused him to ask for the postponement of the Schwake bout.

Christner has sent word to St. Louis that his hand injury has proved little more than a superficial hurt, and that he will be in first-class condition to tackle the Webster Groves former.

Fans from Springfield, Ill., where Schwake has fought some of his best bouts, are showing considerable interest in the affair. They have wired in for a block of some 50 seats. Sam Slotsky, recently reinstated as matchmaker for the Jackson Johnson Jr., Post, under whose auspices the contest is to be held, said yesterday that the advance sale of tickets had not been hurt by the postponement, but that, on the contrary, orders have been coming in steadily.

Jack Hurley, who is associated with Slotsky, is in New York looking over some prospective opponents for his heavyweight, Charley Retzlaff. He went to New York for Billy Petrolle's contest with Jimmy McLarnin, which was scheduled for May 8, but which was called off because of Petrolle's illness. Billy suffered an attack of influenza recently.

CONCORDIA SEMINARY DEFEATS CAPE NINE

Concordia Seminary defeated Cape Girardeau Normal, 12-3, on the seminary grounds yesterday. Bergmann, Indian hurler, pitched good ball for two innings, but in the third he weakened and the Preachers got seven hits and seven runs. Bragg's error started the rally on M. Droegemueller's grounder. Triples by Siebert and Kellermann and singles by Gesswein, Gahl, Lang and I. Droege did the business.

The Indians scored their only runs in the fourth frame when Lang, Seminary pitcher, was found for singles by Hunter and Crabtree. Lang held the Indians to one hit in the last five innings.

Gahl, Siebert and Kellermann were the high batters in the game. M. Droegemueller knocked a homer in the fourth inning.

CELTIC SOCCER CLUB WINS BELFAST CUP

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 2.—The Belfast cup, played for by soccer teams in the Irish League, was won today by Celtic. Linfied finished second.

Cardinals Win Second In Row From Cubs, 6 to 3

Cardinal run in the fourth and in the seventh, but Wilson was hit by a pitched ball, Hallahan sacrificed and Orsatti doubled to left to send Wilson home with the sixth and final Cardinal tally.

When Hallahan Got Poise.

Hallahan walked three men in the first inning, but with the bases loaded, Hartnett fouled to J. Wilson. In the fourth, with the Cards enjoying a slim one-run advantage, Bell singled, Grimm fanned and then Root singled. Lindsey was warming up, but it was then that Cuyler shot the line drive that clipped Hallahan on the paw and gave him the poise that he needed. Bill arrested the flight of the drive sufficiently to enable Gelbert to a play at first and English then grounded to Gelbert for the third out.

After that Hallahan was old man control himself, until he walked two men in the eighth. When he walked Pinch Hitter J. Taylor and Kiki Cuyler in the ninth, Street saw that Bill hadn't been hit on the hand hard enough and called in Lindsey. Big Jim made English hit into a double play, walked Hornsby and then struck out Hack Wilson.

Remembering that whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad, Lindsey made Hack good and sore slipping over two called strikes. Hack sputtered and swore at Umpire Scott—at least he appeared to be so mad that if he didn't swear he meant it anyhow—and then got himself a new bat and took a wild and futile swing for the third strike and the end of the ball game.

It was a balmy summer's evening, or at least a spring afternoon and a goodly crowd was there—17,100 cash customers, to be exact.

Redbird Notes.

TODAY'S game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Flint Rhem, for the Cardinals, and Perce Pat Malone, for the Cubs, probably will be the pitchers.

It was the best Saturday crowd in years. Girls between the ages nine and 15 were admitted free. Saturday being Girls' day. Several thousand of them attended, occupying the upper deck of the left field wing of the grand stand.

Hornsby reached Hallahan's drive in the fourth inning, but the ball caromed off the tips of Rogers' glove for a double, scoring Jimmy Wilson.

Frisch made an excellent stop of Cuyler's grounder in the first inning and was in deep territory for Hack Wilson's drive in the fifth to turn it into an out.

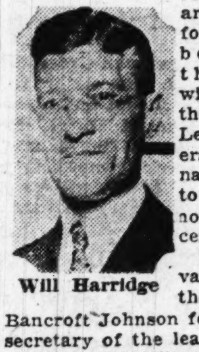
WM. HARRIDGE LIKELY TO HEAD AMERICAN LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2. — William Harridge, a silent but powerful figure in the world of organized baseball for almost a quarter of a century, tonight appeared certain of succeeding the late Ernest Sargent Barnard as president of the American League.

Although names of more than a score of baseball leaders have been mentioned unofficially for the presidency, a position paying $40,000 a year in salary, reliable information has been obtained that Harridge will be named by the American League club owners when they finally get around to it, probably not until next December.



Will Harridge

Harridge, private secretary to the late Byron Bancroft Johnson for 16 years and secretary of the league since 1927, has been handling the affairs of the league as president since President Barnard's death last March, although the title of acting head automatically reverted to Frank Navin owner of the Detroit club and vice president of the league. Affairs have run along so smoothly in the league that neither Navin nor Harridge has been forced to confer with the other on a question of policy as yet. Not a single dispute has arisen, even to the extent of a protested game.

Never Played Pro Ball.

It was way back in 1911 that Harridge, a man who never played a game of professional baseball in his life, broke into baseball. At that time Johnson insisted that all American League players travel as much as possible on a certain railroad line, no matter if they were forced to make midnight jumps and change trains three or four times to get to their destinations. Harridge was assigned to handle the tough job and did it so capably that he won Johnson's admiration and later a position with him as private secretary.

In Johnson's later years, when illness forced him out of the office, Harridge virtually ran the league. When Johnson finally was ousted, in 1927, after his fight with several club owners and Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Harridge was named secretary of the League in Barnard's office. In that capacity he has succeeded and received the friendship and support of Commissioner Landis.

Edwards May Be Secretary.

Henry Edwards, public service secretary of the League under Bernard's regime, probably will succeed Harridge as League secretary, although he declined to discuss the question. However, he did laud the club owners, umpires and players for their spirit of "carry on."

"Everyone in the League seems to have caught the spirit of good will as never before," Edwards said. "We haven't had a complaint on an umpire or about a player so far this season. Everybody is working hard and I think we're going to have one of the best seasons in many years."

KADERBECK TO MEET CARMEN DURSO, MAY 11

Harold "Spider" Kaderbeck, South Side bantamweight, who is the present Western A. A. U. 118-pound champion, and Carmen Durso, have signed to clash in a special bout on the D. A. Club's next amateur boxing card. Matchmaker Art Craig will hold the show Monday night, May 11, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 3547 Olive.

BILLIKENS BEAT VETS AND FROSH, 44 TO 7, TO END SPRING TRYOUTS

1931 Notre Dame Squad Beats 1930 Champions, 19-0

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 2.

NOTRE DAME'S champions of 1929 and 1930 went down in defeat before candidates for the 1931 football team in the Notre Dame stadium today. The score was 19 to 0. It was the annual spring game, and marked the end of football training until fall.

The 1930 team was intact save for Metzger, Kassis, Capt. Conley and Mullins, but it was outcharged and outrun by the new candidates for backfield and line. The thrusts of Carideo, Brill, Schwartz and Lukats were stopped at the line of scrimmage.

The veterans made only two first downs against 10 for the reserves and only once—in the second quarter—did Marchmont Schwartz, break away for a 25-yard run.

Six weeks of spring football practice at St. Louis University was brought to a close at the new stadium on Oakland avenue, yesterday afternoon, with a regulation game in which leading aspirants for places on next fall's eleven swamped a team composed of former lettermen and freshmen by a score of 44—7.

If the score of the contest, which was played under a broiling sun, is any indication of the ability of Coach Walsh's men to solve Illinois University's style of offense and defense, Bob Zuppke is due for a surprise when the Billikens travel to Urbana next fall for their second game of the season.

Illinois' offensive formations and its lineup on defense were employed exclusively by the alumni-freshman aggregation with slight success. The varsity's defense against this style of play is best demonstrated by the figures of the game which shows that only three first downs were registered with Zuppke's pet ground-gainers.

Freshmen Score Lone Touchdown.

It remained for two freshmen ball carriers to score the only touchdown, late in the last quarter, for the humbled grads. Arenz, giant left halfback from Flat River, Mo., passed 10 yards to Hook Brown, at left halfback, who then raced 65 yards down the side lines for the lone marker. Arenz converted the extra point with a kick from placement.

Bob McCoole, regular left halfback, and Manuel Rapp, star fullback from the frosh, shared honors with Benny La Presta and Carl Pike, in the varsity backfield. McCoole and Rapp each scored two touchdowns and La Presta and Pike one each. George McGowan, regular end last year, intercepted a long pass from Arenz and ran 65 yards to score the varsity's other touchdown.

La Presta started the scoring for the varsity when he caught a perfectly-executed pass from Bassett for a 30-yard gain and a touchdown shortly after the game opened. A short punt by Cornell, who played tackle for the grads, put the ball in scoring position. La Presta kicked goal for the extra point.

McCoole scored his first touchdown after Pike placed the ball on the one-yard line. Pike came right back a few plays later in the same quarter and ran 35 yards through an open field for another six points. McCoole placed the ball in scoring position in the third quarter with a 40-yard pass to Minkey, right end, who took it to the 10-yard line. McCoole then took it over on an end run. Rapp scored his other touchdown in the fourth quarter with a 30-yard run and three line plunges.

WRAY'S COLUMN

er's Row" would have been to wreck the club. Huggins decided to convert them. It was hard sledding. In the end Huggins won them over to his side, gained their respect and showed his mastery by subsequently pacifying the outfit into a well behaved, contented crew.

The lavish use of Jake Ruppert's money had much to do with this, it is true. But in this case diplomacy and money were well invested, when the cost of wrecking the club and buying a new one to equal it is considered.

To Build You Must Buy.

THE Browns' policy is to rebuild with young men who can be developed along Killefer's ideas. Theoretically this may be O K. Actually it has been found impracticable, in recent years. You can't dilute a mediocre major league club with 50 per cent of minor league talent and expect it to chase Connie Mack's club out of first place.

A number of teams have tried this in the last 20 years without garnishing the club treasury to any extent.

The chain-store system of developing players, and the investment of a mint of money, are about the only successful systems of collecting a winning outfit today.

The One Thing Needed.

NO matter whether Carnera fights Sharkey in Brooklyn, June 10, for Jimmy Johnston or battles with the Schmeling-Stribling fight victor for Madison Square Garden at Cleveland, there is one thing that must happen if the fight game is to be restored even in part to popular favor. Either Sharkey or Carnera must score decisively.

Neither Schmeling nor Stribling has won the confidence of the fans. A title victory by either would leave the public apathetic. Jack Sharkey will be accepted on condition that he accomplish everything he attempts in the future, to offset having failed in his efforts in the past. If he fights Carnera and knocks him out, that will be a good start. If he then stops the winner of the Cleveland title bout, he will clear the atmosphere completely.

"Prime Beef" Going Up.

THE real kick for fans will come when and if Carnera knocks out Sharkey and then cleans up Schmeling or Stribling. In that case a new and interesting champion will be available, one who, by reason of his size and physical stamina, could become almost as spectacular as Dempsey and his mighty punch.

Fans demand not so much a champion as a superman. It will find none in Sharkey, Stribling or Schmeling. It may find one in Carnera, if he steam rollers his way to the top. He is tremendous enough for this to be a possibility.

Fans everywhere are saying that those in power will not allow a foreigner to get away with the title. But Schmeling won it last year. Firpo almost had it in 1923 and it is only a question of time before a European national takes it from our best.

Carnera may be the man.

Not Yet but Soon.

THE new Missouri boxing bill has not yet become a law, but it is now up to the Governor and he is expected to approve it. Under it, bouts up to 15 rounds are legalized, as are decisions rendered by two judges and a referee. That part of the new bill which changes the old one reads as follows:

"Section 13,000. That the Athletic Commission of the State of Missouri shall not grant any permit to hold boxing exhibitions in the State except: (3) Where such exhibition shall not be of more than 15 rounds of three minutes each duration, and provided, further, that in such contests a decision may be rendered by two judges and a referee appointed by the commission."

This means that decisions may be ordered on ALL bouts no matter of what duration.

This new bill, which was sponsored by George Hook of the City Boxing Commission and supported by Seneca Taylor, the State boxing commissioner, should open the door for bigger and better boxing in this State. It has been suggested that good fighters who once consented to box here under no-decision conditions will no longer care to risk their reputations in St. Louis under a decision law.

St. Louis, however, can do without fighters who want to come only on condition that they can avoid an official defeat. There are plenty of boxers willing to give their best on a decision basis.

The new law opens the way for title fights and to bring the real top notchers here not against setups, but against their equals.

RED SOX DOWN WASHINGTON IN 10 INNINGS TO SPLIT TWIN BILL

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, May 2. — Washington and Boston broke even in today's double-header, the Red Sox coming from behind to win the nightcap, 3 to 2, in 10 innings after the Senators had captured the first game, 6 to 2.

Washington pounded three Red Sox pitchers for 13 hits to score its victory, young Carl Fischer keeping nine Sox blows well strung out. A homer by Earl Webb accounted for one of the two runs credited to the Sox.

A strong finish enabled the Red Sox to triumph in the second after the Senators had scored twice in the fifth inning. They tied it up in the ninth on a single by Berry and Muddy Ruel's double and won in the tenth on Rhyne's single, a sacrifice and Oliver's single.

BARGELLO WINS CLARK HANDICAP, PITTSBURGHER THE SEELBACH

INSCO AMONG THE ALSO-RANS IN FIELD OF 10 DERBY HORSES

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—Bargello, sporting the popular Eton blue silks of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, raced to a hollow victory in the fifty-seventh renewal of the Clark Handicap, stellar attraction of the opening day card at Churchill Downs here today.

At the finish of the mile and 1-16 journey, which was negotiated in 1:44 4-5, the old son of Bunting had a five-length lead over W. H. Whitehouse's Royal Julian, which, in turn, beat Southland Stable's Playtime a neck for the place. Herbert W. Woolf's Lady Broadcast was a bad fourth. The race was worth $10,110 to the winner.

Prince d'Amour cut out a fast early pace, closely followed by Bargello and Manta. At the three-quarters Prince d'Amour and Manta retired and Bargello raced into a long lead to win galloping. Royal Julian came from far back to get the place from the tiring Playtime. Bargello rewarded his backers $21.56 for each $2 ticket.

The Seelbach Purse, which shared interest with the Clark, brought together 10 of the more highly rated Western candidates for the Derby. The winner turned up in Theodore Mueller's Pittsburgher, an outsider in the betting, and he now looms as a real threat for Derby honors.

Pittsburgher led Spanish Play, winner of the Louisiana Derby, by a length. The latter had a five-length margin over Don Leon for the place.

The disappointment of the race was Insco. On the strength of sensational trials the Watkins colt was backed to two to one favoritism, but failed to show speed at any part of it.

Pittsburgher covered the six and one-half furlongs in 1:17 4-5, within one-fifth of the track record. He paid $26.28 for each $2 ticket.

PAUL BUNYAN WINS THE $15,000 DIXIE HANDICAP

PIMLICO, Md., May 2. — Paul Bunyan, displaying the racing silks of L. M. Severson, turned in a most impressive performance here this afternoon when he took the measure of nine good distance performers in the twenty-seventh running of the Dixie Handicap that was valued at $15,000 added, and which was worth exactly $15,425 to the Severson coffers.

The Dixie was the big attraction for a tremendous turnout. There was a slight change in the track following intermittent overnight rains, but despite the soggy condition of the racing strip, excellent time was recorded in the feature as well as the other events.

In the Dixie Paul Bunyan on parade appeared uninterested in the proceedings and walked postward very unconcerned. However, he was anxious at the barrier and with the field sent on its journey, he was right up with the leaders. Circling around on the outside of Frisius and Fortunate Youth without much trouble when leaving the back stretch, the Severson starter readily assumed command and as he flashed across the winning mark a gap of 10 lengths separated him from Frisius, which saved second for the Belair Stud. W. E. Caskey supplied the one to earn third in William I, while Fortunate Youth easily bested the others.

St. Louisan to Act as Starter At Harness Meet

TOLEDO, O., May 2.—The Toledo Driving Club officials announced they had closed registrations for a mid-summer light harness meet to be held at Fort Miami track, the week of July 27. The meet will not be conducted under the banner of the Grand Circuit, but the cream of The Toledo Driving Club will give prizes aggregating $25,000 and officials of the club are visiting prominent training camps in an effort to obtain entries for the stake races.

Among the early entries that have been received are those from the stables of Walter Candler, of Atlanta; E. J. Baker, St. Charles, Ill., sportsman; Sep Palin, Hoosier reinsman; Dr. Hugh M. Parshall of Urbana, O., and The Grove Farm of Tarboro, N. C.

Efforts are being made to induce Baker to send his champion Winnipeg, 1:57¼ to the meeting. Winnipeg set the record at Fort Miami a few seasons ago. Dr. Parshall, who led the country with a total of 74 victories last season, has promised to ship 25 horses to Fort Miami.

EQUIPOISE FAILS TO SHOW 1930 FORM IN MUD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 2.—Trainer Freddy Hopkins, who is looking after Equipoise for Cornelius Vanderbilt, took his colt out this morning and breezed him a mile and a furlong in 2:01.

Equipoise went the first mile in 1:47. He did not appear to stride as freely as he usually does but his people seemed satisfied with the work. The clockers, however, were not impressed with the move. Hopkins said that "Equipoise did all that was asked of him and considering that the footing was muddy, his trial was quite satisfactory."

It rained here all night and early in the morning. Last year Equipoise showed that he could run in the mud as well as over a fast track. His move this morning was part of his preparation in keying up the colt for a public trial between the races on Wednesday when he will be put to a real speed test. Much will depend on his showing in this trial whether he will keep his engagement in the Preakness. There is no question but what his sickness at Havre de Grace set the colt back a bit. In his gallop this morning he went the first mile in 1:47.

Since his illness at Havre de Grace, Equipoise's odds have receded a point or two in the future books and he is now an equal favorite with Twenty Grand for the Derby at 4 to 1.

DERBY ELIGIBLES IN GOOD WORKOUTS OVER CHURCHILL COURSE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—Camp Prince and Chief John, Kentucky Derby eligibles, covered three-quarters of a mile in 1:14 3-5 in a workout at Churchill Downs today, looking good because they were breezing.

The pair, entered by John Marsch of Chicago, working together ran the quarter in :24 3-5 and the half in :49 flat.

Down Pour, the Valley Lake Stable's eligible, was sent over the quarter in :23 3-5 in preparation for a longer workout tomorrow.

Lightning Bolt, winner of the Florida Derby and entered for the American and Latonia Derbies, but not the Kentucky Derby, breezed a mile in 1:42 3-5. He was caught at the half in :49 2-5 and the three quarters in 1:15 flat. Lightning Bolt is owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney.

FLEETING MEMORY WINS VICTORIA CUP EVENT

By the Associated Press.

HURST PARK, England, May 2.—Sol Joel's Fleeting Memory today won the Victoria Cup Handicap by a length from C. Wadia's filly, Silver Clover. Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite, third in the 1929 Derby, was third, three-quarters of a length back. Silver Clover was the favorite at 13 to 2.

Auto Race Postponed.

By the Associated Press.

LANGHORNE, Pa., May 2.—A 100-mile dirt road automobile race which was to have been held here today was postponed because of rain. It will be held next Saturday.

The Turf's Nerviest "Welsher"

How "Baldy" Ryan Cleaned Up $7500 Laying Even Money Against 1 to 5 Shot and Running Away With Money When Nag Won.

Thomas N. Kearney, veteran St. Louis betting commissioner, whose future book quotations are accepted as standard all over the country, has recounted a series of turf incidents of 30 or more years ago. This is the third, others will follow.

By Thomas M. Kearney.

(As told to a Post-Dispatch Representative.)

The expression, "A Welsher," comes to us from the English turf. It means a racing rogue, bookmaker or pool room owner, who accepts bets on a horse race with no intention of paying off on the winners, the "welsher" taking "french leave" before or while the race is run.

Tom Kearney.

In the good old days George McManus, father of the famous cartoonist; Jimmy Newell, then doorkeeper of the Merchants' Exchange, and Alfred H. Spink, newspaper man and sport promoter, operated the South Side track, Missouri and Russell avenues, where the McKinley High School now stands.

South Side's growing popularity annoyed the owners of a rival race track in North St. Louis and they hired "Baldy" Ryan, noted character in his day, to stage a "welshing" stunt at South Side, the idea being to bankrupt the South Side track owners, who would have had to reimburse the bettors or close their gates.

Even Money on 1-5 Shot.

Ryan arranged to pull off the "welshing" stunt on a Saturday, the big day of the week at South Side. Thirty-five hundred pop-eyed "hoss" players packed the tiny betting ring and when the Bald Eagle posted EVEN MONEY on Cherokee John in the feature event there was a mad rush to get aboard the good thing.

Cherokee John figured a legitimate 1-to-5 shot and the other bookies opened the horse at a prohibitive price, so RYAN got all the play. Ryan took in about $7500, obligating the book to pay out around $15,000, IF CHEROKEE JOHN WON.

Cherokee John proceeded to do that very thing, galloping home many lengths to the good of his field. The Bald Eagle and his crew, which included Pacing Dick, Dirty Mick and other redoubtable racing characters, also "took it on the lam"—made themselves scarce. While the angry bettors were yelling for their money, Cole Ullman grabbed Ryan, as he sneaked out of the gate, and said:

"You aren't goin' to run out on me, are you Baldy?"

"I pay off at my stand in the bettin' ring, not at the gate," was "Baldy's" cheerful response.

The trick bookmaker then "beat it" down Russell avenue with an enraged mob of "hoss" players at his heels.

The police saved Ryan from being lynched. He was arraigned in the police court the next morning and pleaded his own case, alleging that all betting on horse racing was illegal—which it was then. The police judge took that view of the case and discharged Ryan.

Here's Nerve for You.

Ryan, who had unmitigated nerve, invested his ill-gotten gains in a new saloon at Broadway and Elm, across the street from Tom Faust's celebrated resort. Ryan called his place the Cherokee John cafe, naming it in honor of the horse that enabled him to get his stake.

Spink, Newell, McManus and associates had to do a lot of "digging" to raise $7,500 required to reimburse Cherokee John bettors but they managed to do it and later made big money at the South Side track, which was the first race establishment in the history of the sport to stage night racing.

James Todhunter Sloan, who rode Volodyovski to victory in the colors of William C. Whitney in the English Derby at Epsom Downs, inaugurated his riding career at South Side. I was at the track the day Tod piloted Homi Bill to victory, his first win down there. Tod is still living and in the employ of Jimmy Coffroth at Agua Caliente last winter. Tom Sharkey, the old prize fighter, and Jim Jeffries, former fistic champion, also worked for Coffroth at the Mexican race track last winter.

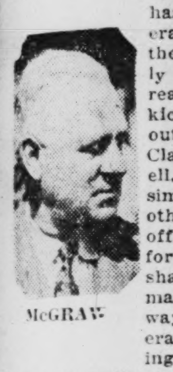
EARLY GAMES INDICATE CLOSE FLAG FIGHTS, McGRAW WRITES

VETERAN STARS GIVE ALL CLUBS UNEXPECTED AID IN TWO LEAGUES

By John J. McGraw.
Manager, New York Giants.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The big thing about the 1931 baseball season is that the tightness of the races will be more prolonged instead of waiting for midsummer or fall for interest to center on three or four teams. In fact, it's a real race already. In all my baseball years, I have never seen such enthusiasm in the spring.

Practically every team in the major leagues is getting early help from unexpected quarters, bringing about a balance that is making the clubs show their class.



McGRAW.

Warm weather has let the veterans loose and they are certainly showing their real stuff. The kick I am getting out of seeing Clarence Mitchell, Fred Fitzsimmons and others step right off at the start for the Giants is shared by other managers in the way their veterans are starting. Herb Pennock and Ruffing are away from the post for the Yanks; Grimes and Haines for the Cardinals; Kremer for the Pirates; Walberg for the A's; Seibold for the Braves. Then there is another big kick in the work of men like Stephenson of the Cubs; Maranville of the Braves; Leach for the Giants; Willie Kamm for the White Sox, to say nothing of Babe Ruth, who was going great until that injury upset him in Boston. In the past most of those men have been late starters.

Will Be a Long Fight.

As a result of unusually early show of form the teams, with the possible exception of Brooklyn, are bunched at the gateway just as they were expected to be bunched in midsummer. In the National League the Cardinals, Giants, Cubs and Braves are right up in the fight, while the American League already indicates a long fight between the A's, the Yanks, the Senators and Cleveland.

So far the Boston Braves have shown the most improvement. They have a good spirit which is kept up by the way Rabbit Maranville is capering around like a young colt. McKechnie is also getting good pitching. My early prediction that the Giants with their powerful attack would be just as good as their pitchers is being confirmed. I am happy to say that those pitchers have knuckled right down to their work making us a strong contender.

The Cardinals already have shown the strength of their well balanced pitching staff and will be a tough nut to crack all season. The Cubs have shown punch but it's a little too early to properly rate them as a machine.

Veterans Keep Going.

Fears that some of the Washington veterans might show signs of slipping this season have not been verified. Johnson's oldtimers are right up there with the rest of the seasoned vets. Keeping them there is the problem of every manager and, as I say, don't figure the work of two weeks as that of a season.

The Cleveland club seems a sure comer. Many American League men think they'll be just as tough as the Senators, if not tougher. Either of those clubs has a real job on its hands stopping those Yanks, though.

In answer to many question about the new ball—it has, in my opinion, helped pitching but hasn't hurt real solid hitters. The ball is undoubtedly slightly slower, especially in the National League. I can't see any real change in the American League ball.

Billiard Star
To Play Here

WILLIE HOPPE

COCHRANE AND HOPPE APPEAR HERE TOMORROW

Willie Hoppe, for many years the king of all billiard players, and Welker Cochrane, 18.1 balkline champion, will appear in St. Louis tomorrow and Tuesday in billiard exhibition at Peterson's Billiard Academy.

The St. Louis exhibitions will mark the first appearance of Hoppe and Cochrane in St. Louis since they withdrew from the Brunswick-Balke organization and formed a billiard association of their own, known as the Federation of Billiard Players, with which other leading stars of the billiard world are affiliated.

Hoppe and Cochrane will give four exhibitions on their two-day visit. Each session will consist of a 250-point game of 18.2 balkline, and a 25-point game of three-cushions, these to be followed by an exhibition of fancy shots. The afternoon play will start at 3 o'clock and the night at 8 o'clock.

ZAHARIAS AND POJELLO ON WEDNESDAY'S MAT CARD AT COLISEUM

Karl Pojello, Chicago Lithuanian, meets George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., in the main event of four heavyweight mat bouts to be held Wednesday night at the Coliseum.

Pojello, weighing around 194 pounds, in St. Louis bouts has wrestled a 45-minute draw with Ray Steele of Glendale, Cal., and scored victories over Martinez Larrea of Mexico and August Bankert of Sweden.

Zaharias has lost to Milo Steinborn, Jim McMillan, Rudy Dusek and Pat O'Shocker in the more important of his local engagements. He has been credited with victories over Jim Clinkstock, Ernie Dusek, Fred Grobmeier, George Balzer, Jack Sampson and Frank Brunowiecz. He also wrestled Rudy Dusek to a draw in one set-to here and gained a draw with Paul Jones in another.

The semi-windup of Wednesday night's program brings the red-headed Pat O'Shocker of Salt Lake City, against John Maxos, hefty New York Greek, in a one-fall event with a time limit of 45 minutes.

Dick Warner, a former Nebraska University wrestling coach, will be introduced to local fans in the second preliminary, a 30-minute limit bout, in which he engages Marshall Blackstock of Atlanta, Ga. The curtain-raiser brings Nazzarini Poggi of Italy, against Joe Cox of Kansas City, in another 30-minute limit affair.

ST. LOUIS STARS WIN FROM DETROIT IN SERIES OPENER, 8-2

The Negro National Baseball League race opened yesterday afternoon with a lot of pomp but not much splendor when the St. Louis Stars raised their 1930 pennant, and short speeches were made by the Rev. John F. Moreland, master of ceremonies. Alderman Walter Neun pitched the first ball and his son, Walter, was the receiver.

The St. Louis Stars started the league race by defeating the Detroit Stars, 8 to 2.

A double-header is scheduled for this afternoon with the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock.

BELLEVILLE FIVES LEAD IN WOMEN'S TENPIN TOURNEY

The Lucky Strikes of Belleville and the All Electric Bakery team of Belleville finished one two on the opening squad of the St. Louis Woman's Interstate tournament on the Wellston Recreation alleys last night. Specks five of this city was third, and the Hub Recreation of Kenosha was fourth. The Lucky Strikes shot 2273, rolling three consistent games 762, 770 and 741. Miss R. Pauley led with games of 136, 173 and 192 a total of 501. Mrs. A. Hesse rolled 458, Mrs. E. Ehret 451, Mrs. C. Hoge 452 and Mrs. R. Mantle 411.

For the All Electric team Mrs. Bietle was high with 475 and the team shot 2220. Speck's Market shot 2088 with H. Bultman scoring 446 for the thirty frames. The Hub Recreation totaled 2066, Mrs. J. Webb was high with 474, Mrs. E. Swartz former secretary of the Woman's International Congress was not in form rolling 423.

Other score were—Pollyannas shot 2050; Orpheums Springfield (Ill.) 1989; Badger Alleys of Kenosha, 1982; Daus, 1894; Alhambra Grotto Auxiliary Ladies No. 1, 1730; Bailey Circle Daughters of Isabelle No. 2, 1720; Alhambra Grotto Ladies No. 2, 1693; Bailey Circle D. of I No. 2, 1613.

The Springfield team will bowl their doubles and singles starting at 12 noon and the Belleville and Kenosha women will bowl doubles and singles at 2 o'clock today.

Amateur Boxers In Benefit for Kardenski Family

Crack amateur boxers of every weight division, including several champions of the Mississippi Valley A. A., will compete in the special and preliminary events of an interclub tournament to be held at the Battery Arena on the night of May 14 as a benefit for the family of Bill Kardinski, popular young Belleville athlete, who died April 23 from injuries he suffered while in training for a bout he had scheduled on last Monday night's benefit card at The Arena.

The Battery tournament, sponsored by the National A. A., under whose banner Kardinski battled his way to a top-ranking position in local amateur competition, has been assured of the support of every club operating under the supervision of the Mississippi Valley A. A., according to Jack Callahan, who managed Kardinski. Fifty per cent of the proceeds will be turned over to the Kardinski family.

Arrangements of the special attractions will be in the hands of Willie Miller, matchmaker for the South Broadway A. C., who stated last night that he has already enrolled Charley Schober, middleweight champion of the Valley organization, and Cliff Doetzel, the bantam titleholder, as candidates for matches.

Miller arranged the four interclub battles which provided the amateur boxing features of the recent Arena tourney and he is now seeking to schedule a return battle between Schober and Joe Huff in response to the middleweight fistic monarch's plea for a chance to redeem the close defeat he suffered in their hard-fought encounter.

Doetzel has advised tourney officials that he is ready to take on any local challenger of Class A rating.

The prelim events are open to registered amateur boxers of every weight and tourney officials expect to line up at least 30 candidates for pairings.

MUNICIPAL HORSESHOE LEAGUE SEASON OPENS AT FAIRGROUNDS TODAY

The Municipal Horseshoe League will open its season at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Fairgrounds Park. The league is expected to be the strongest in history.

The Sunset Parks have "Lefty" Lou Steinmann, individual city champion and the only left-handed tosser in the Muny. Frank Meyer, an ex-titleholder, is another member of the club. The Kuhlmans will have the same lineup that won the championship in division two last year. The Plegges will have the youngest team.

The Angelicas have George Rathke, runnerup to Steinmann in the city title series last year. The Liberty Bells have Jack Strawhun and Al Michell of the old Flint team, while the Larrs have Oliver Parker also of the Flints.

E. St. Louis High Gains Even Break In Double-Header

The East St. Louis high school baseball team split even in a baseball doubleheader with the Routt Prep. school of Jacksonville, Ill., yesterday afternoon on the East Side diamond. The Jacksonville team won in the first game, 16 to 6, while in the second game the East Side team trimmed Jacksonville boys, 9 to 2.

The East Side team in its last 12 games has won 10 times. The East Siders have a return engagement with the Routt school on May 23, to be played at Jacksonville.

In the first game Coach Nolen used three pitchers — Stephens, Hraba and Hinson, but the Jacksonville team made 15 hits. Lawless, Jacksonville pitcher, hit a home run. Forrest Wells, Ray Rice, and Alvin Majesky, also got four-baggers.

MUNY LEAGUE PITCHER STRIKES OUT 18 BATTERS

Firing started along all sections of the Municipal Baseball Association front yesterday afternoon in the Saturday division, with teams in all Saturday leagues wheeling into action. The Saturday teams were a week late in getting started due to the adverse weather a week ago.

Opening play in the Saturday division brought few sensational performances, but on the whole the games were well played.

Boget Fans 18 Batters.

The best individual feat of the day was credited to Pitcher Boget of the Tabernacle Baptists in the South Side Church League. He struck out 18 batters in pitching against Dr. Fry M. E. nine, allowed only four hits, and walked three. The Tabernacle team triumphed, 11-0.

The Manchesters and the M-K-T Flyers, in the Commercial League, waged a game that was a battle right down to the last out in the ninth, with the Manchester on top, 8 to 7. The ultimate winners took the lead in the first by scoring two runs, while the Flyers tallied their first run in the third.

The Manchesters increased their lead in the seventh, scoring twice, but the Flyers got back in the game in their half by putting across three runs. That made the score 5-4, the Manchesters still leading. Both teams scored one run in the eighth, and two runs each in the ninth left the Manchesters with their one-run margin of victory.

Currans Beat Naps, 5-2.

In the other Commercial League game the Naps A. C. and the Curran nine put up an interesting battle, with the Currans winning out, 5-2. George Curran and Roth, pitching for the victors, held the opposition to six hits.

C. Williams, pitching for the Long Lines in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial No. 1 League, allowed McQuay-Norris only four hits, which enabled the Long Lines to come through with a 4-to-2 victory. Williams' effectiveness may have been due in some part to the fact that he couldn't control the ball, on occasion. He sent four men down to first "hit by pitcher." He walked two. The Long Lines' pitcher was also effective as a batter, getting two two-baggers in four times up.

61st Annual Crew Race at Western Club

The sixty-first annual spring invitation meet of the Western Rowing Club will be held today on the Mississippi, with every rowing club in St. Louis, excepting one, entered in the two races on the official program.

The feature race will be a four-oared shell event at a mile, downstream. It will be an open event with both senior and juior crews from all clubs eligible to compete. Following the four-oar shell race, a junior barge race will be held over the same distance. Six men row in barge events for each club.

Clubs which have entered crews are Century, Western, St. Louis and Central. The North End Rowing Club had not submitted its entry late last night, but may enter today.

The finish of the two races today will be at the Western Rowing Club, 5000 South Broadway. The first race will be at 3 o'clock.

Weight Lifting Meet.

Three Western A. A. U. weightlifters successfully defended their championship laurels, and three new champions were crowned in the second annual weight lifting championship contests held last night at the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

Albert Michell, featherweight; John Kersting, welterweight, and Edward Zercher, middleweight, were the three successful title holders, while Harry Evans, bantamweight; Edgar Farber, light-heavyweight, and Henry Kersting Jr., heavyweight, are the new champions.

EAST ST. LOUIS MUNY AND INDEPENDENT SEASONS OPEN TODAY

The official baseball season will be ushered in this afternoon in East St. Louis when the Municipal and Independent Leagues play their first games. The Municipal games will be played at the Jones Park in East St. Louis, while the Independent games will be played on the diamonds of the league teams.

The schedule for the Municipal League for this afternoon will be the East Sides against the Greyhounds on Diamond No. 1, and the M. and O's against the Polish National Alliance on Diamond No. 2.

The Municipal League was won last year by the Polish National Alliance team and from all indications they will repeat. There will be nine games in each half and the winners of each half will meet in a post-season play-off at the end of the season.

The Independent League is composed of six teams with a 20-game program that will be finished Sept. 13. The league will begin its first year of existence when the program gets under way this afternoon. The schedule is as follows: Central State St. A. C. vs. Mirrings at Fifty-first and State street; Stenzels vs. Randalls at Thirty-fifth and Brady; and the Dauers vs. Food Distributors at Seventy-ninth and State

Many Invited To Four Tea Parties Today

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Claggett, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Wood and Mrs. Gustav Bischoff to Entertain.

SUNDAY afternoon tea parties are providing pleasant diversion for the socially prominent. Four such affairs have been planned for today.

About 130 guests have been invited to tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Claggett, 5115 Lindell boulevard, this afternoon complimenting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William N. Claggett Jr. of Los Angeles, Cal., who, with their small son, William N. III, have arrived in St. Louis for a month's visit.

Spring blossoms with peach tints predominating, will be used in the house decorations. The candle-lit tea table will be presided over by Mrs. James Douglas Streett, Miss Marie Wilson, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Martha Pettus, Mrs. Fielding Childress, Mrs. John D. Fanciscus, Mrs. William Alexis Borders and others.

The guests will include a group of the debutantes and the young married set, some of them friends of Mr. and Mrs. Claggett's son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs. Donald Danforth.

Mr. and Mrs. Claggett Jr. will remain until early June, when they will go to Cleveland, O., to be the guests of Mrs. Claggett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Jones will be host and hostess at a large tea this afternoon at their new country place, Beverly Hall, in Huntleigh Village, the first large party to be given there. The entire lower floor will be decorated with flowers, many of them gathered from the gardens of Beverly Hall. The tea table, arranged in the dining room, will be adorned with spring blossoms and lighted by yellow tapers in silver candelabra. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will receive in the drawing room before the fireplace, which has been banked in greenery and flowers. She will wear a gown of white chiffon and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

The guests, numbering several hundred, also will be entertained on the terrace which affords a view of many miles of surrounding country. The portico has been decorated in bowls of red tulips and ferneries holding white geraniums. Red and white chairs under bright umbrellas add a note of color to the terrace. The house, colonial in design, with its great white pillars and carved arches, is authentically furnished and decorated, and is one of the most attractive places in Huntleigh.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Jones in entertaining their guests will be members of their family including: Mrs. Wilkins Jones, Mrs. Le Grand Jones, Mrs. Senter B. Jones, Miss Cornelia, Miss Harries and Miss Julia Jones. The tea table will be in charge of Mrs. E. G. Rolwing, Mrs. Walter L. Mayne, Mrs. Charles H. Krause II, Mrs. James T. Pettus, Mrs. Griffin Watkins, Mrs. Benedict Farrar, Mrs. William S. Ford, Mrs. Bryan Mullanphy Taylor and Miss Louise Keeshan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Beall Caywood, the latter formerly Miss Marian Rugg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Rugg, 10 North Kingshighway, will be guests of honor at a mixed tea this afternoon for which Mr. and Mrs. Neal S. Wood, 10 North Kingshighway, will be host and hostess.

The tea table will be decorated in an arrangement of spring flowers and illuminated by ivory tapers in antique silver candelabra. Those serving will include Miss Elizabeth Cabell Gray, Mrs. George Mulroy, Mrs. Robert Arthur, Mrs. Walter Stanley and Mrs. Arthur Bond of Mexico, Mo. Seventy-five guests have been invited to call between 5 and 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Gustave Bischoff Jr. has invited a party of friends to her home in Forest Ridge for a garden party this afternoon, preceding her departure on a journey East where she will join her daughter, Miss Marion Bischoff, who departed a few days ago. Tea will be served in the dining room, which is to be decorated with spring flowers and illuminated by ivory tapers. The guests will be invited to view the garden, which is filled with blooming tulips.

Those serving will be Miss Mildred and Miss Dorothy Burg, Mis Lula Schaefer and Mrs. Carl Soes

Next Saturday afternoon Dr. an Mrs. W. McKim Marriott will giv a tea at their home, 6 Fair Oak Mrs. John Beverly Robinson, moth er of the hostess, and Dr. and Mr George R. Throop will assist receiving the guests, who have bee invited from 4 to 7 o'clock. Mr Sherwood Moore, Mrs. Philip Schaffer, Mrs. Evarts Graham, M Walter L. Upson, Mrs. Walter McCourt, Mrs. Leo Loeb and M Francis H. Pough will serve.

NEW YORK, May 2.

MISS HULDAH JUSTICE WILLIAMS, daughter of Berkeley Williams of Richmond, Va., was married at 6:30 o'clock this evening to Barron Proctor Lambert, son of Mrs. Helen C. Smith Lambert, 270 Park avenue, formerly of St. Louis, and the late Jordan W. Lambert. A reception at Sunnycrest, the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Williams, in West Hampton, Richmond, followed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. C. W. Sheerin, in Grace and Holy Trinity Church, Richmond.

Miss Amelia P. Woodward was maid of honor, and Mrs. Henry C. Hoar, matron of honor. The other bridal attendants were Miss Maude Williams, Miss Nora Lee Antrim, Miss Elizabeth Lee Valentine and Mrs. Jordan W. Lambert. Miss Margery Daniel and John Greene Carley were flower girl and page, respectively.

Mr. Williams gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory satin made with cowl neckline, and circular train formed by the skirt. Her veil, of old family lace and tulle, was held with orange blossoms, and she carried lilies of the valley and orchids, tied with velvet streamers. All of the bridal attendants wore crepe de chine frocks of turquoise blue made on simple lines. The maid and matron of honor carried arm bou-

Weddings and Engagements

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Friday night of the engagement of Miss Carol Frances Cole, daughter of Dr. Carol Skinner Cole, 5770 Waterman avenue, and William Theodore Bingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bingham of New York. The news was told at a dinner party given by Dr. Cole for 18 of her daughter's college friends. Miss Cole is a member of Alpha Delta Pi and Bingham of Alpha Kappa Psi and Acacia. They were graduated in the same class from the University of Wisconsin. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Marian Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Brown of 6931 Mitchell avenue, will be married May 31 to William H. Newbery Jr., of San Antonio, Tex., formerly of this city. The wedding will take place in San Antonio. After a honeymoon through Mexico the pair will make their home in San Antonio. Miss Brown formerly attended Washington University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. Newbery also attended Washington University.

The marriage of Miss Jean Berger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Berger, 1373 Clara avenue, and Alfred Blanke, son of Mrs. Esther Blanke, 4348 Lafayette avenue, will take place Tuesday afternoon at the United Hebrew Temple, Rabbi Samuel Thurman officiating. Mr. Blanke and his bride will receive their friends Tuesday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock at the home of her parents.

The marriage of Miss Arline Finke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Finke, 4819 Fountain avenue, St. Louis, to Leland Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Richardson of New York, took place Monday at 1' o'clock, in Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral in Washington, the Rev. C. Avery Mason, Rector of Ascension Church, New York, officiating. A breakfast followed at the Wardman Park Hotel. The Richardsons will reside on Park Road, N. W., Washington.

The marriage of Miss Lucia Burnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burnett, Bowling Green, Fla., and Vincent P. Arcilesi of St. Louis will take place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Third Baptist Church. The Rev. Dr. Samuel E. Ewing will perform the ceremony. Miss Jesteen Fetterhoff will be maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Bea Vensloff, Miss Mary Marino and Miss Ester Ebers. John Errante will be best man, and the ushers are to be John Sigillito, Joseph Scanga and Jasper Bonventre. Verla Jean Wild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Wild of Troy, Ill., will be flower girl, and Jasper Arcilesi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Arcilesi, 5039 Maffitt avenue, ring bearer.

A musical program will be given before the ceremony. The bride has been making her home in St. Louis this winter.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Viola Olivia Herbst, daughter of Mrs. Edward Sanders of 3924 Michigan avenue, to William Theodore Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wilhelm, 6809 Bradley avenue.

The wedding will be solemnized at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in St. Anthony's Church. A breakfast at Bevo Mill will follow the church ceremony, and in the evening a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's sister, Miss Alice Herbst, will be maid of honor. Miss Henrietta Valentine, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Chmelir will be bridesmaids. Anthony J. Valentine will be best man and Raymond B. Valentine groomsman. Both are brothers of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schneider, 5936 Hamilton avenue, will announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Libby Schneider, to Benjamin Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schwartz, 3406 Greenwood avenue, at a supper party this evening at their home.

The wedding of Miss Nettie Mandel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Mandel, 6836 Kingsbury boulevard, to Alfred Martin Gladstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gladstein, McAlester, Ok., will take place Teusday morning in the Congress Hotel tower, Dr. Samuel Thurman officiating. A breakfast for the family and close friends will follow the ceremony. After their honeymoon Mr. Gladstein and his bride will make their home in Oklahoma City, Ok.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Marty, 4460 Lexington avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Marie Marty, to Arthur Feager on April 13. Mr. and Mrs. Feager are at home at 1101 Forest avenue.

The engagement of Miss Placide Marie FitzRoy of Pine Lawne, Mo., to Ralph M. Ziegenfuss, 3926 Michigan avenue, was announced last evening at a party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. FitzRoy, in Pine Lawn.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

THE activities of the Wednesday Club will close with the ceremonies of inauguration day, Saturday, May 9. The newly elected officers to be installed are: President, Mrs. Norman L. Lincoln; first vice president, Mrs. Edwin M. Harford; second vice president, Mrs. Ralph L. Thompson; third vice president, Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey; fourth vice president, Mrs. Fred C. Lake Jr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Edith C. Saxton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John A. McKay; treasurer, Mrs. Francis H. Pough; four members on the Membership Committee: Mrs. Charles Noel, Mrs. Sydney C. Johnson, Mrs. Louis Lumaghi, Mrs. George Augustine, and three members for the House Committee: Miss Kate Roth, Mrs. James M. Bull and Mrs. Homer S. Snow.

This ceremony will follow a luncheon to be served at 1 o'clock in the clubrooms.

At 2:30 o'clock, in the auditorium, Mrs. Archer O'Reilly, retiring second vice president, will present Miss Frances Homer in original character sketches.

The Eighth District luncheon to be given at noon Thursday in the gold room at the Hotel Jefferson will close the season's work of the executive board and committee chairmen. Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, president, will preside. Rabbi Julius Gordon will be the guest speaker and his subject will be "Whither Womankind." The program will include a reading by Mrs. H. Lyle Campbell of "The Sale of the White Elephant," by Bess Streator Aldrich, and a group of songs by Mrs. P. A. Sommerfeldt, accompanied by Mrs. G. W. Coffman, district music chairman. Mrs. H. W. Schmale and Mrs. Littlefield have charge of the luncheon arrangements.

Miss Marjorie Price Graham, president of the College Club, will preside at the business meeting of the club, to be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Helen C. Koch (Wellesley) and Mrs. H. W. Lyman (Washington) will be hostesses, assisted by Mrs. John Auer (Washington), Mrs. Roy Coffee (Brown), Mrs. G. McConnell (Smith) and Mrs. Marshall Crouch (Cornell).

A benefit bridge party, sponsored by the board, will be given Friday, with the House Committee in charge. Tea will be served in the afternoon, and a buffet supper at 10 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Robert Latzer, chairman of the House Committee, will take reservations.

The art section of the Scottish Rite Woman's Club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 1 p. m. in the lounge with the chairman, Mrs. Arthur L. McGuire, presiding. After a short business session including election of officers for the coming year, "Famous Paintings of the Old World" will be presented by Mrs. Fuqua Turner, leader of the day. Some of the familiar paintings by Breton, Millet, Raphael and De Vinci will be discussed by Mrs. Guy Randall, Mrs. James A. Friend and Mrs. A. R. Miller. Karl Becker and Mrs. Pauline Baker, contralto solist, will sing. A May luncheon will be held from 12 to 12:55 p. m., preceding the meeting, with the following hostesses: Mrs. Carlos L. Munson, chairman; Mrs. Julius Langenbach, Miss Tillie Steinmeyer, Mrs. Otto A. Benda, Mrs. J. S. Hanvey, Mrs. R. E. C. Lee, Mrs. Robert D. Cortlett, Mrs. George B. Heath.

The social section, Mrs. Harry Bischoff, chairman, will meet Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. for a social hour. Miss May Osborn, Mrs. Lament, Mrs. Julius Langenbach, Mrs. Fuqua Turner, Mrs. M. Liflander will be hostesses.

A special program and party, with Mrs. Charles Gund, leader of the day, will be presented at the meeting of the music section, Friday, at 10 a. m., in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Mrs. August Henke is chairman of this group. Following the program luncheon will be served with Mrs. J. Langenbach as chairman of hostesses.

Registration of delegates of the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Music Clubs will take place at the opening of the fifth annual conference of the organization May 7 to 9, at the Cabanne Branch Library, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, with Mrs. F. A. Niemoeller Jr. as chairman of registration.

Mrs. Hugo Wiemers will preside at the business meeting which will follow and make her report as president of the district.

All department chairmen, senior club presidents and junior leaders will give short reports of the year's work. The biennial election of officers of the eighth district, will be held immediately after the meeting.

Thursday night the combined choruses of the district will be heard in a program at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in co-operation with the orchestra of the Philharmonic Society.

A junior recital will be given at Baldwin's Hall, Saturday, at 2 p. m. Winners of the junior contests of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs, held in St. Louis April 25, will be on the program.

Mrs. John B. Shapleigh, Mrs. Newton R. Wilson and Mrs. John H. Duncan were formally made honorary members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the St. Louis Medical Society at its last meeting. Mrs. Wilson was the donor of the library for the Medical Building; Mrs. Duncan gave the furnishings for the lounge and Mrs. Shapleigh was the donor of the bronze doors and the equipment of the Shapleigh auditorium.

Mrs. Sam T. Bassett and Mrs. W. Antoine Hall will be hostesses at a luncheon Friday for Mrs. George N. Seidlitz and the executive board. A business meeting at 9:30 o'clock will precede the luncheon.

The Alpha Delphians chapter will discuss Thomas Hardy and some of his works at its meeting tomorrow. The chapter will meet at the home of Mrs. E. W. Broemmelseik, 28 Clermont lane, at 1:30 o'clock. The meeting will be conducted by Dr. Helen Gibson, president. Mrs. B. A. Thompson will preface the discussion with a brief statement of Hardy's philosophy. Hardy's life and works will be discussed by Mrs. Frank J. Keiser. Mrs. G. B. Lindsay and Mrs. H. T. Miller will tell the story "Under the Greenwood Tree" by Hardy.

Activities of Women's Clubs

eon. Wednesday, May 20, the auxiliary will give its annual spring luncheon and bridge.

The St. Louis Council of National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Charles Lambur, president, will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in Vandervoort's auditorium and not in the Assembly Room, of Board of Education, due to repairs being made in the building.

The St. Louis Presbyterial, comprising the 50 Women's Missionary Societies in St. Louis and surrounding territory, will give a "National Missions Tea," Monday afternoon, May 4, in the new Educational Building of Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor and Westminster.

Beginning at 2:30 o'clock, addresses will be given in the chapel by the Rev. John McDowell, D. D., of New York City, secretary of the Division of Church Extension, and Dr. Robert N. McLean, superintendent of Spanish-Speaking Work in the Southwest, both of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions. This board has a personnel of 4023 workers who carry on the 7752 enterprises in 63 different languages and dialects. An interesting guest at the tea will be Dr. Charles Bysegger, a missionary to the Navajo Indians, who will be speaking at various meetings in the city during the week.

Following the addresses and music by Mrs. Clement W. Pollock, soprano, accompanied by Miss Martha McGinness, tea will be served.

Receiving the guests will be Miss Matilda F. Salter, president of the St. Louis Presbyterial; Mrs. Leo J. Vogt, national corresponding secretary; Mrs. John W. MacIvor; Mrs. Thomas H. Cobbs, president Woman's Association, Second Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Walter Lyman Upson, president of the Missionary Society, Second Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Thomas C. Craig and Mrs. Alexander Robertson will be in charge of hospitality, assisted by the members of the Woman's Association of the Second Church.

While in St. Louis, Dr. Bysegger will be a house guest of Mrs. T. C. Craig, 5118 Westminster place, and Mrs. George W. Sutherland of Webster Groves, Mo.

Members of the Barr Study Unit will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Edwin Gaffron, 3146 Geyer avenue. The morning hours will be spent in the sewing of babies' garments for charitable institutions. The business session, following luncheon, with Mrs. A. J. Burr presiding, will be followed by the program, Mrs. R. E. Schlueter in charge. "Musicians of Missouri" will be Mrs. Schlueter's subject. Reading of a chapter from "Parents and Teachers" by Mrs. N. E. Hauser will conclude the meeting.

The University of Missouri Alumnae will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. I. O. Royce, 6366 Alamo avenue. Mrs. O. J. Rotty and Mrs. I. H. Jaeger will be assistant hostesses.

The annual meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held May 12 at the Town Club at 7:30 p. m. The retiring president, Miss Winifred C. Walker, will hear the reports of standing committees, after which the election of new officers will take place.

Other retiring officers are: Miss Florence Weigle, vice president; Mrs. Ethel Hancock, recording secretary; Miss Lois McMullin, corresponding secretary, and Miss Ruth Crowell, treasurer.

The most outstanding activity of the club has been the establishment of an educational fund which enabled the club to award a scholarship to three high school girls this year. The fund was started by Miss Grace Kinney, educational chairman, and her committee. The money was raised through benefit card parties.

The next meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Junior-Senior High School of Kirkwood, Mrs. H. C. Bernhardt, president, will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the First Presbyterian Church. The annual luncheon, closing the year's program, will be given. The following officers will be installed: President, Mrs. John D'Arcy; first vice president, Watson F. Lewis; second vice president, Mrs. Del Martz; third vice president, Eugene S. Lehmann; recording secretray, Mrs. E. W. Noxon; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eugene Voigt; treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Bates; Historian, Mrs. Lawrence Woods.

The general meeting of the Catholic Women's Association will be held Thursday evening in the assembly room of the Catholic Women's Association Hotel, 4335-37 Maryland avenue.

The bowling club of the seniors will hold its annual banquet at the hotel May 11.

The Class Committee, assisted by members from the Employment Committee, will give a card party at St. Teresa's Hall, Grand and North Market, May 15.

The clubhouse, Kimmswick, Mo., will open for the season on Decoration day with a garden party.

The juniors will hold their regular meeting Friday evening at the hotel, where also on May 17 they will entertain at tea in honor of their mothers.

The next regular meeting of the Confederate Dames Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held at the residence of Mrs. Shad Bennett, 6200 McPherson avenue, tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Mrs. S. M. Caudle and Mrs. David Litsey will be assisting hostesses. Mrs. D. E. Wood is in charge of the program and Miss Mary Hickman will read from "John Brown's Body."

The Morning Etude Music Club will hold its annual meeting Wednesday in Baldwin Hall at 10:30 a. m. Miss Vera Schlueter will talk on Germany and the music of Germany. Musical numbers will follow.

The final meeting of the Stephens College Club for the 1930-1931 season will be a tea at the home of Mrs. Calvin Davis, 7334 Westmoreland drive, from 3 to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The guest of honor, Dr. James M. Wood, president of Stephens College for Women, will give an informal talk following musical numbers. The Stephens review will be given by Mrs. Edwin Browan.

The St. Louis Study Club was entertained Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. J. R. Lionberger, 6301 Clemens avenue. Mrs. Albert Moreno talked on current topics and Mrs. Stocke read extracts from "The Letters of Madame de Sevigne to Her Daughter the Countess de Grinau." A review was given by Mrs. W. H. Whitten of Catherine Carswell's "The Life of Robert Burns."

The monthly meeting of the Schira Alumni Association will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Carpenter Branch Library. Miss Viola Gaensslen, soprano; Miss Grace Stroupe and Miss Alyce Mullins, readers, and Miss Lillian Hase and Jack Rolls, pianists, will present the program.

St. Louis chapter of the Junior Hadassah will give a dance this evening at the Jewish Old Folks' Home.

The Ensee Study Circle met last week at the home of Mrs. J. D. Ashbaugh, 5018 Cabanne avenue. Mrs. J. W. Kerr was hostess. The following officers were installed: Mrs. Thomas H. Blumdell, president; Mrs. J. W. Kerr, first vice president; Mrs. J. R. Booth, second vice president; Mrs. H. E. Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. G. B. L. Carter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. D. A. Nylander, treasurer. Mrs. J. A. Knabb will be hostess at the next meeting May 11.

Tuesday afternoon the members and guests of the Kirkwood Study Hour Club met at the home of Mrs. George Baumhoff, Tree Court Farm, to hear a musical program arranged by Mrs. George S. Jackman. Mrs. Raymond Henley, Mrs. Jackman and a group of Mrs. Jackman's pupils gave vocal selections. Miss Lucile Hammil was accompanist. Miss Hammil and Mrs. T. H. Heath also gave piano solos. "Highway Beautification" was the subject presented by Mrs. C. J. Bedell.

A meeting of Confederate Dames Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. Shod Bennett, 6200 McPherson avenue. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. S. M. Caudle and Mrs. David Letsey.

Capt. Robert McCulloch Chapter, United Daughters of Confederacy, will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Gladys Saunders, 208 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. B. C. Bascom, Mrs. L. W. Gaines and Miss Janet Cocke will assist the hostess. The veterans of Camp 731, United Confederate Veterans, will be guests.

The Study Craft Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Lindley, 3511 Pine Grove avenue, Pine Lawn. The program dealt with the one-act play and was arranged by Mrs. H. T. McClure.

The Ladies' Guild of Bowman Methodist Episcopal Church, Athlone and Carter avenues, will give its monthly luncheon Thursday at 11:45 a. m. in the gymnasium of the church. Charles Maehl will

GOOD MORNING, MRS. GREEN. GOING SHOPPING?
—NO, I'M GOING TO SEE THE MAN WHO SOLD ME MY WASHER. IT WORKS FINE — BUT I CAN'T GET THE CLOTHES WHITE ENOUGH
—I KNOW WHAT HE'LL TELL YOU — CHANGE TO RINSO, THE HARD-WATER SOAP
—WELL, I'LL ASK HIM ANYWAY. I WANT TO BE SURE
—I'M GLAD YOU STOPPED IN. JUST LOOK AT THIS SNOWY WASH. YOU WERE RIGHT ABOUT RINSO LAST WEEK
—YES — THOSE WASHING MACHINE DEALERS KNOW WHAT THEY'RE DOING WHEN THEY RECOMMEND RINSO AND
G. A. Voigt

"Never saw such suds!" says Mrs. H. F. Piening, 3917 Ashland Ave.
"I'll never forget the first time I used Rinso in my washer. Everything came out so white and clean. All my clothes had a better color. I've tried many laundry soaps, but never saw such creamy suds as Rinso gives. Our water is very hard, too. Rinso is wonderful for dishwashing; I'd hate to face a pan of greasy dishes without it."
MRS. H. F. PIENING,
3917 Ashland Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
And try it for tub washing!
Of course this hard-water soap is marvelous in washers; the makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. But just try Rinso for tub washing! Soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes!
Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Lively, lasting suds! No softener needed. Get the BIG package.

NUGENTS HAS IT

More and more women are saying that these days. So many are finding that almost anything they get at Nugents costs them less. Perhaps only a little less, on a single small item. But a really worthwhile saving on larger purchases.

It's because we're so sure you'll find it so, that we keep saying—"Come in and see for yourself!" We have the new complete stocks which represent today's most attractive and desirable merchandise. These stocks were bought on today's low price-levels. We're selling them closer to our costs than most stores think they possibly can. It makes quite a difference in the retail price, you'll find.

Nugents is a pleasant store in which to shop. A wide-open, light store, where you can really see what you are getting. Wide aisles, big, comfortable elevators. No crowding or discomfort. A real Family Store, where you can take all the time you want, and where you'll never be urged to buy anything you don't want.

You can depend on getting what you pay for, too. If anything isn't right, we will make it right. Your satisfaction means far more to us than any sale. We want you to get satisfaction here on everything you buy. Come and see!

Town Club Re-elects All Its Officers

MRS. T. M. SAYMAN was re-elected president of the Town Club at a meeting of the Board of Directors Tuesday at the club, 1120 Locust street. Other officers serving during the past year were also re-elected, including the vice president, Miss Florence Weigle; recording secretary, Miss Mary Alexander, and treasurer, Miss Ella Ellerman.

Chairmen of standing committees were appointed as follows: Finance, Miss Nelle Frazee; House, Miss Ann Ferbos; Membership, Miss Virginia Carrico; Program, Mrs. Gertrude Drury; Publicity, Mrs. Edith L. Mathews.

Mrs. Alpha Hisey has been appointed to serve as program director and editor of The Informant, the club paper, to succeed Mrs. Frederick B Clarke.

The club will be in gala attire Friday evening when a Mexican fiesta will be given as the first of the spring series of programs.

The fiesta will open at 5:30 p. m. and continue through the evening. A dinner of Mexican dishes will be served in the club dining room, and at 8 o'clock, "A Night in Mexico," an illustrated talk, will be given by Miss Elizabeth Callaway, in the lounge.

Miss Callaway is teacher of Spanish at Warrensburg College. She received her degree in Spanish at the University of Mexico. She will be in costume and will be assisted by a group of Town Club members in the role of senoritas, including Mrs. B. R. Blackwood, Miss Alice Stewart, Miss Marguerite Senn, Miss Josephine Fahey and Miss Virginia Banks.

Dandruff and Falling Hair
Lucky Tiger
The enviable reputation of this unusual product has been earned through merit, and merit alone. America's largest seller. Used and recommended by millions for adults, children.
A single application stops that miserable itching, and a single bottle often corrects obstinate irritations.

J. J. Shubert Says That Seventy-Five Per Cent of the Musical Comedy Talent of the Country Has Been Engaged for Summer Season of Municipal Opera Which Opens Late This Month With "Three Little Girls."

WITH the appointment of Jules Karty to an executive backstage position with the Municipal Opera, both the Shubert and the Erlanger interests are represented in the enterprise. Paul Beismann, manager of the American Theater, the Erlanger house here, has long been in charge of the direction of publicity for the opera. Karty is manager of the Shubert Theater.

The opening of the coming season of 12 weeks is now less than a month off and work is well under way for the cycle of musical shows. The scenery and costumes for the first four productions are already stored back-stage in Forest Park and the auditorium is being made ready to receive the crowds.

J. J. Shubert, who has charge of the stage entertainment this season, returned to New York after a preliminary inspection of the plant. He is to come back, probably this week, and remain until the first show is put on. Shubert is authority for the statement that 75 per cent of all the light opera talent in America was engaged for this summer's performances. Many well-known artists are represented in the list, among them being Gladys Baxter, who scored a great success last season in the title role of "Madame Pompadour." She is one of the brightest figures of the lighter lyrical stage, and won her first stellar success in "The Countess Maritza," in which she appeared on Broadway with Leonard Ceeley.

She was a star of "Music in May" and "A Wonderful Night," before joining "Three Little Girls," in which she opens the season here this year, and has appeared with success in many Broadway productions. She will be cast this season as Beate in "Three Little Girls," and also in "Music in May," "Rose Marie," "The Countess Maritza," "The Three Musketeers," "A Wonderful Night," "Irene" and "The Circus Princess."

GRETA ALPETER once sang in a summer chautauqua in California with a young tenor who folks said was bound to make a name for himself. He was Lawrence Tibbett. He did. But meantime Miss Alpeter had won a Juillard Scholarship in New York, and Marcella Sembrich became her teacher and her guide. She was planning on a grand opera career, and determined to complete her studies in Paris, and after her debut many French cities acclaimed the young American.

She returned to New York and was engaged by the Shuberts for the revival of "Blossom Time" on Broadway last season. Miss Alpeter makes her debut on Municipal stage in "Music in May" and will appear also in "Nina Rosa," "Rose Marie," "Three Musketeers," "A Wonderful Night" and "Irene."

Ruth Altman will make her Municipal Opera debut as "Nina Rosa" in which she sang the prima donna role with success before the highly critical audiences of Boston. Previous to that, she had appeared in New York in the title role of "Luana," Arthur Hammerstein's elaborate musical version of "The Bird of Paradise." She has sung in many of the classic light opera and operetta roles in the Little Theater of New York.

SOME people thought it was just too bad when Queenie Smith gave up her place as solo danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera Company to enter upon a career in lighter musical offerings. That was when she accepted a place in support of Eddie Leonard in "Rely Poly Eyes." Born in Texas, she was adopted by Broadway in "Orange Blossoms," "Helen of Troy, N. Y.," "Be Yourself," "Tip Toes," "Cinders," "Sitting Pretty," and "Judy," in "Hit the Deck," became a star in her own right. She created the role of Suzette in "The Street Singer," in which she makes her Municipal Opera debut. She has also the title role of "Irene."

Nancy McCord comes here direct from her successes with "Three Little Girls," in which she made her debut on the lighter musical stage after having scored in grand opera. She was prima donna of the American Opera Company, her favorite roles being Marguerite in "Faust," Suzanna in "Figaro," and Michaela in "Carmen."

Evangeline Raleigh who plays the third little sister in "Three Little Girls," began her stage career as a member of the Gertrude Hoffman dancers, being a member of that group which Miss Hoffman took to Europe.

LEONARD CEELEY, who also returns, entered light opera by way of grand opera. His father was a London vocal teacher. The son had sung grand opera in South America, and in Italy with success, and then returned to London to create the title role in "David Garrick." He came to America, where he scored his first hit in one of the touring companies of the "Student Prince." Ceeley, who will make his 1931 debut in "Nina Rosa," will appear also in "Countess Maritza," as D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers," and as General Esteban in Municipal Opera's production of the great Ziegfeld success "Rio Rita."

Archie Leach, a newcomer this season, was one of the foremost of British leading men before he made his American debut in Fred Stone's "Tip Top," and since that time has been almost constantly engaged in this country. His latest role is with "Three Little Girls," in which he appears here.

Edward Nell Jr., still another newcomer, will be remembered in St. Louis for his singing and acting as Francois Villon in the "Vagabond King," when it was presented at the Shubert-Rialto.

Jack Sheehan, popular last summer as a comedian, is to return this year and another funster will be Harry Puck, dancing comedian of "Three Little Girls," who is a brother and for years dancing partner of Eva Puck, the dancing comedienne of Municipal Opera's "Show Boat" last season.

German Comic Opera Tonight.

The comic opera, "Die Geschiedene Frau," will be played at the German House auditorium, 2345 Lafayette avenue, this evening, bringing the German Theater season of 1930-31 to a close.

Carroll Sketch Book to End the Theatrical Year

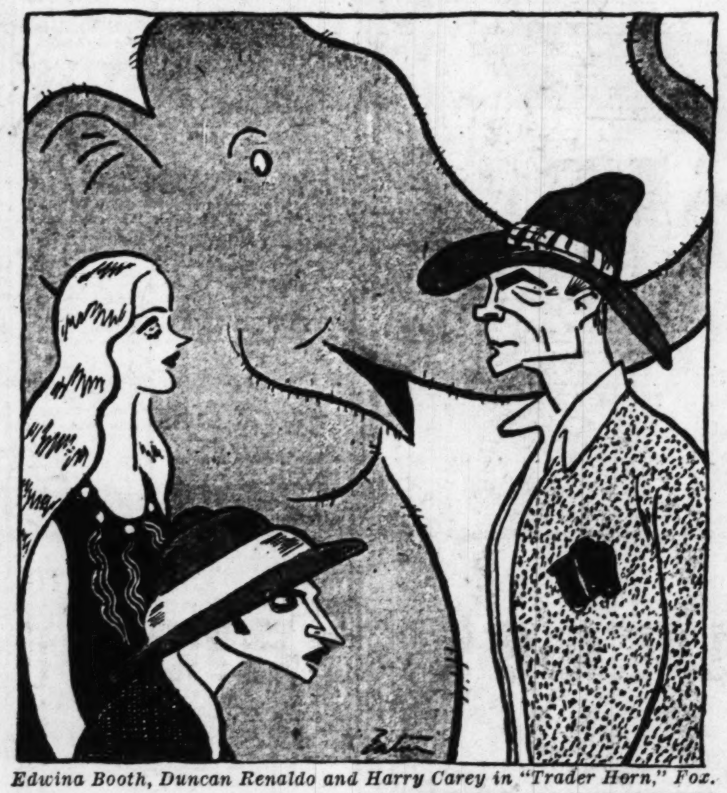
Girl and Music Revue Comes to Shubert for Week's Visit Tonight and Will Be Followed by Road Show Film.

WITH Mary Hart ending her remarkably successful season at the Orpheum Theater last night and the American already closed up, the Shubert brings the regular theater to a close this week with the performances of the Earl Carroll Sketch Book, a musirevue which opens at the Grand avenue house tonight. After this is out of the way the Shubert will turn to a road show film, "Dirigible," which comes in next Sunday and will stay as long as there is a demand for it.

The present edition of the Carroll Sketch Book ran for a year in New York, and comes here with the original cast and production. The featured comedians are Will Mahoney, William Demarest and The Three Sailors, and the company includes Gracie Worth, Coly Worth, Nelda Lovely, Grace Du Faye, Violet Lovely, Omar, Don Howard, Bob Geraghty, Don Kennelly and Irene Ahlberg—"Miss America."

Eddie Cantor is credited as the author of this opus which is presented in fifty-three scenes. The lyrics and music are by E. Y. Harburg and Jay Gorney.

Irene Ahlberg, with Earl Carroll Sketch Book, Shubert.



Edwina Booth, Duncan Renaldo and Harry Carey in "Trader Horn," Fox.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

"BORN TO LOVE," which, as a title, has nothing at all to do with Constance Bennett's picture at the St. Louis Theater, is made distinguished by the perfect manner in which it was directed and by the excellent acting of the lovely Miss Bennett and the supporting cast. The story which had been done once before in the silents by Corinne Griffith is only so so but it moves along smoothly and holds the interest of the customers until the fairly easily foretold conclusion. Connie is a war nurse in London who falls in love with an American aviator. He would have married the girl out of hand—and should have—but was called back to France before he could get around to it. The next thing you know he is reported dead and Connie marries an English lord who has been nice to her and who is willing to sponsor her expected baby to which he is not even distantly related. Then, as you might guess without any tremendous strain, the American soldier comes back. Connie and her titled husband are soon parted but his lordship insists on keeping the child and is backed up by the cruel law.

Love in the Jungles.

THE finest picture of the year, so far, "Trader Horn," which furnishes a lot of thrills and wild women, who are tamed, and wild animals who are not, has come back to town and is at the Fox. Seen some months ago as a road show at the Shubert Theater it is now being presented with the same lions and the same cast at popular prices and even if you saw it before it is worth seeing again.

Clothes Makes the Man.

WILLIAM HAINES is in again. This time, down at Loew's, he is appearing in a screen version of the old comedy, "A Tailor Made Man," and has cut out a good many of his tiresome wise cracks and settled down to pretty legitimate acting. The story, written in 1917, happens to be timely, for it shows the way to find the corner around which Prosperity is lurking. Haines is a lowly pants presser, who borrows a customer's dress suit and does things in a big way. Before it is all over, he raises wages, puts a lot of other pants pressers to work and marries the daughter of his boss tailor. If Haines has any following, it ought to like this one.

The City Is Like That.

GARY COOPER, who usually faces the camera in chaps and a five-gallon hat, wears a fur-lined overcoat and white spats in "City Streets," at the Ambassador. For Gary has forsaken the wide open spaces and moved to town, where he falls in love with a gangster's daughter and goes in for the beer racket himself. He still retains his ability as a two-gun man, but never has to do more than point his pistols to get out of trouble. There is some shooting, to be sure, now and then, but Gary doesn't do it. All he does is to wait around for his girl to get out of prison and take her out of the wicked city. When last seen they are headed for the West, and maybe the next time the screen gets them they will be in a covered wagon. Sylvia Sidney, a newcomer, is the girl who is willing to go anywhere with Gary—as what girl wouldn't? She has the role originally intended for Clara Bow up to the time the Brooklyn cyclone rode on the front page once too often, and plays it very well without showing anything which should worry Miss Bow.

Tempest and Sunshine.

"THE SINGLE SIN," the name of one of the two pictures at the Missouri, goes double and takes in the other film, "The Right of Way," a picture made from Sir Gilbert Parker's novel of life and love in the wilds of Canada. Neither one is very interesting, but the cash customers get a lot of celluloid for their money at least. In "The Single Sin," Kay Johnson discovers that her one false step keeps bobbing up and slapping her in the face long after she has married and settled down. An automobile accident, engineered by a big-hearted pal of her careless days, puts her blackmailer out of the way and only the audience knows, after that, that she had any past at all. "The Right of Way" has Conrad Nagel and Loretta Young as stars and just to see Loretta ought to be enough to satisfy any captious movie fan.

---

Piano Recital Today.

A piano recital will be given this afternoon, at Loretto Academy, 3407 Lafayette avenue, by one of its seniors, Miss Marguerite Schoen, daughter of Mr. Andrew Schoen, 1022 Bates street.

Little Theater Will Present New Drama

"Zombie," a three-act play never before produced, by Charles Dillon, recipient of the Mackay prize for the best play written this season by the playwriting group of the Little Theater of St. Louis, will be the next production of that organization opening a week's run Monday, May 11.

The author is well known to Little Theater audiences, having appeared as Ferrand, in "The Pigeon"; Judas in "The Twelfth Disciple," and Ponza, in "Right You Are." Mr. Dillon attended Washington University. While still in school he wrote several one-act plays. This is his first long play.

Art League to Give Prize Winning Plays

The prize winning plays in the regional playwriting contest of the St. Louis Art League will be presented during the coming week, starting tomorrow night, in the auditorium of the Wednesday Club. "Ice," written by D. L. James of Kansas City, which was awarded first place among the full length dramas, will be given Monday night and on Tuesday night the second prize winner in that class, "The Fair Juliette," by Margaretta Scott Lawler, will be done.

Wednesday and Thursday nights will be given over to the production of the shorter plays. "Train Whistles," by Patricia Herbert, and "The Piper's Fee," by Florence Bill, the two prize winners, will be shown on the first evening. Eight short plays, in all, will be presented during the two evenings.

Well-known St. Louis amateurs will take part in the performances.

St. Louis U. Players To Give "Icebound"

"Icebound," Owen Davis' Pulitzer prize play of several years ago, will be presented by the Playhouse Club of St. Louis University in the University auditorium tomorrow and Tuesday nights. In the cast will be Laurence Neville, Leonard Kopp, George McDonald, Louis Murphy, Jack Casey, Marie Kennedy, Kathryn Holland, Gene Tillman, Virginia Fuehlan, Mary Lou Mitchell and Rita Norton.

The productions committee, headed by Edward Walsh and Ida May Crosson, have prepared the set for the production. The university orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Walter E. von Kalinowski, will furnish incidental music.

Loretta Young in the "Right of Way," at the Missouri.

Quadrangle Club Of W. U. in a New Musical Comedy

College Players to Present "Princess Nita" for Three Nights With Student Cast at the American Theater.

THE Washington University Quadrangle Club's "Princess Nita," will be presented at the American Theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. It is a musical comedy and the role of the principal comedian will be taken by Joe Ledbetter who made a hit as Georgia in last year's "Si, Si Senorita." The scenes are laid in Egypt and much of the fun in the play is derived from the farcical treatment of those modern descendants of the old Pharoahs.

Quadrangle Club shows have always been characterized by student production and "Princess Nita," with a cast of over 60, will follow this tradition.

The entire production has been in rehearsal for seven months. Among the principals who have appeared in past Quadrangle Club productions and who will be seen in this one are Mary McNatt, Ruth Waldbauer and Harriet Ingalls.

Dramatic League in Spring Tournament

The second annual spring tournament of the Dramatic League of St. Louis will be held at the Community Playhouse, Missouri Hotel Building, Eleventh and Locust streets, May 8 to 13, inclusive. May 8 the children's program will be held. On May 9 the high school groups will participate and on May 11, 12 and 13, private high schools and Little Theater groups will present their plays.

The judges in this tournament will be Mrs. David Enoch, Mrs. John Rush Powell, Mrs. Arthur B. Burr, Mrs. Arthur Avon Blue. The prizes given will be the attractive Samuel French award and the Dramatic League placque, donated by Hugh K. Wagner and designed by Esther Appel of the Fine Arts School of Washington University.

Highlands Begins Thirty-Fifth Season

Forest Park Highlands began its thirty-fifth consecutive season yesterday, with large crowds in attendance in the afternoon and evening. Many of the patrons visited the Highlands after attending the Mississippi Valley Industrial Exposition of Progress in The Arena buildings and grounds, just west of the amusement park. It was the first time in its history that a Saturday, instead of a Sunday, was selected as the opening day.

The park has been refurbished completely and a number of new "thrills" devices and stationary attractions have been added.

Every attraction was in operation yesterday, with the exception of the swimming pool, which will not be re-opened until the weather stabilizes.

Amusement Calendar

Lowry's Amazing Record

Master of Ceremonies Leaves St. Louis This Week After Having Played More Than 5000 Performances in a Single Theater Before Some Ten Million Customers—Big Money, in the Movies, Does Not All Go to the Actors.

COMING here almost four years ago a practically unknown hoofer and singer, Ed Lowry leaves St. Louis next Friday a rich man and with a record as an actor hardly approached by any other entertainer the stage has ever known. Ed has mastered of ceremonies at the Ambassador Theater all of the time he has been in St. Louis. He has been away once or twice for short vacations or when a strike of the musicians prevented his appearing here but he has not appeared in any other local house. He departs for the green pastures shepherded by Bill Goldman, former St. Louisan, at the Mastbaum Theater in Philadelphia.

Just how long Lowry will remain there is a question. Certainly till Sept. 10, when his present contract with Warner Brothers expires, and after that it is presumably a question of who raises the ante the highest in the competitive bidding for the performer who has established himself as the foremost master of ceremonies in the country.

Lowry reached St. Louis Sept. 10, 1927 to begin his engagement that has been unsurpassed by any entertainer at one theater. Under the Skouras banner he remained, with a few interruptions for musical arguments between the unions and the brothers, until the present time. In that period he piled up a total of 5000 performances and played before well over 10,000,000 people. In addition he has been on the radio at least once a week, as well as appearing at countless benefits.

Lowry began here with a rather modest salary, as stage salaries go, but for a long time now he has been drawing down something over $1700 a week and collecting pretty good royalties in addition from the phonograph companies which handled his records. His recollections of St. Louis, as he sits and clips coupons in the years to come will at least be pleasing.

LOWRY, unlike many of the people in the movie world, has lived inconspicuously. Even when he took time off to run out to Hollywood and make a film or two he kept out of the public eye in the town where players and scenarists and others usually acquire a pretentious home immediately upon being guaranteed a big weekly pay check for a period of six months or longer.

The idea is to keep up appearances.

Here is a little tale that is typical of the city of false faces and false fronts: A young actress, after many months as an extra, finally got a six months' contract to appear in pictures. She managed to get her first month's salary in advance, and used it to make the down payment on an expensive house.

Most of the next three months' wages went for furnishings, a nifty car and other accessories that indicate one is getting on in Hollywood.

At the end of the six months her contract was not renewed, a very frequent happening. She lost the house, the car and everything else

He admits that he is making more money than he ever did before. McNutt gets no less than $1000 a week, and his rent is $30 a month.

McNutt went to a little nearby town because he wanted to live like "a human being, not like a puppet." He has a five-room house, which he refurnished and repainted and he's happy living in it.

AND since we are on the subject of money and have gotten around to writers, there are a few fiction men in Hollywood whose ability to turn out consistently good scenarios puts them in a wage class along with the stars for whom they write.

One of these is John Monk Saunders. An instance of the earning power of this young author has just come to light. Saunders—who is married to Fay Wray—a year ago wrote a novel called "Single Lady."

Saunders already has received five prices for his work and the book has only begun its money-making march. The first check Saunders received was for $10,000 for serial rights. The story appeared in serial form under the title, "Nikki and Her War Birds."

SAUNDERS resold the publishing rights on a royalty basis. Now Nikki is making her second public appearance, this time between the covers of a book, under the original title. Judging from current sales, Saunders expects the book will earn him $25,000.

A third check fell into the author's lap when a studio bought the talking picture rights for $30,000. Then Saunders was hired to write the adaptation, for which he received the flat sum of $15,000.

The story will make its screen appearance as "Spent Bullets" with Richard Barthelmess as the chief flyer and Helen Chandler as the lady.

When the picture is released, the book will go into a cheaper reprint edition, netting Saunders an additional sum. Sale of the French and German publishing and stage rights brought in another $10,000.

Thus a fragile piece of original fiction carefully guided through the mediums of magazine, book and screen, will earn for its author more than $100,000 this year.

THE enforced vacations that many movie players took when accents became taboo seemingly are ending.

Greta Nissen went away for two years and came back without her accent. Now she is starting all over again.

Don Alvarado spent nearly a year conquering his pronunciation; now he is playing his first leading role in many months.

The newest addition to the list is Olga Baclanova, the Russian actress, who has been in vaudeville for a year and a half. Her first picture, but not her first talkie, in a long time, will be "The Great Lover," in which she will be seen with Adolphe Menjou and Irene Dunn.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 2.

ARE writers a trifled mad?

Montague Glass buys California homes and gives them away.

Berton Braley hasn't bought a new hat in 15 years.

Charles Hanson Towne sings French songs at parties.

Hugh Walpole has smoked the same pipe for 27 years.

G. K. Chesterton likes Punch and Judy shows.

E. Phillips Oppenheim wears a marble-sized black single pearl with evening clothes.

Samuel Blythe, a teetotaler, will sit up all night talking.

A tooth paste sign on the Broadway side of the Claridge Hotel cost $250,000 and has been six months in the making.

The charge of plagiarism against Theodore Dreiser is not a new accusation. It has been made before. Once a critic found a paragraph in Dreiser's work identical with one in a George Ade Book. He sent it gleefully to Ade with the query: "What do you think of this?" Abe scribbled back: "I am flattered pink." Most writing men would feel honored to have Dreiser swipe a paragraph or a whole page. Whatever may be said of him and his ponderosity, it was he of all American writers who introduced realism. He changed writing for the better more than any individual of his day.

Voltaire once said: "Little minded writers are always looking for faults and plagiarism in others and they generally pilfer themselves."

A great New York criminal lawyer said in private the other day: "Until America puts Al Capone behind the bars it cannot expect very much wholesome respect for its laws."

Short shavings: Mary Roberts Rinehart has lived in two haunted houses. . . . Louis Mann left a sizeable fortune. . . . Ed Wynn is a chile hound. . . . Phil Baker on off duty nights goes to vaudeville shows. . . . Sign on a Bronx garage: "All makes of cars washed $1. Austins dunked 25 cents." . . . Al Jolson greets late patrons at "The Wonder Bar" by rushing down the aisle and exclaiming, "I'm Jolson, the boss here, and the wine is being cooled for you." . . . Paul Whiteman expects to remain in Chicago until after the world's fair. . . . Only two New York hotels made a profit this winter. . . . J. P. Morgan scorned physical exercise all his life and was a heavy eater, a fancier of heavy wines and an enormous smoker. . . . Bernice Brown, a circus rider, teaches society folk polo in the winter.

Automobile Dealers Will Elect Officers Tomorrow Evening

The annual meeting of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association at Hotel Chase tomorrow night, at which a representative of the National Automobile Dealers' Association will be the speaker, promises sharp competition in the vote for officers. Interest in the election is greater than for a number of years. The candidates for president are R. C. Frampton of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributor, and L. M. Stewart of the Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributor. Frampton served a term as president in 1921-1922. Stewart has not held office in the association, but was chairman of the Show Committee for the 1931 Automobile Show.

The meeting will be addressed by G. H. Ford of Chicago, assistant general manager of the National Automobile Dealers' Association. Ford will analyze the automobile situation from a national viewpoint and point out the prospects and the pitfalls ahead in selling. All automobile dealers in the St. Louis Metropolitan district have been invited to the meeting to hear Ford's address.

The ticket, as placed in nomination by a committee of which H. F. Fahrenkrog of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Automobile Co., was chairman, follows:

For treasurer: A. E. Archer, Archer-Mann Motor Co., and Joseph A. Schlecht, Milstrand Motor Co.

For directors, three to be elected for two years each—Phil H. Brockman, Federal Truck Co.; B. R. Ford, Gross Motor Co.; L. P. Hambuechen, Central States Motors; E. A. Hatfield, Mississippi Valley Motor Co.; E. L. Kuhs, Kuhs-Buick Co., and George Weber, Weber Implement and Auto Co.

Twenty-four hundred miles of new roads are to be built in Poland at a cost of $45,000,000, the money to be raised by vehicle taxes, levies on motor-bus tickets, fines for careless driving and roadside billboard privileges.

Proposed Eastern National Park-to-Park Highway

Virtually all of this proposed highway is paved. A trip over it should make a splendid tour, allowing a day at each end for the trip from and to St. Louis. One would better inquire at Knoxville or Asheville before attempting the road through the Smoky Mountains between Gatlinburg and Waynesville. Information as to scenery, routes, roads, hotel and boarding house accommodation may be obtained from the Post-Dispatch's Touring Bureau.

Dodge Executives Find Optimism Grows In Tour of 15 States

The growing spirit of optimism is well based and the outlook for the future hopeful, in the opinion of a group of Dodge Brothers sales executives who returned to Detroit recently from a series of trips into various sections of the country.

In the party were General Sales Manager A. van Der Zee, Passenger Car Sales Manager W. M. Purves, Director of Advertising F. N. Sim, Truck Sales Manager Walter S. Graves, and Director of Service D. T. Stanton. The states covered were Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Texas, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Ohio, New York and parts of Illinois and Pennsylvania.

"At key points visited we found the general spirit was one of decided optimism," said Van Der Zee. "But, of course, in some instances, because of local conditions, this optimism was not so pronounced.

"The new Dodge cars are the real basis for this optimistic attitude of our dealers, the group learned. Dealers everywhere expressed themselves as very well plased with the possibilities in the 1931 line. Beauty and low price, coupled with the fact that the present cars include the features that the buying public demands, have made a distinct impression upon them. Furthermore, dealers admire the factory policy of not overstocking their salesrooms and storage facilities with new cars."

New York on Wheels.

The motor vehicle registration in New York City is 757,835. Of this number there are 596,126 passenger cars, 36,009 motor busses, and 268 motor ambulances. The city has licensed 678,327 non-commercial operators and 412,099 chauffeurs.

Knoble Will Direct The Chrysler Sales Corporation Advertising

Announcement is made by J. W. Frazer, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales Corporation, of the appointment of Cliff Knoble as director of advertising.

Knoble is widely known in the automotive field. He has been with the Chrysler organization for a number of years and since 1928 has been director of advertising of the Chrysler Corporation. Prior to his connection with Chrysler he was advertising manager, sales manager, advertising agency writer and account executive.

He will continue to supervise the advertising of the Chrysler Corporation, the parent company.

New 'Prosperity Six' Announcement Will Be Made on May 10

Representatives of the motor car company which will introduce the Prosperity Six, the lowest priced car ever built by its manufacturer, say that the public announcement of the new model will not be made before May 10.

The only details now obtainable are that the Prosperity Six will have a 70-horsepower engine with a seven-bearing crankshaft and full pressure lubrication; four hydraulic shock absorbers, rubber spring mountings, self-equalizing hydraulic four-wheel brakes, and other quality features characteristic of the manufacturer's present line of cars.

De Soto Sales Up

Retail deliveries of De Soto motor cars in the week ending April 4 increased 35.5 per cent over the previous week, according to a statement by L. G. Peed, general sales manager of the De Soto Motor Corporation. This marked increase in sales activity made retail deliveries in the week the largest week since last July.

Millions Paid for Accidents.

Automobile insurance companies of the United States paid about $300,000,000 last year as the result of accidents caused by automobiles.

New ESSEX

"Most Marvelous 6-Cylinder Car"

"I have owned and driven many makes of cars—both heavy and light—but I am realizing more comfort, pleasure and satisfaction from my Essex than I ever had. That's a pretty big statement from one who has been prejudiced against Essex cars. It's the most marvelous 6-cylinder car. If all knew what great satisfaction they would derive from the New Essex the whole country would be filled with them."

—R. D. VAN HORNE
Mgr. Bella Vista Terrace
Sierra Madre, California

Essex performance can never be confused with any other low-priced car. Every owner vividly knows the difference. You can know it, too, in a 30-minute ride.

You get a big, roomy car that has none of the limitations of small appearance or cramped quarters usual in low-priced cars. You get completeness and good taste in appointment. You make no sacrifice in quality or accustomed car comfort and distinction.

Essex has flexibility that rarely calls for shifting gears—fast get-away that thrills you—reliability that actually shows the lowest record of service costs—smoothness exclusive to Super-Six engineering—economy that saves you money—rare riding comfort rivaled only by costlier cars—yet its price compares with the lowest-priced cars on the market.

$595 for the Coach or Business Coupe 5 other body styles as attractively priced. Freight and special equipment extra. All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

EASY TO BUY — Your present car will probably cover down payment. Monthly payments are as low as on the lowest-priced cars. Choose an Essex and you get top quality, top performance, top value in the lowest price field.

OLDSMOBILE'S NEW quiet SECOND GEAR GIVES A new KIND OF ACCELERATION

Four-Door Sedan

SWIFT · SMOOTH · QUIET

You can't appreciate how much a really quiet second gear adds to driving enjoyment until you try the new Oldsmobile.

For this feature, one of many important new ones now offered in Oldsmobile, gives a new kind of acceleration. It is unusually swift, to give you the lead in traffic. It is remarkably smooth, to give added zest to fast getaway. And it is almost unbelievably noise-free—actually rivaling high-gear performance in quietness.

These unusual advantages of Oldsmobile's new quiet second gear are given the highest possible degree of utility by the famous Syncro-Mesh transmission. This feature enables you to shift smoothly and easily through all gears without clashing. And this applies not only to the shifts from low into second and from second to high, but also to the change from high back to second. This shift . . . so difficult with the ordinary transmission, and so useful for a quick burst of speed in traffic . . . can be made easily and silently, without reducing car speed.

The new Oldsmobile is a great car to drive for many reasons. And not the least of these is its new Quiet Second Gear—transforming Oldsmobile's smooth, increased power into keen, fast quiet acceleration . . . and contributing new pleasure—new satisfaction—to driving.

Scientific Study Said To Be Best Basis for Blending of Gasoline

The recent sales of 400 shares of Universal Oil Products Co. by Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour for almost $10,000,000, indicates the importance of processes in the production of gasoline. The original investment by J. Ogden Armour of a million and a half dollars 10 years ago, created a company worth $25,000,000, due to the importance of the Dubbs cracking process which the company controlled.

According to Watler H. Ware, vice president of the Lubrite Refining Corporation, this bears out the contention that both oil and gasoline are made rather than found. The needs of an engine are actually remote from the elements embodied in crude oils as they come from the well. Modern manufacturing processes recognize the fact that both properties and proportions must be adjusted to meet increasing demands for power and economy.

Ware says that the research of Mobilgas engineers, in their modern laboratories, emphasizes that scientific study is the soundest basis for blending gasoline. Carrying these scientific studies out of the laboratory into extensive tests in engines proves that it is very infrequent that one crude contains all the qualities necessary today in gasoline. The needs of high powered engines of today can be met only by a gasoline that has several important qualities, he deolares.

Marmon Subsidiary To Build Specialized Commerical Vehicles

Organized as a subsidiary of the Marmon Motor Car Co. of Indianapolis, the Marmon-Herrington Co. is to manufacture multiple-drive commercial vehicles of a highly specialized type. It plans to meet a demand for heavy duty vehicles working under very severe conditions.

F. E. Moskovics, well known in the auto industry, is chairman of the board of the new subsidiary, and G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Co., is president. A. W. Herrington will be vice president and chief engineer. Williams said the commercial vehicle division would be an addition to the Marmon passenger car business.

One Way to Measure.

In replacing valve stems and guides a proper fit is of primary importance. If a reamer is used on the guides, one method of measurement that assures good results is to insert the valve stem from time to time. When it drops easily and smoothly of its own weight the repairer can count upon having achieved the desirable fit.

Auto 'Tank Wagon' Service

Motorcycle gasoline, oil and tire service at Tulsa, Okla. The "wagon" mounted on a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, weighs some 800 pounds when loaded with 60 gallons of "gas," 12 gallons of oil and an air tank for inflating tires. It delivers up to 350 gallons of gasoline a day, and has been a boon to stranded motorists out of gasoline or oil or afflicted with tire trouble.

Marmon Sixteen Now Being Shipped, To Be Displayed Soon

Production of the Marmon 16 is well under way and first shipments of this new 200 horsepower car to principal Marmon distributing points have started, according to word received by the Archer-Mann Motor Co., local distributors.

Since the introduction of the Marmon 16 at the winter automobile shows, many orders for this car have been received, so most of the first production cars will be delivered to retail purchasers. Most Marmon distributors and important dealers are planning to hold special displays as soon as they are supplied with a sufficient number of cars.

The 200-horsepower aluminum engine of the Marmon 16 is being made in a new unit of the Marmon factory.

Marmon 16 bodies are being made in another unit of the Marmon factory.

Auto Row Notes

Warren H. Bryant has been appointed manager of the used car department of the Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributer, the company's used car store is at 2745 Locust boulevard, where it was opened recently. Bryant, who is well known on St. Louis' Auto Row, has had much experience in merchandising used cars.

Morris Hofstein and W. H. Lofland have opened a used car store at 3135 Locust boulevard. Their firm will be known as the Motor Sales Co. Both men have had wide experience in the automobile business.

Vibrating Brakes Injurious to Auto

The wear and tear caused by poorly adjusted brakes is an important factor in the life of a car often overlooked by motorists, says William Nanseldt, chief engineer of the World Bestos Corporation. He warns car owners to have their brakes reconditioned only by reputable mechanics.

"All of us have driven in cars that shudder when the brakes are applied," Nanseldt says. "This intermittent vigration is often caused by improperly adjusted brakes. Poor adjustment of the toe of the brake shoe causes vibration called chattering, whereas a brake shoe with a heel contact produces squeaks. The vibration from brakes is unnecessary and can often be more destructive than the more regular vibration of the engine and normal shocks from the road."

De Soto Eight on Five-Day Economy Run on Pacific Coast

Out of a large number of entry slips turned in to all DeSoto dealers in Los Angeles and Orange counties there came the name of Eddie Hearne, former race driver, whose estimate of gasoline mileage won first prize in the DeSoto eight economy run contest recently conducted here.

The total distance covered on the five-day economy run was 721.7 miles. To drive that distance Peter DePaolo, star of the Indianapolis speedway, who was at the wheel of the DeSoto economy run car, used 44 gallons of gasoline. The DeSoto eight averaged 16.402 miles per gallon of gasoline and made a total of 378 complete stops during the five-day run.

Automotive Jobbers Form Association

The St. Louis Automotive Jobbers' Association has been organized with a membership of 95 per cent of the automotive parts and equipment wholesalers in St. Louis and its trade territory. Jack Wilson is chairman and A. H. Kollmer, secretary and treasurer, with offices at 307 North Leonard avenue. It was organized for co-operation, to distribute among members the fullest information obtainable in regards to matters affecting automotive jobbing industries and to improve credit conditions in St. Louis for the automotive trade. Meetings will be held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

Kollmer is also secretary-treasurer of the Garage Owners' Association.

Treads of Tires Should Be Cleaned Of Things Picked Up

Periodical cleaning of tires to remove glass, nails, pebbles and other foreign matter that may have worked into the casing, will prolong their life and reduce tire costs, says A. D. Dahl of the Royal Tire Service, 3229 Washington, local distributer of United States tires.

"The nonskid tread configuration of a tire," he says, "picks up grit, which is likely, if allowed to remain on the tread, to cut through the casing and puncture the tube. Even though it does not cut through the casing, every revolution of the wheel will settle a pebble deeper into the tough carcass of the casing and eventually develop a soft spot. This bruised section in time will result in the casing having to be replaced before it has delivered its normal service.

"A good plan before and after every long drive is to go carefully over the tires and remove objects from the tread. It takes only a little time and will repay a motorist many times over in minimized age."

Beautifying California Highways.

To make highways of California more beautiful and to add impetus to a movement for an annual wildflower day, several hundred flower-lovers, armed with rakes and hoes, planted 30 varieties of seeds along Laurel Canyon boulevard. More than 50 young women occupied themselves sowing the flower seeds.

Oldsmobile Pistons Are All Machined to Same Weight Now

The smooth operation of the 1931 Oldsmobile engine is due partly to a new method of machining pistons which finishes all pistons to the same weight. This balancing of the pistons eliminates a tendency toward vibration, making engine operation quieter, according to E. E. McIndor, St. Louis branch manager of the Olds Motor Works.

A new machine devised by Oldsmobile engineers makes balanced pistons on a production basis. The machine consists of a sensitive balance scale, which weighs accurately to one sixty-fourth of an ounce, attached to a cutting machine.

The finished piston is placed on the scale arm, which depresses to correspond with the amount the piston is overweight. The piston then is clamped in a chuck and the electrically-driven cutter removes the required quantity of excess metal from the inside bottom of the piston skirt. The amount removed is automatically measured by the amount the piston depresses the scale arm. When the cutting operation is completed, the chuck is removed and the scale then records the corrected weight of the piston. Variations in weight are less than one-sixteenth of an ounce over or under the stipulated weight of one pound, nine ounces.

The New De Soto Six has a 67-horsepower engine. This means performance expressed in terms of speed of more than 70 miles an hour, acceleration of 50 miles an hour in second, hill-climbing ability and smoothness.

It has weatherproof internal hydraulic brakes, an all-steel body, a double-drop frame and a very low center of gravity. This means maximum safety.

It has hydraulic shock absorbers, long flexible springs, softly-upholstered cushions, ample head-room, leg-room and elbow-room. This means riding comfort.

It has a variety of striking color combinations, a slender-profile radiator, long sweeping lines from front bumper to rear, broadcloth upholstery and handsome interior fittings. This means beauty.

It has a host of other features, too, that are typical of Chrysler Motors advanced engineering—the kind of engineering that gives the owner today what others may offer in the future.

The combination of all these fine qualities with economy of operation and maintenance makes the De Soto Six a real value and creates for it a constant resale demand.

Erno Rapee to Replace Roxy's Gang Programs With Symphony Concerts at 5:45 Monday Evenings—WOS, KFRU and WGBF to Broadcast on 630 Kc. at the Same Time in Daylight—NBC Takes Over Management of WGY's Programs—New 9 O'Clock Friday Morning Concerts.

Convinced that he can attract a larger audience with symphonic concerts than by continuing the "popular" type programs given by the new Roxy's Gang on Monday nights, Erno Rapee will begin a new radio series tomorrow evening, at 5:45 St. Louis time, over the NBC WJZ chain. It is stated that WENR-WLS and WLW will broadcast these programs.

The concerts will be given by the full Roxy Symphony Orchestra and will be planned to occupy as important a place in broadcasting as was won and held by the Roxy symphony concerts on Sunday mornings which have been discontinued. A statement of the reasons for this reversal of policy says:

"Rapee was persuaded to return to the presentation of classical music by the overwhelming appeal for this type of music from radio fans from all over the country. Recently he led the Roxy Orchestra into an excursion in the jazz field during a series of popular programs which included many specially arranged 'hits' of the day. To settle the controversy among listeners, he requested the opinions of the radio audience regarding a return to the performance of classical works by a larger orchestra. Thousands of letters were received, and the music by the masters won unqualified support.

"The first program (at 5:45 tomorrow on WENR and WLW) will consist of Mozart's Symphony in G Minor, Schubert's 'Unfinished Symphony' and the last two movements of Rimsky-Korsakoff's 'Capriccio Espagnole.'"

By a decision that may prove of great importance in the development of broadcasting, the Federal Radio Commission has authorized WOS, Jefferson City, Mo.; KFRU, Columbia, Mo., and WGBF, Evansville, Ind., which have been sharing time on the 630 kilocycle channel, to operate on that wave length at the same time during daytime hours. Similar permits have been granted to KVOO, Oklahoma City, Ok., and WAPI, Birmingham, Ala., which share time on 1140 kc., and WOWO, Fort Wayne, Ind., and WWVA, Wheeling, W. Va., which share time on 1160 kc.

While the simultaneous operation of WOS, KFRU and WGBF is of most interest in this region, the results of the grants to KVOO and WAPI, and to WOWO and WWVA should prove of far more significance. For these latter stations all operate with 5000 watts power and are far closer together for simultaneous operation than hitherto has been deemed feasible, whereas the three stations on 630 kc. are of much lower power.

It is expected that some interference will result on each of the channels affected. But the interference should not be as serious as at night. If the experiment works out satisfactorily, it will be possible to grant more permits of the kind and thereby greatly expand daytime broadcasting facilities.

Word comes from Schenectady, N. Y., that the program department of WGY is now under direction of the National Broadcasting Co., the Associated Press reports. It is understood that all programs of the station other than those from the WEAF chain headquarters are being put on under NBC supervision. There is to be no change in ownership of the station by the General Electric Co.

KSD will broadcast from 10 to 10:30 tomorrow morning the formal greetings of New York City to the King and Queen of Siam. It is expected that King Prajadhipok, who speaks English fluently, will respond to Mayor Walker's speech of welcome.

The Biblical dramas, which at one time won a large audience, will return to the air Sunday nights, from 10:30 to 11 o'clock, starting May 10. The first of the new series will be "The Unknown God," based on an incident in the life of St. Paul. The performances will go out over the WEAF chain, but KSD will be unable to carry them.

* * *

Three musical programs will replace the Walter Damrosch Music Appreciation concerts Friday mornings. "Music of the Ages" will be broadcast over the WJZ chain between 9 and 10 o'clock Friday mornings, starting May 8. Dr. Theophil Wendt will conduct a concert orchestra, and there will be instrumental solos. Programs will include music by famous composers and love scenes from Wagner's operas. The period between 9 and 10 o'clock Friday mornings on the WEAF chain will be devoted to "The Hawaiian Serenade," featuring Pacific Islands music, and to a series of "Realities of Romance" programs. The latter will concern historical personages whose lives have a romantic appeal. The first broadcast on May 8 will be based on the life of Anne of Austria, wife of Louis XIII of France.

Vincent Lopez and his orchestra are to be featured in broadcasts over KSD from 1 to 2 o'clock daily, except Saturdays and Sundays. Each hour's program will be divided into periods of contrasting music. Singers will include Ruth Ann Watson, contralto; Leslie Joy, baritone; Richard Maxwell, tenor, and Ted Jewett, who will be master of ceremonies. The program will carry considerable information of value to women in operating their households.

Beginning May 9, Chester H. Gruber of St. Louis, is to shift his Tony Cabooch broadcasts over the CBS chain to 8:45 Saturday nights. His network will be extended to include 30 stations, including KMOX. * * * Paul Whiteman and his orchestra are to broacast nightly over KYW,, starting Saturday, May 16. * * * Eddie Cantor, the comedian, is billed for a broadcast over the CBS net Wednesday night * * * The concerts by the Rochester Civic Orchestra Monday nights over KWK and the WJZ chain will be continued another year. * * *

President Hoover's address at the opening of the International Chamber of Commerce convention will be broadcast by the WEAF and WJZ chains from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Hellmut H. Hellmut, who has broadcast for listeners in Germany "eye witness" accounts of happenings at important centers of American life, is to leave for Europe May 7. Using a portable microphone and a hook-up with a short wave transmitter Hellmut has taken German listeners to the Statue of Liberty, the 102-story Empire State building in New York, through the Capitol at Washington, into the rush hour in Times Square, New York, among women in a bargain counter rush, into a night club, through the General Electric short wave station at Schenectady, through Detroit automobile plants and to the Chicago stockyards.

An average of 38 per cent of the homes in Kansas have radio sets, the United States Census reveals. In Topeka, capital of the state, 48 per cent of the families own receivers.

The Melodies broadcasts at 5 o'clock Sunday evenings over an NBC chain including KWK are to continue for another 52 weeks. George Dilworth will direct the orchestra, and the quartet will continue to be made up of Betsy Ayres, soprano; Mary Hopple, contralto; Steele Jamison, tenor, and Leon Salathiel, basso.

Pleasant Hill Church is a new program on WLW at 4:30 Sunday afternoons. A human interest story, designed to teach by example, is featured. Chimes, an old-fashioned parlor organ and a mixed quartet furnish the music. The program is not sponsored by any religious organization.

The "coronation" of Miss Patricia D. Morton as "Queen Shenandoah" by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the Shenandoah apple festival at Winchester, Va., will be broadcast by the CBS chain at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

With a schedule of 130 half hours of broadcasting completed, the second season of the American School of the Air will be concluded by the Columbia chain with a program next Friday afternoon.

A staff of 41 NBC workers, headed by Frank N. Russell, vice president, is assigned to duty in the NBC studios in Washington. Their chief work is preparation for "taking the Government to the microphone, which entails 450 hours of chain broadcasting yearly. Each year more than 1200 programs are broadcast from Washington, many of them also being sent out on short waves for rebroadcasting in Europe.

The addresses of President Hoover and former President Coolidge at the dedication of the Harding Memorial at Marion, O., will be broadcast by all three chains Tuesday, June 16.

Miss Katheryne McIntyre, the new program director of KMOX, has been appointed state manager for the fifth annual national radio audition in Missouri. The State finals in the competition will be broadcast by KMOX. Mrs. Frederick Nussbaum of St. Louis, is State chairman.

Ben and his barbers have incorporated themselves—for the purposes of radio—to double their money, and their pursuit of the slippery dollar will be featured in each of their thrice-a-week broadcasts over the CBS chain—Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Speeches by the Prince of Wales and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England will be broadcast by the CBS chain on May 21 and 23.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce will be featured on a WLW program at 7:45 tonight.

Henry Thies and his orchestra, who have been featured by WLW, will play over the NBC's WJZ chain at 10:30 Sunday nights, beginning today. The soloist with Thies' orchestra is Charles Dameron, a "tenor crooner" and reader.

Martin Codel reports from Washington that events seem to be moving swiftly toward the calling of a North American radio conference looking to a redivision of broadcast wave lengths between this country, Canada and Mexico.

* * *

The "crooner" heard on the All-star Orchestra programs over KSD early week day mornings is Lew Conrad.

Four scenes from operas being performed in London are to be broadcast by the CBS chain for American listeners this month.

Arrangements have been completed to broadcast part of the second act of Mozart's "Magic Flute," from the Royal Opera House in London on May 13, between 3:45 and 3:30 in the afternoon.

Scrambling of Music And Contrary Process In Broadcast Tuesday

A demonstration of the method of "scrambling" and then "unscrambling" speech and music in radio communications work will be given by former Radio Commissioner O. H. Caldwell in a broadcast over the CBS chain at 6:45 Tuesday evening.

The method to be used was developed in the Bell Telephone laboratories to insure secrecy on the radio telephone circuit across the Atlantic Ocean. It consists of bodily interchanging bands of frequencies, so that, for example, bass notes become treble and treble notes become bass.

Caldwell will let the audience listen to the music and speech first in its original form, then to the scrambled, garbled sounds, and finally to the same scrambled sounds converted back into their original clear form as intelligible speech and music.

Members of Hoover Cabinet in Air Series

Problems of the United States Government will be discussed and explained by every member of President Hoover's Cabinet in a series of addresses to be broadcast on National Radio Forum, programs over the Columbia chain at 7:30 Saturday nights. The following schedule is announced:

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, May 2.

Attorney-General William DeWitt Mitchell, May 16.

Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, May 23.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, May 30.

Posgtmaster-General Walter F. Brown, June 6.

Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, July 4.

Seidel Forms String Quartet for Radio

Toscha Seidel, the violinist, who plays Sundays over the CBS chain, has organized a string quartet to play chamber music over that network.

Seidel will play first violin in the quartet; Gregory Besrodny, second violin; Egon Kornstein, viola, and Osip Giskin, 'cello. The quartet is scheduled for the period from 9 to 9:30 Sunday nights.

Firestone Dealers In St. Louis Meeting

Some 150 Firestone dealers in St. Louis and adjacent territory held a luncheon meeting at the Coronado Hotel Tuesday to hear talks on the complete line of Firestone products and on sales, advertising and merchandising methods. The meeting was in charge of W. G. Sabine, district manager.

Sabine said that many of the dealers were enthusiastic over the Firestone one-stop service station, which is virtually a department store for motorists under one roof.

Dawson and Kenner Speak at Meeting Of Service Managers

"Why Some Service Managers Are Successes and Some Are Not" was told at a meeting of the Service Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association Thursday by John Dawson, wholesale sales manager of the Buick Motor Co. of St. Louis. The meeting was held at the Gatesworth Hotel, following the monthly dinner, and was attended by 72 service managers for that many automobile firms. Dawson talked from the standpoint of the automobile owner or user and told of the shortcomings found by owners in many service stations.

E. R. Kenner, general manager of Goodrich-Silvertown, Inc., spoke on "The Selection of Proper Tires for the Proper Job." Kenner said that tires are giving 21 times the service that they gave 12 years ago and at a less price per tire.

M. E. Aldrich of the Motor Moisture Manufacturing Co., St. Louis, detailed the scientific and practical principles of the motor moisture device recently introduced.

Dolph Moore, service manager for the Lambert-Tigges Motor Co., presided and introduced Kenner and Aldrich. Robert E. Lee, director of the bureau, introduced Dawson.

Buick Carries Parts For Every Model It Has Built Since 1904

Thirty-three replacement parts warehouses, in as many sections of the country, are maintained by the Buick Motor Co., for quick serving of Buick cars of all years and models. These warehouses are in direct contact with the Buick parts factory at Flint, Mich.

Parts for Buicks as far back as 1904 are in stock in these zone warehouses or parts factory warehouse. Other parts that may not be in stock are made on order.

By use of an index numbering system, any part can be located in an instant. The index is contained in the Buick parts book, of which every dealer has a copy.

The book lists 15,000 parts, each with a number which indicates the exact bin where the part is stored.

Good Reasons for Spark Plug Change At Least Once Yearly

All automobile manufacturers now recommend that owners install a complete new set of spark plugs in their cars at regular intervals, usually after every 10,000 miles of driving or at least once a year.

New spark plugs restore power, speed and acceleration, according to O. C. Rohde, chief engineer of the Champion Spark Plug Co., and will more than pay for themselves in gas and oil saved.

"When spark plugs are new," he says, "they fire with a hot, intense spark. The gas mixture burns rapidly and combustion is complete. That means full use of the gasoline with no waste.

"But the intense strains and stresses, especially in modern high compression engines, are so terrific that they gradually sap the efficiency of even the best spark plugs. The electrodes become pitted. Carbon is burned into the surface of the insulator. It forms a crust inside the shell. Then the spark begins to lose intensity because part of the current leaks away. The flame does not spread sufficiently fast or intensely enough to burn all the mixture. There is a loss of power. Unburned fuel is discharged through the exhaust or seeps into the crankcase to dilute the oil. Carbon forms on the cylinder heads, pistons and valve seats. The engine becomes sluggish. It falters on the hills. It is wasting both oil and gasoline.

"Spark plugs should be changed at least once a year, and it is because of this need that Champion national change week was inaugurated by our company. So widely spread has the observance of this week become in the past seven years that reports now indicate millions of car owners observing it regularly every year. The 1931 national change week dates are from May 4 to 11."

Replacement Piston Rings Make Up for Wear in Car Cylinders

There has been little change in piston ring construction since the first gasoline engines were hitched to horseless buggies more than a quarter century ago, except in the replacement field.

When a motorist finds that his car gets sluggish, if the wear on the cylinders has not made too great a clearance, his repairman can replace the old rings with a modern replacement piston ring that will serve as an automatic take-up.

The pioneer in this development was the Ramsey Accessories Manufacturing Corporation of St. Louis. This company has developed the Ramco replacement piston ring, which has an outer ring that looks like the original equipment ring, but is made of soft gray iron without tension, and within this outer band is an inner ring of special analysis steel which grips the piston, keeps it centered and restores the original pep and power, quietness and economy of operation to motors that have seen service.

This ring is also used when new pistons are installed and the cylinders are reground, for it prevents recurrence of piston rocking, piston slap, oil pumping, blow-by and compression loss.

Big Order for Buick Cars for 'Drivurself' Sevice Is Placed

The Hertz Drivurself Stations, Inc., operating more than 300 automobile renting stations in the United States and Canada, recently placed an order for 109 Buick straight eight cars on the 118-inch wheelbase. The models included sedans, roadsters and coupes. It was the first order for 1931 placed by the rental corporation.

While the Hertz corporation has thousands of Buick cars in operation in its various localities, there has been a constant demand, according to L. N. Disbrow, assistant superintendent, for those equipped with the syncro-mesh transmission.

Joyously Different PERFORMANCE

Step into a New Chrysler Six or a Chrysler Eight and drive a few miles. You'll acquire new views about performance. You'll understand why we say, "Drive a Chrysler and enjoy the difference."

A Chrysler—any Chrysler—is delightfully different from other cars. A Chrysler is more awake, more alive, quicker in response, more facile in suiting its pace to match your mood.

The New Chrysler Six is styled like the smart Chrysler Eight—a fine big Six with a 116-inch wheelbase; a heavy double-drop frame; a 70-horsepower engine and safety bodies of steel.

The Chrysler Eight—in addition to its distinguished appearance, low center of gravity and safety bodies of steel construction—is notable for its Multi-Range four-speed transmission with Dual High gears.

Two high gears instead of one—a high gear for flashing sprints in city driving and another high gear for the open road. Both high gears are of a patented internal-mesh type—which makes it possible for you to shift from one to the other in the twinkling of an eye, at any car speed, and without clashing.

And all Chryslers, at all speeds, give you a fine sense of security, a feeling of perfect control—due to the quick, sure action of Chrysler internal hydraulic brakes, always self-equalizing.

MISSOURI RIVER TRACT ACQUIRED FOR HOME SITES

SIMILAR PROJECT ON GEYER ROAD

70 Acres Purchased South of Clayton Highway—New Interest in Suburban Land.

By Berry Moore.

Negotiations have been concluded for purchase of large acreage on the Missouri River bluffs just off Riverside drive and on Geyer road south of Clayton road for residential parks.

A total of 118 acres, just west of the Lewis and Clark Bridges, has been purchased by Mrs. Marie Blossom, 4526 West Pine boulevard, and Dr. Ellis Fischell, 530 Union boulevard. D. R. Bissell, president of the D. R. Bissell Realty Co., handled the transaction.

The tract is to be divided into 10 and 15 acre plots. A large outlay has been made for landscape treatment, with a development of the highest type contemplated. Mrs. Blossom and Dr. Fischell will reserve sites overlooking the Missouri River for homes.

The tract, originally the Wittich farm, was acquired from the Arthur Fitzsimmons estate. While the purchase price is withheld, it is understood it establishes a record figure for land values in this vicinity.

Negotiations are said to be pending for other tracts in this part of St. Louis County, especially near the Lewis and Clark Bridges, indications being that operations in this section soon will be a feature of the real estate market.

The Geyer Road Tract.

Seventy acres on the west side of Geyer road, about 2500 feet south of Clayton road, has been acquired by W. B. Shelp Jr., president of the W. B. Shelp Realty Co. It is to be subdivided, into two and three acre plots for high-class homes. Shelp has plans for a handsome home for himself. The South Side Riding Club, of which Shelp is a member, has quarters on this tract.

The tract is one-fourth mile north of Huntleigh Village, which extends from Lindbergh boulevard (Denny road) to Geyer road, which is being developed by Edward L. Bakewell.

The Geyer road tract was formerly owned by a syndicate, which purchased it from Carroll Burkley, Harry L. Cornet Jr. and Roy Noble. The price paid by Shelp, it is understood, establishes a new peak for land values on Geyer road between Clayton and Manchester roads.

Other Negotiations.

Negotiations have been concluded through the Franciscus Realty Co. for a large tract, but announcement is withheld pending final papers.

The renewed interest displayed in suburban property, especially in large tracts, on the part of both speculators and investors as well as those with subdivision plans, was a noteworthy feature of the week in realty. Property on both sides of Clayton road, especially in the vicinity of the St. Louis Country Club, was in notable demand. Offers also were reported for property on Olive Street road.

ORIEL BUILDING TO LIFE INSURANCE CO

A feature of the week was the deal by which the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. acquired the seven-story Oriel Building at the southeast corner of Sixth and Locust streets, subject to mortgage indebtedness of $425,000.

The property was owned by Frank J. Hunleth, president of the Hunleth Music Co., at 514 Locust street, who received in part payment for his equity a 68,000 acre ranch on the Rio Grande, near Santa Fe, N. M.

No mention was made of the valuation given the Oriel Building. The property has 70 feet on Sixth and 57 feet on Locust.

The Missouri State Life recently acquired the City Club Building at the southeast corner of Eleventh and Locust streets, which is held as an investment.

The company also owns the 1 story building at Fifteenth and Locust street, occupied by its general offices.

LOTS TO BE SOLD IN NEW DIVISION ON OLIVE ST. ROA

A new subdivision on the Oliv Street road, just west of Lindberg boulevard to be known as "Oliv Crest," is to be sold in lots by R. Schollmeyer.

Only the lots fronting Oliv Street road will be sold. Some a 650 feet deep. All will have frontage of 100 feet on the hig way.

Property on both sides of Clayton road, especially in the vicinity of the St. Louis Country Club, was in notable demand. Offers also were reported for property on Olive Street road.

ORIEL BUILDING TO LIFE INSURANCE CO.

A feature of the week was the deal by which the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. acquired the seven-story Oriel Building at the southeast corner of Sixth and Locust streets, subject to mortgage indebtedness of $425,000.

The property was owned by Frank J. Hunleth, president of the Hunleth Music Co., at 514 Locust street, who received in part payment for his equity a 68,000 acre ranch on the Rio Grande, near Santa Fe, N. M.

No mention was made of the valuation given the Oriel Building. The property has 70 feet on Sixth and 57 feet on Locust.

The Missouri State Life recently acquired the City Club Building at the southeast corner of Eleventh and Locust streets, which is held as an investment.

The company also owns the 14-story building at Fifteenth and Locust street, occupied by its general offices.

LOTS TO BE SOLD IN NEW DIVISION ON OLIVE ST. ROAD

A new subdivision on the Olive Street road, just west of Lindbergh boulevard to be known as "Olive Crest," is to be sold in lots by A. R. Schollmeyer.

Only the lots fronting Olive Street road will be sold. Some are 650 feet deep. All will have a frontage of 100 feet on the highway.

One Residence Costing More Than $20,000 Erected During That Period.

Just one residence costing more than $20,000 was erected in St. Louis during the city's fiscal year which ended last month, it is shown in the annual report of the Building Division. This house was valued at $25,000.

There were 801 brick dwellings costing less than $20,000 each erected during the year, the permit values of these aggregating $3,621,670, or an average of $4521 each. Average cost of 115 frame dwellings built was $2245, or a total of $258,150. Within the same period many homes costing more than the average in the city were erected in the residential suburbs, including some worth more than $20,000 each.

In St. Louis, 25 apartment houses and flats costing more than $15,000 per building, for a total of $1,076,500, were constructed, and there were 123 costing less than $15,000 each, for a total of $950,800. Among other permits during the fiscal year were:

Five office buildings, $1,174,000; three stores over $30,000 each, $145,000; five stores between $15,000 and $30,000, $111,000; 181 cheaper stores, $547,548; 33 factories and workshops, $1,709,928; 16 schools, $2,088,650; 13 churches, $744,500; 79 theaters and other amusement places, $211,600; 32 warehouses, $2,290,250; two hospitals, $1,050,000; one club, $40,000; 408 garages and stables, $353,732.

Permits for new buildings during the fiscal year aggregated $16,737,261, and, adding permits for alterations, the gross figure for 7230 permits, was $19,678,235. In comparison, 8072 permits, for $22,211,105, were issued in the preceding fiscal year. Volume of building in the fiscal year just ended was smaller than in any since 1921-22.

The Building Division made 45,589 inspections of all sorts during the fiscal year and revoked 27 permits without reinstating any. Out of 36,927 ordinary building inspections, there were 28,779 where structures were found complying with the law originally.

Receipts of the department from inspection fees were $178,832.45, compared with $192,386.97 in the previous year. Net income above expenses was $1734.12, compared with $21,490.40 the year before.

Garland's Store Will Expand Its Quarters Nearly 100 Pct.

Women's Apparel Shop Acquires Additional Space in Building at 410 N. Sixth, Through Lease Negotiated by Martin & Breitt.

Thomas W. Garland, Inc., has leased additional space which will approximately double its floor area in the five-story-and-basement building at 410 North Sixth street now occupied by the concern, one of the best known women's apparel stores in the city. Negotiations for the lease were handled by Martin & Breitt, leasing specialists.

By the terms of the old lease, Garland's has been using the south 20 feet of the first floor, together with the second and third floors of this building. Under the terms of the lease just negotiated, the store's first-floor space will have a width of 30 feet, while on the second, third, fourth and fifth floors its space will be 60x125 feet. The additional room will give the store approximately 60 per cent more floor space on the first floor and 100 per cent more on the upper floors.

For several years Garland's has shared this building with the S. G. Adams Co., but has been operating at a decided space handicap since the destruction by fire, May 30, 1928, of the Broadway building, which was also occupied by the apparel concern.

The enlarged store, it was explained, will take in the entire building on Sixth street, with the exception of the north half of the first floor and the entire basement, which will be retained and occupied by the Adams company.

The present entrance will be widened and a new front built, two additional elevators will be installed and several other features added for the convenience of customers. Several departments discontinued because of lack of floor space in the period since the fire will be restored, while other departments will be amplified.

New and larger fixtures will be installed on the added floors and plans call for a cafeteria on the fifth floor, where meals will be served to the employes at moderate prices.

In negotiating the lease on behalf of the S. G. Adams Co., Martin & Breitt were assisted by W. F. Stevens of the Ganz Realty Co. The rental to be paid under the new lease was not disclosed, but it is noteworthy as marking the growth of the Garland concern which has made expansion of quarters necessary.

TO HONOR U. S. HEAD OF REALTY BOARDS

St. Louis Exchange Will Give Luncheon Wednesday for H. S. Kissell.

A luncheon of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will be held Wednesday noon in the Hotel Jefferson crystal room in honor of Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, O., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Past presidents of the exchange also will be honored.

The living past presidents are: William A. Giraldin, Fred G. Zeibig, Albert T. Terry, Gerald B. O'Reilly, A. R. Schollmeyer, Edward A. Bokern, C. M. McDonald, J. Hamilton Farish, Joseph W. Hannauer, John W. Gibson, John J. Dowling, William W. Butts, James L. Barngrove and Charles J. Daly.

An invitation has been extended to members of real estate boards in St. Louis County, East St. Louis, Belleville and Granite City.

Kissell, the principal speaker, will talk on "Real Estate Solidifying Its Position as the Safest Investment."

An attendance of 300 is expected by Edward M. Thornhill, chairman of the Exchange Entertainment Committee, who is in charge of the luncheon.

Executors to Hold Auction.

The property at 4279 Olive street, a 9-room brick residence and a 3-car frame garage, will be offered at auction at noon Thursday, at the Real Estate Exchange. It is to be sold by the executors of Ella S. Runyan, deceased, the executors being Frank C. Runyan and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. The property is subject to a $3500 deed of trust, and to the taxes for 1930. The terms are $500 cash, and blance in 30 days. The lot has 35 feet frontage, with a depth of 152 feet. A. R. Schollmeyer will act as auctioneer.

J. E. Shone With New Firm.

Walter H. Kiburz, manager of the south side office of Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Realty Co. at 3612 Gravois avenue, reports that James E. Shone has become associated with that office as salesman.

PROPERTY OWNERS ORGANIZED BY REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

New Division Formed to Work Towards Reduction of Taxes and Correction of Levy System.

A property owners' division of the Real Estate Exchange has been instituted, under plans formed by Bernard F. Dickmann, president of the exchange.

Persons and corporations owning real estate in St. Louis and its environs are eligible to membership. Others eligible are those interested in real estate as mortgagees, lessees or other lieners, except real estate brokers, agents or their employers, not active members of the Real Estate Exchange. There are two classes of membership, sustaining membership with dues at $50 a year, and participating membership at $10 a year.

The purposes of the new division, as set out in the by-laws creating it, approved by the Exchange's board of directors, are:

To promote and maintain an organization of real estate owners of St. Louis for their mutual advancement and welfare.

"To unite the property owners to aggrescively combat excessive and inequitable tax burdens on real estate and to foster legislative measures providing relief.

"To keep members advised of the introduction and prograess of ordinances, measures and public improvements which may directly affect their property.

"To afford property owners an opportunity to act unitedly in securing relief from unjust, discriminatory or damaging legislation, practices or procedure.

"To promote economy and efficiency in the expenditure of public funds.

"To correct the tax system in the city and State so as to relieve real estate of inequitable tax burdens and unjust special assesessments.

18 Form Governing Body.

The governing body of the division is to be an Executive Committee of 18 members. This committee is to elect from its own number a chairman and two vice chairmen. The treasurer and executive secretary of the exchange are to be the treasurer and secretary of the division.

Nine standing committees are to be appointed: Membership, Municipal Affairs, Federal Matters, Transportation, Assessment and Taxation, State Legislation, City Planning, Construction Code and Program.

Organization of the Property Owners' Division began the first of the year as a part of a campaign to organize owners of real estate all over the country under the auspices of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Regarding the purposes and possibilities of the organization, President Dickmann said: "I vision a program of important activity for the division. As soon as the executive organization has been completed, we shall enter at once upon a study of taxation and upon other special problems.

War Started Bond Buying.

"Before the World War, investments were largely confined to lands, buildings and businesses individually owned. During the war the people from the patriotic necessity of buying Liberty bonds, became accustomed to investing in bonds; but, during this period corporations greatly prospered and largely reduced their bonded debts, and the low interest returns on the available municipal and Government bonds did not attract the small investor. The investing public, therefore, naturally turned to stocks. Almost everybody bought stocks, usually expecting to unload them on somebody else at an advanced price.

"It is a very short step from buying stocks as an investment to buying them as a speculation. The crash was the inevitable result of widespread speculation. While they were buying stocks on credit or on margin, many were also buying the necessities and comforts of life on the installment plan. They exhausted their cash, most of their credit, mortgaged their futures, and woefully reduced their buying power. The whole country suffered.

"Now, the cycle has been completed. The people are in a frame of mind to again invest in real estate, but the burdens of excessive taxation have discouraged investors.

"It is to reduce these excessive tax burdens on real estate that the Real Estate Exchange created the Property Owner's Division.

How to Reduce Taxes.

"The way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenses. It is to that end the division will address itself. Officials are constantly urged to appropriate public funds for all manner of things, some of which are wise, and some of which are foolish. It is a very rare experience for them to have any organied body of taxpayers actively cooperate by study, suggestions and action to the end that expenses be reduced. They are but rarely urged by anybody not to spend public money. Corporations everywhere are reducing operating costs, while city and state budgets and expenditures are mounting annually.

"I have no hestitancy in saying that every property owner in St. Louis should, in his own interest as a taxpayer, become a member. Upon request to Clarence C. Lang, secretary, with office in the headquarters of the Exchange, Room 100, Wainwright Building, complete information will be supplied."

CORNER AT HODIAMONT AND PAGE PURCHASED

Edward Anglin Buys Building From Franciscus Co. for Speculative Purposes.

A combination store and apartment building at the northeast corner of Hodiamont and Page avenues has been purchased by Edward F. Anglin through the Franciscus Realty Co. It comprises three stories, constructed of reinforced concrete.

Piggly-Wiggly and Lungstras occupy stores in the building, which covers a lot 75 by 136 feet.

The Franciscus Realty Co. made the sale for an Eastern client. The purchase was made because of the speculative possibilities of the location.

REAL ESTATE BILL IN GOVERNOR'S HANDS

Measure, Offered by Kinney, Provides for Partial Release of Property.

Senate Bill No. 174, introduced by Senator Michael Kinney at the request of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, has been passed by the Legislature and is now in the hands of the Governor for his signature.

The bill provides for partial release of property described in a deed of trust or mortgage and provides that in case any person desires to release any part of the property described in any deed of trust or mortgage by marginal record or deed of release, he shall be permitted to do so by the Recorder on presentation to the Recorder of the notes or other obligations evidencing the principal of the debt secured thereby, or accounting for them by affidavits or otherwise as now or hereafter provided by law in the case of full release. The Recorder shall note the fact of such partial release on the margin of the record of such deed of trust or, if such release is made by deed of release, shall note the fact of the filing for record of such partial release, and of the presentation of such notes or other obligations, or accounting therefor, on such notes or obligations in substantially the following form:

"See partial release dated...... ..................... Recorder, and on the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage, but shall not cancel such notes or other obligations; and nothing in this section shall be construed as making it necessary for any trustee named in the mortgage or deed of trust to join in such partial deed of release."

This measure is one of three that the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange sponsored. The other two bills, Senate Bill No. 175, relating to filing of a trustees' deed under foreclosure so as to require the presentation to the Recorder of the principal note or notes which were unpaid when foreclosure sale commenced so that the Recorder could make notation thereon that deed in foreclosure has been filed of record. Senate Bill No. 176 providing for compulsory identification by the Recorder of principal notes secured by a deed of trust or mortgage, failed of passage.

Due to the dilligent work of the Legislative Committee of the Exchange, headed by Charles J. Daly, its past president, no measures detrimental to the interests of real estate owners or agents have been passed by the Legislature.

HORNBECK & HARDIE TAKE LEASE ON WASHINGTON AV.

The Hornbeck & Hardie Electric Co. has acquired a lease of the second floor of the Wrought Iron Range Co. building at Nineteenth to Twentieth street on the north side of Washington avenue. David D. Lynch & Co. represented the lessee in the negotiations.

The space leased contains about 12,000 square feet and fronts 84 feet on both Washington and Lucas avenues, the depth being 135 feet. The lease is for more than 10 years and totals, it is understood, more than $35,000. Alterations are now being made by the James Walker Construction Co. for the tenant, and will be completed by May 15, when Hornbeck & Hardie Co. expect to move to their new quarters.

The firm now occupies 21 South Eleventh street, the former Wurdack Electric Co. building, which is part of the property acquired by the United States Government for the new Federal Building. Hornbeck & Hardie state they were advised by Government officials that the removal of all of this property would be started promptly June 1. As the firm had an unexpired eight-year term of lease upon this building, they received damages from the Government understood to be $8500.

M. H. Rodemyer & Co. represented the Wrought Iron Range Co., whose president, B. B. Culver, executed the lease for the company, and Samuel Virgel Hornbeck executed the lease as president of the Hornbeck & Hardie Co.

LAND OWNERS TO LAY PLANS FOR TAX RELIEF

Meeting of Persons From 35 Cities Set for May 28 at Baltimore.

A convention of housewives, skyscraper owners and big and little bond holders will be held in Baltimore, Md., on May 28 to plan a campaign for tax relief. School teachers, doctors, dentists, business executives, young women and middle-aged men will come together from 35 cities in the first national meeting of private owners of land ever held in this or any other country.

The convention has been called by the National Association of Real Estate Boards in connection with its own annual meeting in Baltimore May 27 to 30.

Those attending the property owners' sessions will be delegates from property owners' divisions of local real estate boards, who also are members of a national property owners' group organized by the real estate association more than a year ago. Both the local and national groups have been engaged in activities looking toward tax relief.

Delegates will describe local tax conditions and some of the measures already undertaken on behalf of taxpayers in various places.

Judge Arthur J. Lacy, Detroit, chairman of the property owners' division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards will preside at the meeting.

WALL STREET HAS NERVOUS WEEK; PRICES ARE ERRATIC

Market Has a Good Sellout at Midweek When U. S. Steel Plunges Sharply on Issuance of Quarterly Earning Report.

STOCK TO 112 5-8 AT FINAL SESSION

Rally at the Close With Most Prominent Industrials and Utilities Showing Ranges of 1 to 2 Points.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market passed through a selling climax this week which Wall street would like to believe plumbed the bottom of the bear market.

Old timers in Wall street say that is a characteristic of the last gasp of a bear market, so that it does not mean much one way or the other.

The market had a good sell out on Wednesday as U. S. Steel plunged sharply, in response to its quarterly earnings statement, but the market rebounded violently on Thursday, in a stampede of shorts —making a typical selling climax.

Wall street would have been greatly encouraged, had not the market plunged sharply again toward the end of Friday's session. A secondary reaction of substantial proportions is expected after a violent rebound, but Friday's sell off was so sharp, and followed the upturn so quickly, as to be rather discouraging.

The market ended the week with a little upturn, but apparently due only to short covering.

Had the market acted a little better after the climax, Wall street would be rather definitely inclined to the theory that the bottom had been reached. The seasonal trend of industry, however, is toward increasing quiet until midsummer. Some companies, particularly some of the motor makers are enjoying a better second quarter than the first quarter, but the steel industry expects it can only hope to about equal the first quarter.

The general level of share prices as measured by the more popular yardstick, is only slightly below that reached last December, and should the list receive good support around current levels, Wall street would be inclined to believe that the market had negotiated a double bottom, as it did in the 1920-21 depression, and that the worst had been seen.

Bond Market Remains Soggy.

The bond market remained rather soggy, although the sharply depressed speculative issues rebounded sharply with stock on Thursday, and better tone was maintained during the later part of the week. New financing was still almots at a standstill, the week's offerings barely exceeding $20,000,000.

Two reductions of ⅛ of 1 per cent in the Federal Reserve buying rate for bankers' acceptances were attributed both to a desire to strengthen the bond market, and to aid in a better distribution of international credit. Expectations that the New York bank might go so far as to cut its rediscount rate from 2 to 1½ per cent, however, proved unfounded, at least for the present. Call money was rather firm at 1½ per cent, presumably reflecting withdrawals for month-end settlements.

The weekly brokerage loan compilation showed a drop of $114,000,000, the largest so far this year. This indicated that much real liquidation of securities had been accomfplished, part of which was evidently connected with the suspension of two brokerage and underwriting houses.

Sterling exchange strengthened further, and the Bank of England reported a fair gain in gold holdings. As let, a flow from Paris to London has not started, but exchange rates are approaching the level at which such a movement might ensue.

Rally at Close.

Trading in stocks was highly inconclusive during most of today's session, but the list finally closed the week with a rally which in the case of most prominent industrials and utilities ranged from 1 to 2 points. Sales were 1,300,000 shares.

Declines and rallies followed each other swiftly in the first hour and a half as bears sought out soft spots. Selling was particularly directed against U. S. Steel, which

GENERALLY LOWER PRICES ON LOCAL STOCK EXCHANGE

Wagner Electric Closes Fractionally Higher After Selling at a New Low for This Bear Market.

Twenty securities out of the total number traded in on the St. Louis Stock Exchange during the last week lost ground. The extreme decline ranged to more than 4 points, recorded by Missouri Portland on a small turnover. A partial recovery followed new lows for the 16-month period were made by about eight issues, Wagner Electric and Curtis Mfg. being included in the number.

Wagner Electric, which was the most active issue of the week, ultimately rose and closed net higher. Brown Shoe also was higher at close.

Consolidated Lead, National Candy and Aloe closed unchanged, as did Scullin Steel preference.

Missouri Portland sold down to 20 and Mercantile-Commerce to 178. Franklin - American Trust reached 180 and First National Bank 63. Mississippi Valley Trust was 216.

Curtis Mfg. went to 14¾, recovering to 15. Dr. Pepper and Laclede Steel lost a point each and Landis Machine more than a point. International Shoe declined a fraction. Stix, Baer & Fuller also was off a fraction.

In the bond group United Railways 4s declined 2½ points to 45.

National Candy Established Earnings.

National Candy Co. combined estimated earnings for quarter ended March 31 after depreciation, estimated taxes, etc., were $112,859, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 35c per share on 211,780 shares of common stock compared with $313,771 for the corresponding quarter in 1930, equal to $1.30 per share on the same number of common shares. The principal cause of the decrease in earnings was said to be lower margin of profit as the volume of business is about 10 per cent less than for the corresponding quarter in 1930.

WALL STREET HAS NERVOUS WEEK; PRICES ARE ERRATIC

broke 1⅝ to the new low of 112⅝, and against American Can, which dipped 3 to the new 1931 minimum of 105¾. Rails declined rather easily, especially New York Central, and were unable to make much headway in the late recovery.

The sharp break on Friday left sentiment confused. Leading issues today were not unduly upset by the obvious bear drives against the two industrials mentioned, and that fact doubtless figures in the week-end flurry of covering.

Steel common closed at 115¾, up a point net, but Can was not so successful and only cut its extreme loss in two. There were gains of more than a point in General Electric, General Motors, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas and North American, and only slightly smaller advances in Westinghouse, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, Standard of New Jersey, Loew's, Case and United Corporation. New York Central reduced its single point decline. Atchison, Union Pacific, Frisco, New Haven, Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley all closed lower, with losses running up to 3 points. American Smelting was soft and the preferred lost 5½. Gillette was helped by the earnings report. Auburn was strong, up 16½ points net.

Selling of Cotton.

Selling persisted in the cotton market as foreign liquidating orders were executed and all futures touched new seasonal lows. The net losses were relatively small, however, running between 30 and 60 cents a bale. Wheat rallied ¼ to 1¼ on large Farm Board sales for exportation and a bullish weather forecast for the West. Corn steadied and was unchanged on the day. Bonds eased moderately.

News at the week-end offered little new light on the state of business. Steel operations in the Youngstown district next week on estimates will be a point lower at 42 per cent of capacity, which is less than the average rate of decline for the past several weeks. Report from Detroit said the April automobile business had increased substantially over March and would approach the volume of April, 1930.

Variations in foreign currency rates were inconsequential. Sterling and the French franc were firm.

DROP OF $257,682,370 IN 'CHANGE MEMBERS' LOANS

NEW YORK, May 2.—Collateral borrowings of members of the New York Stock Exchange declined $257,682,370 in April to a total of $1,651,128,124 as of April 30, establishing a new low since publication of these figures began in 1926. As of April 30 last year these loans amounted to $5,063,131,359.

German Dye Dividend of 12 Per Cent.

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, May 2.—A 12 per cent dividend, the same as that paid for the past three years, will be proposed at the general meeting of the German dye trust on June 3, the directors decided today.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Raw sugar was steady today and although a sale was confirmed of 27,000 bags of Philippines in nearby position at 3.23½ cents, it was to an outport refiner, with local refiners showing little interest. Offerings, however, were light with holders generally asking 3.25c.

Futures were inactive, although the undertone was comparatively steady, owing to the better tone to the spot market. The market opened unchanged to 1 point lower, with some scattered liquidation and local selling for over the week-end adjournment, but the offerings were absorbed by shorts and trade interests and prices held at these levels throughout the remainder of the session. The close was unchanged to 1 point net lower with the day's turnover amounting to only 1350 tons. May closed 1.19c; July 1.29c; Sept. 1.36c; Dec. 1.45c; Jan. 1.46c; March 1.52c and next May 1.59c.

Refined was unchanged at 4.40c for fine granulated, with second hands still available at around 4.35c. The withdrawal demand was of fair proportions, but new business was light and supplied through resale offerings.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Reduction o per prices to the basis of 9½ cents for trolytic delivered in the Connecticut failed to attract sufficient buying in and further concessions were made by toms smelters late in the week. F buying improved when the export pric reduced, but further easiness in L and domestic markets caused this to off later. Producers are maintaining owing to a belief that consumers a need of metal.

The decline in tin to the lowest since 1902 attracted improved buying, the undertone steadier at the close week. Easiness was attributed part an unfavorable view of April sta which showed an increase in Far E stocks.

Lead eased about ¼c per pound recent levels under increased sellin sure. Demand improved at the d with consumers showing interest in f deliveries.

Zinc declined further, owing to in ence of buyers who confine purcha carload lots for prompt shipment.

Antimony remains quiet, with quo largely nominal.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Reduction of copper prices to the basis of 9½ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley failed to attract sufficient buying interest and further concessions were made by customs smelters late in the week. Foreign buying improved when the export price was reduced, but further easiness in London and domestic markets caused this to taper off later. Producers are maintaining prices, owing to a belief that consumers are in need of metal.

The decline in tin to the lowest level since 1902 attracted improved buying, with the undertone steadier at the close of the week. Easiness was attributed partly to an unfavorable view of April statistics which showed an increase in Far Eastern stocks.

Lead eased about ⅛c per pound from recent levels under increased selling pressure. Demand improved at the decline, with consumers showing interest in forward deliveries.

Zinc declined further, owing to indifference of buyers who confine purchases to carload lots for prompt shipment.

Antimony remains quiet, with quotations largely nominal.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $4,599,000; compared with $10,646,500 yesterday, $5,279,500 a week ago and $7,530,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $949,281,000, compared with $1,075,082,000 a year ago and $892,238,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

PROMPT PAYMENT

Since the beginning of the 20th century we have made many first mortgage loans, on many different kinds of high-grade real property. Industrial buildings, office buildings, churches, hospitals, and various other properties have been included. In our long experience this fact stands out: As a class, institutions—churches, hospitals, colleges, etc.—meet their obligations of principal and interest more promptly when due than the average borrower. Therefore, we highly recommend these first mortgage real estate notes for your investment.

Now we are offering 5% First Mortgage Real Estate Gold Notes of the Society of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary. A descriptive circular will be sent to you if you will sign and return this advertisement.

STRONG CLOSE TO WHEAT ON THE LOCAL EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, May 2.—Report of indication that the Grain Stabilization Board agencies has disposed of an estimate of 13,000,000 bushels of wheat to export interests was followed by a strong close to wheat market. Forecast of continued rainless weather in Northwest also was a factor. Corn closed mixed with changes small.

Winnipeg, which was down fractionally early, closed 1¼c to 1½c net higher.

July wheat opened at 59¼c, September wheat 58⅝c, May corn 55¼c and July corn 57½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 33,600 bushels, compared with 89,600 a week ago and 61,600 a year ago, included 16 cars local and 8 through. Corn receipts, which were 130,800 bushels, compared with 105,000 a week ago and 49,000 a year ago, included 53 cars local and 19 through. Oats receipts, which were 50,600 bushels, compared with 63,800 a week ago and 72,600 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 5 through. Hay receipts were 31 cars local and 2 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady. Market was quiet. Receipts were light, but the demand was narrow. The only outlet was furnished by a local elevator. Trading was confined mainly to garlicky grain, smutty and low grade wheat, with all the fresh receipts of straight No. 1 being held for Federal inspection. The only sale of No. 1 was on a basis of ¾c below the Chicago old May figure. Hard wheat was steady. There was little offered, but the demand was quiet with a local elevator the only purchaser of milling grades. The only car of No. 1 on sale went on a basis 1¼c below the Chicago old May figure. Corn was ½c to 1c lower. Demand was better and discounts were ½c to 1c shorter. Mills, industries and elevators were the purchasers. Oats were ¼c to ½c lower. Local buyers were slow to take hold at the downturn. Receipts were light.

WHEAT CLOSES BUOYANT ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Indications that export interests had taken a big quantity of wheat off the hands of Farm Board auxiliaries turned the wheat market strongly upward today. The total was said to be 13,000,000 bu, and the price 61 cents, free on board vessels. A syndicate that included two private export concerns in this country was reported as the purchaser.

Wheat closed buoyant at the day's top level, unchanged to 1⅝ cents higher, a jump of 2 cents from earlier bottom figures. Corn finished at ⅛@¼ decline to ⅜ advance, oats unchanged to ¼ down, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents setback.

An official statement confirmed that the whole of the grain stabilization corporation's Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico's stocks of hard winter wheat had been sold, and that the unsold part of the corporations recent 35,000,000 bu offering for export shipment consisted now of durum and Pacific Coast wheat exclusively. News that an immediate large outlet for Government-financed wheat had been obtained came as a surprise to the majority of traders, and soon brought about a complete reversal of the market trend.

Giving impetus to the wheat advance were continued drouth complaints from spring crop territory, both Canadian and domestic, with forecasts of additional rainless weather. There was also talk that wheat reserve supplies in Europe were meager, and that trans-Atlantic buying this summer would probably form the rule. Under such circumstances, setbacks in Liverpool quotations were soon lost sight of, and stock market unsettlement had only a transient effect.

Coarse grains rallied with wheat, but met with free selling on upturns. An emergency rule making track deliveries here feasible tended to handicap bulls. Before wheat showed strength, December corn and all deliveries of rye outdid the season's low-price record.

NEW LOWS FOR SEASON IN THE COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A further decline in cotton today was attributed to a continuation of the recent selling movement which was said to include selling for foreign account, as well as a renewal of commission-house liquidation, combined with some local pressure. All months made new low records for the season, with July selling off to 9.59c, or 14 points net lower. That delivery closed at 9.64c, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of six to 12 points.

The opening was steady, 3 points lower to 1 point higher, most positions being lower in spite of relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was probably some buying on the latter, which may have been promoted by reports of further rains in the Eastern belt and considerable week-end covering. The demand was readily supplied, however, and offerings increased as peices worked lower later in the morning. At the lowest, May sold at 8.38c and October at 9.93c, making net declines of 11 to 14 points, and while later deliveries showed rallies of 5 or 6 points at the close, May closed at the lowest, under continued liquidation.

A private report was published placing the decrease in acreage of 12 per cent and estimating a decrease of 44 per cent in the use of fertilizer. These figures showed somewhat larger decrease both in the prospective acreage and with reference to fertilizers than some of the more recent previous estimates, but were apparently without effect on the market. According to this authority, 38.1 per cent of the crop had been planted up to April 25, compared with 59.2 last year. Houses with European connections were among the sellers here during the early trading, while there was further selling by New Orleans and the South.

Liverpool cables said that Continental and Bombay liquidation in that market had been taken by trade calling and buying for a reaction. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 10 to 27 points lower and the Indian spot quotation in Liverpool was 13 points lower.

The amount of cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 87,000 bales, against 92,000 bales last year. According to reports received by the New York Cotton Exchange Service, fertilizer tag sales in the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana and Alabama for the period Dec. 1 to April 30, represented 1,679,000 tons, against 2,354,000 for the same period last year.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC EARNED $8.01 ON STOCK IN 1930

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The Southern Pacific today reported 1930 net income totaling $29,842,181, a decrease of $18,518,601, or 38.29 per cent from 1929.

Per share earnings were equivalent to $8.01 compared with $12.99 in the previous year.

Per share earnings were equivalent to $8.01 compared with $12.99 in the previous year. Operations of the affiliated companies showed a deficit last year equal to 25 cents a share on the company's stock.

Net railway operating income fell off 27.8 per cent in 1930 to $43,108,660, but non-operating income increased $972,066 to $18,824,282.

Investments on December 31, 1930, were carried at $2,210,524,735, a gain of $39,116,242. Most of the increase was in road and equipment. Current assets increased $2,219,664 to $85,537,781, although cash declined to $22,571,739 from $28,359,732. Current liabilities amounted to $37,696,902, a reduction of $8,836,568. The long term debt was increased by $32,671,613.

Total railway operating revenues of $258,758,000 compared with $310,969,000 in 1929 and were the smallest for any period since Federal control.

"In an endeavor to recapture the freight traffic lost to motor trucks handling less than carload freight," Hale Holden, chairman of the Executive Committee, told the stockholders, "your company has caused the formation of the Pacific Motor Transport Co. and the Southern Pacific Transport Co., which render a store-door pick-up and delivery service, and the gratifying results of this service during the short time it has been in operation give encouraging promise of its ultimate success. The company is making every effort to recover the passenger traffic lost to motor coaches. This is being done by putting into effect lower experimental fares between various points, both for one way and round trip travel; by the installation of new and up-to-date passenger equipment; and by substitution, on certain lines, of other forms of transportation by means of which more frequent service can be given, than would be possible by steam passenger trains.

Lack of Balance Between Supply and Demand Chief Difficulty.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Lack of balance between production and consumption is the fundamental difficulty with the world, a statement by the National Industrial Conference Board said today. The pronouncement is the outcome of a study of "major forces in world business depression" just completed.

The study was confined to principal factors that contributed to depression. The board classified them as economic and political. It cited overproduction and unemployment as affecting industries; decline in export prices and reduction in export markets as affecting commerce; exchange difficulties, stringent currency, internal and external debts and heavy taxation as affecting finances and faulty public economic policies and external and internal troubles as bearing on political forces.

"The difficulty seems to lie in the existence of excess productive capacity in many countries side by side with the existence of low consuming power in other extensive areas thickly populated and rich in natural resources, the people of which have a low standard of living, producing little and consuming little," the report said.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—At the end of the week dry goods primary markets were steadier and hopes of a more active business in the near future were expressed by merchants. Wash fabrics and cotton dresses were moving freely. Silk continued barely steady with silk merchandise selling at very close prices. Burlaps softened in the primary markets but held steady here. Rayon sales continued in fair volume for fall.

Silver Peso Again Down.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—A new collapse in the quotation of the silver peso brought it down to 26 per cent under the value of gold today.

The quotations were posted in exchange houses, all banks being closed for a week-end holiday.

The normal exchange rate is 3 per cent.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Cash dividends paid by domestic corporations in April totaled $550,334,872, compared with $401,079,571 in March, a compilation by Standard Statistics Co. shows. Electric light and gas companies led the list of major divisions with payments of more than $100,000,000, while banks were next with over $65,000,000.

Seiberling Rubber Co. has increased working turns in all its plants to six days a week, with three forces working eight hours a day. The personnel has been increased 20 per cent.

Ninety per cent of the outstanding stock of Columbia Graphophone Co., Ltd., and the Gramophone Co., Ltd., must be deposited to consummate merger of these companies, plans for which were announced March 19, according to notices issued to shareholders from London. The deposits must be made before June 29, it was stated.

The Keystone Aircraft Corporation of Bristol, Pa., has been awarded a contract by the War Department for 64 bombardment airplanes and spare parts at a cost of $1,920,510.

Myron H. Clark has been elected vice president in charge of operations of Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Co.

Wheeling Steel Corporation directors have approved a change in the capital structure which will be submitted to stockholders for approval at a special meeting June 2. Under the plan one share of 8 per cent preferred "A" will be exchanged for one and one-third shares of new $100 par 6 per cent preferred; one share of x per cent preferred "B" for 1 2-5 shares of new 6 per cent preferred, and one share of $100 par common for one share of new no-par common.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. has become sole owner of Eastern Alcohol Corporation through purchase of half interest in the corporation held by Dunbar Molasses Corporation of New York, a subsidiary of United Molasses, Ltd., of England.

Buying interest continues slack in the nation's electrical equipment markets, Electrical World reports. Volume is off in most districts, though sentiment generally is not lacking in optimism. Curtailed buying continues the rule in the East, but the general tone is somewhat more encouraging.

Bar silver held steady in New York at the close of the week, being quoted unchanged at 28¼ cents. The metal displayed strength in London, advancing 3-16 of a penny, to 13 3-16 pence.

NEW YORK, May 2.—At today's bottom price U. S. Steel had closely approached its 1927 low of 111⅜ established in that year following the deduction of the 40 per cent stock dividend from its market price. Today's drive on the old industrial Bellwether coincided with the news from Pittsburg of a further drop of 50 cents a ton in the price for heavy scrap at that point. The trend of scrap prices has long been accepted as an almost infallible barometer of conditions in the industry, and with today's reduction at the big Eastern center following a cut of 25 cents at Chicago yesterday this continued weakness in the basic metal did not make favorable impression. Scrap at Pittsburg is now quoted at $11.50 a ton, the lowest in 15 years.

Durant Motors Dispute Ends.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, May 2.—Durant Motors dispute, in which Durant Motors, Inc., of Lansing, Mich., asked the Ontario courts to prevent Durant Motors of Canada, Ltd., from selling its assets to Dominion Motors, Ltd., a proposed new company, ended today. Irwin Hillard, assistant master, signed an order, with the consent of both parties, dismissing the American company's action without costs.

The order followed a settlement, reached last night. The dismissal dissolves an injunction of April 7, by which Justice Logien restrained the Canadian company from entering into its agreement with Dominion Motors, Ltd.

Insolvency Statistics Improve.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A slightly better trend than has been shown in any of the earlier months of the year was shown in the April insolvency statistics, R. G. Dun & Co. reports.

The 2386 commercial failures in the month just ended represented a dorp of 8.8 pert cent from the March total of 2604, compared with a 6.3 per cent reduction in April last year from the previous month. The April total compared with 2198 defaults for the like month last year, representing an increase of 7.7 per cent, compared with an increase of 10.9 per cent shown by the March total this year over the like month of 1930.

The aggregate indebtedness involved in the insolvencies last month was $50,868,135, a decrease of nearly $10,000,000 from March, and an increase of 3.5 per cent over the total for April last year.

Sparks From Chimneys Cause 470 Blazes—Department Answers 9652 Alarms.

Total loss from fire in St. Louis during the municipal fiscal year that ended last month was $1,828,055, as estimated by the Fire Department in its annual report. This was $611,235 less than the estimate for the preceding fiscal year.

The loss covered by insurance was $1,605,267, or $670,932 less than the year before. Valuation of buildings in which fires occurred and their contents was placed by the department at $33,501,547, and insurance covering these was stated to be $22,979,308. In the preceding year the corresponding value was $30,296,617, with $22,740,865 in insurance.

Some of the outstanding causes of fires in the last year were listed as follows: Careless handling of cigars and cigarettes, 224; children playing with matches, 46; defective flues, 231; smoking in bed, 28; sparks from chimneys, 470; blazes in weeds, 393. There were 1031 instances where the cause was not determined, and 35 where arson was suspected. Once the firemen were called when a boy got caught on a high tension wire.

Among principal places where fires occurred were: Apartments, 187; dwellings, 1467; garages, 350; rooming houses, 200; sheds, 465; ash pits, 305; automobiles, 928; awnings, 209; dumps, 250; vacant lots, 482. One hot tamale cart and three popcorn carts caught fire, and there were one fire on the levee, two in cemeteries, two in wooden pavements, and one in an abandoned cistern.

A marked increase in the number of fire alarms in the last fiscal year, when there were 9652 alarms, in comparison with nine preceding years, was noted. In the year before there were 6387. During the last year, 5330 of the alarms came by telephone and 4322 over call boxes. Only four blazes called for four alarms, 22 for three alarms and 60 for two. There were 621 false alarms, of which 97 came by telephone.

KILLS WIFE, SHOOTS ATTORNEY IN CONFERENCE ON DIVORCE

Unemployed Actor Flees After Firing Shots in New York Lawyer's Office.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A discussion of the domestic troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schuster in the office of her attorney resulted today in her death and the shooting of the lawyer. Schuster, who fled, is sought as the killer.

The purpose of the meeting in the office of Israel Siegel was to determine what might be done about Schuster's failure to pay temporary alimony. The wife had started suit for separation, accusing him of insufficient support and of being quarrelsome.

Siegel told police that after talking to the Schusters, he took Mrs. Schuster to another room to confer with her. Schuster followed and fired five shots, he said. Two of them hit Mrs. Schuster in the head and one the attorney's arm.

Schuster is an out-of-work dancing instructor and vaudeville actor, who once made $22 a week. When his wife started her separation action she was awarded $40 a week temporary maintenance. He was $410 in arrears.

Police said they found in the lawyer's office a letter apparently written by Mrs. Schuster to another actor in which she urged him to come back to New York, "and I will weep on your strong shoulder."

3 NEGROES SENTENCED TO DIE

Convicted at Elizabethtown, Ky., of Murder of Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky., May 2.—Three Negroes convicted of the murder of a farmer after a series of robberies on the night of April 6 were sentenced today to be electrocuted at Eddyville, June 15. Notice of appeal was filed. Two of them have been identified as having attacked two women near Fulton, Ky. and in East St. Louis., Ill., in robberies that began early in March.

Charles Rogers was convicted today. Walter Holmes and Walter Dewberry, the latter accused of being the man who actually shot Thomas Tillery, 55 years old were convicted earlier in the week.

ACTOR FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE

Door Shut and Motor of Auto Running; Leaves Suicide Note.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The body of Walter Markwith, 36 years old, vaudeville actor, was found today at the wheel of his automobile in the garage at his Orange, N. J., home. The garage door was shut and the car's motor was running.

A note, apparently meant for his wife, was found in his coat pocket. It read: "I know I have not made good and you were used to having everything, and, as you say, I will never amount to anything. I don't want to ruin your happiness with things as they are."

Woman Dismisses Election Suit.

Mrs. Emma Engelmeier voluntarily dismissed yesterday at her costs an election contest in Circuit Court against Mrs. Frank A. Becker for the office of Republican Committeewoman in the Thirteenth Ward. Mrs. Becker was elected on the face of the returns by 552 majority but her opponent, Mrs. Engelmeier, demanded a recount.

NICARAGUAN POLICY OF U. S. CONDEMNED

Congressman Knutson Demands Warning of Reprisal Be Given Sandino.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A policy that "will convince Sandino and his fellow bandits that swift and certain reprisal will follow the mistreatment of any American in Nicaragua" was demanded today by Congressman Knutson of Minnesota.

Saying in a statement that Secretary of State Stimson "seems to have substituted the puerility of Bryan for the robust Americanism of Blaine, Olney and Hughes," the Minnesotan, chairman of the House Insular Affairs Committee, added:

"If the Nicaraguan Government has collapsed and can no longer meet its treaty obligations, then it is the moral duty of our own Government to step in and prevent the spoilation of American citizens by Sandino and his horde of bandits. To abandon them to the tender mercies of the Nicaraguan cutthroats is an act of rank cowardice that is resented by every American worthy of the name."

Referring to Stimson's recent statement that Marines would not be sent into the interior of Nicaragua against insurgent forces, Knutson said it was "in effect notice to the bandits that they are at liberty to plunder and kill Americans living in the interior with impunity and that they will be immune from punishment so far as our Government is concerned."

MANIAC AT LARGE ON SHIP, THROWS TWO SAILORS INTO SEA

They Are Saved But Efforts to Subdue Mad Man Fail.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—A radio message from the Captain of the small Mexican coastwise steamer Satanta Cecelia, intercepted in Manzanillo yesterday, said that a crazed passenger was at large aboard the vessel and that efforts to capture or subdue him had proved futile.

The remented man, of huge size was said to have thrown two sailors into the sea. The sailors were saved by other sailors, who threw ropes to them while others gave battle to the assailant on another portion of the deck. Wielding an iron bar, the crazed man injured four passengers and sailors, finally driving the remaining passengers to their cabins, and setting fire to a portion of the deck.

The crew managed to put out the fire and at the time the Captain sent his message they had the marauder cornered and were making an effort to overpower him. The ship was bound from Manzanillo to Acapulco.

RUMOR DAWES' CHICAGO BANK MAY ENTER CONSOLIDATION

Newspaper Reports Central Trust and Republic National, With $350,000,000 Joint Resources, May Unite.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The Evening Post said today a rumor was widely circulated that the Central Trust Co. of Illinois, controlled by Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and the National Bank of the Republic might be consolidated. Their joint resources exceed $350,000,000 and their deposits $290,000,000.

Official comment could not be obtained from2 the Central Trust leaders, but Ward C. Castle, executive vice president of the Bank of the Republic, was quoted as saying that "in the minds of some outsiders such a consolidation would be logical, but he added that there had been no discussions along that line recently.

It was pointed out that no deal would likely be consummated before the return from London of Dawes, who sails for home on leave May 19.

MISSISSIPPI PROHIBITION AGENT SHOT TO DEATH

Body Is Found in His Auto Almost Submerged in Creek.

COLLINS, Miss., May 2.—The bullet-scarred body of H. L. Everett, 32-year-old prohibition agent of Jackson, was found in his wrecked automobile near a highway a short distance from here today.

A motorist stopped to examine the smashed railing of a bridge over a creek and found Everett's car almost submerged in the water below. An examination indicated he had been dead only a short time. Officers said he was apparently ambushed as he drove along the road, and that his car ran wild and plunged from the bridge.

The body bore marks of many shotgun slugs.

DRY "BOARD OF STRATEGY" TO PREPARE 1932 CAMPAIGN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Political activity of prohibitionists in preparation for the 1932 elections will be planned here by a "board of strategy" representing 33 national prohibition organizations.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the National Temperance Bureau said today the board would meet May 20 for its first session. Organization of political temperance units in each of the 48 states is contemplated, he said.

The personnel of the board will not be announced until shortly before the meeting. Dr. Dinwiddie said it would consist of nearly 50 of the country's leading prohibitionists.

IN MEMORIAM

ABE—In loving memory of Mathilda Abe, who passed away May 3, 1928:

Our lips cannot tell how we miss her.
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss her,
In a home that is lonesome today.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND BAAR FAMILY.

BERGMANN (nee Frank) — In blessed memory of our dear Helen and baby Sonny, died May 8, 1927:

Oh, how heavy and sad our hearts were—when the death dew fell on their brows so fair
The day they left us will never be forgotten—no more on earth will we see their smiling faces—
Though the snow and rain will drift on their lonely beds,
No breath of sorrow can touch their brows.
The dear ones that we loved so much—
Yet why do we weep, they are not dead?
They are now sitting close to the Savior's feet.
If they could speak to their loved ones today they would say,
Don't cry, for we were prepared and not afraid to die.

Remembered forever,
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS, BROTHER.

BORCHARDT—In loving memory of our dear mother, Friedericke Borchardt, who departed this life May 3, 1930:

The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memory lingers every day;
Remembrance keeps her near,

Sadly missed by:
FREDA BORCHARDT AND MARY LINZEMANN. (c)

DITTMEIER—In loving memory of the dear wife and dear mother, Mrs. Emma Dittmeier, who passed away May 3, 1929.

Two years it will be since we laid you to rest,
And placed your cold hands upon your breast;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true;
One who was better God never makes;
One in a million, that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right, honest and liberal;
Ever upright, loved by all friends and all whom you knew.
Wonderful mother that mother was you.
God grant someday we'll meet again.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, J. DITTMEIER, AND FAMILY AND ALL WHO LOVED HER. (c)

DOERSAM—In loving memory of Leonard Doersam, who departed this life May 3, 1929.

Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

GILES—In memory of my dear mother, Cecelia Giles, who died May 5, 1929.

Two years it will be since we've laid you to rest,
And placed your cold hands upon your breast;
In silence you suffered, with patience you bore,
Till God called you home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by
SON AND ALL WHO LOVED YOU. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

HOLDSWORTH—In memory of Elizabeth Holdsworth, who departed this life May 3, 1927:

Four years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by:
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

HUNT—In sad but loving memory of our dear husband and father, Officer Carl T. Hunt, who departed this life May 1, 1925:

You have gone from your dear ones, your child and your wife,
Whom you willingly toiled for and loved as your life.
Oh, God, how mysterious and strange are Thy ways
To take from us this loved one in the best of his days.

Sadly missed by his ever-loving WIFE AND BABY. (c)

HUNT—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Officer Carl T. Hunt, who passed away May 1, 1925.

Six years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND BROTHER. (c)

JUERGANO — In loving memory or our dear mother, Fredericka Juergano (nee Frank), who departed this life three years ago, April 29, 1928. Sadly missed by SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

JUST—William Jr., died May 5, 1930.

He who suffered past his pain;
Cease to weep, for tears are vain.
He who suffered is at rest;
Gone to heaven with the blessed.

Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER. (c)

KEMPE—In momory of our dear sister and mother, Mamie Kempe (nee Schwake), who departed this life May 3, 1930.

Sadly missed by
HER SISTERS, SONS AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW. (c)

KERR—Elizabeth, died April 29, 1930.

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome;
In the midst of our joys we are blue;
With a smile on our face, we have heartaches;
Longing, dear mother, for you.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN. (c)

LANGENECKERT—In loving memory of Gertrude Langeneckert, who departed this life May 5, 1925:

The month of May again is here,
To us the saddest of the year
Because it took from us away
A dear one just six years ago today.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, MOTHER, SISTER, BROTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

LANGENECKERT—In memory of Gertrude Langeneckert (nee Doebber), who departed this life six years ago, May 5, 1925

Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

OTT—In loving memory of Raymond B. Ott, who passed away May 9, 1930.

More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.

Requiem mass, Saturday, May 9, 1931, at 7:45 a. m. Perpetual Help Church.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, 2 BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

SCHARE—In loving memory of our dear mother and sister, Mrs. K. Schare, who departed this life four years ago, May 7, 1927.

WATKINS—In loving remembrance of my dear, sweet, little mother, Anna J. Watkins (nee MacArthur), died 18 years ago, May 2, 1913. JOHN A. WATKINS.

WEAVER—In loving memory of John C. Weaver, who passed away May 1, 1930.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend,
We think of you often, and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever shall be.

Sadly missed by his loving wife,
HENRIETTA WEAVER. (c)

WRIGHT—In memory of Roy Wright, who passed away May 1, 1930.

One long year has passed away
Since that sad and mournful day;
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

MOTHER AND BROTHERS.

YOUNG—In loving memory of our dear mother, mother-in-law and grandmother, Ida Bertha Young, who departed from life May 3, 1930.

We saw you suffer and heard you sigh;
Could do nothing but sit and cry.
We saw you sinking hour by hour,
Yet we did all within our power.
But now you calmly sleep the past,
While our sorrow for you will always last.

Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

ZIEGENBALG—In loving memory of our dear mother, Marie Ziegenbalg, who passed away two years ago, April 29, 1929
HER CHILDREN.

GET IN WHILE GETTING IN IS GOOD

Here is a real opportunity for an ambitious man with a small amount of capital and a determination to succeed in business for himself.

There are sections of the country where you could not buy a Bowes "SEAL FAST" distributing franchise for thousands of dollars. However, there are other sections where good territories are still open to you, merely awaiting development to rank among the most productive and profitable of all the territories in the United States.

We offer you the best opportunity in the world to establish yourself in the wholesale distributing business with high grade, nationally known, nationally advertised automotive products. We defy anyone to find its equal as a bona fide, exclusive wholesale sales franchise on automotive products. To receive consideration, applicant must be of proven character; reliable and financially responsible. Must also be a man with the capacity to apply systematic, industrious sales and merchandising methods. Wire or write, President, Bowes "SEAL FAST" Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

A Chicago corporation has opening for local representatives for every city and county in the State. Our product sells to all types of merchants. These merchants reorder on an average four times a year making the business permanent and profitable. Any good man should average from $80 a week up in his own territory. You must be financially responsible and furnish A1 references. This is a real opportunity. Write fully for interview. Box C-171, Post-Dispatch.

Unusual Business Opportunity

Wanted, man to invest $2000 and full time services in local business; probable returns $4000 per year or better. Money secured. This is an established concern of national reputation. Nothing to sell. To get the details of a real money-making proposition phone J. S. Brentlinger after 10 o'clock Monday morning, Hotel Lennox, for appointment. (c2)

THE "MEDIUM" WHO ADMITS HE WAS A FAKE

How the Man Who Never Saw a Spirit and Never Expects to See One, Deceived Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

NINO PECORARO has resigned as one of America's foremost spirit mediums. Further, he has declared verbally and in a signed statement that in all his experience he has never encountered a spirit, doesn't think he ever will and doesn't think anyone else ever did, or will. The under-sized Italian, product of New York's lower East Side, and now in his early thirties, has "materialized" departed persons for relatives to shake hands and converse with for 11 years and is tired of it. Not only the gullible among the laity but many men of science and learning were completely taken in by his weird tricks. Among these was the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, a leader in the spiritist movement, who is quoted as having verbally ranked Pecoraro as a "great medium."

Nino, as he likes to be called, grinned amiably as he related in broken English the reason of his defection from the spiritist ranks. The chief reason was present in the room in the form of Joseph Dunninger, nemesis of mediums. Dunninger is head of a committee named by a scientific magazine which offers $21,000 to any medium whose performance Dunninger is unable to duplicate by physical means in broad daylight. The prize has never been awarded.

Nino tried for it four times, and each time Dunninger bound him so cleverly that the medium was unable to perform. After a number of years Dunninger was able to convince him that he ought to quit.

It was in 1922 that Nino gave a special seance for a select group, including Sir Arthur and Lady Doyle, in New York City. Since the recent announcement in the press services concerning Pecoraro's renouncement of spiritism, Lady Doyle has denied ever having seen him or attended his seance. Files of the New York World, however, point to a defective memory on the part of the British lady, as does a detailed account of the seance contained in Sir Arthur's own book, "Our American Adventure."

At the seance, according to Nino, Sir Arthur was deluded into the belief that through the medium he was talking to his dead son. How he mistook the high Italian falsetto used by the medium for his own son's voice is a mystery.

Nino also declares he stuck his own hand through the curtains of the cabinet and Sir Arthur grasped it, thinking it his son's. The room, of course, was dark, except for a small red light.

Sir Arthur's account passes over these incidents, but mentions others worthy of repetition.

After paying tribute to a Dr. Vecchio, who first discovered Nino's psychic powers, as a "very competent experimenter," Sir Arthur describes the scene, in part, thus: "A cabinet had been erected at one end of the seance room in the Psychical Institute and in it the medium was placed. It was merely a screen of curtains and the idea is it 'holds in' those vaporous materials which are the raw material of psychical manifestations.

"The lights were turned down—ectoplasm dissolves in light—and we waited for some time in patient expectation, with only a dim red lamp to cast its glimmer in the gloom. Suddenly a perfect scream came from the cabinet, thin and keen and vibrant."

(This was Nino just beginning to display his bag of tricks.)

"It was so sudden," continues Sir Arthur's account, "that it made us all jump in our chairs. . . ."

NINO put on what he calls "a swell manifestation." He sent his hands wriggling through the curtains and played a mandolin, rocked the table in front of the cabinet, rang bells and tossed all sorts of objects about. He shrieked the name of an Italian woman present and the woman, terrified, moved nearer the cabinet.

Sir Arthur writes that she "whinnied with fear."

"This," he opined, "seemed to damp down the phenomena, which now took merely a physical turn, the table being dashed about in all directions, possibly to signify the impatience of the spirit at the backwardness of the girl."

Nino said it was easy to slip out of the bindings when he first entered the cabinet, and all he had to do was reach out through the curtains and push, shake and shove things.

And here is the most naive portion of the whole account: "There was a strong, cool breeze, the sure sign of real psychic power. Do not these psychic air vibrations throw a light on the constant request from spirits that we sing or play and so keep the waves moving?"

How to manufacture the breeze? Easy, said Nino. All he did was shake the curtains gently. In the still room, with everyone fairly close to the cabinet, this atmospheric disturbance was easily felt.

Aiding the deception was the damp that stood out on the foreheads of all present, due to the excitement. Quick evaporation, cold sensation.

SIR ARTHUR goes on to describe how he talked to Nino's "control," Mme. Palladino, a famous medium in her day. The ghostly Palladino, however, declined to be dragged into a long conversation and that part of the affair turned out badly.

"In vain," writes Sir Arthur, "we played up to Palladino, welcomed her, spoke of her past. A voice from the cabinet said in Italian: 'I who used to call back the spirits now come back as a spirit myself.' I said: 'Palladino, we send you our love and our best encouragement.' The curtains seemed to blow 'outwards toward us and for a time we had hopes of a materialization. But again the force was dissipated in the absurd and violent dancings of the table. It was very disappointing, but nothing more could be done, and after two hours we were compelled to break off." Sir Arthur parenthetically points out that the spirit of a person who was silly on earth will be frivolous after death.

Naturally, when the seance was over and the curtains were pulled aside, Nino lay bound and in a "trance."

"The young Italian's pulse was slow and steady," Sir Arthur relates, "but it was 15 minutes before we got him out of his trance. It was not, it must be admitted, a very successful sitting, but when we consider the strange surroundings it was not quite a failure. I thought the youth a true medium and might develop into something remarkable." For the benefit of the writer and a photographer, Nino, grinning, went into one of his "trances." He sprawled in a chair, rolled his eyes and convulsed his muscles and limbs into grotesque shapes.

"When I move my finger, take the picture," he said.

Soon his body was rigid. The eyes were closed. The finger moved and the flash lamp flared.

"Touch my body any place," mumbled Nino. It was hard as iron.

"Now, push back my eyelids." This rather grisly task revealed only whites. Nino shook himself and got up.

"Now I do a Palladino," he said. And he imitated in a falsetto the voice of his former control.

HE WAS asked if he used this same tone of voice in imitating Sir Arthur's son. He replied that it was practically the same voice. He attributed the success of the deception to the fact that persons who go to mediums to communicate with their dead are easily satisfied and hear what they want to hear.

Nino was then asked how he managed to wriggle out of some of the most intricate bindings, and here the interview struck a snag.

Nino does not believe in spirits. He is still open-minded on the matter; that is, he will believe in them if someone gives him a convincing demonstration of their existence. But he does believe that he possesses what he calls a mystic power which enables him to release himself from bonds and get back into them.

This power is similar to that possessed by the late Harry Houdini. Dunninger insists that it is merely a remarkable muscular talent but Nino sticks to his idea of mysticism. It is truly marvelous. In some of his tests, Nino has been stripped, bathed and X-rayed. Then he has been clad in linen trousers and shirt. To the sleeves of the shirt have been sewn mittens, the seams being sealed with wax, other seals being affixed elsewhere. He has then been trussed up with ropes or straps and put in a big bag and then tied to a chair. Left in the dark for an hour or two he has got free of all this, rung his bells and blown his trumpets and then got back into the whole intricate system of binding, without breaking the wax seals!

"All I know is that before I go into

To Whom It May Concern:-

I, Nino Pecoraro, previously known as a spirit medium for the past eleven years, hereby declare that I personally possess the psychic ability of liberating myself from all sorts of bindings, and various forms of restraint, thereby enabling me to freely use my body to do all sorts of things, such as message writing, trumpet blowing, moving of objects, writing of messages upon paper, and creating all sorts of phenomenal effects.

I hereby state that I have, in the past, as in the present, been able to do these things PERSONALLY, and ABSOLUTELY UNASSISTED, and thereby state that in as much as I do these things MYSELF, and am strickly conscious thereof, I have never been aided by ANY SPIRITS, nor any SPIRITUALISTIC force whatsoever.

I therefore do not believe that ANYONE ever saw a genuine spirit, in as much as in all of the eleven years of my experience, I NEVER SAW ONE, and DO NOT believe that anyone else ever saw a spirit.

I personally produced EVERYTHING that was ever seen by my investigators, without any SPIRITUALISTIC aid what so ever.

GAS OVER EUROPE

Popular Fears in France and Germany Over What Might Happen in Another War, as Reflected in Two Magazines.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IN PARIS and in Berlin there have appeared, within a few weeks of each other, issues of two leading magazines entirely devoted to the "coming gas war." Die Woche (The Week) in Berlin and Vu (See) in Paris sound a note of warning almost apocalyptic in tone, slightly lurid, slightly sensational. But the tone of these two publications corresponds, observers report, with the psychosis of fear which dominates many elements in Europe today.

Die Woche is more thorough-going and impressive than Vu. It devotes considerable space to recounting the measures which have been taken to protect the civilian population from gas attacks and it offers simple instructions for the defenseless when the sirens begin to shriek and the cry, "Gas, gas, gas!" echoes through the streets.

Vu is more frankly sensational. One writer gives a graphic, first-hand picture of the gas attacks that occur on Christmas night, 1932, in a war that breaks like a sudden storm, without diplomatic niceties. Paris is overwhelmed, the dead choke the entrance to the subways, a priest and his flock are struck down at mass, the Senate convenes in gas masks. The article is illustrated with drawings like those which recently were carried in one of the London magazines, showing the chaos that will fall upon the modern metropolis under a gas attack.

DIE WOCHE, of course, makes the menace to Germany seem much more real. An imposing double-page map shows Germany at the hub of Europe, surrounded by forts bristling with cannon and airdromes equipped with fleets of hundreds of airplanes. Flying routes converging on Berlin are drawn from Paris, Warsaw, Prague and distant Moscow. Over the German cities along these routes hang heavy clouds signifying the poison death which planes have dealt in passing.

This fear is not new. For long German statesmen have been concerned with Poland's supposed air strength of 1000 planes, within a few hours' flying time of Berlin, and the almost 2500 fighting planes which France is said to be able to send across the frontier. East Prussia, most open to attack, has taken the lead in working out a system of civil-military gas defense drills.

Last fall the first mass maneuvers took place at Koenigsberg. Civilian volunteers were organized to watch the borders and report sighting "an enemy plane from Poland" to headquarters in the city. Smoke clouds were laid over Koenigsberg and its suburbs, while outposts maintained a two-day vigil against repeated attacks. The third day a large part of the civilian population was put through a gas mask drill under the direction of police, who drove about in trucks passing out the gas masks. Almost all of East Prussia is within an hour's flying time of some Polish airdrome.

One of the leading articles in Die Woche is "Modern Gas Protection: First aid measures against dangers from the air." It is written as though war were expected to break out tomorrow or the day after tomorrow or next week.

"There is, of course," observes the writer, Erich Hampe, "no uniform means of protection against all dangers from the air. There is one protective device which has, during the course of time, developed a certain degree of excellence, this being the gas mask which is essentially a respiration filter. However, this device becomes really effective only under the following conditions: the mask must be fitted properly; it must have no defective parts; it must always be kept handy and the wearer must accustom himself to the disagreeable difficulty of respiration with the mask in place. Equipment of the entire population with gas masks is not yet practicable, because the human face changes in contour during the course of time and because it is not always possible to preserve the gas mask and keep it close at hand. But one thing is imperative, and that is that all those persons who will be on active duty during the air attacks, such as the police, ambulance attaches, firemen and workers in the electrical power houses, be constantly equipped with the latest type of mask.

"Since commercial gases of various type have come into such widespread use, many of them poisonous or semi-poisonous, the general populace has learned some simple measures of self-protection. In many cases it is sufficient to protect the mouth and nose with wet cloths. As light gases evaporate quickly from the danger zone and heavy gases have the tendency to settle, deep breathing, occasioned by rapid movement, should be avoided, and one should at once make for the topmost floor or attic. All cracks and the space around doors and windows should be stuffed with wet cloths, making them in this way more or less airtight. A French technical military journal gives instructions as follows for a combined aerial attack on an industrial center: The first group of planes shall throw explosive bombs of high percussion in order to clear the way for the poison gas. A second group of planes follows to throw inflammatory bombs, in order to increase the panic among the civilian population. A third special squadron covers the territory with poison gas, so that first-aid work will be difficult or impossible.

"Which is the best method of protection in the case of a triple attack of this sort? Largely because of modern building methods, there is, of course, no means of protection from accurately aimed explosive bombs. It is best, however, to go inside the house and lie down flat in the center of the room, as far as possible from any windows. Cellars afford the worst possible retreats. There is more danger here from flying bomb splinters, to say nothing of the fact that the building is liable to collapse. Also, most gases sink to the lowest level and seep rapidly into basements.

"THE first aim in preparing for a passive defense must be prompt report and warning service, which can best be given by a network of observation posts. These in turn forward the warning to a central station, whence it is distributed to the population by special electrical or telephonic signals. Already there are some shell and gas-proof houses, but they are adequate for only small fractions of the populace. The active defenders, rescue workers, firemen, troops, should, of course, go to central depots previously arranged for, while police patrols should take care that the population is taking the right attitude by maintaining silence and darkness unbroken by a single light."

Die Woche makes much in several photographs with lengthy captions of the fact that school children in Russia are being trained to protect themselves during a gas attack. They regard with envy and apprehension—as a possible warning of what is to come—the high pressure tunnels and chambers that are said to stretch for miles around the fortifications on the French side of the Franco-German frontier. By preserving the air pressure slightly above the normal, poison gases can be kept out despite a tendency to sink to the lowest level, it is claimed. France has never admitted the existence of these trenches, but authorities in Germany claim to have indisputable evidence of their existence.

ANOTHER article in Die Woche discusses the thousand or more different poison gases. They fall into several general classifications. The first group consists of those which irritate and destroy the mucous membranes in mouth, nose and lungs, but do not injure the skin. These are mostly compounded of arsenic, according to the author of the article. The deadliness of this type of gas has been greatly increased by the chemical forces of most great nations since the war, the anonymous author writes.

Another somewhat similar group of gases, which also do no injury to the skin, are the suffocating gases which produce hemorrhage of the lungs and a slow death.

"Even those who are slightly injured by this form of gas," the writer warns, "should take the utmost precaution to remain perfectly still, since even partial cauterization

St. Louis Acquires Two Artistic Results of Alexander the Great's Conquests

Sculptured Heads, Found in the Sands of Afghanistan and Purchased by the Art Museum, Point the Cultural Blending of Greece and Indo-China 2000 Years Ago.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

OUT of the dust of a buried civilization have come significant clews that link together the culture of the East and West. In waste country on the north border of Afghanistan a French expedition found not long ago 90 fragments of sculpture, most of them heads, that combine in a strange blending the elements of the culture of Greece and that of Indo-China, the clear, impersonal beauty of Apollo and the brooding quietude of the Buddha.

Two of these heads have been purchased and received by the St. Louis Art Museum in Forest Park, and the museum board is considering the purchase of others. From an epoch almost lost to history, at the beginning of the Christian era, these figures look out with bland, sightless eyes upon a machine age created on the other side of the world 2000 years later.

Museums throughout the country are scrambling to acquire these figures. For in addition to the Greek-Indo-Chinese blend, art historians and archeologists profess to see in the Afghanistan sculptures still another significant element that relates them, indirectly, to a later culture. They see in them certain resemblances to the early Gothic sculptures, such as are to be seen at Rheims and Chartres.

There is, of course, no direct relation between these two artistic periods, so widely removed in time and space. But ethnologists are of the opinion that the same elements in both civilizations produced similarities in sculpture—notably certain stylistic similarities to be seen in the arrangement of the draperies, the expression of the face. In both instances, the theory is, this similar artistic manifestation grew out of a spiritualizing influence—the Christian religion in the instance of the Gothic, Buddhism in the sculpture of Afghanistan and the nearby provinces.

THE Afghanistan sculptures were discovered by Andre Malraux, who headed an expedition sent out by the French magazine, Nouvelle Revue Francaise. Malraux, an adventurous young Frenchman, had wandered all over the Near East, Persia, Afghanistan and the countries around it. He speaks all the native dialects. More or less by accident, he came upon several of the heads in the desert sand at Qizil, in the neighborhood of Tash-Kourgan. Returning to Paris, he persuaded the directors of the Nouvelle Revue to outfit a modest expedition. The finds that Malraux and his party brought back were far beyond anyone's expectations.

Shortly after they were uncrated, the sandy accumulation of the ages carefully scraped away and the fragments mounted, they were sent on a world-wide journey. At present most of them are in New York. It is through the agency of the Stora Galleries, which acquired a half interest in the sculptures, that they are being submitted to museums and private collectors.

The sculpture is done in stucco. The fragments indicate that they must have been originally part of a series of high reliefs along a temple or other important building. Each one apparently consisted of a core of stucco, on which was superimposed a layer of the same material about three-eighths of an inch thick, on which the modeling was done.

Many of the faces obviously reflect a decaying civilization. They are weak, insipid faces.

The date of their creation is put at some time between the third and the sixth centuries after Christ. They are one of the remote end-results of Alexander's far-flung conquests in the East. The young Macedonian General swept down with his army, subduing wild tribes and the armies of the Persians alike. At every important city he left one of his lieutenants in charge of the process of colonization that was to follow.

Qizil, the site where the sculptures were found, is known to have been at one time the site of an important city, a trade center situated at the junction of two important land routes. Slowly the officers and the colonists left in charge of the Eastern cities, lost touch with the Hellenistic civilization. They intermarried with the natives, they adopted Oriental customs. Buddhist missionaries came out of the Far East with word of the new religion of peace and spiritual resignation and contemplation. Gradually the dominant Hellenic stamp was softened and modified. The Grecian elements in this curiously mixed civilization were blended and fused with the Oriental. And there came into being that art that is like a lesson, underlined and stressed, in the way in which art reflects the ideas, the whole body of culture, of a people.

Toward the end, between 600 and 800 A. D., it was likely a corrupt and degenerate civilization, the theory is, in which licentiousness was the accepted normal way of life. The end of Qizil and the other Greek-Oriental cities is believed to have come about 800 A. D. Barbaric hordes came down from the North, from the Steppes of Russia. They met with little resistance from the effete cities. Iconoclasts, they destroyed all images. It is believed that they struck off the heads of the stucco figures and that these decapitated fragments eventually were buried in the sands that gradually filtered over the ruined civilization.

The two heads that the St. Louis museum has acquired are typical of the two phases of the art recently unearthed. One head shows clearly the Greco-Buddhist blending. It is a classical head essentially, but the Oriental influence is plainly seen, the disc of the Buddha on the forehead, the stylized arrangement of the hair. The other head is of the Gothico-Buddhistic type. With its naive smile and the crown it might very easily have come from Rheims.

Returned to His Home County to Try His Hand at Bank Robbery

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

John Mardel and Thaddeus Owens.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo.

YOUNG Thaddeus Owens went home to Neelyville, Missouri, a few weeks ago with a pistol in his hand and a posse at his heels. He had just held up and bound his aunt and robbed the bank of which she was assistant cashier. A pursuing posse was led by his half-brother, a deputy sheriff, The youthful robber and his companion were wounded and captured. They were sentenced the other day to 10 years in prison. And the fact that Thaddeus chose his home neighborhood, where he could come in conflict with his own relatives, as the field for his criminal activity, has intensified the sorrow of his father, a respected merchant and former Judge of the County Court, over his son's waywardness.

Thaddeus Owens and Deputy Sheriff Wiley Owens Jr. are sons of Wiley Owens of Neelyville. The mother of Thaddeus was the senior Owens' second wife. They were divorced and she moved to Colorado Springs, Colorado, about four years ago, her son accompanying her. Six months or so ago he lost his job and returned to Neelyville for a few weeks, then went to Kansas City in search of work. He was married and needed money badly to pay for medical care for his wife.

In Kansas City, Thaddeus, who is 21 years old, failed to find employment, but he met John Mardel, 27, who had ideas about easy money. They decided to come to Southeast Missouri and show the natives how a bank should be held up.

Harviell, a small farming community six miles south of here, was selected as the scene of their exploit. Thaddeus didn't know, he later said, that his aunt, Miss Bernice Gatlin (a sister of his step-mother), was employed there. Preparing for the robbery, the pair stole a car in Poplar Bluff, hid in a thicket over night, then drove to Harviell on March 12.

With faces and hands blackened in the hope they might be mistaken for Negroes, the robbers entered the bank and found Miss Gatlin, the assistant cashier, alone. They ordered her into the vault. She told them she did not know how to get out and would be suffocated, so they contented themselves with binding and gagging her.

A WOMAN passed along the street, saw the robbers at work and gave the alarm. The two young men fled to their stolen automobile and started for Neelyville, 10 miles south. Their loot amounted to $384.

News of the robbery was spread by telegraph, and by the time Thaddeus and Mardel reached Neelyville, a posse had formed there. The fugitives abandoned their automobile and started on foot for the Black River. The posse came in sight; the robbers separated.

A group of citizens headed by Clyde Haines pursued Thaddeus, ignorant of course of his identity. A bullet in his arm stopped his flight, but he fought desperately before he was subdued.

Wiley Owens jr., led the possemen after Mardel. They got him as he was crossing a railroad embankment, a bullet from Owen's rifle bringing him down. The two groups united, and Deputy Sheriff Owens saw at close range the prisoner captured by the other section—saw the panting, begrimed young desperado with the wounded left arm was his half-brother.

The prisoners were brought to a hospital here, where it was found necessary to amputate Mardel's right arm, shattered by the deputy's bullet.

None of the money was recovered. It was suspected it might have been given to an accomplice before the robbers were captured. But the prisoners refused to implicate anyone else.

ANOTHER has been implicated, however, due to the efforts of Thaddeus' mother. She remarried after her divorce from the youth's father, and is now Mrs. Charles Murray. When she heard of her son's arrest she came here to help him. She declared there must be "a woman in the case," and determined to find her.

In her son's traveling bag Mrs. Murray found a photograph and Thaddedus asked her to give it to Mrs. Helen Smith of Lawrenceville, Illinois. She also found, she said, a letter which had been addressed to Mrs. Smith by Mardel. Mrs. Murray telegraphed to Mrs. Smith and, on the pretext of giving her the picture, arranged a meeting in St. Louis. Two detectives accompanied Mrs. Murray to the meeting place, and arrested Mrs. Smith. She denied any connection with the robbery of the Harviell bank, but was placed in jail here and held for trial as an accomplice.

Mrs. Murray said she had learned Mrs. Smith was in Poplar Bluff the day of the robbery. She made it clear she had trapped Mrs. Smith in the belief the woman had encouraged young Thaddeus in criminal activities.

On April 9 Thaddeus Owens and Mardel appeared here before Circuit Judge Robert I. Cope. They pleaded guilty and their sentences followed.

"DESERT STEVE" HAS MADE THE WILDERNESS PAY

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BLYTHE, California.

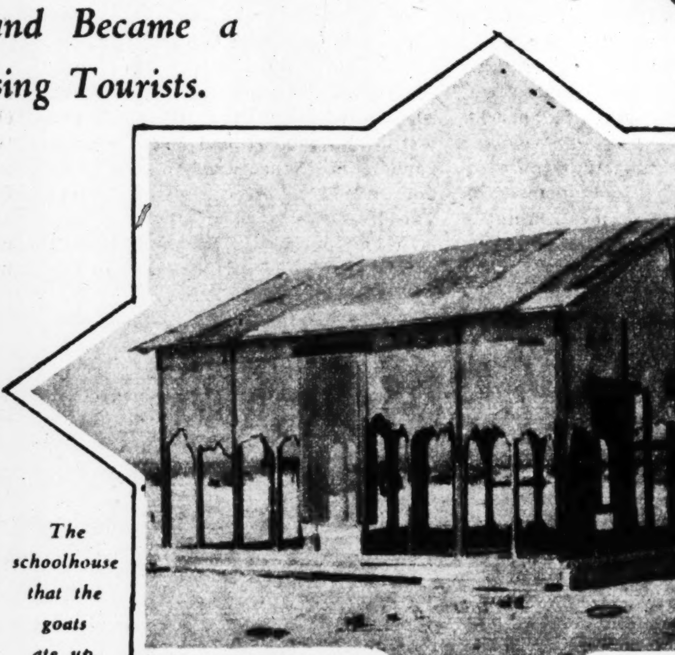
IN THE midst of the Chuckawalla Desert, in the southeastern part of California, Stephen Albert Ragsdale has built up a flourishing business. Fifty miles from the nearest town, postoffice, railroad, high school, doctor, church, he conducts an enterprise which has given him not only money but friendship and a certain fame. Desert Center, an unincorporated village, of which Ragsdale is the sole proprietor, is a desert oasis, the only one in the 101-mile stretch of sand, sun and sage brush between Blythe and Mecca, and there Ragsdale has made a good thing out of providing refreshment, supplies and shelter for travelers on the transcontinental highway that runs through the community.

Ten years ago Ragsdale, son of a Kansas preacher, was an officer in the Sheriff's department here, and it frequently fell to him to rescue people stranded in the desert between Blythe and Mecca. Out of this experience grew the idea of establishing a relief station between the two towns.

He took action, selected a site, dug a well, opened a garage and store. For a time things went nicely and he began to see his way out of debt. Then the highway was moved six miles from his place.

Broke, but still convinced his idea was good, he followed the road to its new location, and on borrowed money set up business again. He dug 10 wells before he got water, and on the tenth attempt had to go down 600 feet to get it. Around the well he built his own private village.

Desert Center has been in existence for eight years now. It has a big filling station, an automobile repair shop, a grocery, a cafe, cabins for tourists, a school, a library, a swimming pool, several homes, an aviation field where many planes stop, and a big herd of goats. Ragsdale has become "Desert Steve," and has made the nickname a business asset. He dresses as a "desert rat," and usually wears a scraggly beard, for the benefit of Eastern tourists, who like to feel that the person they are favoring with their patronage is a "character." And along the highway, in both directions from his village, Steve has put up signs depicting him astride a desert donkey equipped with automobile tires instead of legs. The signs inform travelers: "D. C. at last. Everything for U & your car day and night at D. C."



The schoolhouse that the goats ate up.

Gasoline must be hauled 50 miles by truck to Steve's oasis, but he sells it for the same price it brings in the town from which it was trucked. He doesn't figure on making a profit from it. His money comes from other parts of his business, such as the sale of goat milk.

The cafe is in the large living room of Desert Steve's home, which is constructed of logs and cement. After eating a meal, perched on stools at a long counter, patrons often lounge for a while in front of the huge fireplace, the coolest spot in Desert Center when the thermometer registers 120 degrees Fahrenheit, and one of the cheeriest spots in winter when a fire is going. Here Steve himself often sits and visits with his customers, for both he and his wife are sociable folk. And these fireplace conversations, with Desert Steve yarning and disclosing bits of his homely philosophy, have contributed not a little to the fame of the remote rest station and its owner.

ONE may hear at such times about the school, for instance. When the Ragsdales first set up business in Desert Center their children had to go 50 miles to school. "So we began to hire mechanics and other helpers who had eight to ten children apiece," Steve explains, "and pretty soon we had enough children here to be entitled by law to a school teacher. We built her a nice schoolroom, and all our children went to school there."

During one vacation period the schoolhouse suffered peculiar damage: the goats ate a good deal of it. The walls were of heavy compressed paper building material, and the goats found it so palatable they ate as much of it as they could reach—the lower six feet or so.

The young kids are very tame, and this fact probably saved a traveler's life once. He had become lost in the desert and had fallen exhausted, about to die of thirst. A kid from the Desert Center herd wandered up to him and he tied his handkerchief to its bell collar. When the animal reached home the handkerchief was recognized as a distress signal, a search party was organized and the traveler was saved.

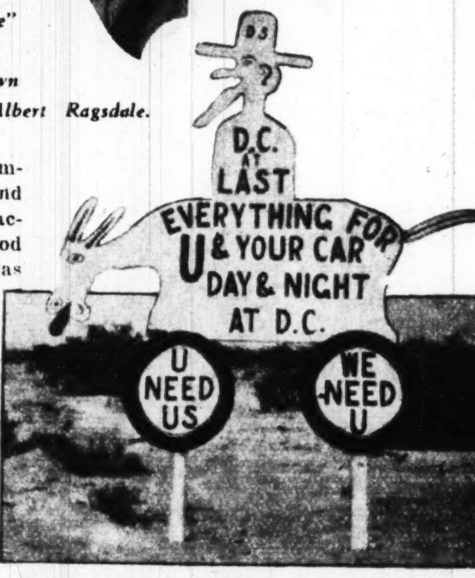
Many other persons owe their lives to Desert Steve, for an important part of his business is the rescuing of travelers who come to grief in the desert—whose cars break down or run out of oil, gasoline or water. He keeps men on duty night and day, to haul in stranded motorists.

All kinds of people have stopped at Desert Steve's oasis. Some were prominent: an ex-President, a Governor and several Senators are among his acquaintances. There have been a good many charity seekers, and Steve has helped hundreds of them. There have been crooks. A pair from Chicago refused to pay their bill—until Mrs. Ragsdale "beaned" one with a candy jar and Steve swarmed over the other. Another tough customer pulled a pistol on the proprietor of Desert Center, but the latter had a monkey wrench handy, and the outcome was the tough customer cut wood for his host until released.

On another occasion a man and woman in a battered car asked for enough gasoline to get them to the next town. The "tourine"—Steve's name for a woman tourist—wouldn't accept charity and insisted on leaving her silk teddies as payment. The underwear is still at Desert Center.



Signs that dot the desert and lead the tourist to Desert Center.

Marion, Arkansas, Starts Its Career as a Divorce Center

First Applicant Arrives and Sets Up Her Residence in the Town That Now Offers Both Curb Service Marriage and a Ninety-Day Dissolution.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

MARION, Arkansas.

DIVORCES may be granted under Arkansas' new 90-day divorce law after June 12, so this little village of 210 persons, across the Mississippi River from Memphis, Tenn., is on its toes and getting itself set to become a divorce Mecca—just like Reno. It means to take full advantage of the law and the town's location to fulfill a long-cherished commercial ambition.

Foundation of a divorce colony already has begun and there is a lot of excited whispering going on. The first divorce seeker, a winsome young woman, arrived a few weeks ago and took up residence in a cozy bungalow a few miles down a country lane. As the new law requires 60 days' residence to establish citizenship and 30 days more to get the decree, this newcomer will be eligible on the very day the law becomes effective—June 12. She actually arrived in Crittenden County March 12 and on May 12 her citizenship will be established.

Notwithstanding Marion's excitement over the first divorce colonist, the village is just a little disappointed, too. It had pictured its first colonist as a woman of New York's idle rich class, with private car, maid, chauffeur and butler. Instead, the newcomer turned out to be a dainty, well-behaved girl from the conservative old town of Corinth, Mississippi. She is Mrs. Hugh L. Smith, wife of a Frisco railroad conductor. She is 22 years old and has been married four years. Originally, she was Miss Gladys Davis.

So far as anybody has been able to discover, Mrs. Smith's allegations will not be exciting. She gives only one reason for her action—incompatibility.

What does Mr. Smith have to say about it? Oh, he doesn't know anything about it, she says. But she adds that she doesn't think he will appear on the scene even when he hears about it.

Besides causing a stir among the residents of the village, Mrs. Smith's arrival innocently set up a disturbance among the legal gentry hereabouts. With Marion now on its way to becoming a divorce oasis, who is going to get all the fees? The citified attorneys over in Memphis, across the river, or the barristers of Marion, Arkansas? Something had to be done about this. So the local lawyers went into action.

The Marion Bar Association, comprising lawyers of this county, adopted a resolution that it should be a rule of court procedure that counsel for divorce clients must have an Arkansas license to practice law and that, in order to have such a license, they must have citizenship in Arkansas.

That ruling caused the petite Mrs. Smith some distress at first. She had retained Newell N. Fowler, who has an office high up in a Memphis skyscraper across the river. Fowler got busy on this citizenship angle, however, and pretty soon a new law firm sprang into existence—the firm of Berry & Fowler. The Berry half of the firm, it happens, has a license to practice in the Arkansas courts. Thus Mrs. Smith has two lawyers in her case.

The Rev. L. P. Fleming the marrying parson.

There is still an obstacle in the way of Marion's ambition to become a divorce metropolis. The preachers and the women of Arkansas are circulating petitions throughout the State. If they get a sixth of the voting population of Arkansas as signers the new law may be set aside until the people, as a whole, can vote on it as a referendum measure. General opinion, however, is that the law will stand because it is backed by two of the most powerful legislative lobbies in the State—the Arkansas County Court Clerks' Association, comprising the court clerks of 75 counties, and the Arkansas Bar Association.

Grounds for divorce in Arkansas have not been changed to expedite the working of the law.

If Marion achieves its ambition of becoming a rapid-fire divorce center it will round out the reputation it already holds as a marriage market. It will be famous both for making 'em and breaking 'em.

CURB service is the boast of Marion tradesmen in the marriage license and marriage ceremony business. A. B. Carter, a clerk of the Crittenden County Court, is said to hold the national record for writing the most marriage licenses—that is, the record for a town of Marion's size. At all hours of the night elopers in Memphis telephone: "We're coming right over. Have a license and a preacher ready."

Two preachers and two squires do a thriving business in the marriage market. Big signs have been put up along the road, so elopers can't go wrong. One says "Baptist Pastor," and an arrow points the way. The light in the courthouse window is the signal there. One night the Rev. L. P. Fleming married six couples between midnight and dawn.

You can get a license in five minutes in Marion and in another five minutes you are married. Carter has blank licenses at his home for night service. And people in too great a hurry to get out of the car are furnished with curb service. Carter and the minister or squire perform the ceremony by the roadside or wherever the couple may be. Two couples not long ago got married without getting out of their cars.

Squire A. B. Wylie has married about 3200 people in 27 months. Famous for his speed with a ceremony, he is known as "the marrying squire with the five-minute service."

Miss Virginia Hobbs, the "Miss Memphis" of a beauty contest a few years ago, got curb service when she married Gus Moulin, a traveling salesman. She will not need to come to Marion for her divorce. She has it already.

The Prisoners Paid the Warden's Salary

Why Ben F. Van Dyke Served Three Months as Head of the Oklahoma Penitentiary Without Pay From the State, and What Happened While He Was There.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

Ben F. Van Dyke.

CRANE, Missouri.

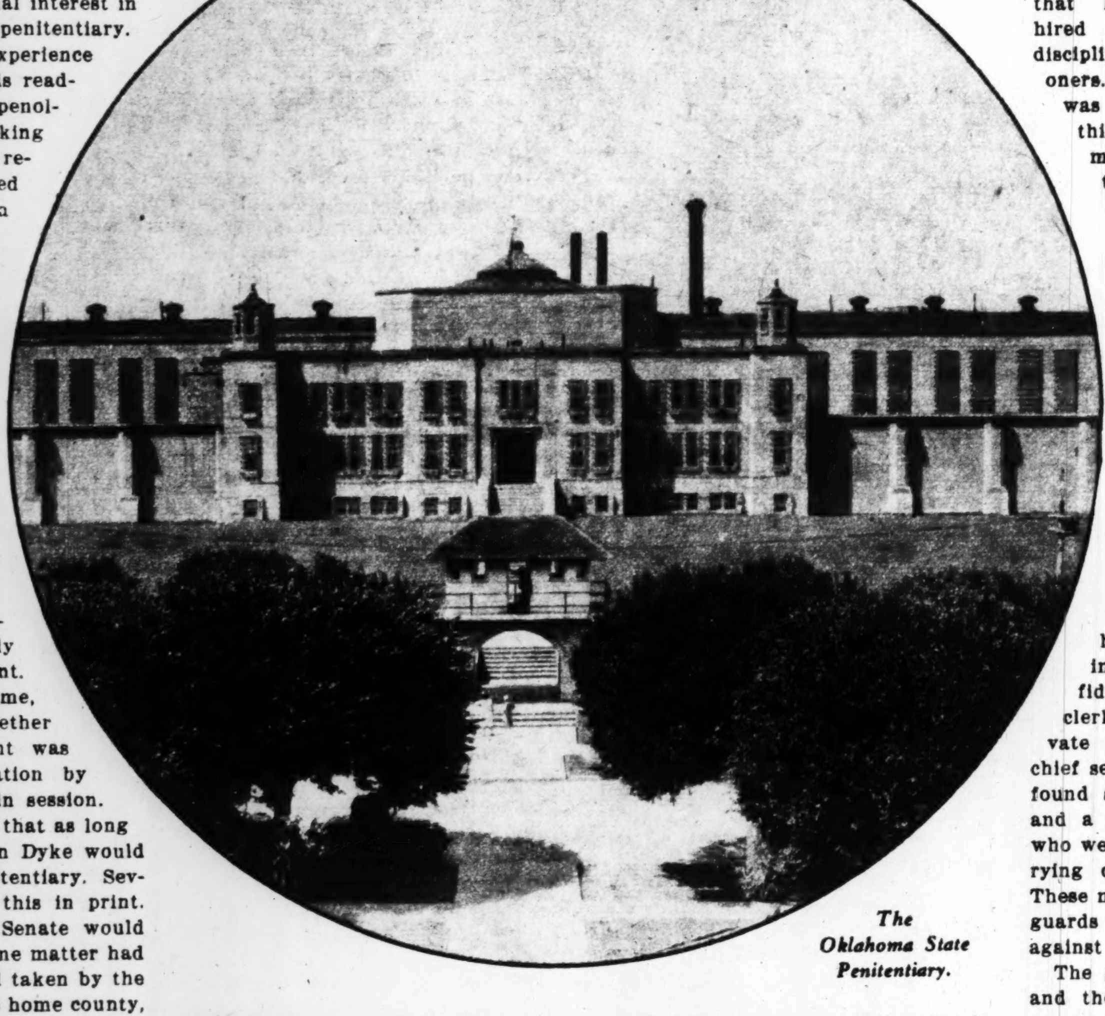
A THICK, stocky man with jet black hair stands on the bank of the clear, ice-cold stream that runs between low hills near here and whips the quiet pools with his trout fly, flecks the water again and again, patiently, and then trudges off up the stream. It doesn't seem to matter very much whether he catches any fish. By the look in this fisherman's eyes it is not difficult to tell that fishing is secondary to some tall thinking, pursued along the shady reaches of the stream.

Ben F. Van Dyke came to his camp-farm the other day to rest and recover from what was, he says, the biggest experience in his life. He is unable to speak of certain phases of it without showing the emotional strain he went through. Here on his farm, the old Wissman Mill place, with his wife, he is taking a month to think out what that experience meant and why it ended as it did.

Shortly before William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray became Governor of Oklahoma last January he wrote to his old friend, Ben Van Dyke, offering him his choice of eight different State offices. Murray had known Van Dyke since Oklahoma's constitutional convention of 1907. They had worked together at that time to formulate Oklahoma's laws. Van Dyke became a successful lawyer at Mangum, Oklahoma. "Alfalfa Bill" followed a somewhat fantastic political career, sure always of at least one thing—the loyalty and support of his friend Van Dyke in Greer County.

One of the offices on the list was that of Warden of the State Penitentiary at McAlester. Van Dyke was not interested in political office, he had never taken an active part in politics—except to aid Murray. His law practice was extensive and demanded most of his time. But he did have a very special interest in becoming warden of a penitentiary. For years, out of his experience in the law, and from his reading of criminology and penology, he had been thinking along the lines of prison reform. He had evolved definite ideas as to how a prison should be run. So strong was his faith in these ideas that he went down to Oklahoma City and told Governor Murray that he would accept the post of Warden.

There followed, as has followed most of Murray's official acts, a mild storm. The Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, both more or less fixed in their opposition to Murray, severely criticised the appointment. There arose at this time, too, the question of whether Van Dyke's appointment was valid without confirmation by the State Senate, then in session. Murray said it was, and that as long as he was Governor, Van Dyke would be Warden of the penitentiary. Several times he repeated this in print.



The Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

Confirmation by the Senate would have been purely a routine matter had it not been for the stand taken by the Senator from Van Dyke's home county, Bill Williams. Under senatorial courtesy, rigidly observed, Williams alone could move for Van Dyke's confirmation. And Williams, for some reason never explained, simply declined to put the motion.

MEANWHILE, regardless of this tangle, and on advice of the Governor and the Governor's legal adviser, Van Dyke had gone to McAlester to take charge of the penitentiary. He went there, he says now, looking back on the experience, with the terrible fear that perhaps his theories were wrong, that possibly he might make an appalling failure.

But he did not hesitate. He believed, first of all, that prisoners should be treated like human beings. His theory is founded on the tenet, which he utters in a solemn voice, "Do unto others as ye would have them do unto you."

"One of the things they said against me was that I was an infidel, an atheist," he says. "But I know, even though I don't belong to any church, who was the Great Teacher of these last 2000 years."

The McAlester prison was begun in 1908. There have been piecemeal additions from time to time ever since. The present capacity is 2100 prisoners. There were 3169 inmates when Van Dyke took over the office of Warden. Men were sleeping on cots in all the lower corridors.—He found 40 men in solitary confinement—"on high" the phrase is in the Oklahoma penitentiary, because of the fact that the solitary cells are those on the highest tier. They are not, in the strict sense, solitary cells, as they are shared by two men. The windows before these cells were boarded up, so that almost no light and no air reached the inmates.

Van Dyke examined the records of these men. He found, he says, that there had been little or no consistency about commitments to solitary.

One of the 40 men had been put "on high" for leaving half a biscuit uneaten on his plate, three others for attempted escape, and the offenses ranged all the way between these two opposite poles. Van Dyke found, too that there was apparently no fixed time limit placed upon a stay in solitary. It had been the practice to take each man into the corridor outside the cells for 15 minutes twice a week for an "exercise period."

Of the 40 men three were violently insane. At least a half-dozen gave indication of the onset of tuberculosis. One of Warden Van Dyke's first official acts was to order these men, with the exception of the insane, of course, taken down into the yard for a half-hour in the sun twice a week. The next week he made it three times. And after a fortnight he had each of the men brought into his office.

One of them was a notorious bandit, whose name Van Dyke prefers to withhold. When this man—he can be called Jim Smith—was seated opposite him, the Warden said: "The newspapers make you out to be a pretty bad man. Are you going to help to live that reputation down? I want to take you off solitary and I want you to promise me that you'll behave. I want to do this to save your health and your mind."

Jim Smith hesitated a minute before he said: "Yes, I'll give you my promise."

"But how do I know that you'll keep that promise?"

"I've done a lot of things, Warden, but I've never broken my promise once I've given it."

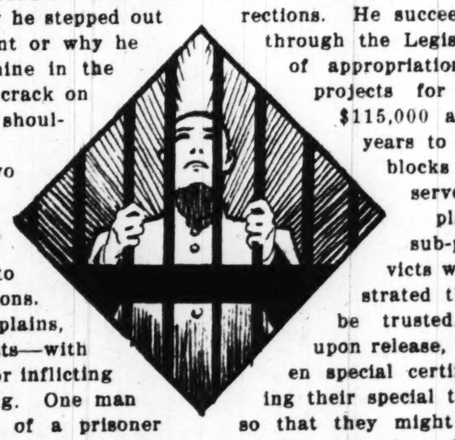
THE other interviews went very much in the same way. Van Dyke says that he experienced almost no difficulty in approaching these men on a human, man to man basis. Many of them told him later that it was the first kindly or even decent word that they had heard from any official source in months, years.

With these men withdrawn from solitary—and it was only necessary to resort to this punishment once during the time he held office—Van Dyke started to clean up certain danger spots, fire traps, corridors that had been blocked off with wooden partitions, flimsy temporary construction that had been allowed to stand. But there was an even more pressing problem.

Warden Van Dyke was determined that he would not permit the hired guards to exercise summary disciplinary measures upon the prisoners. After the first two weeks he was confident that he could effect this radical departure in prison methods. He knew, he relates, that already the atmosphere of the prison had somewhat changed. Twenty minutes after the 40 men were taken down from "on high" every prisoner knew about it by means of the grapevine telegraph, and when Van Dyke next went into the prison yard there were smiles and less of the quiet, intent watchfulness that everyone who is at all familiar with prisons knows so well—as though a single impulse moved each furtive head to turn and watch the passerby.

Van Dyke had brought with him a half-dozen younger men in whom he had complete confidence: Sam Harlan as chief clerk, Curtis Jennings as his private secretary, Howard Mcleod as chief sergeant of the guards. And he found a first deputy, Wallace Bond, and a second deputy, Jesse Phillips, who were anxious to co-operate in carrying out the new Warden's ideas. These men set themselves to report all guards who violated Van Dyke's order against summary punishment.

The guards all carried stout clubs, and they had been in the habit, a great many of them, of cracking the head of a convict who violated a prison rule, however unimportant. The custom was, according to Van Dyke, first to curse the offender. And if he tried to explain why he stepped out of line for a moment or why he paused at his machine in the workshop, he got a crack on the head or over the shoulders.



In his first two months as Warden Van Dyke replaced about 50 guards who failed to heed his instructions. Some of them, he explains, were definitely sadists—with a psycopathic love for inflicting torture and suffering. One man fractured the skull of a prisoner with his club after the prisoner had been shot down in an attempt to escape, and it had been necessary to restrain him from beating the man to death with an iron bar.

Another guard, a former Methodist minister, was given to a particularly brutal form of punishment for minor infractions of prison rules and regulations.

He manacled the offending prisoner about the wrists and then suspended him from the side of the cell, often for the entire night. This guard would then keep a close watch on these suspended prisoners and when, because of the intense strain, they attempted to support themselves by digging their toes against the wall, he gave them a good, hard crack with his club.

Frequently, following the dismissal of sadistic guards Van Dyke would be visited by politicians and legislators, who had come to make a protest. The guards had been political appointees. What was the idea of firing them? It was usually sufficient, Van Dyke says, to explain what these men had done. At least an explanation silenced any further outward protest.

Van Dyke's aim was to handle disciplinary problems himself. He posted a notice announcing that any prisoner could write his grievance direct to him, and the guards likewise brought their complaints to the Warden's office.

SOMETIMES, Van Dyke says, he had as many as a hundred letters from prisoners on his desk in one morning. And it was easy to weed out those which came from professional malcontents and trouble makers. It was easy, too, he says, to see through the shallow pretense of the informers, those men—part of every prison population—who seek to advance themselves by reporting violations of the rules and who will even go to the extent of planting evidence against their fellow convicts in order to ingratiate themselves by reporting it.

"Why, I was Superintendent of Schools in towns in Iowa and in Kansas for five years before I came to Oklahoma," Van Dyke says, "and those men weren't essentially different from the boys I had to handle then. They're all human except for the few of low intelligence."

And Van Dyke was busy in other directions. He succeeded in getting through the Legislature a series of appropriations to advance projects for the prison—$115,000 a year for two years to build new cell blocks that were to serve, under his plan, as a kind of sub-prison for convicts who had demonstrated that they could be trusted. These men, upon release, were to be given special certificates indicating their special trustworthiness, so that they might more quickly win back a place in society. Van Dyke got $25,000 for a new power plant, $20,000 for a cold storage system for the produce raised by the convicts, $10,000 for an extra wall around a new three-acre exercise ground, $10,000 for a tubercular ward.

All this time the controversy continued over whether or not he was rightfully Warden of the prison. But Van Dyke was too busy to pay much attention to it. Then the Governor appointed a business man, Sam Browne, to the post of Warden. But Van Dyke assumed that this was merely a way in which Governor Murray planned to assure him of the post by means of a recess appointment.

But it appeared shortly afterward that Browne actually was to take charge. Van Dyke was so stunned by this blow that he made no attempt to see Murray. He accepted the dictum. On the day after word of this got around the prison a delegation of prisoners waited on Van Dyke and asked him to come into the dining hall, where the first shift of 1039 men had come in to lunch. There, No. 2304, as spokesman, presented him with a gold watch. Van Dyke was so overwhelmed by emotion that for several minutes after the prolonged applause had ceased he could not reply. Even recounting the incident, a week later, it was obviously difficult for him to control his emotion.

The prisoners, moreover, had voted to advance him his salary out of their canteen fund of several thousand dollars. They had done this from month to month during the 90 days of Van Dyke's term. And in turn he had assigned to them his claim against the State. But now, when it appeared that he would not be reimbursed at all for his service a majority of the convicts voted to repay the canteen out of their own funds so that Van Dyke would not be $1200 out of pocket.

ON THE Sunday that he was at the prison for the last time, Van Dyke tried to leave quietly. But a group of convicts—employes in the office and in the corridors—gathered to say good-by. Van Dyke says frankly that he broke down at this parting, and so did the men.

"Don't think," he says, "that the conditions in the Oklahoma prison are any exception. I've seen enough penitentiaries to know. Wherever the Warden is not in direct contact with the prisoners and wherever the unrestrained brutality of guards is permitted, there will be trouble, danger. Those conditions prevail, you can be almost certain, before a riot.

"Convicts are driven to rioting only by extreme abuse and a deep sense of injustice. They are men and they will respond like men if they are treated as such. In my opinion our prisons are the greatest menace society has today. The number released from our prisons exceeds the number of college graduates.

"It seems to me that society makes the prisoner the scapegoat for its bad conscience. For, after all, with our present system of justice, what percentage of those who should be in jail are behind the bars?"

We sit on the porch of his camp cabin, looking out over the trout stream. A neighbor drops in and Van Dyke explains his plan for throwing a dam across the stream to better the fishing.

"And besides, I feel in a damning mood," he says, a grim smile about the corners of his mouth.

SWEET ROSIE O'GRADY

By

PAUL DERESCO AUGSBURG

THE dusty curtains were powder-burned. Moran, Chief of Detectives, parted them to look down on the pavement where Louie Lom had sprawled in sudden death. Across the way a loud-speaker, placed over the sidewalk in front of the radio store, imposed a song on the street sounds.

A moment Moran just stood and listened.

It had been pleasant for the killers, having this radio music to relieve the boredom of watching. He pictured them waiting here by the open window, hour after hour of ceaseless vigil, while across the street that blatant voice was crying them entertainment.

For several days they must have kept their watch by this window. There were those piles of cigarette stubs. More than a hundred stubs in all: two distinct brands of cigarettes mingled in blackened remnants on the floor.

Moran opened his hand and glanced down at the penknife snuggled there. The entire width of the window sill had been scarred by the blades of that knife. There was a death's-head carved with elaborate care, and beside it the one name, "Lom." There was a heart in which some initials had been, but these were prudently mutilated till only a trace remained. There was a crude attempt at cutting the human figure.

What had happened seemed plain enough to Moran. Louie Lom's appearance had been so abrupt that the carver dropped his penknife. Their nervous vigil was ended; the gangster moved, a fitting target, down on the street below them. The rifle cracked, their victim fell, and then sudden getaway was all of their ambition. In the excitement of that minute the penknife, under the radiator, had been utterly forgotten.

It was a small knife with the initials "J. L." lightly engraved on its gold-plated side. One could win the same sort of knife, Moran remembered, by playing the poolroom punchboards. He would put a pair of men at work to check up with the jewelry shops regarding those initials.

One thing set this killing apart from the usual gangster murder. Neither a sawed-off shotgun was used nor the more deadly, more modish, machine gun. This had been like an old blood-feud of the hills. A rifle shot finished Louie Lom: a single bullet straight to his heart—and the empty shell now lay in Moran's coat pocket. That and the penknife and the stubs of cigarets were all that remained of the two who had lurked here in ambush.

From a store across the street a familiar figure emerged. The Chief of Detectives watched him—Rapp of the City News Bureau—shoulder his way through the curious throng which stood about the police machine. Then the reporter was entering the room with a careless little laugh.

"WHILE you birds are trying to figure out who did it, I've landed the real low down behind the shooting. A radio guy was singing Sweet Rosie O'Grady. The gun baby thought Louie Lom was making all the racket. Plunko! He sunk a bullet in Louie instead of the mike—and the radio kept right on singing!"

Moran turned to look at Rapp.

"That was what was on the air when he shot him?"

"Yes. It was an old-time program. The old bird in the shoe shop was singing the words along with the radio. He said it brought back the good old days. Then plunko! Good-by auld lang syne!"

The Chief of Detectives knew a queer sensation. By George, he could finish that song himself if he really had a mind to. After all these years the words would come. Now—surprisingly—he was humming them as he gazed on the scene of gangdom's latest murder.

Sweet Rosie O'Grady,
  My dear little Rose!
She's my steady lady,
  Most everyone knows . . .

The name was Rosie O'Grady, but the face which it conjured before him was that of Mary Collins. He saw himself a lusty young copper, a harness-bull strutting his beat beneath an old-fashioned helmet. Strutting his beat, swinging his club, humming Sweet Rosie O'Grady! Past Heinie Schmidt's place and Terry Melarckey's exuding the fragrance of a good steam beer, the keener odor of whisky. Past Hook & Ladder 39, with the boys all loafing out in front, enjoying the fine spring evening. Past the Lutheran school and the Dutchman's store. A pause, then, to glance up Manny's alley, named for the soak who always retired there to sleep off what was in him. Or he would strut, past shop and flat, past saloon and public building . . . past the house where Mary Collins lived.

He could see her now as he saw her then: the blackest of curls, the gay gray eyes, the mouth which had been the despair of him, the full-skirted, trim little figure. Back across the years he could almost hear her laugh, laughing at him strutting past as though he owned the town. It was pleasant to hear her laugh like that, teasingly, coquettish. He yearned to have someone start a row, right there in front of where she lived. He was not called "Knuckles" for nothing.

. . . when we are married,
I love sweet Rosie O'Grady,
  And Rosie O'Grady loves me.

But that is where sentiment yielded perforce to reality. For Mary Collins did not wed Officer Thomas Moran, and he had been very unhappy. He walked his beat like a bear in leash, and savagely he swung his club and longed more than ever for battle. One night a golden chance was his. He accepted it with such a will that three hard crooks, with desperate names, were brought in, bruised and bleeding, for the precinct surgeon to work on. "Knuckles" Moran achieved city-wide fame and was forthwith promoted. Thus had begun his reputation of being a hard-boiled copper. Thus had started his upward career as a fighting agent of justice.

He no longer had to walk past the church where Mary Collins was married. The Chief of Detectives, still humming the song, wondered what had happened to her in the years since he was just a cop without a single chevron. Her husband's name . . . he searched his memory . . . Bill Morrell, with the accent on the "rell." A good-looking guy, with fine dark eyes and lots of wavy hair. In this present day they would call him a sheik. He was just a match for Mary.

Moran himself would never have passed for handsome. His nose was small and its profile jogged at the point where it had been broken. His jaw was large and square. His eyes, which were blue, with a touch of gray, had a habit of narrowing, squeezing out wrinkles at both their outer corners. When he faced a crook in the "conference" room on an upper floor at headquarters, those eyes were small and very hard; but in his home with his daughter before him, they seemed rather mild and indulgent.

Moran's reputation went with his small, hard eyes. These and his fists and his heavy shoulders were known and feared and hated. Sometimes a newspaper slyly hinted at the logic used in the upstairs room to induce a reluctant confession. Sometimes, in court, there were wrangles about it. Moran kept on regardless.

There was a stir in the crowd below. A second squad-car slid to a halt at the curb. The Chief abandoned his revery at sight of Lieutenant Schindler's gray fedora. He strode to the door to meet him.

"Sam, you remember a fellow boasting he had a sharpshooter's badge in the army? It must've been over a year ago. He was trailing around with some of Palladini's mob. A pigeon heard him in a west-side joint and—"

The Lieutenant snapped his finger.

"I know who you mean. Lonny Wolz."

"Lonny Wolz! That's the fellow we're after."

The two machines set out with a businesslike thunder of motors. Their sirens whined, and the whining rose to an outraged shriek, and the black cars shot through the traffic.

Their destination was a certain speakeasy which Lonny Wolz, the sharpshooting Palladini henchman, had been known, Schindler said, to favor with his presence. They swarmed through its doors, both front and side, two squads of men in mufti.

"Hold everyone," Moran commanded.

He had them lined up in front of the bar, still wet with the slops of Palladini beer. Then he passed them by in slow review, his small, hard eyes picking sheep from goats like a buyer down at the stockyards.

"You can go. . . . Outside, hophead. . . . Hold this guy. And this one!" He halted in front of Lonny Wolz, looking so surprised and aggrieved and innocent. "So this is him, eh, Sam? I always like to meet the customers personally!"

"WHAT'S the idea? Can't a fellow drink a glass of beer"—

"You're not drinking any beer today. Whisky straight, to fix your nerves!"

"My nerves are all right," was the sullen reply.

"You were a wise guy not to hide away: I'll say that for you, Wolz. I'd play innocent, too, if I was you. But we'll talk that over later!"

There was a sound as the side door opened. Moran glimpsed a youthful, startled face and a suddenly motionless figure. Then it was gone.

"Nab him!" shouted the Chief of Detectives. He caught Lonny Wolz's anxious look. "Shoot if you have to! Nab him!"

But there was no need to shoot him down. They brought him back, a snarling youth, who cursed and struggled and then abruptly fell into stubborn silence.

At headquarters, up in a quiet room, he set to work on Lonny Wolz. In a case like the present it would not do to lose any time. Soon Palladini's high-priced lawyer would come with a writ of habeas corpus. This big booze gangster, bitter rival of the lately dangerous Louie Lom, could be depended on to protect his killer, if merely to guard his own fat neck from the fatal effect of squawking.

But at present Moran had only the most circumstantial of evidence. He could not book a man for murder just because he had boasted of being a former army sharpshooter. Any lesser charge would admit him to bail. No matter; more than one tough crook had confessed his sins in this upstairs room under the Chief's stern guidance.

But Wolz was hard and he knew exactly what to expect as a suspect. Blows and accusations beat upon him in heavy succession. He grew weak and groggy and his brain was numb, but still he stubbornly would not yield an admission which would damn him.

At last they carried him from the room, and Moran, very weary and hot and vexed, sent for the youth who had tried to escape. That anxious look on Wolz's face . . . this lad knew something he could tell; nor was he a hardened sinner yet, too tough to respond to treatment. The Chief of Detectives thought of the penknife. Such a young one, all nerves and not much sense, still a novice in the vicious deeds of gangland, would be just the one to lose his head and leave that knife behind him.

The initials "J. L." were engraved on its side. The first question then, was:

"What's your name?"

"Listen, kid," Lieutenant Schindler whispered. It was his role to be friendly, soothing, as though he felt sorry for a likable lad and hated to see him abused. "You want to tell the Chief the truth. He'll soon enough know if you're lying. He's a mean one to cross, that fellow."

Moran's small, hard eyes were before him, and a moment he hesitated.

"Well, come to life. I asked your name."

"All right. It's George Morrell."

Moran's stiffly stubborn jaw relaxed and his small, hard eyes went wide. In his surprise he even failed to note that name and initials were not in agreement. Staring at the face of George Morrell, he looked back 20 years and more at a gray-eyed witch with the blackest of curls and a laugh so teasingly coquettish. Yes, he could almost see her in this fellow: the eyes were Mary's and the mouth . . . there was something familiar about the mouth, something reminiscent.

A good-looking kid, like his dad and his mother. Strangely Moran had a flash of thought for his own maturing Laura. She was no beauty to gaze at, perhaps, but she was her father's daughter. His jaw momentarily tightened. Laura, though plain, was no rotten crook, like Mary's pretty youngster!

He motioned Schindler to leave the room.

"Your mother was Mary Collins, eh?"

"What if she was?" The kid looked startled, his manner sharply defensive.

"I knew her before she was married." Moran regarded him with curious wonder. "Before you were ever born! Is she . . . still living?"

"Yes."

"Father, too?"

"Yes."

"What's he doing?"

"Timekeeper down at the yards."

The Chief of Detectives was gratified to hear it. How much better Mary would have done if she had married him!

Abruptly his jaw hardened.

"You're a hell of a son of your mother!" he roared. "Trailing around with a rotten mob!"

"I didn't"——

"You lie! You stayed hid in a room so you could bump off a guy that didn't even know he was put on the spot. You wouldn't meet him face to face. You shot from behind a curtain."

"I never did. I never bumped off no one."

"OH, YOU didn't kill him." The Chief of Detectives' scorn was great. "You didn't have the nerve to hold a gun still. You were just the bright-eyes up in the window keeping a watch for Lom. Saving Lonny Wolz's eyes, so he'd be sure to hit him." He swung a stubby finger under George's nose. "But according to the law you're just as guilty as Wolz. You'll get the rope the same as him unless we decide to be easy on you. Remember that, young fellow."

"Aw, you ain't scaring me any," he said, with a show of bravado.

"Ain't I? Listen. Wolz has squawked."

The look on George's face betrayed him. Then he had rallied, was covering up, passing it off in a burst of derision:

"Yeah! Squawked what?"

"That you were his lookout when he bumped off Louie Lom."

"That's a lie!" cried the prisoner.

Moran's fist clenched. It was the moment to strike out, to start the treatment, to beat the truth from the gangster.

But he did not strike. The ancient spell was upon him, and Mary stood like a lovely wraith between her son and Moran.

"I'm going to give you some good advice," he said presently, changing his tone. "Take it from me, I ought to know. You're playing ball with the lousiest mob that ever ran a beer truck. They'd double-cross you as quick as that if they thought they'd make a nickel. Nick Palladini would sell his own mother. You'd better come clean and quit 'em."

"I don't know nothing. But if I did, I'm not a dirty squawker."

The kid said it proudly. Moran's fist closed. There was just one way to deal with these brazen babes of gangdom.

AT 8:30 the same evening Detective Sergeants Case and Handel returned with proof that George Morrell was guilty. Canvassing the poolrooms and the engravers they had learned "J. L.'s" identity. His name was Jerry Lindholm and he clerked at a certain cigar stand.

"Jerry lost his knife playing poker, he says. He went broke in a stud game, and nobody trusted his I O U. So he put up the penknife to stay for $2, and a guy named Morrell took the pot."

The Chief of Detectives held his breath.

"Morrell, eh? What does he do?"

"Drives a truck for Palladini!" was Handel's triumphant answer.

"Just a couple of months, they say."

"What did he do before that?"

"Delivery fellow for a downtown store."

"Humph! What else did you learn about him?"

"He runs around with a doll named Hazel Korber."

Moran remembered the window sill, the heart which was carved beside the skull, the mutilated initials.

"Find that doll. I want to see her. And listen." Moran moved closer. "Never mind talking to the newspaper boys. I don't want them to know, just yet, about this fellow Morrell."

A heavy figure loomed upon the door sill. The face was sharp and suave and arrestingly intelligent. Gray hairs were mingled with the black. A

Descending Into an Underground Wonder by Elevator

World's Longest Lift, to Be Completed by the United States Government in June, Will Lower Tourists Into the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico.

"Totem Poles" in the Big Room.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

SANTA FE, New Mexico.

FOR centuries Aladdin's descent into the magic cave has thrilled the world's children, and the gradual dawning of reason to prove that it was all in fancy has been a minor tragedy incident to adolescent years.

Startling, then, must be the current announcement that—in all reality—child and man alike soon may press a "magic" button and descend into a vast subterranean palace of three great halls, "ornamented with draperies of silver and gold and precious jewels!" For exactly that is true. Late in June the world's longest single lift elevator, nearing completion in the mountains of Southern New Mexico, will enable one to drop magically into the very heart of a scenic wonder hardly less awesome than the cave of Aladdin itself.

The United States National Park Service is spending $100,000 to effect a new entrance to this underground miracle. A hole 8 by 16 feet has been dug, to accommodate two elevator cars. In these electrically driven cars visitors may descend straight down 750 feet, to the "Big Room" of the Carlsbad Caverns.

There Nature has labored patiently for 50,000,000 years (so the scientists tell) to create one transcendent piece of magic and majesty!

For the caverns have been pronounced so beautiful that every other known cave fades in comparison.

For a decade people have been visiting the Carlsbad Caverns. In the past five years the National Park Service (the caverns are now a national preserve) has spent thousands of dollars lighting the place. But inspection has been possible only by laborious descent of nearly 1000 stair steps, and subsequent climb of them to get out. Thus relatively few people have enjoyed the marvels. The elevator is expected to be a godsend to hundreds of thousands of tourists.

Construction of the new elevator became an interesting engineering feat. The shaft was dug from the bottom up and from the top down at the same time, the workmen meeting at a point near midway. No blasting was permitted even in the hard rock "ceiling" of the subterranean palace. Only pneumatic hammers were used. This was a safeguard against danger to workmen, and against possible cracking of the nearby stalactite and stalagmite formations which comprise the beauties of the cave. The bottom crew worked a constantly rising shaft.

The original discovery by white men of the Carlsbad Caverns—the full extent of which is not known even yet—was almost as sensational as the magical revelation of the cave in which Aladdin found his famous lamp.

In the early twilight one afternoon some 80 years ago a bearded, tanned and keen-eyed traveler stood on an elevation in southern New Mexico, observing with some awe a column of smoke rising from an orifice in the side of the opposite hill. He slipped back to camp.

"Men," said he to his companions, "there is a live volcano over yonder a spell, else we have stumbled on Indians who cook and live underground!"

The little group of travelers broke camp and, without sleeping, reconnoitered the strange volcano or kiva reported at dusk. No sign of human life could be seen about it, nor even a reflected light.

But just after dawn, before the day's light was bright enough to distinguish all objects in detail, the little party of travelers observed with consternation films of black smoke gathering from the air, thickening and flowing back into the hole!

It took nearly 24 hours for these cautious travelers to decide that the "smoke" was in reality streams of bats, flying out of the hole at nightfall and back into it at dawn.

Their decision lead to more investigation, but it was years before descent of more than a few hundred feet was made. Difficulty and fear of the unknown prevented exploration until a few years ago, although knowledge of the cave's presence has been current among the sheepmen and cattlemen of that rather isolated region since its first discovery. For a long time the place was known as Bat Cave.

Each evening during summer on an unvarying schedule determined to the exact minute, these bats begin to rise from the cave mouth in whirring myriads. Each morning they return. The bats hibernate in winter. It is not surprising that they startled those early travelers who chanced to encounter them. Their flight is easily discernable for some distance.

Credit for the real "discovery" of the Carlsbad Caverns deservedly has been given to one Jim White, one time chief of the guide corps maintained by the National Park Service.

Using the artificial shaft as a base, Mr. White worked deeper and deeper into the underground labyrinth, laying a string on each inward trip to guide him back. This slow and hazarduous exploration consumed his spare time for years. Few cared to accompany him so that most of his work was done with merely a compass, a crude miner's lamp, a rope and a wire ladder, food and balls of twine.

Miles and miles of intricate galleries and passages were discovered. Vast chambers were traversed "where the light of his lamp was more futile than would be the flame of a single match in the biggest cathedral in the world."

Series of rooms at different altitudes were found, and it became apparent that the farther and deeper one went the more indescribably beautiful became the formations in stalactite and stalagmite, dripstone and flowstone and cave marble.

Jim White, and the few who ventured with him, told rare tales of the things they found and saw. A skeptical world listened and went its way. Eventually a photographer was induced to enter and make flashlight exposures. His pictures accomplished what mere verbal description could not do and a widespread interest in the Caverns began to form. In 1923 the late Dr. Willis T. Lee of the United States Geological Survey, followed Jim White into the caves. Dr. Lee was so engrossed that he came out for aid. Two years later his official report said, "Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, is the most spectacular of underground wonders in America. For spacious chambers, for variety and beauty of multitudinous natural decorations, and for general scenic qualities, it is king of its kind."

Statistical data regarding the Caverns are not complete, because the explorations are unfinished.

The farthest point reached so far is 21 miles from the entrance, and no indication was found that the end was near. The greatest depth reached so far is 900 feet, although even there explorers can hold lights through a hole in the floor and discern at least one great chamber below.

One chamber in the cavern, known as the Big Room, to which the elevator now descends, is approximately one mile long, with widths up to 1100 feet and ceiling heights up to 348 feet. It is 750 feet underground, and 150 feet below it is another room, not fully explored but known to have many miles of halls.

Since the Government created a national preserve of the Caverns, electric lights have been strung six miles into the cave. Railed steps and paths have been made, permitting hardier tourists to enter and see.

good-natured smile turned the lips.

"I suppose you're looking for Lonny Wolz," said Moran.

"And George Morrell," said the lawyer. He took the writs from his pocket and dropped them on the desk. "Had a hard time finding Judge Cronack. He was out of town for the week-end."

"I don't want Wolz. You can have him. I took him on suspicion, but I haven't got anything on him. As for George Morrell"—he shuffled the writs—"I turned him loose three hours ago."

When Palladini's high-priced lawyer was gone, Moran paced the floor in a nervous sweat. He had no worry for Lonny Wolz, nor even for what the papers would say about his failure to solve the gangster's murder. Lonny Wolz could be picked up later, after he had found some durable evidence.

BUT George Morrell was a risk on his hands. By holding him in the face of that writ, Moran stood pat in contempt of court, and Judge Cronack was a Tartar.

Moran had sent out for a meal and sat munching it.

"Chief, here's Hazel Korber."

He knew, the moment he looked at the girl, why George Morrell had quit delivering parcels at the store. He had seen so many girls like that in his seamy years at the bureau. Her crimson mouth was soft to see, yet hard as ocean coral. Her eyes were green, a hostile green, and very cold to look at. Hazel Korber was boldly pretty and conscious that she was so. She regarded Moran as a Pompadour might, faced by a stubborn Marquis.

"Snappy looking fur coat," he said abruptly. "Who gave it to you?"

"Friend of mine."

"Who?"

"Oh, it ain't stolen."

"You say it ain't! It was George Morrell."

"All right; it was George Morrell. What of it?"

The Chief of Detectives' tough face went red with indignation.

"You're to blame," he shouted, "because that boy turned rotten! Damned little gold digger—you forced him to it! You ought to be took out and hung. You're leaving town, and you're leaving fast. Or else"—— He grinned and nodded. "There's a law applies to girls like you."

Hazel Korber attempted to cry, but the Chief of Detectives was scornful. Her incipient tears were turned to rage and the words she screamed were vicious.

He waited, wholly indifferent. The Chief was long used to scenes like this.

"Before you go, is there any little message you'd like to send to George?"

Hazel Korber's cold green eyes were gleaming.

"Tell him he can go to hell!" she cried. "And you can, too!" she added.

He delivered the message in that upstairs room where so many crooks had confessed.

"'Tell him he can go to hell!' Those were her words—and how she said 'em. She's leaving town and taking the fur coat with her. Say, she played you for a sucker right. But now you ain't where you can do her any good; so she's quit you cold and"——

That was as far as the Chief of Detectives got. George Morrell had sprung at him, and a fist crashed against his cheek. The kid struck again, mad with despair and fury.

Then the great knuckles leapt like a ram. This was a work that they understood. They leapt like a ram and seemed to rebound. They advanced and rebounded, advanced and rebounded. They were not so much like a ram as a piston; and George Morrell was a cylinder head, resisting, but vainly resisting.

He fell at last, collapsed on the floor, and lay ther helplessly sobbing.

Moran rubbed his knuckles thoughtfully. An unwonted pity was in his heart. This kid might almost have been his son, the way he felt about him. He lifted George and set him on a chair and laid a soothing hand upon one of the boy's shoulders.

"I know how you feel about it, kid. But the girl ain't worth it—take it from me. If it wasn't for her you wouldn't be tied to a mob of dirty hoodlums, likely to get your head blown off . . . likely to go to the gallows. Look here, you! See this"

The eyes of George Morrell went large as he saw the gold-plated knife.

"You won it from Jerry Lindholm in a stud game. You used it to carve the window sill while you watched for Louie Lom. I can hang you on this knife alone. You know that?"

Miserably he nodded.

Without a word the Chief of Detectives drew his revolver, removed the shells, and grasped it by the muzzle. Then he dropped the penknife on the floor. Again and again the heavy butt descended, a hammer smashing the knife to bits, destroying it.

"That's that!" he muttered, handing George the pieces. "Now go on home and stay away from that mob of lousy hoodlums. If you don't—and I'll know it fast enough—I'll have you dragged up here by the neck and give you a man-sized licking."

Somebody started to pound on the door. He turned the lock.

"They got Lonny Wolz. Luke Tanner's wounded."

"Wolz is dead?"

"I'll say he's dead! Shotgun slugs at pointblank range."

FOUR hours of sleep, after a night spent in raiding the city's badlands, were all Moran was permitted. Then Lieutenant Schindler telephoned Joe Encina was captured.

Moran quickly dressed and sped to headquarters. Entering the building, he avoided the office and started at once for the stairs. Halfway up his secretary caught him.

"Tom, there's a lady waiting to see you. Mrs. Morrell . . . used to be Mary Collins. Says she knew you when you were a flatfoot. Been waiting since 9 o'clock.

Moran stood as though petrified, but his heart was beating fast.

"Mary Collins! What does she want?"

"It's about her son. She says she's got to thank you."

In a rare flash of insight, the Chief of Detectives knew that if he saw her now he would lose Mary Collins forever. Mary the girl would disappear in the face of Mary the woman. A teasing laugh would be stilled for aye in the tearful thanks of a mother.

"Tell her I'm busy. No! Tell her I've left. Fix up a story that sounds O K and get her out of the building. But mind you treat her decent—hear? A sweet little girl, that Mary."

"Little girl!" gasped the secretary.

Moran didn't even hear him. He was climbing the stairs where Joe Encina, a vicious brute, awaited the inquisition. In a moment his eyes would be small and hard, but now they were boyishly smiling. His heavy-knuckled hands hung limp. As he strode down the hall he was humming:

Sweet Rosie O'Grady,
My dear little Rose!
She's my steady lady,
Most everyone knows.
And when we are married,
How happy——

The "Medium" Who Admits He Was a Fake

the cabinet I concentrate," Nino said in giving his grudging explanation. "All the time I concentrate. Soon I am free. How I don't know. But there are no spirits helping me. I know that."

The writer asked Nino why he gave up his job. He replied he had never made more than "sandwich and coffee" money. Persons promoting his displays, to which noble admission prices were charged, he said, gave him a few dollars and pocketed the rest, taking advantage of his unfamiliarity with business and the English language. He was angered, too, over the suffering he underwent in struggling loose from his bonds. This, he said, was nothing less than torture. Added to these, was a feeling that if he kept living a life of contradictions he would, as he expressed it, have gone "craze" in a few more months.

As in the case of Houdini, spiritualists are undismayed by the exposure of mediums. They insist that Nino, although he denies it, is a true one.

As a boy in Naples, Nino was nervous and saw "fiery forms." At 18 he entered military service and after the war came to the United States. Between clerking in a drug store and working on the docks, he lived in the home of a brother who had a restaurant on Third avenue. Nino's nocturnal shrieking got on the brother's nerves and he summoned Dr. Vecchio. The physician, a spiritist experimenter on the side, immediately perceived in the patient a mediumistic prospect. It was Dr. Vecchio who told Nino his control was Mme. Palladino.

Shortly after his first public appearance Nino went out for the prize of $2500 offered by another scientific magazine for a genuine psychic phenomenon. Nino did not win the prize but he won the praise of the committee.

The committee was undecided as to whether it had seen something or not. Three members of the board of 20 declared they saw a hand wave in the air. They were outvoted. The chairman said it was either genuine or subconscious fraud.

Since then, Nino has traveled far and wide in the Eastern cities, doing his stuff.

Nino doesn't know what his next move will be. Possibly portrait painting, at which he is fairly adept. Or, if he can get a booking agent to go into a trance and materialize a vaudeville contract he may go on tour. Meanwhile he is kept busy turning down invitations to hold seances and denying reports that his public statement was extorted by Dunninger through hypnotism.

Gas Over Europe

of the lungs could easily lead to death if the person were subject to any sort of strain."

Still another group of gases, and probably the most deadly of all, are those which can injure the skin and break through to poison the blood stream. The best form of protection from this poison seems to be the rubber suit.

Then there are those deceptive gases, such as mustard gas, which do not warn any of the senses until they have done their deadly work.

The French publication, Vu, has a similar article on the kinds of gases to be used in the coming conflict. But in general Vu is more imaginative than Die Woche. An article called "The First Night" is an appalling and terrible description of what happens on that fatal December 25, 1932. The enemy is unnamed.

Pierre Dominique writes "the First Night"—in the first person. He is sitting in a theater, watching his favorite actress. It is Christmas, the crowd is very gay. He walks home through the pleasant, orderly streets of Paris. He goes to sleep and is awakened by the crashing of a bomb. Looking out of the window he sees the whole sky shot with the light of the bombardment. He puts on his gas mask and goes out to see what has happened in the streets.

Crowds are running in every direction. There is complete darkness. Bodies lie in heaps, overcome by the gas. Sirens shriek. Motor cycle police flash by, protected by gas masks. The desperate cry comes, "Les Gaz, les gaz!" The concierge of the apartment shrieks, "Into the cellar everyone; into the cellar."

But the observer, undaunted, goes on. "I stop before an entrance to the subway. A great, dark opening, choked with corpses. These people, in their first terror, have forced the grating and, half undressed, have hurled themselves into the tunnel. And the gas has pushed its way in behind them. Immense charnel house.

"Nearby, a church. Empty except for about 30 corpses." . . .

The observer goes on. He sees great masses of the dead on each level of the Eiffel Tower, overwhelmed as they sought safety from the gas in the upper air. He attends a session of the Senate with all the members in gas masks. He listens while they pass an order for general mobilization on land and sea and in the air. But it is almost too late. Paris has been taken by surprise.

THERE is evidence in both magazines that this is regarded as a very real possibility, not merely a sensational idea. As is pointed out in Die Woche, there have been numerous protocols barring absolutely the use of poison gas in any form. And yet the leading nations continue to develop it. And General von Seeckt, one of the foremost leaders in Modern Germany, reiterates the opinion that from a military point of view the best defense remains the attack.

It is interesting, in view of this European psychosis about the gas war, to look back at the article which Sir Philip Gibbs wrote for the Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the Post-Dispatch in December of 1928. He said: ". . . but poison gas is not going to supersede high explosives. It is going to be an additional horror which will extend the area of suffering to civilian populations, including women and babies, who will be caught by these poison fumes in cities set on fire by incendiary bombs and smashed into chaos by TNT (since superseded by an even more powerful explosive). Heroic courage, the splendor of youth, the strength of manhood, the beauty of children, even the will power of a people, would not have much chance of a survival if hostile air fleets could break a way through the skies and play such merry hell with great cities. And that is not a fantasy of the future conjured up by some disordered brain, but a grim and sober fact already envisaged by scientists and soldiers who know the weapons that will be used and the forces released, if there is another life and death struggle between the great industrial powers of the world."

It is before this real threat that Paris, Berlin and the other great cities of Europe tremble.

Not to Mention That of Mahatmas Capone, Darrow and Vallee.

IN the event that Gandhi's influence spreads over the Western world, we may look forward to seeing the following manifestations and declarations of faith reported in the day's news:

MAHATMA CAPONE.

"My dear Moran: I missed you terribly at our round-table conference last night (though I did manage to wing that dark, flat-nosed little friend of yours), and I trust that I shall soon be given another chance to put my message across.

"We've got to learn to love one another, Bugs. In fact, I've decided to give you 24 hours to start loving me or I'll puncture every square inch of your lousy carcass.

"Some night soon when I can catch you at home you must go motoring with me. Love, Mahatma Al (Scarface) Capone."

MAHATMA SMEDLEY BUTLER.

I suppose you all know that Gandhi observes a day of silence once a week. That's a good idea but I'm going to improve on it. In the future I intend to observe seven days of silence a week. Italian papers please copy.

MAHATMA BRISBANE.

India is a part of the British Empire, comprising the central peninsula of Southern Asia, south of the Himalayas, and the western part of the eastern Asiatic peninsula (Burma). 1,802,000 sq. m.; pop. 315,156,000. India ink is a deeply black pigment. Gandhi has done nothing to further aviation in his country, but let us not condemn him too hastily.

AYAH DOROTHY PARKER.

I understand that all the Whirling Dervishes are now called Gandhi-dancers. It's about time.

MAHATMA BILL THOMPSON.

Gandhi is the little guy that walked right up and gave King George a bust in the snoot. I'm all for him. Next time I run I'm going to bring him to Chicago.

MAHATMA HAMILTON FISH.

Gandhi is an Indian, but, praise God, not a red one. He had nothing to do with the recent protest meetings in Union Square. If I have my way, the American flag will consist only of the colors blue and white. Or possibly just blue. Remember the Maine.

MAHATMA DARROW.

I have great respect for Gandhi. He is one of the few men who has gone to prison without my assistance.

OLD MAHATMA HENDERSON.

Through Gandhi's efforts, the only chain left in India is a mountain chain. Doggone his buttons, anyway!

MAHATMA FORD.

History is bunk and I'm inclined to think that Gandhi is only a myth, but he looks like a genuine antique and I'm trying to get him for my museum collection. I'd call him my Model Tea. Get it?

MAHATMA BISHOP CANNON.

For a long time—due to my broker's negligence—I didn't take any stock in Gandhi. It's different now.

MAHATMA HILL.

Gandhi represents an entirely new principle in government. He's toasted. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows, and I've never seen a better coat of tan in my life. Seventeen thousand, eight hundred and forty-nine physicians have announced their opposition to child marriages.

MAHATMA JIMMIE WALKER.

Boss Gandhi is the nuts. When this British investigation blows over I expect to see him get things in India on a paying basis.

MUMTAZ TEX GUINAN.

Hello suc—hello, my dears. I'm expecting a little visit from the Federal agents tonight and I'm counting on every one of you to give those boys a great big load of passive resistance. Don't hit, kick or gouge 'em. Just squat in front of the door and clutter up the aisles. A little tripping-up might help. Remember—don't butt or bite—boycott!

MAHATMA EDISON.

I must reserve my opinion of Gandhi until he has answered the following questionnaire: Are there still any innocent bystanders in Chicago? Who is Sylvia? What happened to your teeth? Why don't you give yourself up to my friend Ford as he has just suggested?

MAHATMA WALTER WINCHELL.

Why does a certain little man in India, M—— G——, go about in only one garment—and that a sheet? And why had husbands in that country better look out?

MAHATMA HOOVER.

My own dealings with Congress have convinced me of the effectiveness of passive disobedience. I wonder if Gandhi got that thin fooling with a medicine ball.

MAHATMA LA GUARDIA.

Gandhi is a great sport. I sent him a wire yesterday offering to teach him how to make wine in exchange for his salt recipe.

MAHATMA MELLON.

When Gandhi makes up his mind you can't budget it. I can make up my mind, too, but I can't budget. Yes, I know that's a pun, but I'm a wealthy man and can afford it. Who is this fellow Hamilton that I'm the greatest Treasurer since?

MAHATMA SHARKEY.

Gandhi says that, in any event, he'll never offer violent resistance. I tried out his theory in one or two of my events and it just about cooked my goose. Well, what's sauce for the goose is salt for the Gandhi. Hi there, Mellon.

MAHATMA RUDY VALLEE.

It must be readily apparent that Gandhi and I have much in common. He says that we must all love one another, and I guess you all know how I stand on that. The only difference is that Gandhi can't croon. But he is a smart little fellow and I believe he could learn.

Just recently I wrote this little lyric which I hope my public will like:

Indian Stein Song.

Forget about Amos 'n' Andy,
And turn your thoughts to Gandhi;
He's the dark-skin little Gunga Din
That's taking all the British in;
Gandhi, I lo-o-o-ve you.

From Bombay to Calcutta
He preaches Heaven, Home and Mother;
He won't eat meat—no shoes on his feet,
He wears a sheet; I think he's sweet.
Gandhi, you're simply fine and dandy,
And I lo-o-o-o-ve you.

The Illuminating Diary of a "Personally Conducted" Vacation

Or, From Galloping Salmon Trail to Mosquito Fork.

SPRING is here indeed and the vacation folders are blooming in all their radiance. One cover shows a beautiful bathing girl disporting herself in very blue water, another depicts a handsome young man in elegant clothes getting off a brassie shot on a very green fairway and another presents an enormous and ferocious looking muskie leaping up at you as if it had every intention of biting your head off.

A few summers ago I bought a personally conducted tour and I have just received in the mail the company's folder for the current season. The big advantage of this type of vacation is that the man in charge looks after the hotel reservations, railroad accommodations and all other bothersome details, leaving you absolutely free to enjoy yourself. Your trip is all mapped out for you and you can ascertain in advance not only where you will be at such and such a time but what you will be doing. Thus, you see, at 6 p. m. on the eighth day, for instance, you will be standing on the shore of Pelican Lake, watching the sunset.

This folder I have is very tricky. It is the kind that slips away from you, when you hold one end, unravels itself across your knees and then writhes along the floor a few feet. After struggling with it, I have found the itinerary of Tour D-32, which is the one I went on. It is phrased very enticingly, but to jibe with my own recollections it would have to be rewritten along the following lines:

Monday. Our train arrives at Tadpole Bay at 5:35 in the morning and we must dress and leave our comfortable berths at once, as the busses outside are honking impatiently. We get into the busses and are whirled over historic Galloping Salmon Trail into Moosehead Canyon and then along the shore of gleaming Muskrat Lake to Dead Man's Bend, where we take a dizzy switchback road across the summit of Dead Man's Peak.

On we dash along the loose gravel highway, now slithering around turns, now skidding precariously on the brinks of yawning chasms, and presently, covered with dust, nervous, pale and famished, we arrive at Little Crawfish Lodge on Little Crawfish Lake. We descend from the busses and burst into the lodge, hoping to get breakfast; and, indeed, we shall get breakfast, provided we haven't been delayed on the way by punctures or other mishaps, as the dining room doesn't close until 8:30. The rest of the day is set aside for horseback riding, hiking and fishing, but we spend it playing pinochle.

Tuesday. "All out! All out!" comes the bellowing command of our travel manager at 6 o'clock in the morning, so, grouchily, we get out of bed, dress, shave with cold water and then rush downstairs to the dining room.

Into the busses we pile, squabbling among ourselves for the choice seats, and off we bounce along Mulefoot Pass into Beaver Gulch and in three hours we arrive at Big Crawfish Lake.

We hop into a launch and are conveyed 23 miles down the lake to Walrus Bay, where we transfer to autos and proceed over the Wildflower Trail around the base of Howdy-Do Mountain to the Petrified Forest.

Following the meandering curves of the Grizzly River through the narrow Grizzly Canyon, we soon arrive at Grizzly Irrigation Dam, where we are shown around by unwilling employes and then we return to our autos and journey over Medicine Pass to the Chalk Cliff, 897 feet high, into which we carve our names. We pick our way on foot over the flimsy, swaying suspension bridge across the Grizzly, our travel manager preceding us and regaling us with tales of people who lost their balance and fell into the foaming waters 1728 feet beneath.

A grueling three-mile hike brings us to the foot of Snipe Mountain. The guide orders us to climb the mountain, and, wearily, we do so. Our only reward is to get another view similar to those we have been seeing all day and to be shown a fir tree under which the Sockawow Indians signed a truce with the Government after the battle of Mosquito Fork in 1871.

WE ARRIVE at Big Crawfish Lodge in time for supper. Arrangements have been made for dancing afterward, but those of us who have any brains will retire at once, as tomorrow's schedule calls for a full day.

The folder has a great deal to say about enjoying the companionship of interesting people. I recently attended a fire and saw in the crowd a man who looked vaguely familiar. "Er-me, sir," I said, "but haven't we met somewhere?"

He looked at me and his face lit up and he exclaimed: "I'll say we have! You're the bird who insisted on four-minute eggs!"

It all came back to me then. "And you're the fellow who snored in lower six!" I said. "What became of your buddy, that short, heavyset fellow who was always snapping photographs?"

"Why, haven't you heard?" said the man who snored in lower six. "His uncle left him a legacy and he's gone on a personally conducted tour around the world."

FROM MONARCHY TO REPUBLIC

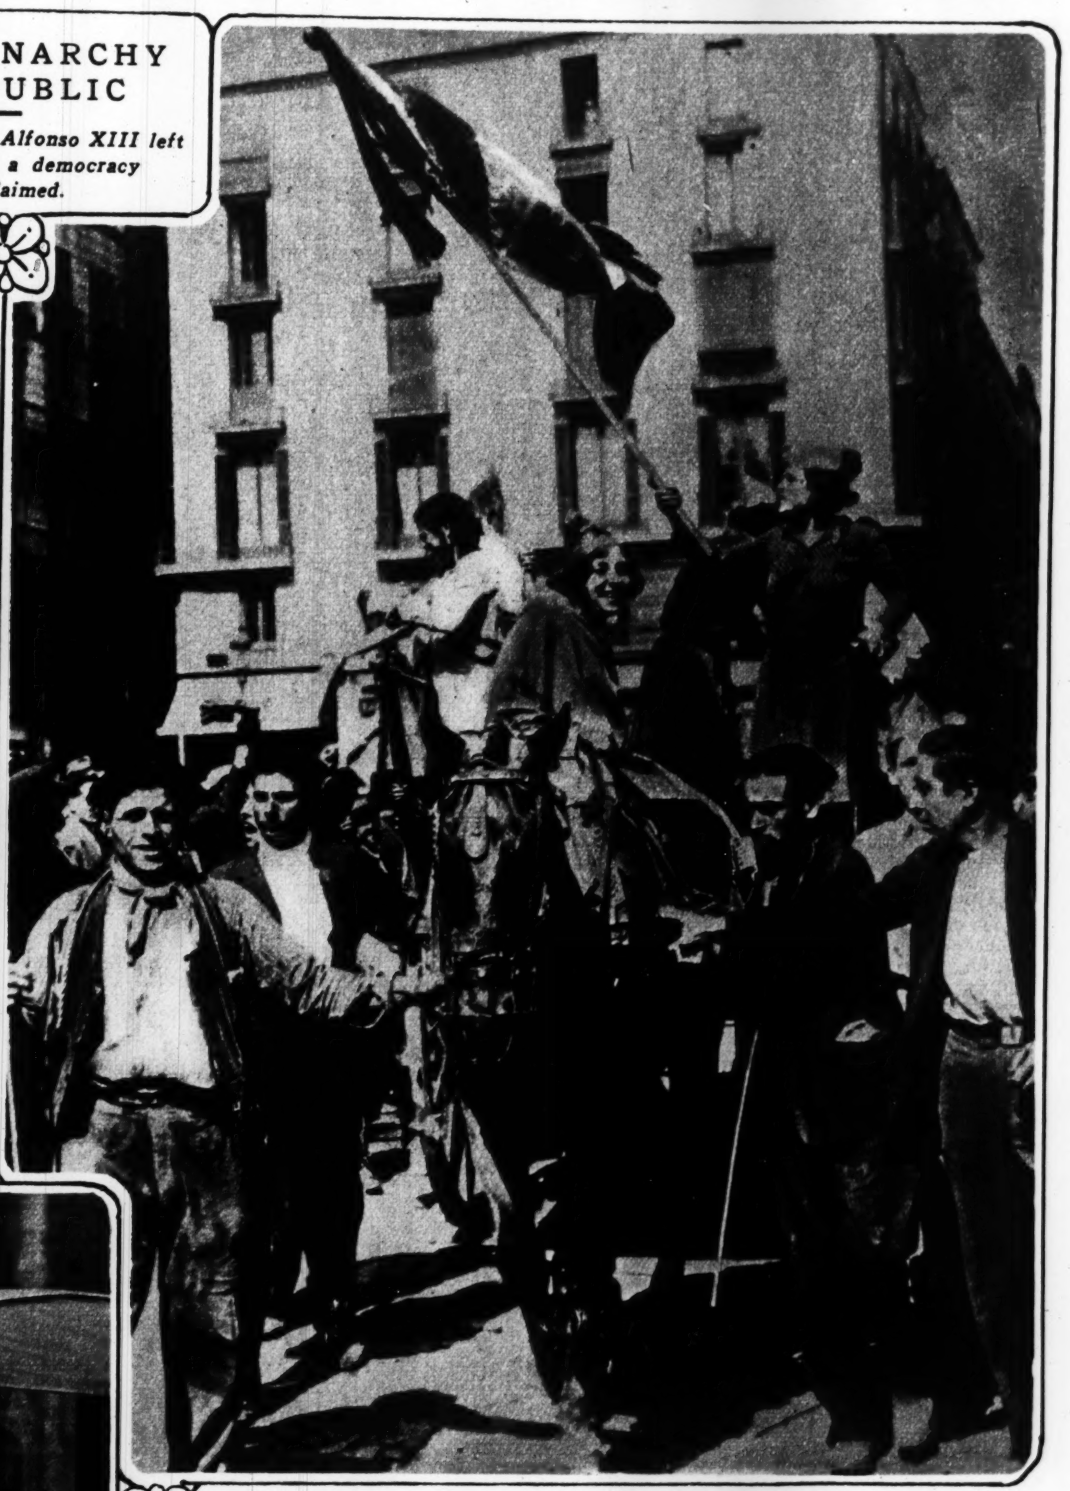
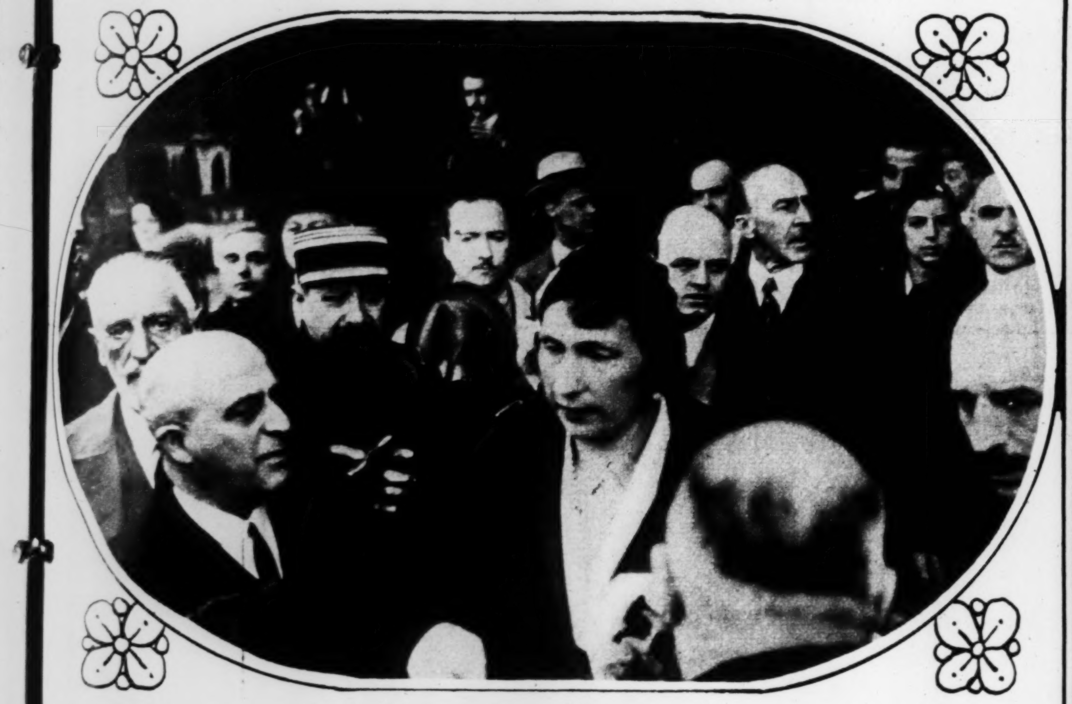
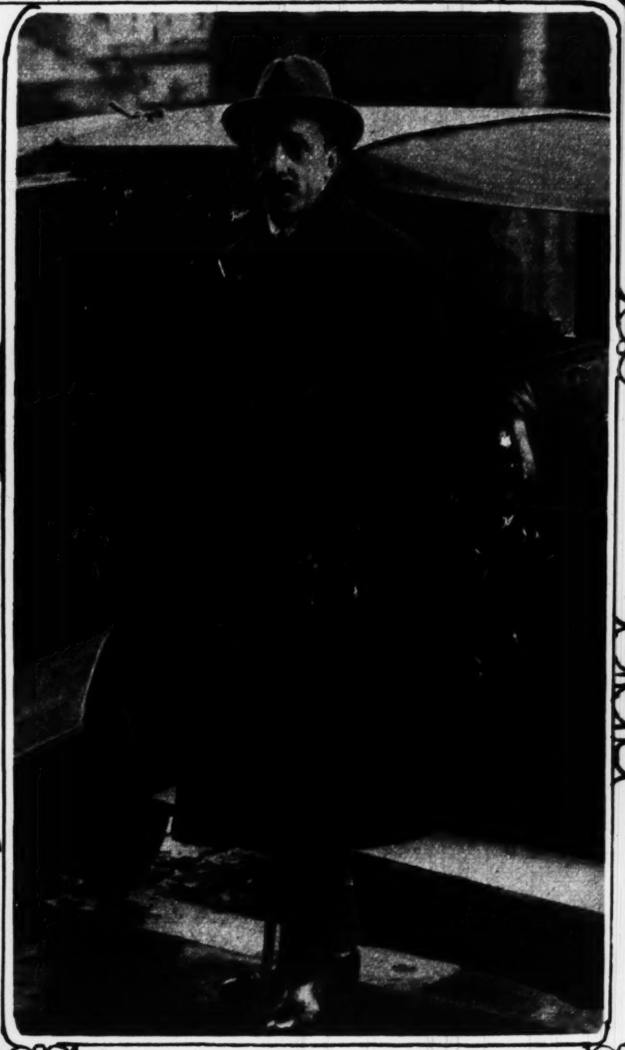
Hail to the Republic! Students in Madrid forming for march through the city streets, displaying hastily prepared banner with the monogram "R E" (Republica Espanola).



Shop girls and factory workers in the Spanish capital joining in the exultation over the downfall of the Bourbon dynasty.



A Queen in exile. Victoria of Spain arriving in Paris to join her husband Alfonso.



Alfonso in Marseilles, France, looking not so depressed.

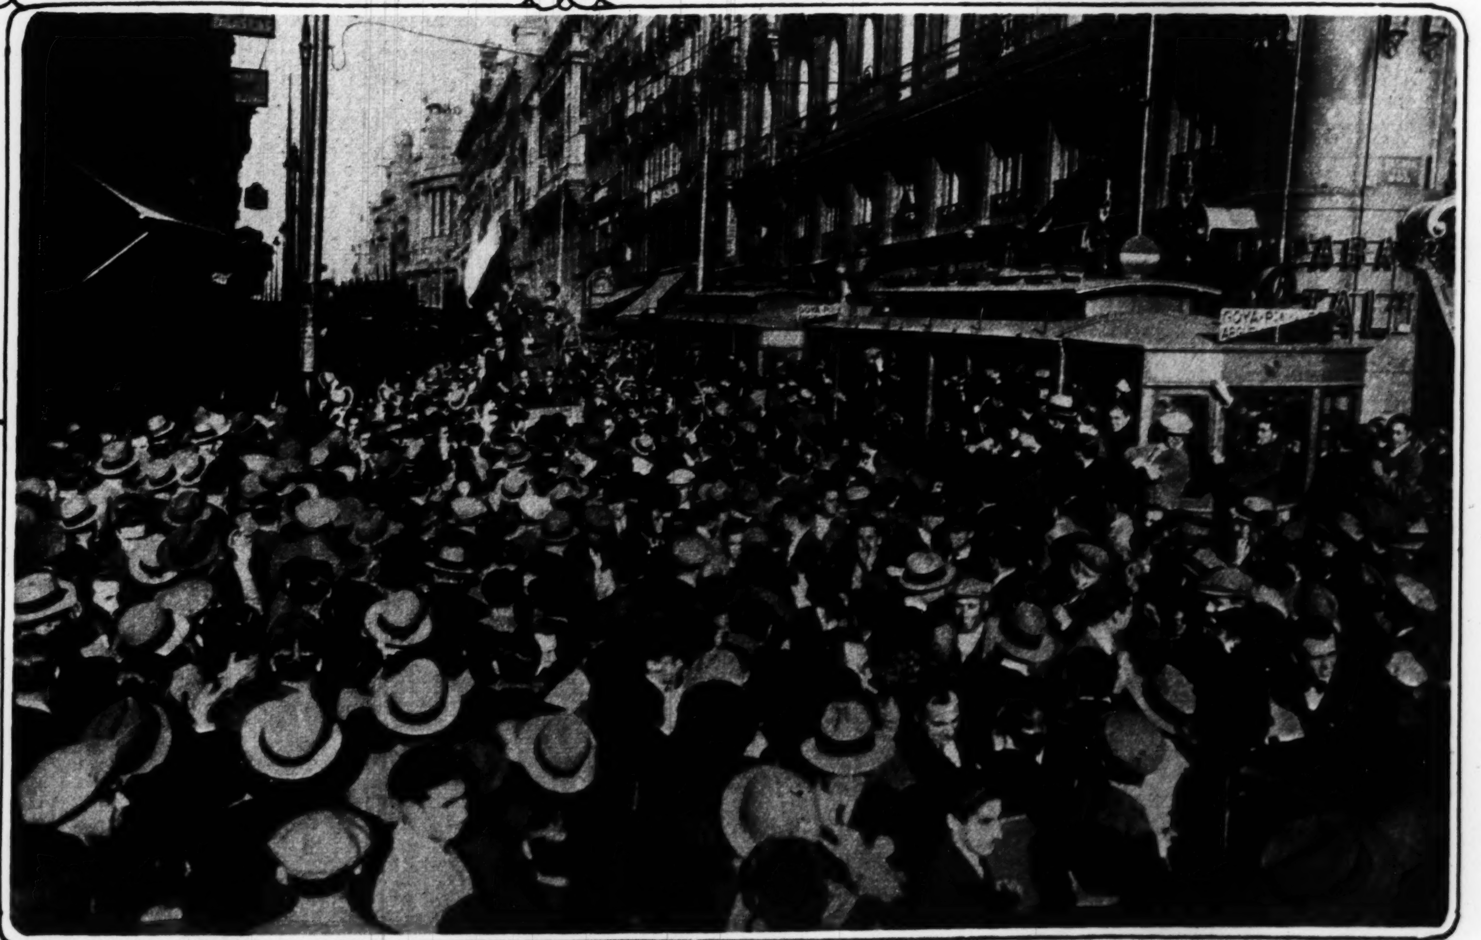
Proclaiming the birth of a new government. Scene in Barcelona, always a hotbed of republicanism, as severance from the monarchy was declared in the public square.



The principal streets of the capital were quickly filled with people when news came that a republic had been declared. They swarmed over street cars and busses and wildly cheered each display of the new national banner, one of which is seen in the distance in the picture above.

THAT "GRAPE ESSENCE" INDUSTRY

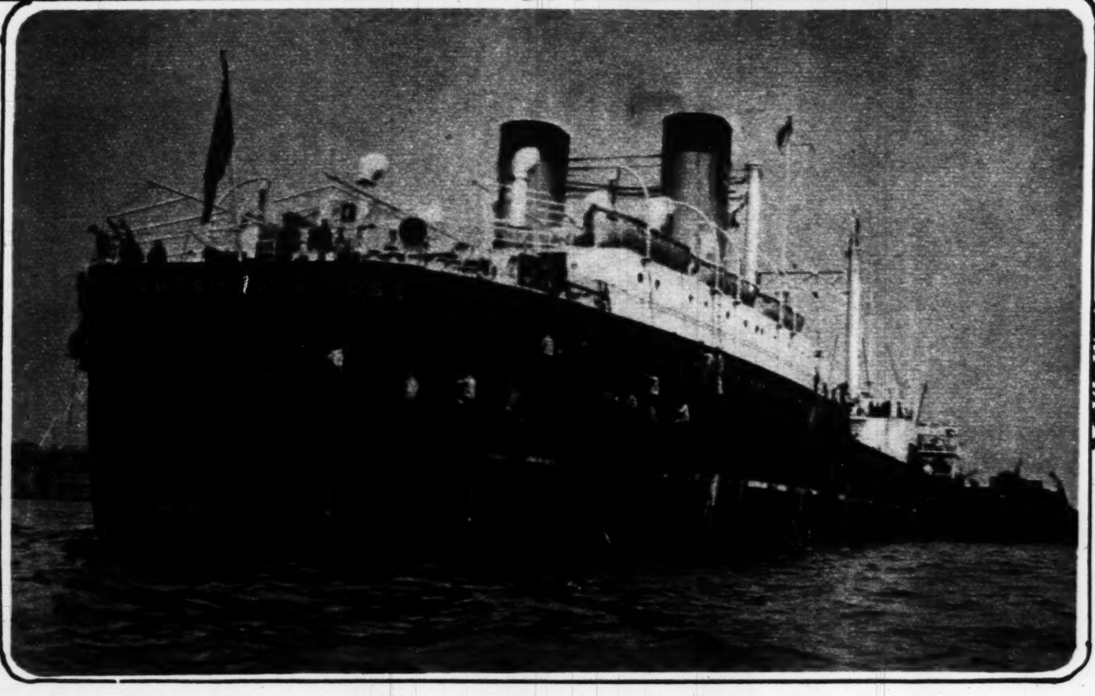
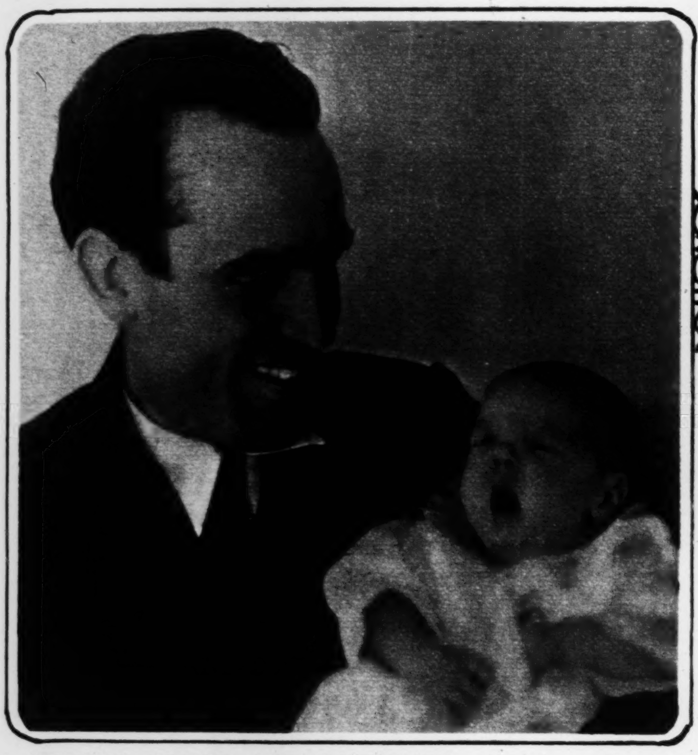
The tremendous growth, since prohibition, of the business of making fruit concentrates—usually from grape—and its sale to people all over the United States who allow fermentation to turn the liquid into wine, is one of the reasons for California's recent prosperity. The picture above shows girls working in a vineyard where the fruit is being shoveled into cars to be taken on rails to the great presses which extract the juice.

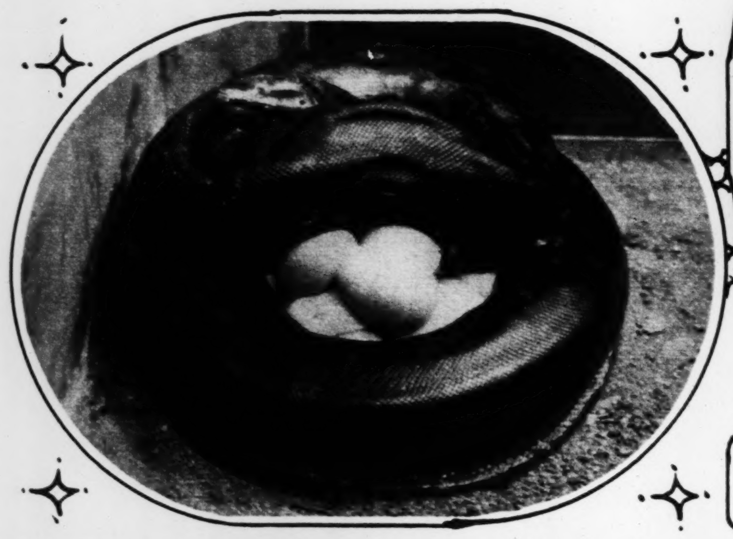
Grapes—tons of grapes—arriving at building where presses produce the purple juice which later will be sold in the form of a concentrate.



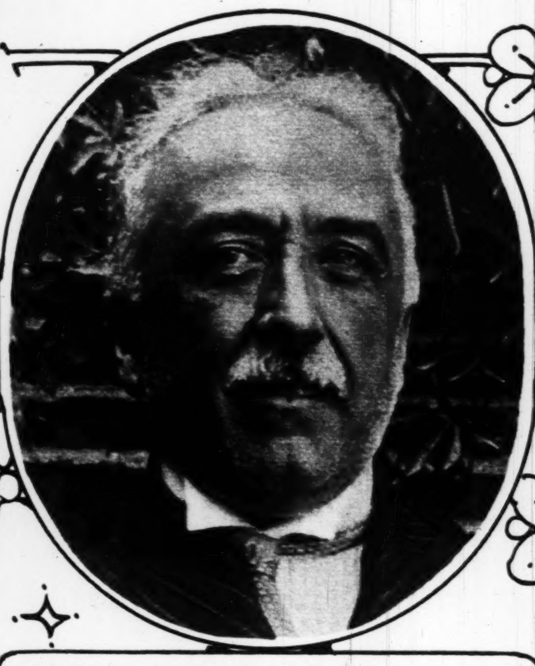
RECORD CARGO OF WHALE OIL—Biggest and finest of whalers, this vessel, the Sir James Clark Ross, arrived in New York recently with 18,000 tons of oil valued at more than $2,000,000. In four months in the Antarctic, the crew of 250 men landed 1444 whales, each of which was towed to the great opening in the stern, where it was hauled in, cut up, and the blubber tried out in huge cauldrons.



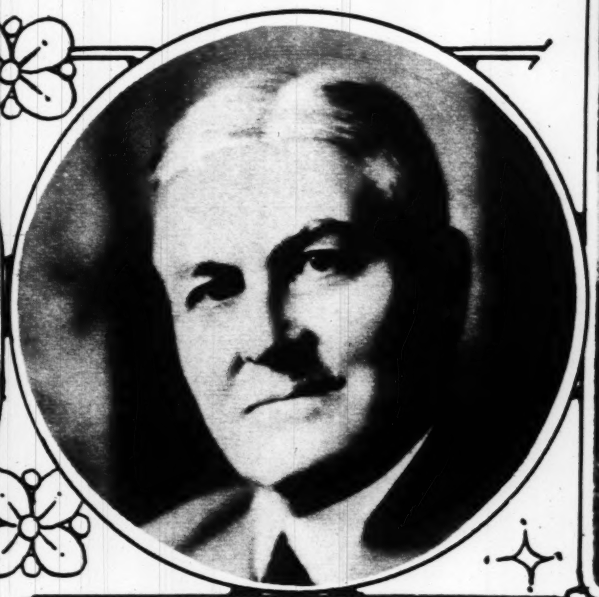
HAROLD LLOYD AND THE BABY—Noted comedian of screen plays and little son who weighed but three pounds at birth. Now, however, is almost of normal size for his age.



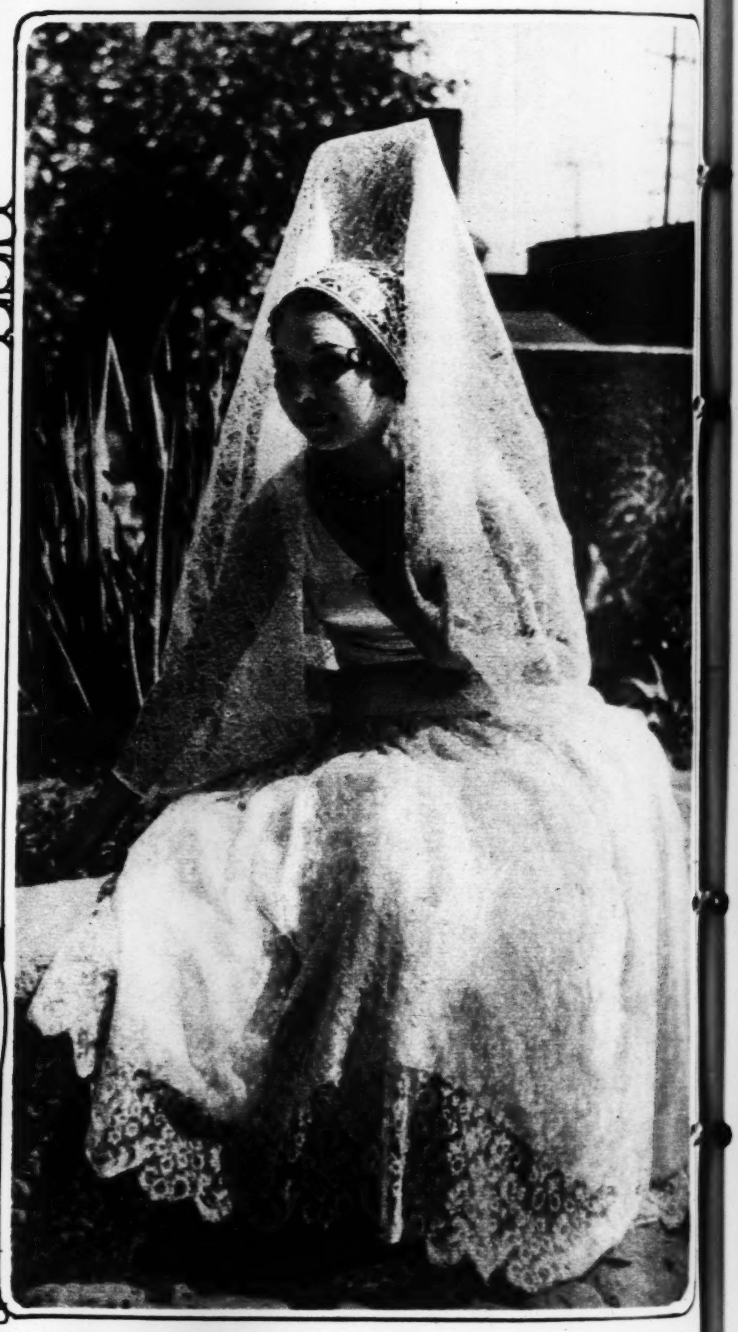
EGGS NOT TO BE TOUCHED—A python guarding the 20 eggs she produced last Easter Sunday in the New York reptile house. Each is about the size of a goose egg.



NICETO ALCALA ZAMORA, first President of Spain, who took office immediately following the flight of Alfonso XIII.



DR. GEORGE V. CRILE, noted surgeon, to whom has been given the medal presented every year by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce to the citizen who has served his community with the greatest distinction.



JUST AN OLD SPANISH COSTUME—Miss Ynez del Valle Kirby of Los Angeles in the filmy lace gown once worn by her great-great-grandmother, a pioneer settler of Southern California. She will have prominent part in the 150th birthday celebration of Los Angeles next September.

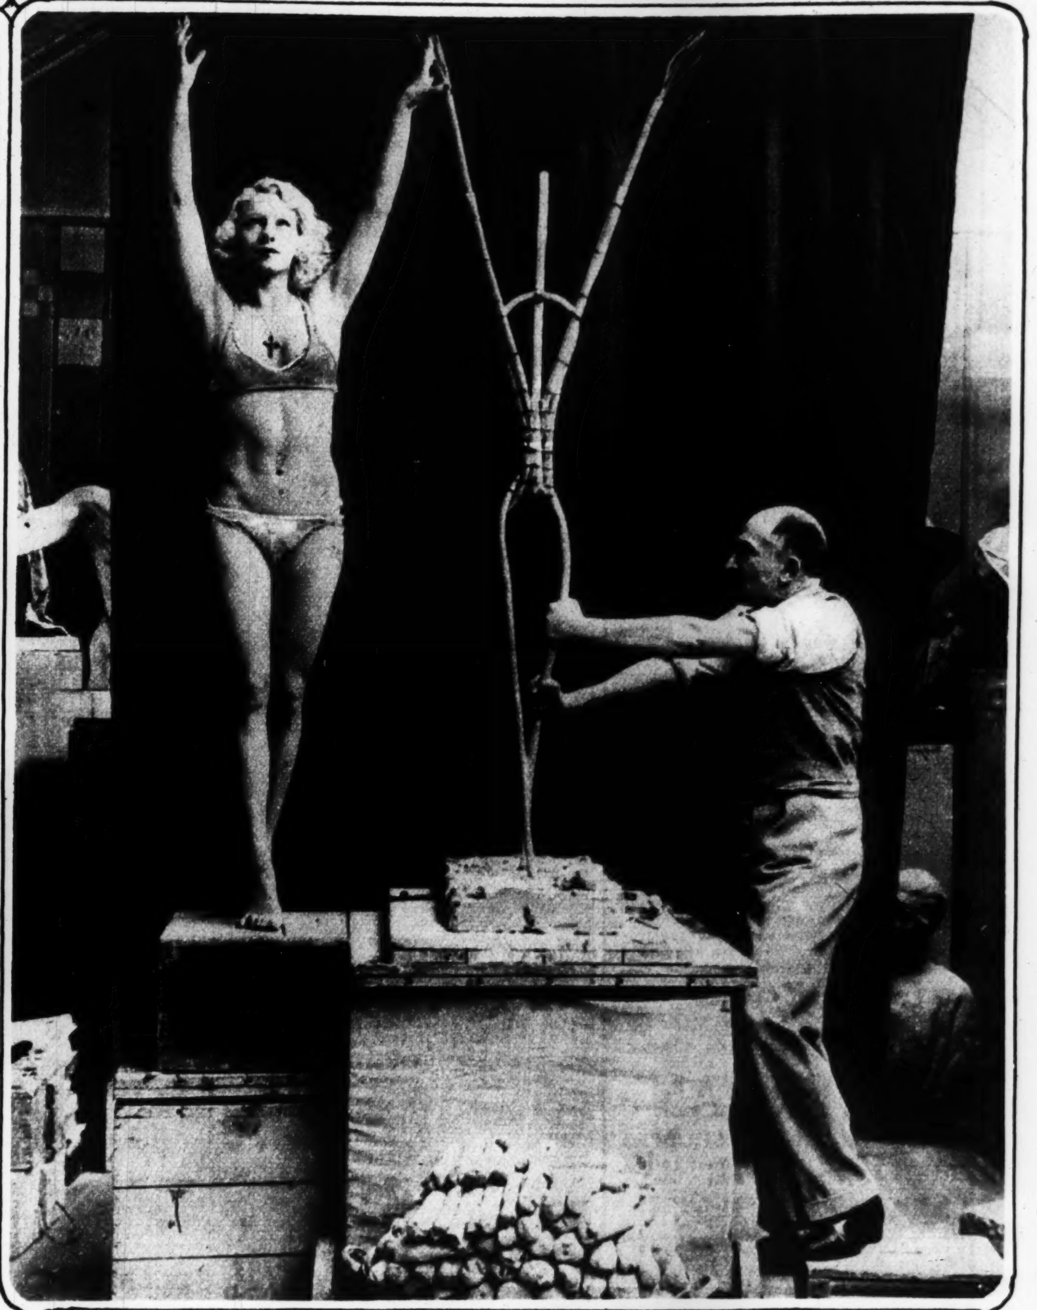
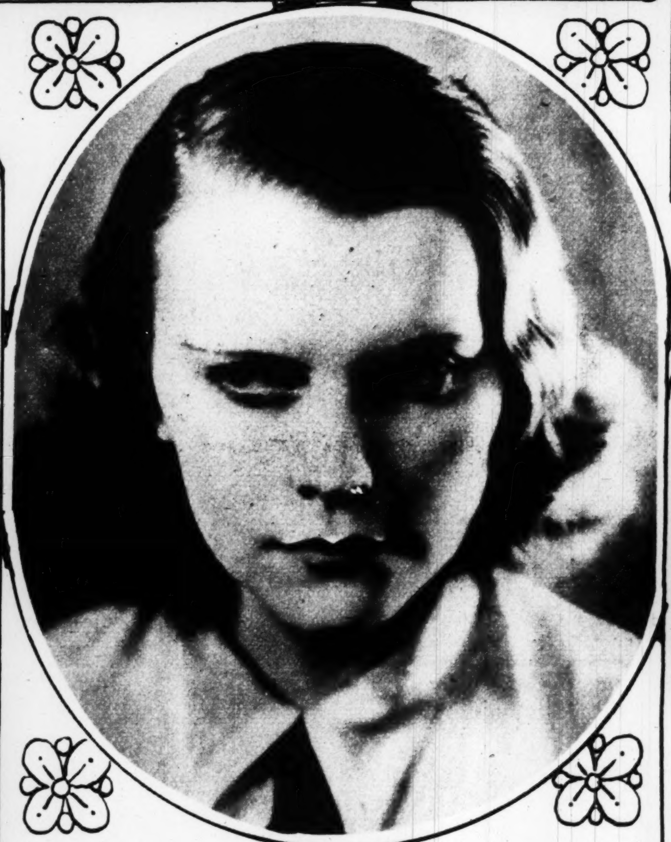
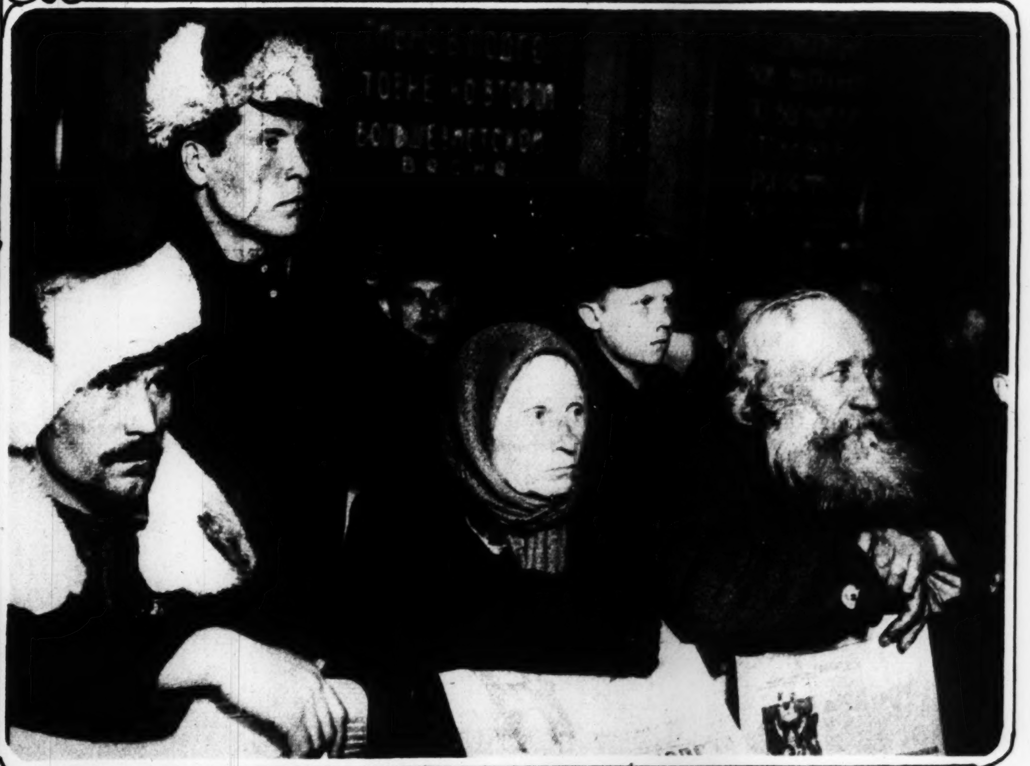
A GYROSCOPE DROPS DOWN ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN—President Hoover welcomed visit of this airplane, piloted by James G. Ray, and then awarded to its designer, Harold Pitcairn of Philadelphia, the Collier trophy, given for the outstanding aviation development of 1930.



THE START OF A BEAUTIFUL STATUE—E. Whitney Smith, noted British sculptor, setting up the framework for clay modeling of Chita, stage dancer, who is seen posing in the studio. Over the framework plastic clay will be smeared, then modeled, and finally the finished art used as a pattern for the bronze casting.

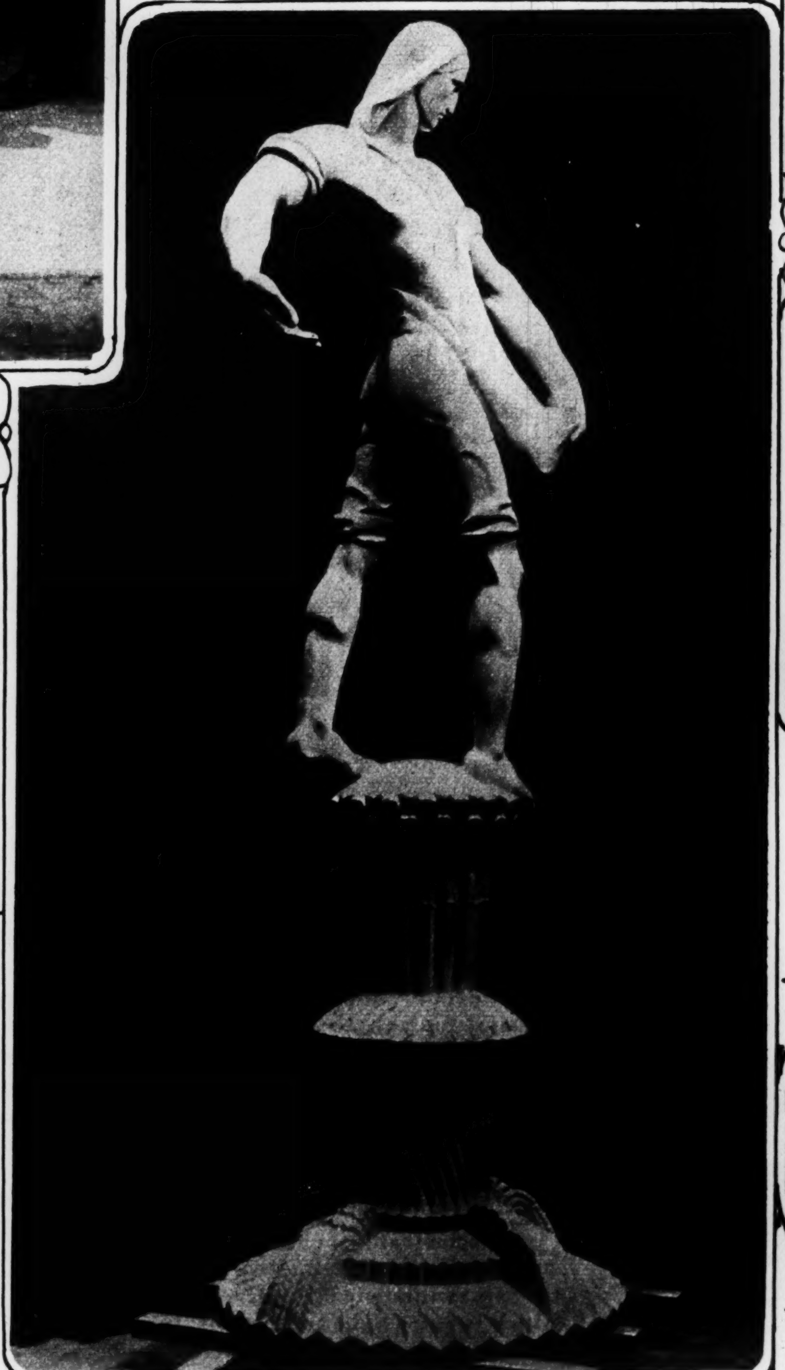


GUESS—GUESS TWICE—This Hungarian girl of Budapest, won prize for most closely resembling Greta Garbo, the film star.



RUSSIAN ATHEISTS—A study of facial expressions as these members of group which scorns all religious teachings were listening to the report of a committee in Moscow assembly hall.

FRIENDLY GREETING OF ORIENTAL ROYALTY—King Ptajadhipok and Queen Rambaibarni of Siam responding to welcome at Scarborough, N. Y., where they will remain several weeks while the King undergoes treatment by American eye specialists.



PRIZE SCULPTURE OF 1930—This statue, "Nebraska Sower," by Lee Lawrie, designed for the Nebraska State capitol building, was awarded gold medal at the Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition in New York City.

Mrs. Irving Berlin and her father, Clarence H. Mackay, head of telegraph company, leaving court in New York, where the capitalist had been defending a civil suit. A few years ago the father was reported as much displeased when his daughter married the song writer.

NEW SPANISH AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES—Salvador de Madariaga, writer and scholar, who has been named by the Government of Spain to represent the new regime in Washington.

ANOTHER WOMAN MAYOR—Mrs. J. G. McLane of Mount Ida, near Hot Springs, Ark., elected to office with a complete Board of Aldermen of her own sex.

TOO MUCH COOKING SPOILS THE EATING--

and The Kroger Food Foundation answers your question:-

"How long is long enough?"

Vegetables can be decorative, too. Many hostesses are bringing a gay and colorful note to their tables with centerpieces of garden-fresh vegetables.

HOW often you've heard the complaint, "Why, it's simply cooked to death!" And that is literally true. For prolonged cooking draws all the life, the taste, the color and precious minerals out of vegetables.

You've seen cabbage "done to death." Heavy. Shapeless. Cooked too long. No wonder it has long been one of our most unpopular vegetables. Now try cooking it in an uncovered kettle of rapidly boiling water ("galloping" water) for about ten minutes. Just long enough to become tender. Its color is delicately white and green. It is mild in flavor, delicious and digestible. Better-looking. Better-tasting. Better-for-you!

Again, you've seen "green" peas boiled until they're gray... wrinkled and mushy and tasteless. But you put your green peas in a saucepan, cover them with salted boiling water, and leave the lid off (as it should be in cooking all green vegetables). It takes only 20 to 30 minutes of this kind of cooking to bring out all their full, fresh goodness. They go to the table naturally green, firm and tender.

There was a day when string-beans were boiled for hours and hours, in lots and lots of water. But you modern housewives have learned that it's best to cook string-beans in just enough water to keep them from scorching, and for only 30 to 35 minutes. Just until they're tender, and not "done to death!" In this way you save not only time, but you also retain the valuable nutriments (food values) that hours of cooking would boil out. By shortening the cooking period to the "just until tender" point, your family enjoys all of the vegetable—its natural flavor, its tender goodness, its body-building wholesomeness.

The Kroger Food Foundation urges you to have your vegetables ready for quick cooking when you put them into the pan or kettle. This means having the stems removed from the spinach, having the onions partially quartered, the large-size potatoes cut in halves, lengthwise, "with the grain." Then be sure that the water is bubbling when you drop the vegetables into it. Remember to boil green, sweet-juiced and strong-juiced vegetables uncovered. There's a scientific reason for this, but the practical result is that the vegetable retains its natural color and flavor.

Salt may be added at the beginning or toward the end of the cooking period. Soda is not recommended because it tends to destroy vitamins. But you'll find that a "pinch of sugar" is an excellent seasoning agent. When the vegetable is tender, evaporate the water that remains by shaking the pan over the flame. This allows the vegetable itself to re-absorb the "boiled out" food values.

There are many, many vegetables and many, many ways of cooking them. But whether you bake them or boil them, steam them or scallop them, there's one general rule to follow—cook them just long enough and that is just until they're tender. If you have any vegetable problem, if there is any particular information you want about cooking any vegetable, write to The Kroger Food Foundation at Cincinnati, Ohio.

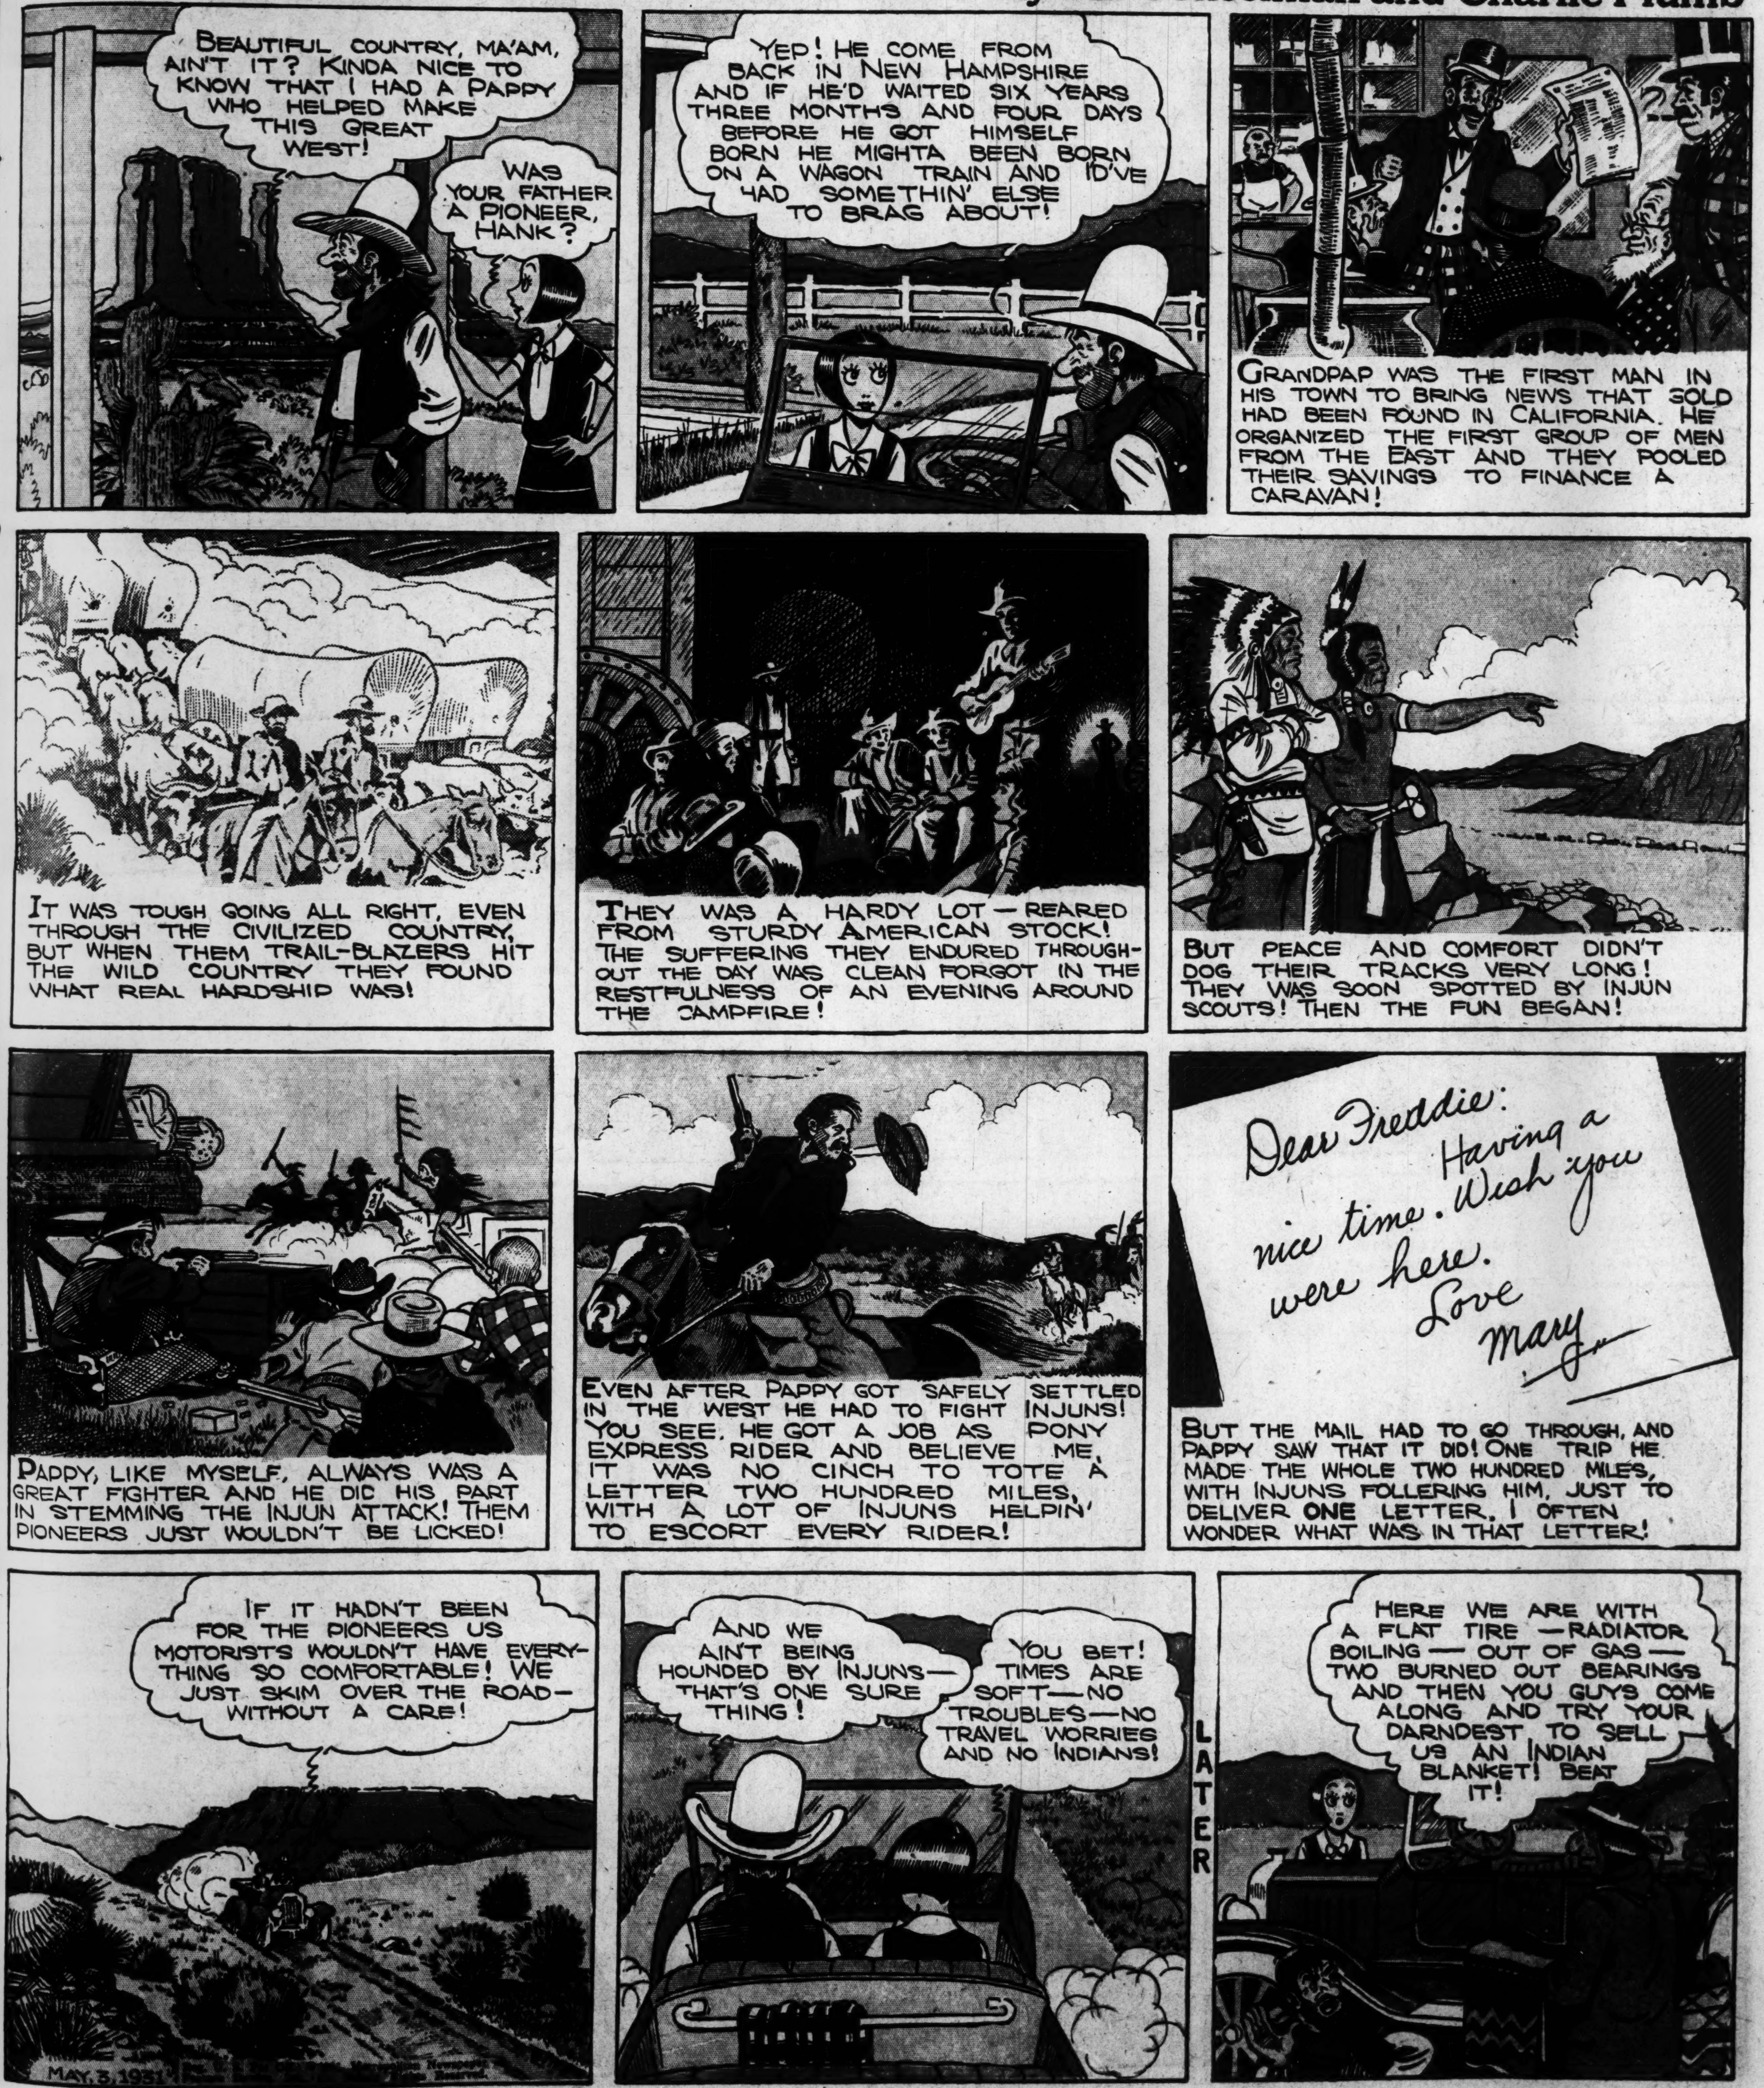
By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb



BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY, MA'AM, AIN'T IT? KINDA NICE TO KNOW THAT I HAD A PAPPY WHO HELPED MAKE THIS GREAT WEST!
WAS YOUR FATHER A PIONEER, HANK?
YEP! HE COME FROM BACK IN NEW HAMPSHIRE AND IF HE'D WAITED SIX YEARS THREE MONTHS AND FOUR DAYS BEFORE HE GOT HIMSELF BORN HE MIGHTA BEEN BORN ON A WAGON TRAIN AND I'D'VE HAD SOMETHIN' ELSE TO BRAG ABOUT!
GRANDPAP WAS THE FIRST MAN IN HIS TOWN TO BRING NEWS THAT SOLD HAD BEEN FOUND IN CALIFORNIA. HE ORGANIZED THE FIRST GROUP OF MEN FROM THE EAST AND THEY POOLED THEIR SAVINGS TO FINANCE A CARAVAN!
IT WAS TOUGH GOING ALL RIGHT, EVEN THROUGH THE CIVILIZED COUNTRY, BUT WHEN THEM TRAIL-BLAZERS HIT THE WILD COUNTRY THEY FOUND WHAT REAL HARDSHIP WAS!
THEY WAS A HARDY LOT—REARED FROM STURDY AMERICAN STOCK! THE SUFFERING THEY ENDURED THROUGHOUT THE DAY WAS CLEAN FORGOT IN THE RESTFULNESS OF AN EVENING AROUND THE CAMPFIRE!
BUT PEACE AND COMFORT DIDN'T DOG THEIR TRACKS VERY LONG! THEY WAS SOON SPOTTED BY INJUN SCOUTS! THEN THE FUN BEGAN!
PAPPY, LIKE MYSELF, ALWAYS WAS A GREAT FIGHTER AND HE DIC HIS PART IN STEMMING THE INJUN ATTACK! THEM PIONEERS JUST WOULDN'T BE LICKED!
EVEN AFTER PAPPY GOT SAFELY SETTLED IN THE WEST HE HAD TO FIGHT INJUNS! YOU SEE, HE GOT A JOB AS PONY EXPRESS RIDER AND BELIEVE ME, IT WAS NO CINCH TO TOTE A LETTER TWO HUNDRED MILES, WITH A LOT OF INJUNS HELPIN' TO ESCORT EVERY RIDER!
Dear Freddie: Having a nice time. Wish you were here. Love Mary
BUT THE MAIL HAD TO GO THROUGH, AND PAPPY SAW THAT IT DID! ONE TRIP HE MADE THE WHOLE TWO HUNDRED MILES, WITH INJUNS FOLLERING HIM, JUST TO DELIVER ONE LETTER. I OFTEN WONDER WHAT WAS IN THAT LETTER!
IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR THE PIONEERS US MOTORISTS WOULDN'T HAVE EVERYTHING SO COMFORTABLE! WE JUST SKIM OVER THE ROAD—WITHOUT A CARE!
MAY. 3, 1931
AND WE AIN'T BEING HOUNDED BY INJUNS—THAT'S ONE SURE THING!
YOU BET! TIMES ARE SOFT—NO TROUBLES—NO TRAVEL WORRIES AND NO INDIANS!
LATER
HERE WE ARE WITH A FLAT TIRE—RADIATOR BOILING—OUT OF GAS—TWO BURNED OUT BEARINGS AND THEN YOU GUYS COME ALONG AND TRY YOUR DARNDEST TO SELL US AN INDIAN BLANKET! BEAT IT!
